your measurements. Also make sure she includes the date you'll need the dress on your sales slip. This could be up to a full month before your wedding if you want to wear it for the bridal portrait in the newspaper.

Ask how long it should take for your order to be filled, and if you don't hear anything from the store by then, give them a call. Mix-ups are very rare but it's safest not to take a chance.

- Once the store does notify you that your dress is in, make an appointment for a fitting right away.

Take your time and check the fit of your dress in a mirror that lets you see from all angles. Here's what to look for: Is the hem just right, or is there a chance you'll trip on it? Does the skirt fall gracefully with the lining lying flat?

Tips on being an usher

It's your buddy's wedding and you've been chosen as an usher. Piece of cake, no? No, not really.

An usher at a formal wedding must maintain a certain decorum and tend to several important details if he wants to help guarantee a smooth wedding ceremony.

First, an usher should remember to get his clothes ready about a month in advance. Ask the groom where he's registered for the formalwear, and go to the store for a fitting.

Be aware that as an usher you will probably pick up the rental bill, and as a precaution try the outfit on the day you pick it up.

One bit of advice: if you're arriving from another city, get yourself measured at your local formalwear store and have them send your outfit to the city where the wedding is being held so it will be ready for your arrival day.

Arrive early

On the wedding day, arrive at the church an hour early in order to give yourself some time to relax and to think. Go over anything you may have had difficulty with at the rehearsal.

Attend to any last minute details, and start to usher in the guests as soon as a crowd starts to congregate in front of the church.

When ushering in the guests, always offer your right arm to a woman. Her escort should trail behind you. A male guest arriving alone should walk on your right, and unless the gentleman has some sort of physical ailment do not proffer your arm.

A few minutes before the processional, escort the groom's parents to the first right pew facing the altar.

Then, usher the bride's mother to the first left pew, second seat in. The aisle seat should be saved for the bride's father after he gives away his daughter.

If parents are divorced, the father should be seated in the third row, with the groom's father on the right aisle and the bride's on the left.

Ushers should seat both sides of the church evenly, with the bride's side at left and the groom's at right. (If it's a Jewish wedding it's just the opposite.) However, if one side is bigger than the other it may be a good idea to integrate the two sides.

After the seating has been completed, lay the pew ribbons and aisle runner at the right moment. (Two ushers should have been chosen for this task at the rehearsal.)

If this is one of your duties, after the bride's mother is seated, walk to the front of the church with the other usher and run the aisle ribbons that are taped to the front pew over the top edges of all the pews.

Secure the ribbons but leave the last two rows open for any late arrivals. After that, both of you should unroll the white runner—go to the foot of the chancel steps, then pick up the roller handles or edges of the runner and walk to the rear, being sure to look straight ahead. If you look back, the runner will get twisted.

Important details

The ushers and other members of the processional should be lined up in two's for the march, shoulders almost touching. A distance of four pews should be kept, and lead off with your left foot.

After the recessional, ushers should help empty out the church. Two specially assigned escorts usher out the bride's mother, then the groom's, then the grandmothers.

At last, two ushers release the ribbons up front, two at back, gather them up, and everyone else files out by themselves. Of, if it has previously been agreed upon, two ushers go to the front of the church and bow each pew out.

After the ceremony, volunteer to direct the guests to the reception or pass maps out, and attend to any other necessary details.

Give an heirloom

GIFT THE BRIDE AND GROOM WITH AN HEIRLOOM—a stately grandfather clock personalized with their names on a solid brass plate. The "Charleston" by Howard Miller is cased in cherry and rare mahogany burls, with brass inlay, 24K gold-plated spandrels, glass sides to reveal its triple-chime cable-wound movement, and a mirrored back to reflect its polished brass pendulum and weights. It's a gift for a lifetime, and for generations to come!

Shower the bride with in-home bridal registry

Wedding bells will ring for more than 2.5 million couples this year in the U.S. and cash registers will ring up the sales of 10 to 15 million of engagement, shower and wedding gifts purchased by friends and relatives. In fact, Americans made such purchases last year to the tune of nearly $14 billion, spending an average of several hours shopping for each gift.

One way to make shopping for wedding-related gifts a breeze is for the bride-to-be to register her choices. Commonly done through the bridal registry of a retail store, there is now an alternative that is more personal, convenient and entertaining. The new twist is to register choices—crystal, china, kitchen products—with independent consultants of home party firms.

The process is very simple. Just review the products in the company's catalog or actual samples and then list desired items on a special bridal registry form. Best of all, this can be done in the home, away from the bustle of a crowded store, and at a time that is convenient for both the prospective bride and the salesperson who does not have dictated "store" hours.

With this approach, a gift can be purchased and given in a party atmosphere. A Princess House product shower, for example, which features handblown and handcut crystal stemware and accessories, china and silver, is often held in candlelight with flowers and typical party or wedding foods.

There are several formats for selling home party products to friends and relatives of the bride-to-be. The bride can either register her selections before the party or at the party. If the bride registers prior to the party, there are two approaches.

At one, guests can order registered products from a catalog prior to the shower in the comfort of their own home. The sales consultant places the order, wraps and delivers all items to the party site. The bride-to-be then opens the gifts at the party.

Or, the consultant can demonstrate the bride's registered items to guests who then order their gifts directly at the party. The gifts are delivered to the bride-to-be's home a week or so after the party.

If the bride has not registered before the party, she can make her selections at the party. Guests may then order their gifts at the party or may phone their order to the party hostess the following day.

As with any party, the hostess is key to the success of the party. She is the person who invites the guests, keeps close watch of what is ordered and registers all orders on the bride's list.

Many home party firms offer clubs as easy and affordable ways for the new bride to finish out her product needs. Many of these same companies offer collection plans as well as reasonable replacement policies on their products.

Princess House has a special program that allows the bride to replace broken crystal at half price. Brides see this new approach to bridal registry as professional and innovative, but most importantly, helpful. The detailed registration list is given to the bride following each party. It provides excellent back-up information when writing thank you notes.

All eyes are on the beautiful, blushing bride

When it's time to say "I do," the last thing a bride needs to worry about is cumbersome eyeglasses to interfere with that first nuptial kiss. Now that comfortable, easy-care soft contact lenses are available, there's no excuse for any bride to wear glasses on her wedding day.

Cosmetically, a bride looks better and feels more beautiful without awkward glasses sitting on her nose. With contact lenses, makeup can be applied to complement the bride's radiant glow — not offset the exaggerated or diminished features that result from glasses. Shouldn't sparkling eyes, not thick eyeglasses, shine through a lace wedding veil?

Besides the obvious cosmetic benefits, today's brides should consider wearing soft lenses because they are so comfortable and easy to care for. Soft lens wear no longer requires complicated care procedures that have, in the past, dissuaded eyeglass wearers from making a switch.

Although daily cleaning for safe and comfortable lens wear is strongly advised to protect against irritating and potentially dangerous eye problems, studies show that 64 percent of soft contact lens wearers do not perform this important lens care step. And when a bride is concerned with the many last-minute details of her wedding, she, too, may easily forget.

Once the reception is over and the honeymoon begins, the bride doesn't have time to worry about packing a bulky heat disinfection unit. Cooper Vision has solved this problem with Mira-therm® Heat Disinfection Unit that's as small as Rubik's Cube. Pack it up and the unit goes anywhere the bride goes — making oversized, old-fashioned heating units obsolete.

Streamlined procedures

With lens care procedures as simple as walking down the aisle, brides should have no trouble bidding glasses farewell. All a bride-to-be has to do is consult an eyecare specialist, who will examine her and prescribe the proper lenses. Then, the new contact lens wearer will spend about half an hour with the specialist or a trained "fitter," who will explain insertion and removal procedures.

The bride will also be reminded that she must make minor changes in her routine to ensure consistent contact lens comfort. For example, she must insert her lenses before applying makeup because no matter how careful she might be, powder, mascara and hair-spray can get into her eyes.

Soft lenses are extremely popular because they can be worn all day with no discomfort. And since the eyes easily adjust to soft lenses, they can be worn when needed — something that was never possible with hard lenses. If the bride wants to alternate between glasses and soft lenses while on her honeymoon, she should take along a backup pair of prescription eyeglasses.

A pair of inexpensive, polarized sunglasses is also a good idea if the honeymoon will take place in a sunny climate — warm or cold. Contact lenses can intensify the reflection of the sun's rays; tinted sunglasses will give her eyes a chance to rest while outdoors.

Weddings should conjure up visions of exquisite flowers, satin gowns and smiling faces — not unattractive glasses that detract from the bride's eyes. With worries of time-consuming lens-care procedures out of the way, a bride can walk down the aisle with cheeks aglow and eyes dazzling.

Since ancient times...

When it comes to beautiful bridal makeup, the eyes have it ③ "No matter how busy a bride may be planning her wedding, she's usually thinking about how she's going to look," says Andrea Bejar, beauty consultant for L'Erin Cosmetics.

"Almost every bride wants to be 'the most beautiful bride ever' as she walks down the aisle."

Andrea, who has a degree in anthropology as well as a license in cosmetology, claims that today's bride is no different in this respect from brides in other cultures—even in bygone times.

"For example," says Andrea, "the upper-class bride in ancient Egypt would spend so much time perfecting her elaborate toilette that she needed comfortable slippers to ease her feet, and special elbow cushions to lean on as she applied the delicate eye lines that were part of the highly-stylized fashionable look of that time.

hair and smoothing rough skin, a reddish ochre tint to color the cheeks and carmine to stain the lips. They had bottles of colored ointments, cosmetic pots and bronze mixing dishes to prepare various beauty formulas.

The focus, then as now, was on the eyes. Down through the ages, women have considered their eyes the most important facial feature to emphasize their particular personality, according to anthropological research.

"If you think we use a lot of eye makeup now, you should see what a woman used in ancient Egyptian beauty rituals, especially in preparation for some extraordinary occasion, such as her wedding," says Andrea.

Here are some quick and easy tips from L'Erin that every bride can use to make the most of her eyes—and she can use these techniques even after the wedding.

- Always start with clean, dry eyelids. To shadow the lids, use a blunt L'Erin fashion-tip pencil, gently stroke the pencil across the lid from the inner to the outer corner and up the crease. Smooth out with fingertip.

- To contour, sweep a deeper related shade across the natural crease line. With fingertip, smudge up toward browbone and to outer corner. Avoid a definite line.

- To highlight, take a shimmering shade such as peach ice or heather frost and subtly highlight the browbone. Start at the brow arch and apply down to the crease and outwards slightly past the outer corner of the eye.

HAPPILY EVER AFTER

"Successful marriages begin with proposals made in natural settings. 'In the middle of the day under ordinary conditions...the proposal itself should be made in sincere and earnest language...often the more simple the proposal the more forcibly it expresses the suitor's feelings.' From the Book of Etiquette, Lady Troubridge, 1913.

WEDDINGS FOR ALL AGES

If you believe that you are too old to be married, think again. The oldest bridegroom in history, so far as is known, was Ralph Cambridge, who was 105 when he married his 70-year-old wife in South Africa in 1971, according to The 2nd Mammoth Book of Trivia (A & W Visual Library) by Bruce D. Wither- spoon.

Next to the bride, who's the most important member of the wedding party?

On this day of memories, everyone is important of course. But there's one member of the party who really stands out from the crowd. Your photographer. And on this special occasion, not just any photographer will do. Great wedding photography demands experience, skill and sensitivity. To capture the bride's true beauty in formal portraits — or those fleeting moments after the ceremony. That's why thousands of brides throughout New England have relied on Miller Studio for over 30 years. Of course, Miller Studio's processing, printing and retouching are the finest. And our expert staff can assist you with a host of other wedding services too. But it's our photographers who make the real difference. Classic diamond solitaire is a bridal favorite You're getting engaged! As one of the biggest steps you'll take in life, engagement represents the commitment of two people to share their lives together. It is a time of transition that prepares you for your change in roles from boyfriend to husband, girlfriend to wife.

Receiving a diamond engagement ring symbolizes this growth in your relationship and, if you're like most young couples today, you probably won't announce your engagement until you make it official with a ring.

Results of study

In a March, 1982, research study of 200 young women conducted by Karl E. Tietjen Research Associates, 92 percent agree that an engagement ring symbolizes their fiancé's love will be with them at all times. They perceive engagement as a public pledge for a lasting relationship and want a diamond engagement ring to symbolize this stage of commitment.

The first question most bride's ask is how much an engagement ring should cost and how much should be spent. As a rule of thumb, bridal experts favor a guideline of two months' salary because it allows most young couples the opportunity to afford a good quality diamond that they'll be proud of in years to come.

What will it cost?

Currently, a good-to-medium quality 1/4 carat is selling for $600 to $1,200; 1/2 carat, $800 to $1,700; 3/4 carat $1,500 to $3,500 and 1 carat $3,000 to $6,000.

The next question asked is whether one style is more popular than another. Seventy-six percent of first-time brides receive a diamond engagement ring. Of those, seventy-four percent of last year's brides that received a new diamond engagement ring received a diamond solitaire engagement ring.

The solitaire engagement ring is the most popular because styles change rapidly, yet this classic choice transcends fashion whimsy. Its simple gold or platinum band accentuates the beauty of the single diamond since there is nothing else to detract from it.

The single-diamond engagement ring provides a young couple with their best buy because the price is determined almost exclusively by the size of the one center diamond. Choosing a solitaire allows you to get a larger, better quality stone.

Conversely, if you choose an elaborate mounting for your diamond, you will be getting a much smaller stone because a sizeable proportion of the price is going into paying for the band.

Comparison-shop

Before buying a diamond engagement ring, do some comparison shopping. Diamonds can vary drastically in quality and price. Ask questions—that's the quickest way to learn and study up on the 4 C's: cut, color, clarity and carat weight. These are the standards jewelers use to evaluate the quality of a diamond. Here are a few pointers that will explain why one diamond can be more expensive than another:

• Cut: The beauty of a diamond relies on the precision of the cutter and the expert placement of the facets or planes on a stone. These tiny angles capture and refract light to give a diamond its fire and brilliance.

Most diamonds have 58 facets. Cut also refers to the shape of a diamond—round, oval, marquise pear, heart and emerald.

• Color: People usually think of diamonds as colorless, but most are tinged with yellow or brown. The icy white diamond, which has an absence of color, is the most valuable.

A light on color

Variations in color are often so slight that they can be detected only by an expert under special lights.

The best way to see the true color of a diamond is to look at the stone through its side against a white background.

There are also fancy-colored diamonds available in royal blue, cranberry red and canary yellow. These diamonds are very rare and can be quite costly.

• Clarity: In the process of crystallizing diamonds out of carbon millions of years ago, nature left minuscule birthmarks—specks, bubbles and feathers—in most diamonds. These specks are called inclusions and are not defects or weaknesses.

Flawless diamonds rare

The term flawless refers to a diamond that has no inclusions when viewed under 10-power magnification. There are very few flawless diamonds, therefore such diamonds are expensive.

• Carat weight: A diamond is measured in carats and there are 100 points in a carat, like the cents in a dollar. A carat is equal to 1/4 of a gram and there are 142 carats to the ounce.

Consider the 4 C's

The larger the diamond, the scarcer it is and the higher the value per carat but, remember that size alone does not determine value. Cut, color and clarity must also be taken into account. For example, a top-color, flawless half-carat diamond will be worth more than a warmer color, flawed one-carat stone.

When you stop to think that you'll probably be spending about two months' salary for a diamond engagement ring, it pays to learn all you can about the 4 C's.

THE DIAMOND SOLITAIRE in every shape and size is the overwhelming favorite with 69 percent of those lucky brides who receive a diamond engagement ring. Clockwise from top: Bold Art Deco styling accents the oval diamond by Dennis Lampert Designs. The open shank design by D'Annunzio & Co. emphasizes the pear diamond shape while the knife-edge design by Unigem International has a clean, contemporary look that is well-mated to marquise-cut diamonds. The sculptured mounting from Orange Blossom with its raised six-prong setting focuses attention on the round-cut diamond. The emerald cut diamond in a simple, traditional mounting from Baumgold Bros. has classic appeal. Unigem International set the sentimental heart shape diamond in a unique handmade wire basket mounting.

Something old, something new

The trend of the '80s return to elegance and romance seems to have extended itself into every aspect of our lives—including weddings.

Today's brides can enjoy all the romance and customs of traditional weddings with the advantage of 1981 style and simplicity. The following are a few old and new wedding customs that the Pond's Beauty Institute would like to share with the bride-to-be.

• The bridal shower—The first bridal shower came to be when a poor Dutch miller fell in love with a maiden whose father forbade the match and refused to provide a dowry. The miller's friends came to the rescue and showered the bride-to-be with enough gifts to start housekeeping.

While the custom of showers continues, today's bride also has the convenience of a Wedding Gift Registry service, some of which are even computerized. She can sign up for everything from kitchen gadgets to linens, making shower-shopping easier for friends and relatives to help set up a bride's first home.

• Beauty and the bride—In grandma's day, beauty preparations for that big day (and days thereafter) were no easy or inexpensive task. Beauty aids were either found in the home, like lemons for freshening and mineral oil for moisturizing, or they had to be prepared by a pharmacist and kept cold to retard spoilage.

Today's bride has endless choices. Many women opt for multi-purpose products such as cleansers that moisturize, or all-over moisturizers like the new cream and cocoa butter cream by Pond's.

These cream moisturizers are so refined they're perfect for the face, yet they're great for all-over skin care. Add to that the blush of a new bride and you have a combination that makes beauty.

• Honeymoon—The first marriages were not by choice but by capture and, when early man decided it was time to take a bride, he carried off his mate to a secret place where they hid while the moon went through its phases—30 days—and drank a brew made from honey.

Hence, the word honeymoon, now meaning a romantic trip the newlywed couple makes after the wedding. Today's couples can walk along pink, sandy beaches or ski glistening white mountains, they can dance till dawn or tuck themselves in at sunset.

With today's high speed aircraft and a good travel agent, the choices for your perfectly dreamy honeymoon are endless.

Brides find "affordable quality" in fine silverplated flatware

A return to traditionalism is a trend currently reflected in every aspect of American life. Perhaps nowhere is this more apparent than in the increasing number of marriages that are taking place.

In 1980, more marriages occurred than in any year since the post World War II peak of 1946. Not only does the increased number of marriages mirror a conservative direction, but the choices young couples are making in furnishing their new lifestyles support this trend.

How to choose

In selecting table-top accessories, for example, soon-to-be brides and grooms increasingly seek "affordable quality." They analyze their options and base their decisions on a careful consideration of what best suits their planned lifestyle.

In silverware, these couples are finding that silverplated products often meet these personal standards of "affordable quality."

Silverplated flatware is manufactured by permanently bonding a layer of pure silver to a base metal through the process of electrolysis. The amount of pure silver used in the electroplating process varies according to the manufacturer; however, the heavier the layer of pure silver, the more durable and valuable the product.

One company, Reed & Barton Silversmiths, uses a heavier layer of pure silver than any other American manufacturer. They put so much of this precious metal on their product that all Reed & Barton silverplated flatware is warranted to last one hundred years.

Factors to consider

According to the experts at Reed & Barton, there are several factors to be aware of in identifying and selecting finer silverplated flatware.

TODAY'S YOUNG COUPLES find "affordable quality" in silverplated flatware. A heavy silverplate finish offers the look of sterling silver at a fraction of the cost. Classical styling, as in this pattern, "French Chippendale" by Reed & Barton Silversmiths, will blend well with contemporary or traditional decor.

First, study the pattern. It should be well defined. Good detailing indicates good workmanship. Examine the tines of the fork. Are they smooth all around and properly finished?

Look at the back of the flatware piece. A convex back indicates the use of more metal at the end of the handle. This results in a very well balanced and more substantial piece of flatware, as exemplified by the "French Chippendale" pattern. Also important is the number of serving and specialty pieces that are available in the pattern.

Finally, the amount of pure silver that has been used in the electroplating process cannot be determined with the naked eye. Therefore, it is essential to be familiar with the different manufacturers of silverplated products and the warranties offered by each.

How-to's of trousseau gift-giving: Consider color, fabric and style

The most favored gift of any trousseau is intimate apparel. Whether you're the groom looking for this intimate gift, or mother of the bride, here are some simple shopping tips on how to select your trousseau gift.

Seek out a salesperson to help you in the department, tell her the bride's color preferences, then ask her advice about choosing styles and shades.

Intimate apparel is sensuous by design but one important consideration in buying is selecting the right fabrics. Not many brides today want to iron slips or send nightgowns to the dry cleaners, so look for easy-care, stain-resistant fabrics.

One of the most luxurious fabrics offering the feel and look of silk combined with ease of care is "Qiana." "Qiana" fabrics not only drape beautifully with the look of pure elegance, but they are also hand or machine washable. If the bride prefers a more cotton-like hand, look for blends with "Dacron" polyester for truly easy-care.

Selecting a style can be trying with so many beautiful designs this season. In daywear, items such as a camisole with tap pants, a teddy, lacy full slips and chemises, are all great trousseau ideas.

Most popular are long or short sleepwear gowns with matching coats, cozy pajamas, or short-length camisoles and chemise sets. Lace and embroidered trims add final fashion touches.

Loungewear styles in jumpsuits, pajamas and caftans are dual purpose and can be worn for home entertaining as well as for lounging. A quilted robe in "Qiana" satin makes a lovely gift, especially if your honeymoon is planned for a cold weather spot.

FOR HER TROUSSEAU there's nothing more elegant to receive than an embroidered lace-trimmed ensemble from Barbizon. A dreamy two-piece in flowing "Qiana" satin is as easy to care for as it is beautiful.

The Bahamas: romantic location for the unforgettable honeymoon

By PATRICIA KENNEY

The Bahamas, a beautiful country of 700 islands, is a tropical treasureland for two. A honeymoon in the Bahamas can be a cornucopia of fun beyond your imagination. It can be relaxed and active, exotic and romantic, tranquil and lively, depending on which Bahamian island or islands you visit.

Varied attractions

The Bahamas are waiting to welcome you into honeymoon settings with glamorous casinos, superb shopping, colonial charm, great golf and tennis, romantic hideaways and historical sights.

This enchanting island country stretches like jewels across the turquoise waters of the Atlantic, just 50 miles off the coast of Florida. The Gulf Stream bathes The Bahamas with sensuously warm waters that are ideal for swimming, sailing, and waterskiing, and are so clear that the scuba diving and snorkeling are among the world's best.

Basic trio

Nassau, Freeport and the Family Islands are each offering a distinctively different facet of The Bahamas.

Colonial Nassau

As the Bahamian capital for more than 200 years, Nassau, located on New Providence Island, is also the seat of government. Settle into an intimate horse-drawn surrey, while the driver takes you by reminders of a vivid and rich past such as Government House, Fort Charlotte, Fort Montagu and Fort Fincastle.

Shopping spree

Bay Street shops display international goods at lower than stateside prices, and the famous straw market at Rawson Square adds exciting color, with a profusion of locally made straw hats, bags and dolls.

When the sun goes down, the high-rise hotels on Nassau's Cable Beach and Paradise Island (across the toll bridge) pulse with Bahamian beat and sophisticated nightclub entertainment.

The Playboy and the Paradise Island casinos offer gambling and Las Vegas style shows. Restaurants serve European, Chinese, Japanese, Polynesian, American and Bahamian cuisine.

Fascinating Freeport/Lucaya on Grand Bahama Island

The "Riviera of the New World" is an apt description of these twin settlements. Night life is bright here with the moorish style El Casino, one of the largest clubs and cabarets in the world.

The International Bazaar comprises 65 shops and mini villages representing different parts of the world.

Other attractions are the Underwater Explorer's Society, one of the most prestigious dive centers and the largest such operation in the country, the world's largest glass bottom boat, the lush botanical Garden of the Groves, beautiful beaches, sports facilities and restaurants.

Family Island fantasies

The Family Islands are a collection of calm and picturesque villages stretching over 750 miles of the crystal clear Atlantic. With miles of untouched pink sand beaches, the Family Islands are idyllic settings for a blissful honeymoon.

Sample all The Bahamas, and experience what makes this honeymoon haven the ideal destination for a trip of a lifetime, or the beginning of one, together.

THE BAHAMAS — This beautiful Country of 700 Islands is a tropical treasureland for two. It's a rainbow of places that enable honeymooners to find paradise and take it in the palm of their hands.

Do couples getting married still take a honeymoon? Or is it just an old-fashioned custom that's gone the way of songs rhyming "June" with "moon"? The blissful wedding trip is more popular than ever, says Bride's magazine.

In response to a June, 1981, survey conducted by Bride's, 99.3 percent of its readers said they were in the midst of planning a honeymoon. "The wedding could be large or small, the couple rich or poor, this is one group of travelers that packs its bags no matter what," says Marcia Vickery, Bride's Travel Editor.

The Bride's survey shows that modern honeymooners travel further (an average of 1,817 miles) and spend more money than in former times, probably due to the fact that today's newlyweds are older and better educated.

About two-thirds travel within the United States (California, Florida, and Pennsylvania are the top-ranking states), while the rest venture abroad. The typical couple stays away about eight days, although 12 percent travel for two full weeks or more.

Why is the honeymoon so indispensable? Partly because it's a tradition and, therefore, expected. But also because it's necessary. There's a lot of stress involved in preparing for a wedding. A honeymoon gives a couple a chance to relax and wind down. It also seems to provide a needed psychological transition between being single and married.

Beyond this, though, its purpose has changed somewhat over the years. The popular image of a honeymoon is of a special time when a just-married couple go off for a "getting-to-know-you" period of total privacy.

While privacy and romance are still on the list of honeymooners' desires, new special trends — such as living together before marriage — have brought a different emphasis.

Today, fewer couples are choosing to take the sort of honeymoon where they spend a week or so alone in an isolated cabin in the woods. Instead, they prefer more action: resorts that include sports, entertainment, and gourmet food and locations that have plenty of sights to see.

How to look heavenly

Don't let honeymoon travel, excitement, sun and lack of sleep play havoc with your glowing bridal beauty.

Here are some tips that can help you retain your radiant look all during the honeymoon:

- Sunburn is the classic honeymoon horror. Take along a sunscreen that's even stronger than you normally use, and if you're in a tropical climate stay out of the midday sun altogether.
- Once your skin gets a rosy glow, you probably won't need any makeup at all for daytime. If you'll be swimming and want to use mascara, be sure to choose a water-resistant type.
- For fun on gala evenings, go glamorous with eye makeup. Just a little will make a big change if your normal look is natural. Try smokey blue or plum shadow blended up and out from the lid onto the browbone, and a spot of highlighter on the inner corners and under the brow. If you like, draw a line in a darker shade right at the lashes; add mascara.

- Have a good haircut two weeks before the wedding so that your hair dries right into shape, and pack a lightweight little hair dryer such as the Norelco "Chic" travel dryer. This 14-ounce wonder is a full 1200 watts and has two heat/speed settings, dual voltage for worldwide use, and its own travel case.
- Get enough sleep to avoid dark circles under your eyes. If circles do appear, dab on a little cover-stick or cream, dot a drop of foundation over it, and blend with a sponge.

Complete Turnaround QJC Wins Conference Championship

Coach Brian Buckley and his Quincy Junior College basketball team, which had a 2-14 record a year ago, made a complete turnaround this year, winning the Greater Boston Small College Conference championship with a 14-2 record and culminating the reversal last weekend when it captured the conference playoffs at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

The Jaguars finished the season with a 16-2 conference record and a 24-8 overall record.

QJC won the playoff final last Saturday, 77-73, over Northern Essex Community College before a large crowd at the Vo-Tech gym.

Quinch had a 41-35 lead over Northern Essex at halftime and at one point led by 11 points before the Knights made their charge.

With 1:52 left in the game Northern Essex cut the gap to two points but Paul Gill, named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, took control with a lane-driving basket for his 18th point.

Tournament All-Star Steve Belcastro had 21 points for Quincy and Jim Conby had 13, giving him 50 for the tournament. Gary DiNardo had 12 points, Paul Forbes and Keith Realini two to round out the scoring. Chris Surette had 29 points for Northern Essex.

It was the third time this season QJC had defeated Northern Essex.

In Thursday's semi-final Bunker Hill Community College tried to run with QJC and the result was a high-scoring game with Quincy winning, 113-101.

Conboy exploded for 37 points to spark the Jaguars and Belcastro had 23 points. Forbes had 18, Gill 14, Fran McEachern 10, Realini six and Ricky Anderson and Bill Walsh two each. Tom Pound completed the scoring with a foul shot.

Buckley and Conboy, who passed the 1000-point career scoring mark this season, accepted the playoff trophy and the league championship trophy. Each player received a plaque.

Belcastro and Gill were named league all-stars and Conboy was presented the league's MVP trophy for the second straight year. Buckley was named to coach the league-all-star team against the New Hampshire all-stars but had to decline as he is out of state.

Timberlake B.C. High Hero In 6 Overtimes

Quincy's Jeff Timberlake was the big hero last Friday night when Boston College High's basketball team defeated Randolph, 86-78, in a six-overtime marathon in the Eastern Mass. tournament.

Timberlake led all scorers with 26 points and scored the first six points in the sixth overtime session. B.C. High, one of the top-rated teams in Division

1 South, met New Bedford Tuesday night.

McCarthy Wins Decision

Nine-year-old Danny McCarthy of Houghs Neck, in his first Junior Olympic boxing bout, defeated Ken Collins of South Boston by a three-round decision in a recent show at South Boston.

Danny represented the Quincy YMCA.

• Senior Basketball

Beechwood, Atlantic Only Undefeated Teams

After six weeks of play only two teams, Beechwood Knoll in the Celtic Division and Atlantic of the 76ers Division remain unbeaten in the Quincy Recreation basketball league for senior high school players.

Atlantic edged Quincy Point, 34-32, with Mark Scanlon scoring eight points, Mike Carre seven and John Kavanaugh seven. Chris McKay of Point led all scorers with 11 points, Jim Austin had seven and Don Parry six.

Snug Harbor defeated Central, 26-15, sparked by Dale Adams' 12 points. Mike Williams had six and Carl Freedman four. For Central Jim Sturgeon had six and Paul Marsters four.

In Atherton Hough's 37-15 romp over Merry-mount, Vin Servaes led the way with 13 points, followed by John McLaughlin with eight and Jack Joyce with five. Mike Molloy had eight, Mike Hayes five and Louis Gonzales two for Merry-mount.

Freedman's 12 points led Snug Harbor over Point, 36-32, despite Austin's 10 points for Point. Paul Connolly had seven and Williams four for Snug Harbor, while Jim Perry and Adams played strong defense. John Burm had nine and Parry five for Point and John Bandera and Bob Burns were strong off the boards.

Central came from behind to top Sterling, 37-28, with Ross contributing strong rebounding. Karlo Maki, Sturgeon and Eric Pulsifer had six points each for Central, while Rich Ready had nine, Bob Cree eight and Bob Campbell six for Sterling.

Atlantic and Snug Harbor played the highest scoring game of the season, Atlantic winning, 43-37.

Paul Cahill had 12 points, Mike Phelan nine and Mark Scanlan nine for Atlantic, while Vin Barry, Mike Cavanaugh and Mike Loccoe played strong games. Freedman had 11 and Spencer, Adams and Williams fronted a good running game that also saw Perry score 10.

Beechwood Knoll jumped out early and never looked back while defeating Atherton Hough, 48-29.

Jim Kelly had 13 points, Dave Brown eight and Mike Kearns eight for the Beechies. Mark Sullivan, John Murphy and Dave Brown played fine games. For Atherton Hough Joe McLaughlin had nine and Peter McCarron seven, While Servaes played well.

Games are played Saturdays at 9:45 and 10:45 a.m. at the Broad Meadows Middle School. Spectators are welcome and admission is free. For additional information call 773-1380, Ext. 204.

The standings: Celtic Division - Beechwood Knoll, 3-0; Montclair, 1-1; Quantum, 1-1; Atherton Hough, 1-2; Merry-mount, 0-2. 76ers Division - Atlantic, 2-0; Point, 2-1; Central, 1-1; Snug Harbor, 1-2; Sterling, 0-2.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

PREPARE FOR EMERGENCY

Parents who know the location of the nearest emergency hospital and the quickest route there, can many times avert tragic consequences to childhood accidents. Prompt emergency medical attention can prevent needless deaths and serious crippling conditions resulting from childhood accidents.

Parents should take a practice drive to the hospital to be certain of the fastest, most direct route to take, if and when an emergency strikes. Precious minutes lost searching for a hospital at the time of the accident can endanger the life of the child.

It is not uncommon for parents to take time after an accident to spruce up their children and themselves, before going to the emergency hospital. Don't! Minutes lost may be vital.

Also a list of emergency telephone numbers should be affixed to the phone. This list should include the numbers of your family doctor, fire department, emergency ambulance service, emergency hospital and police department.

Kelley Leads Central To 3rd Title In Row

Central spotted South a 21-10 lead in the first half and then roared back on the shooting of Jim Kelley to win 36-31 and capture its third straight Quincy Junior High School League basketball title.

Kelley, who wound up with 15 points, shared the spotlight with Hobie Robinson.

Bernie Creedon and Vinny Penzo scored 14 points apiece as North reached up out of the league cellar to wallop Point, 50-32, and win its first game of the season after seven straight losses.

The North lineup included: Densmore, Creedon, forwards; Penzo, Miles, centers; MacDonald, Colletta, Crowley, Newcomb, guards.

POLICE BOYS WIN

Bobby Page threw in 17 points and Bob Mariani and Mike Salvaggio added 11 each as the Quincy Police Boys Club whipped the Athol YMCA, 64-50, in a preliminary to the Boston Celtics-Philadelphia Warriors game at Boston Garden.

NORTH DISAPPOINTING

A disappointingly small turnout of 44 boys, led by lettermen Phil Bergamo, Paul Higgins, Bob Lyons, and Ken Sargent, showed up for North Quincy High School's first spring practice under Coach Jack Donahue.

BINGAY SHINES

Tom Bingay of Atlantic Methodist was the star of the meet with wins in the dash, the high jump and the relay but Christ Church prevailed in jumps to win the YMCA-Sunday School track meet and the George A. Wilson Trophy.

SPORTS BITS '82

The Montclair's Men's Club entered a five-man team in the National Candelin Bowling championships at the Huntington Alleys in Boston . . . Dan Daley, Dinny Morrissey, Sully DiCarlo, Larry Maki, George Moore. . . Despite a 22-point performance by former Boston University star Marty Finnegan, the St. Johns Seniors of Quincy lost to St. Pius of Lynn, 65-58, in the Archdiocesan CYO tournament at Somerville. . . A testimonial was being planned for Munroe MacLean, who resigned after 11 years as football coach at Quincy High School. . . George "Buz" Reid, former North Quincy star, coached Gorham High School to 24 straight wins and the New Hampshire Class B basketball title. . . Scott MacKinlay showed the way with 12 points as Houghs Neck Congregational dropped Braintree Congregational, 44-23, to complete its third straight undefeated season and win the South Shore Sunday School League David Division championship. . . Tommy Collins knocked down Sandy Saddler in the first round but went on to lose a five-round TKO to the world featherweight champion in Boston Garden. . . A basket and a free throw by Alden Stretcher in the final 30 seconds gave the Quincy Clippers a 91-88 victory over the Weymouth Alphas. . . John Sterling and John MacLeod of Quincy were candidates for the UMass tennis team. . . Bob MacDonald of South won the Junior High School League scoring title with 111 points in nine games. . . X-rays showed that Sam Jethro of the Boston Braves suffered only a sprained wrist when he crashed into the outfield wall during an exhibition game in Florida. . . Umpire-in-Chief Curt Millen was holding a school for Little League umpires at the Quincy YMCA. . . Co-Capt. Gus Lawrence and Jack Spanks sparked the Old Colony DeMolay basketball team to a 59-36 victory over Sir Galahad of Roslindale in the finals of their state tournament.

The first formal rules for baseball required that the winning team score no fewer than twenty-one runs.

Squirt C's Win Cohasset Tourney In Overtime

Quincy's Squirt C hockey team won the recent tournament at Cohasset Winter Gardens, edging Weymouth, 7-6, in overtime in the championship game.

Weymouth had defeated Quincy in the opening game. Weymouth tied the title game with three quick goals in the third period to send the game into overtime.

John Shea had a hat trick for Quincy and Mark McMillen, Sean McCarthy, Joe Shea and Sean Parrell one goal each. John Shea, McMillen, Matt Swierk, John Bertrand and Carrie Hughes had assists. Goalie Leslie Colon made several outstanding saves.

Quincy suffered its only loss to Weymouth, 5-3, with Joe and John Shea and McMillen having the goals. Dan Savage and Karyn Mosher had assists.

Quincy then defeated Randolph, 6-1, with John Shea again having a hat trick and Bob Ford, Bertrand and Mike O'Brien a goal each. McCarthy had two assists and Ford, McMillen, Joe Shea and Jeff Bertoni one each. Todd Melver and Mike Rudinsky played strong games.

Quincy made the finals with a 4-1 decision over Hingham. John Shea had two goals and Dan Savage and McMillen one each. Carrie Hughes had three assists.

Pee Wee B's Lose In Tourney Finals

The Quincy Pee Wee B Hockey team reached the finals of the recent Watuppa Invitational Tournament in Fall River before losing to Newport, R.I., 5-4, in the championship game.

Quincy fell behind, 4-0, in the first period but battled back to tie it up in the second. The score remained tied until there were 3:27 left when Newport scored the clincher.

Quincy had defeated Dartmouth, 5-2; Watuppa, 4-1; Triton, 4-2, and West Warwick, Coventry, R.I., 2-1, to reach the finals.

Jim Lamparelli of Quincy was named the tournament Most Valuable Player.

Squirt A's Win District Title

The Quincy Squirt A hockey team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, defeated Tri-Valley, 3-0, to win its district title and qualify for the state tournament.

Quincy is the defending champion. Timmy Collins, Kevin Daley and Richy McDonald scored the goals

by Clare Annsweil

WEEK OF: MARCH 10

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Thursday-Friday spotlight new health and recreation programs. Promises from loved ones may be exaggerated, but intent is genuine. Weekend travel plans may be rearranged.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Good week for launching projects, especially ones related to advertising, real estate or creative interests. Last-minute invitations are promising. Loved one is less secretive.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Fractured relationship is on the mend, but don't rush the process. Recent ideas can be activated. Financial trends should be examined carefully. Scientific study is highlighted.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Travel ideas are turning into reality, and employment prospects become more encouraging. Friends are preoccupied, leaving you alone to catch up on writing and spring cleaning.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Cooperative ventures may require review - one member may be coasting. Solution to romantic dilemma may be deceptively simple. Teacher or supervisor becomes more amiable.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Communication is theme of the week, with conferences and public speaking engagements on the agenda. Review financial position before making investments, loans or offers.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Keep explanations short, sweet and polite. Friends are ready to bail you out. Career path takes surprising turn. Avoid making snap decisions from Saturday on.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Short-cuts won't pay off and thoroughness should be your byword. Emotional fireworks spark, then the air clears for a long time to come. Travel companion becomes more congenial.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

A more conservative approach works near miracles in career situation. Bonuses, while not necessarily financial, arrive through the week. Loved one is interested in intellectual rapport.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Volunteer assignments can wear you down; master the art of saying no. Faraway communication is a highlight of the week. Investment scheme requires planning and first-rate consultation.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Romantic setback is reversed if you're willing to brush aside recent differences. Whether at home or away, be cautious of a tendency to overspend. Current trends stress financial prudence.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Influential personalities are focusing on your performance, especially on your manner of dealing with tense situations. Property matters are favorably aspected; be sure your agents are competent.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Vulnerable to criticism; sometimes indecisive and secretive; highly sensitive to the ideas, motives, sentiments of others. You can use your great gift of understanding to professional advantage. Visits to or from faraway friends are highlights of late summer.

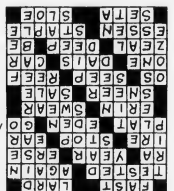

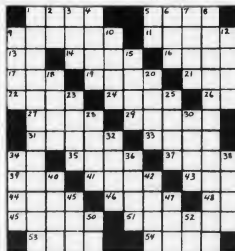

BORN THIS WEEK

March 10th, actor Sam Jaffe; 11th, entertainer Lawrence Welk; 12th, singer Liza Minnelli; 13th, singer Neil Sedaka; 14th, actor Michael Caine; 15th, actor Macdonald Carey; 16th, actor Erik Estrada.

Bowes and her teammates retained the high team single of 507.

Carol Johnston kept her team in first place with a record of 38 wins and 18 losses followed by Debra Koch, 34-22; Linda Carpenter and June Hillier tied at 30-26; Diane Johnston, 26-30; Edie Maher, 24-32; Bowes, 22-34; and Marge McGrath, 20-36.

Debra Koch has the top average with 101.4 and is followed closely by Hillier, 100.8; Bowes, 99.7; Mary Ellen Walsh, 98.7; Debbie Davis, 97.4; Pat Lawlor, 95.6; Johnston, 94.4; Carpenter, 94.1; Maher, 93.2; and Pat Murphy, 92.8.

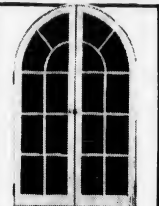

Bowes retains the high individual three string total of 370 while Sandy Regan has the best solo single string with 138.

Hillier has compiled the most spares with a total of 114 while Walsh has honors for top number of strikes with 18.

The league officials are planning the 28th annual awards banquet and dance in May and committee members include: President Ellen McAdam, Secretary Pat Murphy and Treasurer Shirley MacNeil.

PHARMACY TOPICS

By Edward David R. Ph.

For patients with unstable angina, doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital have added a new calcium-channel blocker -- nifedipine -- to standard treatment to reduce the incidence of the coronary-artery spasm that can cause angina.

Single-dose treatment of cystitis seems to work almost as well as week-long therapy, according to researchers at the University of Manitoba. Urine culture sample should be collected first, for antibiotic-matching, for those cases that do not respond.

Flu vaccine in capsules is just as effective as injections, and the oral dosage seems to avoid side effects, say researchers at the West Virginia University School of Medicine in Morgantown.

Pregnant women should not skip breakfast. Fasting causes profound changes in the blood level of important substances.

Nonsurgical removal of kidney stones is accomplished through a catheter inserted in the patient's side, directly into the kidney. Small stones are removed with forceps right through the catheter. Procedure is designed for high-risk patients with recurrent stones.

Board Grants License

Full Belly Deli-Out Quincy Sq. Deli-In

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The name Quincy Sq. Deli might not get as much attention as The Full Belly Deli, but it did get two applicants a common victualer license for 1360 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. The License Board granted the license Tuesday after Lawrence Russo of Rockland and Anthony DelPrete, Jr., of Hanover submitted the new name and a financial statement.

Board members objected to the original name at last week's meeting saying it was not appropriate for the historic Adams Building.

Atty. Lawrence Blacker, representing the applicants, said target date for opening is March 15 with an outside date of April 1.

Hours, to be reviewed by the board in six months, will be 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week, for the family-style restaurant.

Blacker said the applicants are paying $25,000 to purchase the property which will not be changed structurally.

After the meeting, board members were unanimous in favoring the new name.

"I like it very much better," said Health

Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey," it sounds more dignified and more in line with the City of Presidents."

"I didn't feel the (original) name was in keeping with the motif of a historic building," agreed Acting Police Chief Roy Cavicchi.

"The board has an obligation to see to the orderly growth of the city," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

Fire Chief Edward Barry, acting board chairman in the absence of City Clerk John Gillis, added, "the purpose of the board is to provide direction in the best interest of the city."

The license is subject to approval by the fire and building departments, and must be used within six months or it automatically deemed abandoned.

RETIREMENT INDEPENDENCE FOR ALL AMERICANS.

At 1st American Bank we believe that every one should be able to afford retirement independence. And with our Individual Retirement Account (IRA), we're doing something about it. Now almost every American is eligible. No matter what you do. Or how much you make. Even if you already belong to your company's retirement plan.

And we make your independence come easy. With a regular monthly installment plan that lets you save for a rosy tomorrow. Without putting you in the red today. You can contribute up to $2,000 per year ($4,000 if your spouse also works). And because our 18 month variable rate certificates are based on the Donoghue Money Fund 30 Day Average™ you'll enjoy a return comparable to money market funds. Plus the safety of FDIC deposit insurance.

You get immediate tax benefits by deducting the amount you contribute to your IRA from your taxable income. And your interest accumulates tax free. You pay taxes only at retirement when your income figures to be a lot less.

Stop by any 1st American Bank office in Boston or the South Shore for more information on IRA's or call our Pension Plan department at 436-1500.

Power Outage

A cable failure on McGrath Highway resulted in a loss of power for about an hour to some 100 customers, mostly business establishments, in the Quincy Square area at 9 p.m. Saturday, it was reported by Mass Electric.

The power failure disrupted local news coverage on The Quincy Sun's Cable TV Ch. 8 and the channel's time clock.

Regional and world news via the Associated Press was not affected, however.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipelitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

May Go Unchallenged

No Big Opponent But McCauley To 'Run Scared'

By TOM HENSHAW

There is no major opposition on the horizon but Mayor Francis X. McCauley plans to run scared for reelection.

"I'm going to approach this election as if I had a responsible opponent who could not be taken lightly," said McCauley, who plans to announce for re-election June 9 at the Neighborhood Club.

Meanwhile, two public figures, who were never really candidates in the first place, took themselves out of a possible race against McCauley next fall.

"At this time," said City Clerk John M. Gillis, "I wish to announce that I will not be a candidate for mayor in the city of Quincy this year. I would like to thank all those who came offering their help."

Gillis, 57, who has held the non-political office of city clerk since 1959, had been frequently mentioned as a candidate despite his many attempts to throw cold water on such speculation.

"I talked it over with my family," said Gillis, "and the consensus was that this was not the time for me to run. Perhaps some time in the future I'll run with the full support of my family."

The Rev. Bedros Baharian, for whom a small radio boomlet developed on Tuesday, also took himself out of the race even before his name had been entered. "Thanks but no thanks," said the Rev. Baharian, who failed to be reappointed by McCauley last month after 17 years as the strong man on the Planning Board.

"I don't see Frank with much opposition," he said. "He's going to be awfully hard to beat. It's not that he's done such a good job but he hasn't done that poor a job either."

There has been some speculation that former Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, a McCauley supporter in 1981, might take another run for the office he held through two turbulent years in 1976-77.

In the past year, LaRaia has projected himself into the spotlight as chairman of the revived Cultural Commission and a critic of McCauley's proposal for validated parking in downtown Quincy.

"I don't see anyone running as of now," said McCauley "but the picture can change quickly. We plan an intensive drive for nomination signatures in June. I'd rather do this than sit back. If no opposition comes up then we haven't lost anything."

If no opposition appears, McCauley will be the first candidate for mayor of Quincy to run unopposed since 1940, when Thomas S. Burgin was re-elected to a third full term in a walkover.

All other Quincy mayoral elections going back to 1888 have been contested, even though the opposition was little more than token in some cases.

McCauley is already activating his campaign committee, which will be made up pretty much of the same group that helped him to victory over Daniel G. Raymondi in 1981.

John Powers, a Houghs Neck advertising executive, will be campaign manager, assisted by former City Solicitor William Golden with Mrs. Sandra McCauley as treasurer.

The McCauley committee plans a fund raiser Thursday, April 7, a $100 a plate cocktail party and dinner at the Lantana in Randolph, an odd location for a Quincy candidate.

"We have usually stayed in the city for our functions," said the mayor, "but the Lantana is not far away and it will be a change of pace. It's good to get off the reservation at times."

The formal announcement for re-election is scheduled to take place at a $25 per person "announcement dance" at the Neighborhood Club Thursday, June 9, the site of his first announcement in 1981.

The hearing was requested by Kelly to give Germantown and Houghs Neck residents a chance to be heard on the project after the last planned hearing was held in Weymouth the week before.

Police figured the intruders hid in the cellar at closing time, lived it up for a while on the two six packs, then found themselves locked in and smashed their way out.

QEA, School Board To Renew Talks

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A new round of contract negotiations is scheduled to begin today (Thursday) between the school committee and the Quincy Education Association.

"I hope there will be some new developments," said QEA head Herman (Hank) Pasquerella of the meeting set for 4 p.m. in the superintendent's office. "Maybe we'll have some help from St. Patrick."

According to Pasquerella contract talks were last held the Friday before February school vacation. The problem is getting much bigger than it deserves," he said.

Pasquerella noted that the citywide parents council voted Monday to support the teacher's union's request for a one year contract not subject to funding.

"I fail to see how the school committee can ignore such a vote," said Pasquerella, "how can they fly in the face of the demands of the parents?"

Yesterday (Wednesday), Pasquerella expanded work-to-rule, whereby teachers perform no duties outside of their contract, to a ninth school, Sterling Middle School.

An emergency meeting of the QEA's executive board was also to take place yesterday.

Pasquerella said the agenda was to include letters sent by the superintendent's office last week to the high number of teachers who called in sick and to parents of students at work-to-rule schools.

"Dear member" letters were sent to teachers advising them not to get sick, and 'dear parent' letters gave license to inform on teachers who go along with work-to-rule," said Pasquerella.

The school department threatened to withhold pay of teachers who stayed home, and suggested that teachers and other school employees who take part in work-to-rule actions may be violating their contracts.

Pasquerella threatened to bring suit against the city if any members of his union are punished for job actions in their contract dispute.

A meeting of the QEA's representative council is scheduled for March 22, Pasquerella said.

School Committee Vice-Chairman Mary Collins, was also hopeful that negotiations today would be fruitful.

"The committee is eager to settle."

"Mr. Pasquerella doesn't seem as eager as we are."

Over 1,000 Signatures On Anti-Sewer Petition

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly said this week that he has gathered more than 1,000 signatures from Ward 1 alone on petitions against the MDC's proposed Braintree-Weymouth Interceptor Pumping Station project.

Kelly said petitions are also being circulated in other sections of the city.

The MDC will hold a formal public hearing on the project Wednesday, March 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Germantown Community Center at the Snug

'Breaking And Leaving' At Conway And Nally's

It took a while but police think they finally figured out what happened at Conway and Nally's bar on Washington St. early last Friday morning.

The thieves weren't trying to break in, they were breaking out.

Officer Angus McEachern answered an alarm at the bar at 5:45 a.m. and found the glass on a side door smashed, the glass all over the sidewalk and a two by four protruding from the door.

Money in the cash register was undisturbed but two partly consumed six packs of beer were found in a cellar hallway.

Police figured the intruders hid in the cellar at closing time, lived it up for a while on the two six packs, then found themselves locked in and smashed their way out.

DPW Workers Ratify Bonus, 4% Hike

Public Works employees have ratified a new contract with the city granting the workers a $500 one-time bonus and a 4 per cent raise in pay starting Jan. 1, 1984, but subject to funding.

Attys. James Shannon and John McLaren, who represent the union in bargaining, said the vote to ratify was 57-46 with 103 of the 173 union members voting.

The union also won better vacation pay based on the highest average of the previous year and higher pay from the first day for workers who fill in at higher paid jobs.

"It's not a big contract," said Shannon, "but we really didn't expect to get much more considering the bath the city took in the General Dynamics case as well as Proposition 2½."

"And we haven't had any layoffs, that's important."

Shannon and McLaren said the union was not concerned by the "subject to funding" language in the contract, which has been a problem in negotiations with other unions, notably the teachers.

"Barring a catastrophe," said McLaren, "the mayor has verbally agreed to use all his best efforts to see that the 4 per cent raise is implemented."

"Mayor McCauley is an honorable and reasonable persons," Shannon said. "The union members figure that he will treat with them in good faith when the time comes."

"We are at the mercy of the economy of the times. The mayor has a tough job." It is the first major contract settled under the McCauley regime. Negotiations are still going on with teachers, police, fire fighters and clerical workers, all of whose contracts expired July 1, 1982.

Fire Marshall Program Factual And Fun

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

When a fire broke out recently at her Parmenter Place home, third grader Kim Gately knew just what to do to help her parents get the family out safely.

would be able to cope with such a situation.

That is, unless they had taken part in the Junior Fire Marshall Program in the Quincy Public Schools, as Kim had.

The program, sponsored by Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency, 380 Sea St., for grades two and three, "is a great benefit, I'm glad to support it," says Fire Chief Edward Barry.

"It's one more effective partnership of concerned private business, the school department and fire department, to bring helpful information to children."

"The interest of the children has been focused on fire safety, such as safely handling matches, responding to smoke conditions, what to do if their or their companion's clothes catch on fire."

"They also discuss and practice fire drills in their home with their parents. They're made knowledgeable of what they should do if fire occurs in their home," said Barry.

That's what helped Kim.

"She remembered what to do and told her mother, Mrs. Dermot Gately, what they had talked about during the program at the Daniel Webster School," says Barry, "everything came back to her." Because of the fire, the family has since relocated to another part of the city.

"It's a very worthwhile program," agrees Wilfred Nolan, elementary education director.

"Anything you teach a child with regard to fire or health safety is a very beneficial thing. Education of this sort is never wasted."

"And they certainly do enjoy it," said Nolan. "It's also a reminder to parents who benefit from reviewing parts of the program with their children."

To become a Junior Fire Marshall "Fire Safety Superkid", a youngster must complete the lessons in "Four Steps to Safety," a classroom kit of instructional material.

The kits include a filmstrip and print materials that teach four basic safety lessons. The lessons are: match safety; crawl under smoke to escape from a burning building; stop, drop and roll to extinguish a clothing fire; practice home fire drills with your parents.

At the end of instruction, the child must complete with a parent and return to school a home safety report. The child then takes a fire safety pledge.

Also provided by Riley and Rielly is a 12 minute color film, "What If We Had a Fire?" and filmstrips "Fable of Freddy Fire," "A Story of Firefighting in America"; "A Lucky Day".

There are also promotional materials including red plastic fire helmets, balloons, award plaques and Junior Fire Marshall flags for each of the nine elementary schools. Some 1200 students are expected to participate in the program.

"We're very pleased," said Nolan, "and we're indebted to Riley and Rielly for providing the program."

Youngsters, 12 And 13, Arrested In Break

Two Quincy boys, ages 12 and 13, were arrested Monday for attempted breaking and entering into the South Shore Rehabilitation Center at 16 Moon Island Rd., Squantum.

Police said the youngsters broke a window at the center and were reaching in to steal an inner tube when the maintenance man saw them and chased them off.

License Board Continues Bay Inn Hearing On Drinking Problems

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board has continued to March 22 a hearing on a St. Patrick's Day party last Sunday at the Quincy Bay Inn which resulted in the bar being closed due to "incontrollable underage drinking" police said.

Albert Colarusso, manager of the Aquarius Lounge, had asked the board for a 30-day continuance to arrange for his lawyer to be present.

Police said it took two hours and 11 minutes to clear the Inn area after the bar was ordered closed by Police Lt. John Morton at 11:20 p.m.

David M. Fitzgerald 18, of Milton was arrested on a charge of being a minor in possession of alcohol and two others were taken in protective custody.

Fitzgerald pleaded guilty in Quincy District Court. He is scheduled to appear at the courthouse April 15 at 1:30 p.m. for a conference.

At one time during the fracas, 14 Quincy police officers were on the scene and a detail of five MDC policemen were summoned to direct traffic, according to police.

Police said Lt. Robert

Salvaggio checked the Inn shortly after 9 p.m. and found some 40 to 50 people waiting to get in to the party. Police said most were determined to be underage.

Colarusso told the board he is planning a St. Patrick's Day party tonight (Thursday) and then will be closing the lounge for renovations.

City Clerk John Gillis told Colarusso that he should have three police officers on detail if over 200 people are expected.

Colarusso assured the board that only customers age 20 and over would be allowed to attend.

Condon Reports 'Drastic' Decline In Police Calls

City Councillor Joanne Condon continues to report that the license board's roll back of liquor establishment hours from 2 to 1 a.m. is resulting in a "drastic decline in police calls."

Mrs. Condon, who led the roll back drive last year, reports that calls after midnight to establishments that had closed at 2 a.m. dropped from 25 in February, 1982, to 4 in February 1983.

There were 14 such calls in January, 1982, according to Mrs. Condon, as opposed to three calls in January, 1983, to the same establishments.

"There has been a drastic decline in calls which is obviously due to the decision of the Board of License Commissioners to roll back the closing hour from 2 a.m. to 1 a.m.," stated Mrs. Condon.

Hospital Director Interviews Saturday

The City Hospital Board of Managers will hold a special meeting Saturday, March 19, at 9 a.m. in the board room at the hospital to interview at least two candidates for the post of director.

The new director, selected by Hospital Corp. of America with the approval of the board, will succeed James Lowenhagen, who is leaving for a post in New Jersey May 1.

Louise Brabazon Condition 'Fair'

Mrs. Louise M. Brabazon, 61, secretary to the Quincy City Council, was in "fair" condition at South Shore Hospital in South Weymouth Tuesday following a heart attack.

She suffered the attack last Thursday in her home on Alrick Rd., West Quincy.

Readers Forum A Tribute To Frank Remick

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In the passing of Frank E. Remick, on Monday, March 7th, the City of Quincy, as well as those of us who were privileged to have him as a friend, have lost an able and outstanding business executive and community leader in so many ways.

Although several years younger than I, our friendship dates back many years. In our youth, the difference in age seemed much greater than in later life. My first recollection of him was when he lived with his parents at the corner of Edgemere Road and Woodward Avenue. Some years later the family purchased a home on Fairmount Way, Presidents Hill. It was at that time we became better acquainted as neighbors.

Frank's father, Alfred H. Remick, established a store on Hancock Street which I understand was in the late 1800's. As far as I can remember, the store was in its present location with Music Hall (later a moving picture theater) occupying the entire second floor. Of course, I can only remember it from about 1912. At that time it was primarily a men's store dealing mostly in work clothes with a few men's suits being available. It did have, however, a boy's department where many of us youngsters were taken for the purchase of (believe it or not) corduroy knee-breeches as well as suits having short pants below which were knee-length, and usually black, stockings.

Until the death of Mr. Remick, Sr., in about 1931, the store had grown until it became known as a men's furnishings and department store. Probably only a few of us can remember how change was made and sales slips recorded. Every department was connected to the main office by a network of overhead wires. After each sale the money to be changed, as well as the sales slip, were put into a small wooden container (about the size of a pint glass jar) connected to the overhead moving cable. Then, by pulling a release cord it zoomed slightly below the ceiling to the office and then returned in the same manner. Quite in contrast to today's modern methods of handling transactions.

Thus, Frank E. Remick, as the only son, was the logical person to take over the operation and management of the business although only recently having graduated from college.

This he did with little if any previous experience. It was the beginning of a remarkable and most successful business career. Within a few years a complete transformation had taken place with the entire second floor converted for store use, a substantial addition constructed at the rear of the building with the entire store being thoroughly modernized, new departments added with a completely new decor both inside and out. Store window decorations, particularly during the Christmas Season, will always be remembered as the final touch in making Remick's probably the finest store of its kind south of Boston, and equal to many in Boston.

Following his retirement in 1979 Frank has maintained his keen interest in the growth and progress of his native city. He should be remembered, not only as a successful business executive, but as a true friend, cordial companion, and community leader.

This memorial tribute has been written as the result of a fine friendship of over sixty years. To his wife, Margaret, his daughter, Lee, his son, Bruce, and the other members of his family, I feel sure that I express the understanding sympathy of all who were privileged to know and admire Frank E. Remick. May they be comforted in their loss by the happy memories of a gentleman in his highest sense.

They're Too Darn Quiet

There are times—now and then—that I don't like the McCauley administration.

Oh, I like Frank McCauley. And, I think he's doing a pretty good job as mayor.

But for someone trying to write a political column, his administration doesn't make it very easy. Things are just too darn quiet.

Whenever I sit down in front of a typewriter and stare at a blank sheet of paper and try to think of something interesting to write about City Hall—well—that's when I'm not so crazy about the McCauley administration.

His Honor doesn't even leave you much to speculate about. Neither do those around him. They're just too darn quiet.

Outside of the Joseph McParland, Owen Eaton and Dr. Robert McKeogh cases, there hasn't been much excitement.

Even when there's a controversy like the East-West Connector, it ends quickly. It doesn't linger, chapter after chapter.

DELLA CHIESA

James McIntyre had the MBTA to take on for a few years when he was mayor. He practically was the civil engineer for the path of the tracks and even helped pick out the new trains to run on them.

HANNON

There was plenty to write about maybe too much—when Joseph LaRia occupied the mayor's office for two of the stormiest years in the city's history: The "January Massacre" . . . the office bugging . . . the bullet hole in the car window, etc. etc. Never a dull moment those two years.

McCAULEY

When Amelio Della Chiesa was mayor, there was always someone trying to build a municipal incinerator in someone else's back yard and that was good for a continuing fight.

McINTYRE

Walter Hannon always made good copy with his fire-from-the-hip style. And, remember when he was going to arm Quincy police with machine guns in case any bandits thought Quincy banks and stores were easy pickings?

LaRIA

TOBIN

And, then came Arthur Tobin who kept busy "turning the city around." He may have been the most candid. Never ducked a question and there were times he probably should have. Ask him for his opinion and he gave it to you and if you didn't like his opinion, well, don't ask for it.

Compared to some of the past administrations, Frank McCauley & Co. aren't very exciting—if you're sweating over a political column.

One of the few exciting things that has happened since McCauley took office was the day Sandy Rounseville hopped on an elephant and rode up to City Hall.

If you're looking for speculation, you might get something like, "Wonder what color tie Arthur Foley will wear today?"

Nice guy, Arthur. But who really cares about histsies? Or who really is interested in which suit looks best on Peter Kenney? Or, now that he's been promoted to city solicitor, will Dean Nicastro buy a new brief case? Or will Bob Denvir fine himself five bucks for illegal parking?

They're all nice guys. I like them. They do a good job. But they leave you starving for column material.

So does Frank McCauley himself. He's cool, calm, collected and a man of few words. He must have the best blood pressure in town. Oh, he gets a little up-tight once in a while. Like the time he told Frank Anselmo to shut up. But Anselmo, of course, is still talking.

McCauley's administration is so quiet that he could very well be the first mayor since Thomas Burgin to go unchallenged for re-election. Burgin was afforded that honor in 1940—43 years ago.

The McCauley administration has been so quiet because it is so efficient, supporters say. Detractors say it is so quiet because it isn't doing much.

Regardless, it is a quiet administration. And McCauley himself is the quiet type. There's little he's said for someone to toss back at him on the campaign trail.

Arthur Tobin in his final year as mayor caught most of the flak from the Proposition 2½ cutbacks. Those who lost jobs or services took their ire out on him. By the time McCauley took office, Proposition 2½ had become pretty much a way of municipal life.

McCauley's current term may be remembered as The Quiet Years.

Which is nice for Frank McCauley and maybe for the city of Quincy.

But is sure doesn't help anyone trying to write a political column.

And, if you've stayed with me down to here you'll probably agree.

County Rec Facility, Shows First Surplus

County Commission Chairman James J. Collins has announced that the Norfolk County Recreation Facility in North Quincy produced a surplus of more than $21,000 for fiscal 1982.

"The old hackneyed theme that the facility is 'deficit ridden' has finally been put to rest," he said.

Collins said that, based on current income, that facility that used to be the Wollaston Golf Club will produce an operating surplus of $80,000 for fiscal 1983, ending next June 30.

"For the previous four years prior to 1982 the facility had run a total deficit of $554,000," he said.

Collins said the seasonal beer and wine license awarded by the city of Quincy in February, 1982, contributed to the surplus by increasing play and income substantially at the facility.

Reducing the permanent staff by five employees and converting to parttime seasonal help also reduced the cost of upkeep.

"Wollaston has a very bright future and we will continue to operate it as a profit-making business," said Collins.

$2,618 Dog Fund Return

The city of Quincy paid $8,915 into the Norfolk County Dog Fund in 1982 and received a return of $2,618.28 from the fund surplus, it was announced by Assistant James Michael Collins.

By law, the cities and towns in the country are required to use returned funds to assist their local libraries.

1. What is the name of Quincy's director of recreation?
2. True or false: Quincy is farther south than Tokyo, Japan.
3. What well-known Quincy business establishment is located at 147 Beach St.?
4. The three men who served as mayor under the Plan E charter were named: Ross, Burgin and McIntosh? Burgin, McIntosh and Della Chiesa? McIntosh, Della Chiesa and McIntyre?
5. Seaway Rd. is located in what section of the city?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Anthony I. Delmonico is the newest member of the Park and Recreation Board.
2. True. John Adams was the first president of the United States to live in the White House.
3. The Hancock Monument Co. is located at 295 Hancock St.
4. City Councillor James A. Sheets is, by profession, a teacher.
5. James St. is located in the Quincy Point section of the city.

Future Funds Questionable

Baharian Still Hopeful For Crosstown Connector

The Rev. Bedros Baharian, who was not reappointed after 17 years on the Planning Board, says he hopes that some future mayor will revive the controversial Cross-Town Connector that was planned to join shopping and parking areas on each side of Hancock St.

But, he told interviewers on the program "News-makers" on Quincy CableSystems Channel 3, he's afraid that lack of funds has ruled out reconsideration in the very near future.

"We had the money promised by the federal and state governments and with the money promised, it was a great deal easier to make the project a reality," said Baharian. "Whether there will be federal or state money available in the future nobody can foresee at the moment."

One of the first things Mayor Francis X. McCauley did on assuming office in January, 1982, was to bring an end officially to plans for the connector.

"I think he has been misguided and misled by a small handful of merchants whose stories lie between the Cross Town Connector and School and Elm Sts. who were dead afraid they would be cut off for the nine or 10-month construction period," said Baharian.

"They couldn't see suffering through that construction phase. But nothing good happens without construction time being involved."

Hancock St. merchants will suffer more in the long run, he said, because once the Burgin Parkway Extension is built new shopping facilities will go into the area to the west where Star Market and Grossman's are located now.

"There will be stores and garages going in there before a 10-year period is over," said Baharian, "and that will become the basic shopping area in Quincy in the future because it's so easily accessible to the Southwest Expressway."

Baharian said he bears no animosity toward McCauley, who failed to reappoint him to the Planning Board.

"Frank McCauley is a friend of mine," he said. "I have seen him and talked to him since then. I feel strongly that the chief executive has a right to have in a post as sensitive as that anyone he wants."

Besides, he said, the character of the Planning Department has changed so much that the Planning Board is no longer as important as it was once.

"When I was appointed, the Planning Department had a staff of three people," he said. "The Board was important because there was no professional staff to amount to anything. Today the staff has grown to where the Board is no longer as essential."

"If it weren't a state law that you had to have a Planning Board, I think the city could dispense with it."

"I'm a relatively strong personality. I think the post of chairman was viewed out of proportion to the legal place it occupies because of the occupant of the post."

On other subjects, Baharian told interviewers:

- The three key projects that came to Quincy during his time on the Planning Board were the MBTA Red Line extension, the Jordan Marsh warehouse in North Quincy and the State Street South complex.

- Validated parking in downtown Quincy "is probably wrong trying. I think it's a question of how well it's policed. Not by the Police Department but by the merchants themselves as to how effective it's going to be."

- One of the problems with downtown Quincy is that "it's kind of hard to get any unanimity of opinion from the merchants. The smaller merchants are suspicious of the bigger organizations such as the banks and tend to want to stick by themselves."

Baharian was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of the Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Taxpayers' Head Calls For Merger Of City Depts.

William M. Edmonston, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, called for consolidation of several city departments, notably those of tax collector and treasurer, in an effort to keep the 1940 tax rate at $30.

Edmonston also attacked what he called plans for "wholesale salary increases" among the city's clerical employees and he suggested that $2,250 could be saved by eliminating the post of manager of parks and playgrounds, currently held by Edward G. Spargo.

Edmonston spoke before the City Council's Finance Committee, which was considering Mayor Thomas S. Burgin's budget.

"We pay $2,250 to the manager of parks and playgrounds and $2,340 to a foreman in this same department," he said. "These two posts ought to be consolidated."

The QTA proposed a new salary scale for clerical workers ranging from $850 to $1,100 a year for clerks and typists, $900 to $1,150 a year for stenographers and bookkeepers, and $1,500 to $1,800 for supervisory clerks.

SKREET, TROUT CLUB

Lawrence H. Abbott agreed to make available 100 acres of land near the intersection of Quincy Ave. and East Howard St., containing three ponds, for the formation of a skeet and trout fishing club, if the club would pay the $150 a year in taxes.

SCHOOL WALL BULGES

A new bulge, believed to have been caused by water freezing behind the bricks, was discovered in the wall of Central Junior High School, which was currently under repair following the collapse of a section of wall near the roof.

School Committeeman John I. Taylor, chairman of the maintenance committee, estimated the bulge could be fixed for $200.

NEW PHONE EXCHANGE

The New England Telephone Co. disclosed plans to break ground in early spring for a new exchange on Hancock St. near Merrymount Rd. to house the facilities needed to convert to the dial system in the city in 1942.

9 High School Students Learning Government First Hand

Nine area high school students have a chance to view government first-hand this week in Senator Paul D. Harold's fourth annual Palmer Institute to be held in the State House.

The Institute, named for Joseph Palmer the first State Senator from Harold's district will include seminars for the students on government, legislation, the legislative process, the role of the news media, the job of the lobbyist and meetings with various state officials.

The students will attend public hearings, a session of the Governor's Council as well as attend sessions of both the House and the Senate.

The students will also meet with Governor Michael Dukakis and Senate President William Bulger. Senator John Parker (R) Bristol and Representative Elizabeth Metayer of Braintree will speak to the students to discuss their roles as senator and representative.

Karen Hudner of the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts and Ronald Frazier of the South Shore

Chamber of Commerce will describe their duties as lobbyist in the legislative process.

The students will also have a luncheon at which Larry DiCara, a candidate for mayor of Boston, will speak to the students on the governmental process.

Harold said the program is intended to provide the young people with an opportunity to learn first-hand about the political process and advance their awareness of government.

The students were selected for the program by the social studies teachers at their high schools on the basis of the students' interest in government.

Registration For Kindergarten April 12

Registration for kindergarten for the school year 1983-1984 will be held Tuesday, April 12, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at Quincy public elementary schools for all children who will be five years of age in the calendar year of 1983.

Parents must present a birth certificate at the time of registration and evidence of immunization for D.P.F., polio, measles, mumps and rubella to comply with State Law, Chapter 590. A child may be admitted to kindergarten if in the opinion of a doctor he is not in a condition to be immunized and issues a certificate indicating this fact.

Appointments will be made on registration day for vision and hearing screening assessments and parent questionnaire as required by State Law, Chapter 766.

Children who will be five years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1983 will be eligible for kindergarten.

March Is Special Needs Awareness Month

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has proclaimed March as Special Needs Awareness Month in Quincy.

Aim of the many events and activities planned is to make people in the community aware of the services and programs available for children with special needs and to sensitize them to the needs of the handicapped.

Jane Granstrom, Director of Children's Services for the Thomas Crane Public Library, Judith Paul, a member of the Special Education Staff of the Quincy Public Schools, and Ann Wickberg, Co-chairman of the Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education, have arranged exhibits in several locations throughout the city.

Those locations include the windows of The Quincy Sun and South Shore Bank, City Hall, the main branch of the library, the Superintendent's Office and the Pupil Personnel Building.

The displays, which will continue throughout the month, include many examples of the academic and creative work of children with special needs from the Atherton Hough, Snug Harbor, Squantum, Broad Meadows, Atlantic, Central and Sterling Schools.

The exhibit in the library features materials available on a variety of handicaps as well as materials that can be used by handicapped children and adults.

There is a TTY teletype available that enables deaf persons to communicate over telephone lines as well as talking books for the

PHARMACY TOPICS

By Edward David R.Ph.

If every American ate a balanced diet, the nation's medical costs would drop by a third. So says a recent study by the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

New technique -- BEAM, or brain electrical activity mapping -- is being used to spot potential dyslexics BEFORE they go to school.

Two weeks of hospitalization is sufficient after an uncomplicated heart attack, say medical scientists at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

Patients who had normal heart size at the time of the attack, and who stopped smoking, had best survival odds.

How to measure the effectiveness of arthritis therapy? At Emory University School of Medicine in Atlanta, physicians use ultrasound pictures to visualize joint inflammation before, during, and after treatment.

Cigarette smoking affects the insulin needs of diabetics; those who smoke require about 20 percent MORE insulin than nonsmokers, according to the British Medical Journal. Dosage should be reduced if a smoker quits.

A diabetic's special needs -- test equipment, insulin, and hypodermics -- are always available at Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill. A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone, a non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write to Department 50069, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Not too many days ago, we ushered in a New Year. With age old custom many people mullered over personal faults in the closing days of the old and resolved to do certain things better, or at least differently, in the new year. If a tabulation was made, it would probably be proved that multitudes of people resolved to stop smoking. An enormous number of people pledged to indulge in more leg exercise with less hand to mouth action to cut down on calories and lose weight. Again, if tabulations were made, it would probably be proved that most of these, and other well intentioned resolutions have by now been broken or forgotten.

There is one resolution every one can make EVERY day - and keep. Make it a daily habit to think of TWO of your blessings for every ONE gripe or complaint. Since the good things in life far outnumber the bad breaks, this can be an easy resolution to keep. Fact is, instead of just thinking about the two for one; give silent thanks. Nothing is ever so bad in life that it can be worse and that in itself is a good thing in life to be thankful for. This easy to keep daily resolution can change an entire view of life. Try it and see...

Guest Soloist Sunday At Bethany Church

Ruth E. Hamilton will be guest soloist for a special Lenten Service of Spirituals at 10 a.m. Sunday in Quincy Congregational Church, Quincy Center.

The service of Word and Music will center on the ministry, suffering, death and victory of Jesus Christ.

Miss Hamilton will present a selection of spirituals including: "Prepare Me One Body", "Live a' humble", "Done Found My Lost Sheep", "De Blind Man Stood on de Road an' Cried", "My Good Lord Done Been Here", "Calvary", "Steal Away to Jesus", "He Never Said a Mumberlin' Word", and "Ride On, King Jesus."

She will be accompanied at the piano by Peter E. Krasinski, Bethany's organist and director of music. The congregation will join her in singing two hymns based on traditional Negro melodies, "Lord, I Want to be a Christian" and "Were You There?"

A contralto, Miss Hamilton is a native of Atlanta, Ga. She resides in Cambridge and has been soloist in numerous Boston area churches.

There will also be spoken commentary and interpretation, the reading of scripture passages, and the offering of prayers by Rev. Joel F. Huntington and Rev. J. William Arnold, Bethany pastors.

The public is invited to share in this Lenten worship experience in the Bethany sanctuary, and to meet Miss Hamilton in the fellowship hour following the service.

'Whose Church Is It?'

United Methodist Sermon

The four Quincy United Methodist Congregations are continuing union services of worship at Atlantic United Methodist Church, North Quincy, this month.

Last Sunday, Rev. Dr. Theodore Romberg preached on "Whose Church is It?"

Glee Loranger was lay reader. The Choir Anthem was "Almighty God Who Has Given Us Grace" by Whittredge.

The Offertory Solo, sung by Ted Romberg, was "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" by Liddle.

The Co-Operative Parish joined with other Protestant congregations around the country in collecting a special offering for One Great Hour of Sharing. This year's theme is "Love in Deed... Love Indeed."

The collections from this appeal go to help people in more than 70 countries as well as to assist victims of disaster in the United States.

Following morning worship, the Youth Fellowship served a spaghetti dinner to help in their fund-raising efforts for their New York trip during April school vacation.

Squantum Church Members Illustrate Sermon Topic

Worshippers at the early service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday listened several times to the New Testament story of the apostle Peter stepping out of the boat as he attempted to walk across the water to meet Christ.

Then, they were asked to draw a picture to show to those sitting near them, depicting a time in their life when they were figuratively in the same situation as Peter.

In a sermon entitled "Stepping Out of the Boat — Part II", church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin compared Peter's situation to "the times in the life of a believer when he or she is asked by God or forced by circumstances to step out of the boat, to leave the nest, to leave behind all the security that one has ever known."

His text was, "Jesus immediately reached out his hand and caught him, saying to him, 'O man of little faith, why did you doubt?'" (Matthew 14:31)

The call to worship involved tribal shouting, in which various parts of the congregation shouted the elements of a psalm. The exercise involved standing, shouting, clapping, moving arms and stamping feet.

The Youth Choir surprised everyone with a special anthem prepared for the morning, "Praise the Lord," by Natalie Sleeth. Members of the Youth Choir are Bonnie Adams, Diane Ahearn, Robert Dixey, Ann Lombardi, Sarah Midram, Andrew Ogilvie, David Scott, Susan Scott, Deborah Stohberg, David Williams and Steven Williams. Director is Mary Ruth Scott.

Guitarists for the service included Miss Scott, Ogilvie, David Scott, Dixey and Steven Williams. The last four offered a special version of "Glory, Glory" which they had prepared under the direction of Steven Williams.

David Ahearn and Amanda Young were ushers. Hazel Mayne and Ruth Swenson were in charge of refreshments after the service.

During the second service, Dr. Langevin preached on the topic, "Who Are The Saints?" His text came from the introduction of Paul's letter to the Corinthian Christians, "... to the church of God which is at Corinth, to those sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints together with all those who in every place call on the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, both their Lord and ours..." (1 Corinthians 1:2)

The Chancel Choir sang William Spence's "Come Unto Me" with Tom Williamson as soloist. The Youth Choir again sang Sleeth's "Praise the Lord."

Greeters for the morning were Mary and Stewart Scott. Ushers were Paul Paulson and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Grace Holmes.

Hymns sung during the service included "Look, Ye Saints, the Sight Is Glorious", "I Sing A Song of the Saints of God", "For All the Saints", "Forward Through the Ages", and "Jesus Shall Reign Where'er the Sun."

The organ prelude was a version of "Were You There?" based on the black spiritual. The postlude was "A Lamb Goes Uncomplaining Forth" by Pachelbel.

The Lenten programs continued Wednesday, March 16.

Quincy Cablesystems Presents Check, Progress Report To City

Quincy Cablesystems has presented a $6,946.50 check as its first annual franchise fee payment and a report on cable TV progress for 1982 to Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

The report was delivered by Cablesystems General Manager John King.

Cablesystems now serves more than 16,000 subscribers in Quincy. The system currently offers 41 channels of service including recent additions The Nashville Network, CNN Headline News, and Cable Health Network.

King said the technical accomplishments during the year include the activation of the separate Institutional Network, allowing both programming and data signals to be delivered from locations such as City Hall and the schools to subscribers or to other municipal locations.

King also announced the introduction of the first close-captioning decoders compatible with cable television for the hearing impaired.

In summarizing Cablesystems' activities during 1982, King also noted the accomplishments of the Community Television Ch. 3, in bringing entertainment and issues from within the City to Quincy cable subscribers.

Quincy Cablesystems is a subsidiary of American Cablesystems Corporation of Boston. Now listed as one of the top 50 multiple system cable operators in the country, American serves more than 85,000 subscribers in Massachusetts, New York, Virginia, West Virginia and Tennessee.

D.S.S. Foster Parent Night March 22

The event will be held at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, in North Quincy.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipefitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

Stay Alive!

HYPOTHERMIA CAN KILL

A person can actually freeze to death in 40- or 50-degree temperatures if he is losing heat faster than the body can generate it. This process, called hypothermia, causes the metabolism to slow down and eventually cease. If a person is immersed in icy water, death can result within minutes.

Hypothermia, or "exposure", killed about 600 people in America last year. Anyone active in outdoor sports is in possible danger. If you hike, or camp, make sure that you follow these guidelines:

Fuel yourself with nourishing food before venturing outdoors. Wear wool, not cotton. Wool doesn't absorb water and allows skin moisture to evaporate, keeping you warmer - and safer.

Recognize the signs of hypothermia. First, there is shivering - the body's way of trying to generate heat. This is followed by slurred speech; hands and feet become numb and drowsiness sets in. At this point, a victim must have immediate treatment if he is to be saved. The most important thing to do is to keep the victim warm and dry until he can receive medical attention.

Campaign Kickoff For Toland March 27

Hutton Investment Series (HIS)

What's the intelligent way to invest my IRA dollars?

Because the "IRA with the IQ" is three separate funds within one master investment series, you are in the driver's seat. Move your money as often as you like between Hutton's three roads to retirement. 100% of your money goes to work for you immediately with no initial sales charge.

The IRA with the IQ.

Rather than lock up your IRA money in one type of investment, Hutton's "IRA with the IQ" lets you select your investment to take advantage of changing market conditions. So you will have more opportunities to maximize the growth of your retirement funds.

Three Roads to Retirement
Unlike many IRAs, Hutton's "IRA with the IQ" is three separate portfolios within one master investment program. So you can intelligently change your IRA investment from one series to another as often as you like to take advantage of changing market conditions.

Series 1—Short Term Investment Series
When short term interest rates are high, you may take advantage of them through investing in our short term investment series. This Fund invests in high quality, short term instruments.

Series 2—Bond and Income Series
When interest rates decline and the bond market rallies, you may participate in the Hutton Investment Series Bond and Income Fund. This fund invests in a portfolio of quality debt securities.

Series 3—Growth Series
Hutton Investment Series' Growth portfolio offers the opportunity to participate in a professionally managed, diversified portfolio of common stocks and convertible securities.

Management and Advice by a Name You Can Trust

You get E.F. Hutton's investment expertise when you enroll in our "IRA with the IQ." You also get your own personal E.F. Hutton Account Executive.

He or she can help the seasoned investor as well as the individual who has never made an investment before.

Send for Prospectus
Hutton Investment Series is unique. There are no initial sales charges. There is, however, a decreasing contingent fee if you redeem your shares before the end of six years. Send for the Prospectus which describes the management fee, distribution fee, contingent deferred sales charge, portfolio brokerage and other costs. Plus investment objectives and restrictions.

This constitutes neither an offer to sell nor the solicitation of an offer to buy. Offering available through Prospectus only. Be sure to read all material carefully before investing in funds.

A MODERN TRADITION, THE BRIDAL SHOWER

When an excited group of bridesmaids-to-be get together to have a shower, the least likely place to find them is in the bathroom.

They are more likely to be in one of their homes, preparing to surprise a lucky bride-to-be with a shower of gifts.

Bridal showers are meant to get the soon-to-be-wed woman off to a good start. Whether the shower adds to her trousseau, her linen closet or her kitchen cabinets, it is often one of the gayest parties to precede the wedding reception.

Showers are usually well-kept secrets, as half of the fun comes in surprising the bride. They may be small gatherings or all-out parties, depending on what the hostess decides.

A shower may occur at any time of day. Be it a brunch, an afternoon tea, an evening dinner or after-hours coffee and cake, the key is to plan it when the bride will least suspect it.

The shower is usually given by a member of the bridal party, a relative or a close friend. It is not considered proper for a member of the bride's immediate family to give the shower.

Shower gifts need not be extravagant or expensive. Rather, they should be helpful household necessities or other such items. The hostess may choose to give a theme to the shower—equipping the kitchen, filling the linen closet, armfuls of appliances, aids for the gardener—which helps make the gift selection easier.

Diamonds for the love that lasts!

"He loves me!" — That's what that beautiful sparkling diamond engagement ring says, observes the Jewelry Industry Council. And one of the most happy moments the engaged woman enjoys is showing her new ring to her friends. It's traditional, and it's all part of the "feminine mystique" — this sharing of joys with your closest friends.

This year, that scene will be enacted more than a million and a half times as new brides-to-be proudly exhibit their diamonds.

Time was when the typical diamond ring was round and, although that is still the most popular shape, couples today have a choice of round, or brilliant cut, emerald cut, boat-shaped or marquise, oval, or pear-shaped. In addition, some of the newest rings are set in a round shape with many small diamonds.

The average young man spends roughly two months' salary or more on a ring, and often the couple select the ring together at their favorite jeweler's.

Value of a specific diamond is based upon what the jewelry trade calls the 4 C's — meaning cut, color, clarity and carat weight. Clarity refers to the gem's freedom from internal cracks and tiny bubbles.

Diamonds can be kissed with a faint tinge of color: yellow, brown, green, blue or pink — but the preferred diamond is crystal clear as rain water. However while a touch of color may effect the diamond's price, it does not necessarily detract from its dazzling beauty.

Most important, of course, is that the diamond is the ideal symbol of lasting love. All the diamonds ever mined or to be mined were created eons ago during the earth's formative period, and still maintain their beauty and brilliance. True love, like diamonds, is everlasting, says the Council.

"GUESS WHAT! JOHN AND I ARE ENGAGED!" — It's one of life's happiest moments — sharing your good news with your best friend, and more than a million and a half young women will be doing exactly that in this coming year, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. More than 75 percent of first time brides receive a diamond engagement ring and more than 50 percent of second time brides also seal their engagement with a diamond.

Setting the mood for a scent-sational wedding

⑥ You've planned your special day carefully for months, confident that each detail and moment will be memorable and unforgettable. And to look and feel your absolute best, you should think ahead as well, and develop a luxurious skin-pampering beauty regimen — one that includes the special touch of fragrance.

Here, some head-to-toe tips from Paco Rabanne, makers of the fine Calandre Fragrance Collection, for the fresh, radiant bride you want to be.

- The night before, indulge in a refreshing, scented bath. Nothing will float away tension and fatigue more than a dip in a soothing swirl of rich, fragrant cleansing foam, one like Calandre Bath and Shower Gel. Its special blend of moisturizers and cleansing agents are delicately balanced to leave skin smooth, silky. And its distinctive, green and woody scent will linger long after your bath.

depending on your mood, you might want to consider these ideas:

- Let your bath work double-duty and treat your hair to a deep-penetrating conditioner, pluck your eyebrows, or apply a stimulating facial mask.
- Make a mental "to-do" list including last-minute details.
- Or, just plain relax with a soft, plump bath pillow, scented candles and romantic thoughts of your new life to come!
- When you step out of the tub, there are still more wonderful ways to feel good with fragrance. First, wrap yourself in a big, fluffy cotton towel and pat dry. Then "lock in" moisture and softness with a generous slather of Calandre Perfumed Body Milk all over — arms, legs, thighs — rough spots, too, like elbows and heels.

Calandre Body Milk is greaseless, weightless — sinks right in. It's as light and luscious as the fluffy frosting on your wedding cake! And, as your skin is softened and smoothed, you begin that all-important "layering" of fragrance that creates a long-lasting fragrance aura.

Epitome of romance

TRAVEL BACK TO THE PAST AND PLAY SCARLETT O'HARA to your groom's Rhett Butler in this antebellum-inspired gown of sheer polyester, impeccably designed with a sense of American heritage. This soft and timeless wedding gown gives you the dazzling sparkle you want on that special day. Scallop lace trims the stand-up collar and Schaffli embroidered net with frolicking flounce adorns the yoke. This traditional style bursts with modern vitality from a cascading baby lace ruffled-hemline, highlighted by bow accents at the side which form the chapel train.

Spring '83 weddings salute...

A new sense of romance, wonder

Fairy tales will be told anew this spring, according to a survey of bridal gown and wedding authorities. Handsome princes will meet their glowing princesses at the altars across America with a renewed faith in "happily-ever-aftering."

The number of brides-to-be searching for the perfect wedding gown has increased considerably over a few years ago, according to Michele Piccione, designer for the prestigious bridal gown house of Alfred Angelo.

"Bridal shops and salons report young women shopping early and with considerable taste," Piccione said. She believes that a new feeling of romance is indicated by the choice of wedding gown styles being selected.

"Women can be women again and they are choosing styles with feminine touches of embroidery, Alencon lace, delicate chantilly lace and lots of lovely detailing that is both flattering and very, very special."

Skirts and trains are fuller and longer. Bodices are trimmed with lace and can be softly revealing, off-the-shoulder demure.

Sleeves are soft and puffed. Organza and other sheers look prettiest in purest white or the newer antique ivory shadings in these classic ball gowns.

"There is no doubt that the Royal Wedding of 1981 has influenced bridal gown choices. The on-going American fascination with Diana, H.R.H. Princess of Wales is reflected in elegant wedding traditions which appear in almost every popular gown in the 1983 collections from Piccione, Alfred Angelo and Bridalure," comments Michele Piccione. "There is truly a renaissance of glamour and a reawakened spirit of wonder," she concludes.

It is refreshing to know that "weddings are bigger and better than ever." Romance is all about us if we only take the time to notice and acknowledge its warming and gentling presence in our lives. A toast to the bride and groom this Spring!

Trust a professional for treasured wedding photos

Why trust your once-in-a-lifetime wedding day to a once-in-a-while photographer. To get a treasured collection of wedding photographs, select a seasoned professional who has mastered the art of recreating a wedding day story in pictures. After the flowers have wilted, it's too late to restage the event if the pictures were disappointing.

Finding a professional photographer who understands your special needs takes a little effort. Begin your search early in the planning stages of your wedding, particularly if you plan to marry during the peak seasons of May/June or November/December.

Sources of information
A good place to start is with newly married friends and relatives. The Yellow Pages of your local telephone directory is also a good source of information.

Once you have compiled our list of potential candidates, you'll need to make an appointment to visit each studio to survey recent work and discuss cost and special packages available. According to a recent survey, fees generally range from $175 to $350.

Since there are significant differences in the quality of photographs, be sure to ask if the photographer uses Kodak paper for consistent, high-quality prints.

Advance planning
Once you've chosen your photographer, sit down and discuss all your plans and special needs. Ask advice on hair styles and makeup, the location of your photo session (some couples like to have their portraits made outdoors) and the number of prints you will want.

When you discuss prints, keep in mind the many ways they can be used. Small prints can be included with your thank you's as a memento for your guest and enlargements can be framed and used to decorate your home.

However you decide to use your finished photographs, remember that a professional photographer has the experience to capture the color, excitement and emotion of your day.

Next to the bride, who's the most important member of the wedding party?

On this day of memories, everyone is important of course. But there's one member of the party who really stands out from the crowd. Your photographer. And on this special occasion, not just any photographer will do. Great wedding photography demands experience, skill and sensitivity. To capture the bride's true beauty in formal portraits — or those fleeting moments after the ceremony. That's why thousands of brides throughout New England have relied on Miller Studio for over 30 years. Of course, Miller Studio's processing, printing and retouching are the finest. And our expert staff can assist you with a host of other wedding services too. But it's our photographers who make the real difference. Classic flatware sets a memorable table

Classic — it's a word heard by the bride and groom-to-be at least once a day. But classic has an important meaning for young couples happily facing a long life together, especially when it comes to table-top furnishings. The china, crystal and silverware patterns they choose at the beginning of that life will last for many years beyond.

"How can we tell whether or not a pattern is classic?" That question is often asked of bridal registrars by young couples. Veronica Williams, the bridal consultant for Reed & Barton Silversmiths, explains.

"A classic pattern is one that never goes out of style. The shell, the acanthus leaf, the 'Chippendale flair' — all these designs have survived their initial period of popularity for decades and even centuries.

"Some of them are given modern interpretations, while others, like that of 'Winterthur,' Reed & Barton's newest silverplated flatware pattern, are reproductions of pieces from famous museums and antique collections.

"'Winterthur' is a good example of the way a classic design lives on," says Mrs. Williams. "The fiddle-shaped handle is reproduced from an early nineteenth century fork on display in Henry Francis Du Pont's renowned Winterthur Museum collection.

"Similar patterns, using the shell motif, have been popular in silver work since the early 1700s. And Reed & Barton has consistently used the shell in at least one of its flatware patterns for almost one hundred years.

"Many couples are afraid of the word 'reproduction,'" remarks Mrs. Williams. "They think it means something cheap or poorly made. The truth is, if they spend a little time and care choosing reproduction pieces, they needn't be concerned about poor quality or craftsmanship. And, with a reproduction, they can be assured of a classic."

Mrs. Williams offers a few hints to young couples selecting a flatware pattern: • Preferences. Decide first if you like intricate, richly ornamented patterns or simple, elegant lines. Does your pattern choice blend well with your china and crystal preferences?

• Authenticity. Most classic patterns are based on designs first introduced centuries ago. Modern versions of these patterns should be accurate in their portrayal of the originals.

• Detail. Any flatware pattern, from stainless to sterling, should be finely detailed. Look carefully at individual pieces in the patterns you like. Are the shells or roses well-defined?

Are handles evenly formed and fork tines smooth and straight? If the handle is outlined with a thread or beading, is it strong and evenly placed along the edge?

The way you set your table says a lot about your personality and preferences.

Men are April when they woo, December when they wed; maids are May when they are mads, but the sky changes when they are wives.

—William Shakespeare

Cultured pearls, cherished for centuries, reflect bride's radiance

A strand of cultured pearls adds a glowing touch to bridal attire. Brilliantly rich cultured pearls enhance the radiant bride's beauty on her wedding day as they always add a lustrous focal point to her outfit whenever they are worn.

In the future, the shimmering strand of cultured pearls will be loaned to a soon-to-be-wed sister, niece or cousin who'll appreciate the thoughtfulness for something "old" and "borrowed" to complete her wedding attire.

Cherished for centuries, the precious pearl has been woven into numerous tales regarding its everlasting beauty and value.

The ancient Greeks believed that Aphrodite, the goddess of love and beauty, was born like a pearl out of a shell that was washed up from the sea. According to Roman mythology, Venus, the goddess of love, was born in a similar fashion.

In the East, the pearl represented love, gentleness, purity and compassion — a tradition carried into every part of the civilized world.

Throughout history, royal women decorated themselves in pearls. Queen Nephretete of Egypt went to her wedding practically covered with pearls. Elizabeth I entwined pearls in her hair, wore them as necklaces and had them embroidered into her robes.

Today, cultured pearl jewelry adorns many public figures. Princess Diana often wears a long, knotted rope of cultured pearls. Nancy Reagan complements her dresses with shorter princess length or choker styles.

Cultured pearls, the prized gems of eternal beauty, are worn by many women today who consider their elegance and versatility a valuable investment.

In 1982, the most popular cultured pearl jewelry appeared to be necklaces composed of uniform 5mm-6mm cultured pearls. A trend towards purchase of longer necklaces, 24 to 30 inches in length, to complement the leaner look of current fashions, also seems prevalent.

If you don't already own cultured pearl jewelry, why not purchase a strand of cultured pearls for your dreamed-about wedding day? Consider the neckline of the bridal gown when choosing an appropriate style:

High, round necklines can be adorned with either multiple strand "dog collars" or the classic single strand choker.

The most formal look would be a matinee or opera length necklace falling softly over the bosom; this style is equally alluring with a high-standing collar.

Deeper, scooped necklines are most luxurious with a bib of several strands of pearls falling from the base of the throat to the top of the gown's neckline.

For a final touch, wear a delicate pair of cultured pearl earrings or, if your sleeves permit, a simple single or double strand cultured pearl bracelet.

Calling all brides!

Today you see more and more people shopping in the supermarkets with a wad of redeemable coupons.

Shopping with coupons has gone beyond saving a few cents. Rising supermarket prices have made it a necessity, but have you ever wondered how profitable it can be?

You may be a casual coupon clipper but, for many people, refunding has become a profitable home business which they run from the kitchen table.

Top refunders can save up to 90 percent of their grocery bill each month. If their grocery bill is $500 each month and they receive $450 in refunds, they are receiving $450 clear.

Being a supershopper means knowing how to get the coupons we're all so familiar with mailed to your door. It also means knowing how to get information on loads of manufacturers' refund offers which we're not so familiar with.

Foodmaster Publications has published a report which reveals, in step-by-step form, all the methods used by these supershoppers.

Foodmaster also provides a For information on this report, send a self-addressed stamped (long) envelope along with $3.00 to Consumer Service Associates, Dept. M., P.O. Box 9, Orangeburg, NY 10962.

Attention to detail makes brides perfect

Careful planning has always made for the most beautiful and memorable weddings. Attending to details is part of the pleasure for the smart bride. Alfred Angelo Bridals has created marvelous calendars and bridal planners that make the planning so much simpler, with built-in check-lists and references.

Required reading

The best book on the subject is Your Wedding, How To Plan and Enjoy It by Nancy Piccione and published by Random House. Michele Piccione, designer of magnificent wedding gowns for Alfred Angelo, says, "The bride must be aware of the vital importance of choosing accessories to complete the picture she wants to make for a memorable wedding day."

Organize!

She suggests that you make a list of what you think makes a complete ensemble, FRILLY ACCESSORIES to complete bridal attire by Tina Michele, a division of Alfred Angelo.

and then discuss it with your bridal consultant. The list should include (from the top, down) headpiece or hat and veil, gloves, the item or items you wish to carry — flowers, parasol, fan — then, crinolines, hosiery, and shoes. (Almost all can be found with the "Tina Michele" label.)

A beautiful gown requires the right crinoline to give it the desired shape and fullness. Ms. Piccione advises brides to select their headpieces when they choose their gown. Alfred Angelo gowns all have a beautifully coordinated headpiece.

Finishing touches

A garter is important at many weddings (as is a pillow for your ring bearer!). What a grand feeling to walk down the aisle knowing every detail is perfect.

Hints for selecting maids gowns

It is your wedding and you want to be the prettiest you have ever been. The bride is entitled to be the star of her special day, and your wedding party will echo and reflect your radiance with total complacency, making a perfect picture.

Expert advice

Michele Piccione, of Alfred Angelo, leading designer of classic and beautiful wedding gowns, offers these tips on your decision making.

- The bride should always select her gown and accessories first. The other dresses should have the same feeling as to style, period and over-all look.

- The bride's mother's dress should be selected next in sequence, and the groom's mother.

Many bridal salons offer a wide range of attractive styles for the mother. Shop together to try on a variety of styles.

- Choose a favorite color as the accent of your wedding and this should be a major consideration of your planning. Color is a key to the mothers' dresses, attendants' gowns, and the formal wear of the groom and his men.

- You select the flowers and when you visit your florist, take in a photo of the attendants' gowns as well as your own. Some flowers wash out against certain colors, and others might be garish.

- Shoes, hosiery, gloves and even crinolines needn't be left to chance. Some of these items make lovely and personal gifts to give your "supporting cast," prior to the wedding day!

Michele Piccione's last suggestion is the best: select your attendants with love and they will return the favor many times over — being their prettiest for you.

On Athletic Scholarship

Karen Bridges Heading For Merrimack

Karen Bridges, 6-foot-1 all-star center from North Quincy High, verbally agreed last week to attend Merrimack College in the fall on an athletic scholarship.

A Suburban League all-star center this season, Bridges is the fourth recruit to decide to enter Merrimack.

"Karen should be an instant contributor to the Merrimack women's basketball team next season," said Coach Marcia Hochman. "She'll help us where we really need help—underneath. We think Karen will give us some solid board strength that was often missing this past season."

The Warriors finished with a disappointing 5-16 record this season, the first year of a three-year transition from Division 3 to the more competitive Div. 2.

Bridges was a three-year varsity basketball player and a two-year starter at North Quincy. As co-captain this season she led the Raiderettes in rebounding, averaging 10 a game, and field goal percentage, hitting 55 percent of her shots. She was second to Chris Choukas in scoring with 10.7 points a game. She also led North in rebounding as a junior.

Karen suffered a fractured wrist this season and North Coach Paul Bregoli feels this was a major factor in the Raiderettes missing by one win of qualifying for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the third year in a row. North finished 11-6.

"I feel sure we would have made the tournament if Karen hadn't been injured," Bregoli said. "She missed two games and then saw only limited action in a couple more."

"She's a great offensive rebounder and a high percentage shooter because most of her shots come from underneath. I think she'll be a better college than high school player. She's a real worker and really came on strong at the end of the season."

Bridges established a school record with 31 points in her final game, a 59-45 win over Whitman-Hanson. She was 12-for-16 from the floor and 7-of-8 from the foul line.

Last summer she was named the outstanding player at the Championship Basketball School at Mass. Maritime Academy. She is also a fine student, ranking in the top 10 percent of her class, and was captain of this year's volleyball team.

South Shore YMCA Aquathon Runathon March 26-27

The South Shore YMCA will hold its annual Aquathon-Runathon Saturday, March 26, 9 a.m. through 9 p.m. and Sunday, March 27 from 7 a.m. through 5 p.m.

Purpose of the Aquathon-Runathon is to help sponsor needy youngsters to "Y" Camps, support on-going YMCA programs, and support of YMCA World Service. Participants entry forms may be obtained at the YMCA Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A minimum total of $5. is required to participate.

Any person who does not wish to swim or run, but wants to help the YMCA with its goal, may sponsor a "Y" Staff person to swim or run in his or her place. All contributions are tax deductible.

Call 479-8500 for further information, or pick up forms at the "Y".

YMCA Gym Team Takes 2nd Spot In State Meet

The South Shore YMCA Class III and II gymnastics teams took part in the state championships last Sunday in Holyoke and the Class III team finished second. It placed third in the compulsory category.

Vanessa MacDonald took first place on floor exercise with a high 9.25 score and Nicole Manton took fourth in the same event at 8.8. Jennifer Rafferty took sixth at 6.7.

MacDonald took third on balance beam at 6.6 and Maureen Furey was fourth at 6.25.

Rafferty was sixth in vaulting and MacDonald took fourth on uneven bars with a 5.35.

MacDonald took fourth in all-around, a fine finish for this 11-year-old first-year gymnast.

In the Class II competition Julie Killian was second on uneven bars with a combined total of 16.8 and took fifth in vaulting at 17.15. She was fifth in all-around.

Both teams are now awaiting the regionals in April. The competition will take place in New York with two days of compulsory and optional competition. Manton, Rafferty, MacDonald and Furey will represent the Y in Class III and Killian and Patti Novak in Class II.

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team won the state championship, defeating Randolph, 2-1. Mark Kelleher had the Quincy goal in regulation with assists for Burn and Billy Lydon. Finally, at 4:05 of the fifth overtime Morris took a fine pass from Burn and scored the winner.

In its opener Quincy blanked Danvers, 4-0, with Joey Bevilacqua scoring two goals and Sal Manganaro and Jeremy Burn one each. Jeff Freeman, Mike Lally, Greg Hohman and John Grennon had assists.

Quincy then downed Everett, 5-2, with Bevilacqua and Manganaro scoring two goals each and Bobby Scott the other. Burn, Jason Radzevich, John Witham, Hohman, Lally and Scott had assists.

Quincy followed up with a 3-1 decision over Waltham in the quarterfinals. Quincy trailed, 1-0, with six minutes left in the game when Bevilacqua tied it up. Kelly Morris scored the game-winner with 3:13 left and Manganaro had the insurance goal. Hohman, Radzevich, David Mellyn and Jimmy McCarthy had assists.

In the semifinals Quincy

had two five overtime periods before edging Randolph, 2-1. Mark Kelleher had the Quincy goal in regulation with assists for Burn and Billy Lydon. Finally, at 4:05 of the fifth overtime Morris took a fine pass from Burn and scored the winner.

In the title game Hohman had a hat trick and Radzevich and Morris having one goal each. Bevilacqua assisted on each of Hohman's goals and Freeman, Manganaro and Lally also had assists.

Goalies Richie Brooks and Freddie Regan allowed only six goals in the five games. Coach Sonny Pugliese described it as a "complete team effort" but had special praise for McCarthy, Witham, Lally and Grennon.

Quincy's Pee Wee and Bantam B teams also won state championships. It is believed the Quincy Youth Hockey Association is the first youth hockey group to ever win three state titles.

Quincy Falls To Coyle In Hoop Tourney

Led by guards Red Maver and Warren Broberg, the Quincy High School basketball team opened up a 16-11 lead at halftime and then fell apart to lose, 37-25, to Coyle of Taunton in the semifinals of the Southeastern Mass Secondary Principals' Tournament.

The Presidents were holding their own, trailing 26-25, early in the fourth period when Maver fouled out of the game and Coyle came on with a rush of 11 straight points, seven of them by John Henchy, who had been held scoreless in the first half.

Broberg wound up with eight points and Maver seven for the Munroe MacLean-coached team.

NORTH BOWS, 48-36

With Capt. Tom Underwood and Bernie Killaran playing under wraps with the flu, the North Quincy High School basketball team wound up its season with a 48-36 loss to New Bedford, which was warming up for an appearance in the Tech Tourney.

Henry Hibbard, a reserve forward, took over Underwood's role as the team's top scorer with 16 points while Tiny Porter, a senior guard who was playing his last game for the Raiders had the best night of his career with 10 points.

The North Quincy lineup included: Killaran, Simpson, Hibbard, Cooke, forwards; Underwood, Sheppard, centers; Porter, Dowling, guards.

COOKE FOUL WINS

Pete Cooke was slammed to the floor while attempting a last minute layup but recovered and sank the game-winning free throw with seconds remaining to give the North Quincy Alumni a 45-44 victory over the Quincy Chips.

The North Quincy lineup included: Cooke, Reilly, Cummings, Johnson, forwards; Pendergast, center; McCutcheon, DeVries, Leith, guards.

Coach Gilbert (Crum) Crofts' Quincy YMCA basketball team failed to convert 11 out of 21 free throw attempts and the Big Red Team was eliminated from the Two-State Tournament by way of a 40-36 loss to Lynn.

Mando Reggiannini broke away for four straight baskets late in the fourth period to lift the Quincy High School basketball team to a 33-27 victory over Weymouth . . . Capt. Ernie Schwotzer of the Boston College Cotton Bowl football team was honored at the fourth annual sports night of the Brookside CC . . . Johnny Iovanna and Al Taylor battled to a draw in a wrestling bout refereed by Fred Sisti . . . Bob Bradley was the only Quincy competitor to pin his opponent as the Quincy High School wrestling team nosed out Needham, 17-16, to clinch at least a tie for first place in the league . . . Guido (Buddie) Pettinelli scored two quick baskets to clinch for Point a 14-13 victory over South and win the Junior High School League title for the sixth straight year . . . Paul Wolf, an all star tackle at Quincy High School in 1938, was out for spring football practice at The Citadel in South Carolina . . . 22-year-old Milt Schmidt scored the 50th goal of his career to lead the Boston Bruins to a 7-2 decision over the New York Americans . . . Lena DiCesare, Rita Crotty and Helen Spadorcia of St. John's were chosen to the all star team for the Sunday School Girls' Basketball League . . . A one-handed shot from mid-court by Jimmy Milne with five seconds left in overtime gave Bethany a 39-37 victory over Quincy Point Congregational in the championship game of the Sunday School Basketball League playoffs . . . Steve Davis of Somerville pinned Bey Seylemas, the Praying Turk, in the feature bout of a benefit show for Charlie Pappas, the physical culturist, at Quincy Arena . . . George C. North Girls Track Team In 'Big Surprise' Season

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track team, which had been devastated by graduation after winning three successive Suburban League titles and three straight state championships, surpassed all expectations this winter and was one of the state's big surprises.

With only two seniors, Linda Kennedy and Sheila Barrett, the young Raiderettes, with underclassmen doing a superb job, had their 32-meet unbeaten streak snapped in their second league meet by Weymouth South, then won the rest of their league meets, finishing at 7-1.

Given virtually no chance in the state meet, the North girls turned in a surprising performance in losing to heavily-favored Falmouth, 40-37, leading until the final two events.

"This was just a superb showing, as no one gave us any chance at all," Coach Lou Tozzi said. "Falmouth was supposed to be in Class B but received permission to move up. If it had stayed in B, we would have won our fourth straight state Class A title."

"We were an underdog, a longshot at best because of the many graduation losses, but the girls were just terrific and this was truly a Cinderella team."

"The two outstanding seniors, Linda Kennedy and Sheila Barrett, literally carried this team on their shoulders, but we had so many new people rise to the occasion that it became an enjoyable overall team effort. It was really a delight to coach these girls."

North had lost 13 seniors, including six all-scholastics and one All-American from last year's state champions. In their first meet the Raiderettes upset league favorite Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 44-42, winning the relay with Lisa Fitzgerald, Sheila Barrett, Meg Leary and Julie Alibrandi, to clinch the meet.

They then had their 32-meet unbeaten streak with their first loss in four years, 48-38, to undefeated league champion Weymouth South. Again the meet was decided by the relay with Weymouth's brilliant Liz O'Connor coming from behind for a close win. Weymouth's time was 4:26.3, North's 4:27.0.

North then won three in a row, 63-21 over Waltham, 52-34 over Brookline and 51-35 over Weymouth North.

"There were excellent performances by our new, young people and veterans Marie McGill, Georgia Traficante, Tracey Corrigan and Lisa Reynolds," said Tozzi. "Barrett ran a league fastest 1000 of 2:51.1."

Next came the state coaches' meet at Harvard and the two-mile relay team of Corrigan, Mary Ann Kelleher, Kennedy and Alibrandi set a meet record of 9:41. Kennedy ran an outstanding anchor leg as North edged Seekonk by 28 seconds.

Barrett and Traficante won medals, Barrett setting a school record of 5:07.8 in the mile, good for fifth place, and Traficante placing sixth in the high jump at 5-4.

North defeated Brockton, 51-35, with Kennedy running the league's fastest two-mile of 11:32.

"Our younger girls were getting experience and coming of age and among the new faces making a major contribution were Kelleher, Leary, Fitzgerald, outstanding freshmen shot putter Noreen Connolly, Joanne Zdanowski and Jean O'Hare, all freshmen or sophomores," Tozzi said.

In beating Newton North, 52-33, McGill set a school record in the hurdles of 7.5 and Connolly reached a season's high of 34-4 in the shot. Kennedy and Barrett remained undefeated.

In the state relays at Boston University the Raiderettes placed third. Connolly, Denise Shields and Michelle Palmer placed fifth in the shot put, Traficante, McGill, Janet Zdanowski and Lori McGrath took fifth in the hurdles. Fitzgerald, Alibrandi, Kennedy and Barrett placed third in the 4 x 440 relay with the best time of the year, 4:09.3, and Kelleher, Alibrandi, Corrigan and Kennedy won the 4 x 880 relay in 9:37, beating Reading by 39 seconds.

"In this meet we suffered what looked like our fourth major injury of the year when Sheila Barrett suffered a strained arch," Tozzi said. "Earlier we had lost Mary Gannon, an outstanding senior 600-yarder and relayist, for the year, Diane Lindenfelzer, a fine sophomore distance runner, for the year and Leary, a fine sophomore middle distance runner, for four meets."

North rolled over Quincy, 67-10, in its final league meet, going exclusively with the younger people. Every single member of the squad placed at least once in a meet.

Kennedy and Barrett finished undefeated and Kennedy lost only one dual meet in four years.

Dianne Flynn, Gannon, Andrea Gelsomini, Cindy Olsen, Monika Reilly, Reynolds, Nancy Wildes and Janet Zdanowski, all seniors and three-year veterans, finished their careers with a record of 37-1-1.

"The state meet was the highlight of the season but also the biggest disappointment," said Tozzi.

"Kelleher made a surprising third place finish in the two-mile in a school record 11:09.4 and Corrigan was a surprise sixth in the same race in 11:40.2, her best time by 35 seconds. Then, when Alibrandi and Fitzgerald scored even more points between them in the 600, we were the meet's early leader."

Kennedy then shocked meet favorite, Tricia Cullinane of Falmouth, by easily winning the 1000 in a fine 2:41 and Barrett placed sixth in the mile in 5:15, coming back from an injury, and North led Falmouth and Beverly by three points with two events left.

Traficante was third in the high jump at 4-2. Falmouth's Roxanne Bolton won and going into the relay Falmouth had 32 points, North 31 and the other 44 teams were out of the running.

"We ran an excellent 4:10.1 with Fitzgerald's superb 60.2 anchor leg just missing overhauling Falmouth's Liz Gumbert for second place and the title. Falmouth was the heavy favorite and our showing surprised everyone," Tozzi said.

"We were so proud of this team. They had a lot to prove and were under a great deal of pressure because of our previous successes, but they proved that motivation and positive attitude can go a long way in high school sports."

"My fine assistant coaches, Geoff Hennessy and Mike Burke, did a fantastic job. They deserve most of the credit for our fine showing."

Tozzi is taking a leave of absence from coaching and will not coach the spring team. He wants to devote full time to his new job as coordinator of special education for the Quincy public schools.

Costa's Late Goal Gives Beau's 4-3 Win

Don Costa scored with 10 seconds left in the game from Bob Carroll to give Beau's Place a 4-3 victory over Dayce's Place in the Executive Hockey League Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Costa also scored the first goal and the others were scored by Jack Hurley and Jim Lawrence. Ken Gardiner, Lawrence and Hurley had assists. Bill Sweeney, Dick McCabe and Jack Valle scored for Dayce's with assists for Valle, Doug McLean and Sweeney.

Ed Lenihan exploded for four goals and Mark Matanis had a hat trick as Luke's Lounge topped Adams Sports, 8-3. Kevin Sullivan scored the other goal. Ed Grogan, John McNeil, Lee Staskyvic and Rich Gibbs had two assists each and Mike Owings one. Dennis O'Connell scored twice and Bob Murray once for Adams with assists for Murray and Kevin Glynn.

Budget Rent-A-Car and Grogan's Business Machines played to a 3-3 tie. Harry Bertoni, Chuck Behenna and Steve Martin scored for Budget and Bertoni and Joe Verlicco had assists. John Emmott, Ed Dwyer and Marty Tolson scored for Grogan's with Tolson, Bernie Toland and Kevin Grogan having assists.

Somersault Gym Teams Shine In Attleboro

The Class III and IV girls' gymnastics teams from the Somersault Center in North Quincy recently traveled to Attleboro and made a fine showing against the Martin Gym School.

Jody Trafon placed first in the three events she entered in Class IV. Tricia Fontecchio and Emily Doyle tied for second place in floor exercise and Shannon Mellor placed fourth on balance beam.

The Class III girls have come on strong. Joanne Ryan, Debbie McArdle and Lori Breen tried the all-around for the first time and Lori and Debbie placed in the top five.

Erin Connolly, improving each week, scored 7.4 in vaulting. Amy Johnson looked good on floor exercise and Marianne Janik had the best routing of the day on beam. Carolyn Janik looked good in vaulting and Allyson Lawrence showed improvement on beam.

Katie Doyle worked hard on uneven bars and had a fine routine. Sally Donovan broke into the 8's for the first time in vaulting and Kathy Johnson continued to improve and her tumbling was impressive.

Atty. Frances Burns Named To State Ethics Commission

Secretary of State Michael Joseph Connolly has appointed Atty. Frances Burns of Quincy to a five-year term on the Massachusetts State Ethics Commission.

Burns replaces Brandeis University President Marver Bernstein whose term has expired.

"I take great pride in the selection of Fran Burns to serve on the State Ethics Commission," Connolly said. "Fran's unimpeachable personal and professional integrity and her wealth of practical experience in both the classroom and the courtroom are ideally suited to this important position."

"I am confident that she will make a valuable contribution to the Ethics Commission in the years ahead."

For the past four years, Miss Burns, 33, has been a clinical instructor and Director of the Prosecutor Program at Boston University School of Law, where she has been part of a four-person team teaching Trial Advocacy and Massachusetts Criminal Practice and Procedure. Burns' responsibilities further include the training and in-court supervision of third year law students prosecuting cases in the Quincy District Court and the Norfolk County six-person jury session.

Previously she was an assistant district attorney for Suffolk County from 1973 to 1978. During that period, she prosecuted approximately 200 cases, including 12 homicides and numerous felonies involving rape, robbery and arson.

She received her law degree from Boston College Law School in 1973 and her bachelors degree from Regis College in 1970. She has been a member of the Massachusetts Association of Women Lawyers since 1978.

Established in 1978, the State Ethics Commission is an independent agency of state government responsible for the administration and enforcement of the state's conflict of interest and financial disclosure laws. The Commission issues advisory opinions to individuals covered by the laws, renders decisions and orders following adjudicatory hearings, conducts preliminary inquiries and full investigations into alleged violations, and authorizes disposition agreements in cases when there is reasonable cause to believe a violation has occurred.

Three members of the Ethics Commission are appointed by the Governor, one by the Attorney General, and one by the Secretary of State. The members serve staggered five year terms.

Professional Chef's Training Program At Skills Center

Applications are now being accepted for enrollment in a unique "Professional Chef's Training Program" to be offered at the Quincy Skills Training Center in North Quincy beginning April 25.

The intensive 22-week federally funded training program, meeting weekdays from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. is designed to provide students with the necessary proficiency in the fundamentals of commercial cooking techniques in order to successfully enter the hotel, restaurant, and food service industry at beginning or intermediate levels.

The instructor of the course, Alan Paret, is an experienced chef and former restaurateur with 15 years experience in the industry. According to Paret the U.S. Department of Labor states that there will be 86,000 cooks and chef's jobs in the next decade, almost double the openings that occurred in the last 10 years.

On a local level this projection is supported by the opening or planned opening of 10 new hotels in Boston alone. Paret points out that an evaluation of this course's previous performance shows that it has served 121 individuals of which 93 graduates were placed in local food service establishments.

Applicants interested in this program, who are unemployed and who live in one of the following communities: Braintree, Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Marshfield, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Randolph, Rockland, Scituate, Weymouth, should apply before April 8 at the Quincy Skills Training Center at 11 Hayward Street, North Quincy. Interested applicants residing in other communities must apply through their local CETA office.

For further information call Alan Paret or John Spears at 328-7300.

Planning for a financially secure retirement and finding a way to reduce your taxes are growing concerns for everyone. Especially when you consider the state of our troubled Social Security system. But help is as close as your nearest Hancock Bank.

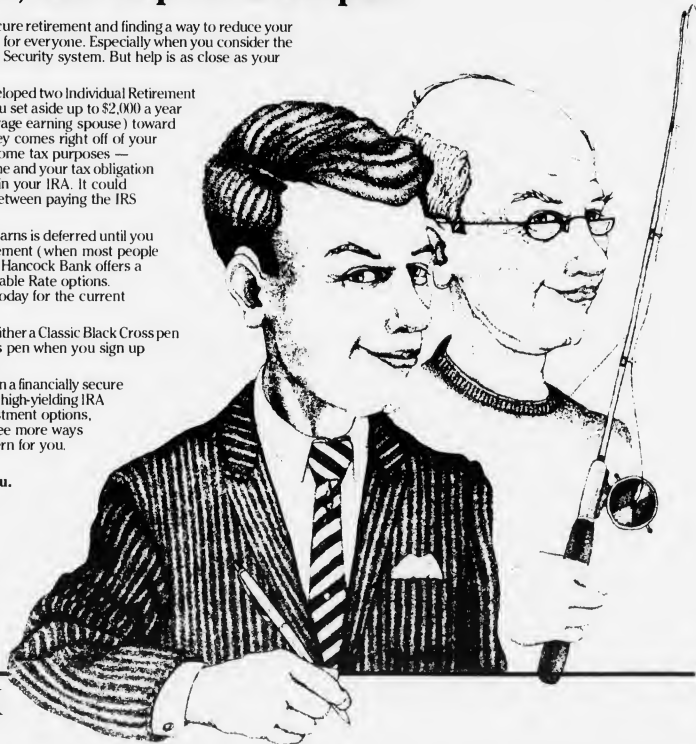

Our professionals have developed two Individual Retirement Account plans. Each lets you set aside up to $2,000 a year ($2,250 if you have a non-wage earning spouse) toward your retirement. That money comes right off of your total earned income for income tax purposes — reducing your taxable income and your tax obligation every year you put money in your IRA. It could even make the difference between paying the IRS and getting a refund!

Plus, the interest your IRA earns is deferred until you claim your account at retirement (when most people are in a lower tax bracket). Hancock Bank offers a choice of Fixed Rate or Variable Rate options. Call your Hancock Banker today for the current interest rates.

You have one more choice: either a Classic Black Cross pen or a beautiful Chrome Cross pen when you sign up and deposit your first $500.

Expert advice to help you plan a financially secure retirement, the flexibility of a high-yielding IRA with two tax-sheltered investment options, and a free Cross pen — three more ways we show our growing concern for you.

No Complaints of Civil Rights Violations Here Bellotti Says

Atty. Gen. Francis Bellotti says no complaints of violations of civil rights occurring in Quincy during the past eight years have been filed with the Division of Civil Rights and Liberties attached to his office.

Bellotti made the statement in a rare half hour television interview in his office on the 20th floor of the McCormack Office Building, Boston. The interview was conducted by John Noonan, host of Cable Talk, the public affairs Quincy Community Television program, and will be aired tonight (Thursday) at 9 p.m. on Cable TV and rebroadcast Sunday March 20 at 10 p.m.

Bellotti, a longtime resident of Quincy, was responding to a question asked by Noonan concerning charges that Quincy is a racist city and that there have been discriminatory practices occurring in violation of civil rights of individuals.

The Division of Civil Rights and Liberties, established by state law initiates affirmative action litigation on behalf of citizens, citizen groups, agencies and departments of the state in matters involving constitutional protections and defends government agencies in cases which raise constitutional issues.

Bellotti also discusses a variety of other topics and responsibilities of the Attorney General's office with Noonan during the interview.

Assisting in filming and producing the interview were Bob Gohl, Tom Fahey, and Bob Brennan.

Richard Rizzo In New TV Series

Richard Rizzo, son of Mrs. Micky Rizzo, 87 Sumner St., Quincy Point, recently completed filming on "The American Times," a new television series.

In the series, Rizzo portrays George Eastman, the founder of Kodak films and cameras.

The series is scheduled to air this Fall in syndication.

Rizzo can also be seen as the head waiter in the penthouse party scene in the hit film, "Footsie," with Dustin Hoffman.

A 1961 graduate of Quincy High School, Rizzo frequently appears on ABC's Daytime series, "All My Children."

He recently acted in a commercial for WJZ-TV in Baltimore.

Sixteen Day Italian Pilgrimage, July 11-26, 1983

St. John the Baptist Parish is offering a Pilgrimage in connection with The Holy Year, led by Father Daniel M. Graham. The trip will leave Boston on Monday, July 11th and return Tuesday, July 26th. Rome-Boston.

There will be five days in Rome, where Fr. Graham will celebrate Mass for the group in St. Peter's Basilica; a Papal visit and then visits to the following cities:

Florence, Venice, Milan, Assisi, Pompeii, Sorrento and Capri

We will be staying at first class hotels, and breakfast and dinner is included each day. We will have an air conditioned motor coach with an English speaking guide throughout.

Cost of trip includes Air Fare, Hotels, Transfers, Taxes, Tips and Meals as previously mentioned.

Price: $1,499.00 per person, based on double occupancy, plus $7.00 airport departure tax.

Reservations will be accepted in order received. The trip will be limited to 40 people. A deposit of $100 per person should accompany your reservation form.

This trip should be a most enjoyable and memorable experience, providing great benefit to those who participate, and can be a spiritually enriching vacation.

If interested, please fill out form below and mail to Fr. Graham at The Rectory, 21 Gay Street, Quincy, Ma. 02169.

I am interested in going on the trip to Italy July 11th thru 26th.

WEEK OF: MARCH 17

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Domestic dispute can get out of hand unless you're willing to make important compromises. Good week for launching fitness program, learning a new skill, balancing your budget.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Favorite person is surprisingly reserved through the weekend, offering you chance to develop a new interest. Self help household tasks can prove more than you bargained for.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Arrange family powwow before making any financial sacrifices. Higherup can be making unrealistic demands on your time - don't be a martyr. Out-of-town friend may be moving close by.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Written agreements can be misleading - don't sign documents on impulse and resist pressure tactics. Romance accents a conservative, even businesslike approach.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Transportation poses minor headaches from Thursday through the weekend, but communication difficulties are easing up. Home improvement plans and legal matters are favored.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Reclusive friend perks up and is able to deliver on promises. Try a new angle in getting others to see point of view - appeal to logic rather than to emotions.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Active Leo can find this a quiet week, yet it's actually eventful. Behind the scenes happenings are leading to advances in realms of romance and education.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Experimenting is the keyword in areas of wardrobe and decor. Try an all-new approach, too, if attempting to win a client or resurgent a relationship. Charisma is a great asset.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Friendships new and old dominate the week, and a chance to improve your lifestyle opens up by Wednesday. Long range goals are accentuated over short-term achievement.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

In romance, accent is on sharing ideas, plans and some secrets. In career, the key is to make yourself accessible. From a financial point of view, enthusiasm for a hobby may be unrealistic.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Draw on personal resources to bring about changes in relationships and achieve academic success. Travel plans may be back to the drawing board - perhaps a hobby could be companion drops out.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Skills improvement is a key to financial successes. Enjoyable events take place on home ground. Travel is related to obligations. Awaited information may arrive Tuesday-Wednesday.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're wonderfully adaptable, a handy trait this year of extremes. Till September, personal life ranges from hushed to lively; financial state has more ups and downs than a yo-yo. Careerwise, become more precise, less vague in expressing goals and opinions.

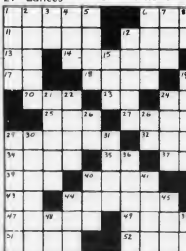

BORN THIS WEEK

K-9 Corps Talks Postponed

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday he plans to wait until Police Chief Francis X. Finn returns from sick leave before discussing the possible return of the Police K-9 Corps.

Finn, who had the dogs stricken from the police rolls as an economy move two years ago, has been out since late December recovering from quadruple heart bypass surgery.

A resolve calling for the return of the K-9 Corps was passed by the City Council March 7 but McCauley said he felt it would not be proper to discuss the matter with an acting chief. Finn is due to be ready for duty once again shortly after April 1.

Mayoral Run In 1985

Sheets Bows Out Of QJC Race

By TOM HENSHAW

James A. Sheets, who has pursued the dual role of teacher and politician for the past decade, has withdrawn his name as a candidate for president of Quincy Junior College.

He said there is a "very real possibility" he will run for mayor in 1985.

Sheets said in a statement that he prefers to remain a teacher at the college and "pursue an expanded leadership role" in the political life of the city.

He has been a professor of government at QJC since 1963, head of the department since 1966 and a member of the City Council since 1974.

"This was the hardest decision I ever made professionally," said Sheets.

Sheets, who was one of four finalists for the presidency, made the decision known in a letter, dated March 21, to Toby Felton, assistant to the president of the college.

Asked to expand on his "expanded leadership" statement, Sheets said:

"There is a good possibility I will run for mayor in the near future but not in 1983. There is not enough time to organize and I still have family concerns."

"I will be free to make a decision in 1985 and there is a very real possibility I will run for mayor then."

Sheets, who will be 48 in June, has four children: Kim, a senior at Eastern Nazarene College; Jim, a college freshman; Tad, a high school senior; and Luke, 10.

"By 1985," he said,

JAMES A. SHEETS

they will have reached a certain level in their lives where I will be free to get involved in an intensive effort for mayor."

He said he has not yet made a firm decision on 1985.

"Much depends on the political issues then and the job that the mayor is doing. The litmus test is, could I do a better job? If I feel I could then I'll be a candidate."

In a statement issued along with his withdrawal letter, Sheets said:

"Over the years, as an instructor at Quincy Junior College, I have had the privilege to make a vital contribution to the lives of many young people."

"Everywhere on the South Shore I meet young people I have helped in some way. I choose not to give up this role which means so much to me."

"I have enjoyed serving the people of Ward 4 and Quincy as a city councillor and state representative, and I plan to pursue an expanded leadership role in this area."

"In the next decade it will be extremely difficult for all privately funded colleges and universities, including Quincy Junior College."

"It is critical that the leadership of the college be unified and of one mind."

"Given the unique governance structure at QJC, where power is shared by president and superintendent, there is a potential for that leadership to become dysfunctional."

"My relationship with the superintendent has always been cordial and good. It will remain so. However, this would be a difficult condition under which to work."

"It is my hope everyone will get behind the new president, whoever he or she might be and help make QJC what everyone wants it to be."

Sheets' withdrawal leaves three contestants in the race for the presidency. The final round of interviews by a Presidential Search Committee began Tuesday.

$27,000 Profit Seen In Validated Parking

The city of Quincy expects to come out at least $27,000 a year ahead in the financial column once Kinney Systems takes over management of city-owned parking lots in the downtown area.

The profit motive was one of the big guns to be wheeled out in support of validated parking at a City Council hearing into Mayor Francis X. McCauley's proposal Tuesday night.

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, who has been deeply involved in downtown parking for the past year, explains the finances like this:

- Projected revenue from metered parking in the downtown sections before validated parking is $247,000, minus $30,000 utility costs.

After validation, the city will get:

- $103,000 in meter receipts from on-street parking and the UDAG garage, which alone will contribute $65,000.

- $44,000 in an incremental increase by raising meter fees from 10 cents to 25 cents an hour.

- $30,000 utility costs that will be picked up by Kinney.

- $67,000 in basic rent from Kinney.

In addition, said Foley, revenues from the parking areas should be in the range of $400,000 and, under the proposed contract, the city gets 50 per cent of the gross over $300,000.

Foley was scheduled to lead the administration's fight for validated parking at the meeting.

"Validated parking will give us better control over the parking situation in downtown Quincy," he said.

"There will be total compliance with the parking rules and regulations since you will have to take a ticket when you enter the lot and pay when you leave."

"It will be the most efficient utilization of the parking spaces. All day parkers can be put in the less convenient spaces and the convenient spaces will be left for shoppers."

"No more will parkers have to have the right change with them. No more will they have to come back to put money in the meter—which is illegal, I may point out. There will be no more tickets."

Foley said his study of parking in cities around Boston shows that Cambridge, Waltham, Chelsea, Newton and Malden have 25-cent fees and Somerville, Everett and Brockton are planning it.

"Malden has validated (Cont'd on Page 18)

Mixed Reaction To Sunday Openings

Some stores in downtown Quincy will be open Sunday for the first time on a regular basis now that the "blue law" restrictions of commerce on the Sabbath have been lifted.

But not many city officials, if any, are enthusiastic about it.

"I've always thought that Sunday should be a day of rest," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley. "But it's the law now. It's up to the individuals to make a decision. If they wish to open, fine."

Kenneth P. Fallon, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said a number of the group's members have signified that they will be open.

They include Remicks, Sawyers, Lerners, Thom McAn, Woolworths, Beacon Fabrics, T.J. Maxx, Montilio's, Pewter Pot, Napoli Pizza, Paperama, Stop and Shop and Quirk Ford on Southern Artery.

Star Market and Shaw's market will be closed, said Fallon.

"Some of the stores are planning to wait until after Easter to open on Sunday," he said.

Members of the Quincy Licensing Board, who have the power over some Sunday licenses, were divided but generally unenthusiastic about the Sunday openings.

"I'm in favor," said Health Commissioner Dr.

M. Grace Hussey. "Quincy should be in competition with other communities. Families can go shopping together. As long as working on Sunday is voluntary, I'm in favor."

"I don't think it's a necessity," said acting Police Chief Roy Cavicchi, "but maybe the merchants do. I personally don't care one way or the other."

"I'm against Sunday openings," said Fire Chief Edward Barry. "It's another disruption to family life. Fathers' and mothers' places are with their children."

"I'm sorry to see Sunday become another workday," said City Clerk John Gillis. "I'm not that strongly against it. I don't think it will help family life."

City Still Refunding Illegal Parking Fines

Applications for refunds by people who paid illegally collected parking penalties are still coming in, Parking Clerk Robert Denvir told the City Council Monday night.

Denvir appeared in support of a request for $2,000 to pay more refunds and $8,000 to pay expenses of his parking ticket department for the rest of the fiscal year.

"We sent out the last refund checks on Feb. 4 and they are still coming in for refunds," he said.

The $5 surcharges on the $2 parking tickets were paid for a few months in 1982 before it was discovered that the city did not have an ordinance legitimizing the penalties.

City's Books 9 Months Behind, Says Auditor

By TOM HENSHAW
The city's books are almost nine months behind, Auditor Robert E. Foy III told the City Council Monday night.

But, he added, he expects to be caught up by the end of the fiscal year and "in four or five months we will be able to generate reports in an hour or an hour and a half."

The matter came up before the Council when an order was presented to close the accounts for fiscal 1982 in preparation for the setting of the 1983 tax rate.

Foy told the Council that he was not able to close the books on fiscal 1982 until 5 p.m. Saturday because the records were incomplete in the auditor's office.

"When I took over last year," he said, "we had no posting for a year. I came to the City Council in the fall for more help but this was delayed. At the end of December, we were over a year behind."

"The auditor's office has not operated normally for two years (since the resignation of Charles L. Shea)"

"It's amazing that we are able to run the city with the accounts this far back," said Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia. "There is not another city as bad as we are. We've been playing a guessing game and we have been lucky."

The city's inability to determine how much money it had available at any one time produced an apparent surplus of $289,193 for fiscal 1982.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley sent word to the Council that he would like to have that sum placed in the reserve for appropriation account to meet future unexpected expenses in the current year.

"If we don't appropriate it tonight it will be too late to use it this year," said Foy.

The fact that $289,193 in available funds was loose in the city had a certain fascination for the councillors.

Councillor LaRaia wanted to know specifically what the money was going to be used for.

Foy suggested that it could possibly be used to fund any city employee raises that are negotiated prior to the close of the current fiscal year.

Councillor James A. Sheets said that, knowing Mayor Francis X. McCauley as he did, he doubted the mayor would approve contract raises without something more solid than a windfall $289,193 in mind.

He suggested that perhaps the money could be used to reduce the tax rate for fiscal 1983.

Foy agreed that if the money were not appropriated the tax rate would be reduced by about $1.

But, he added, the city would not benefit from the saving because, under Proposition 2½, "if the money is taken out of the tax levy, it could never be raised again."

"It would be ridiculous for us to operate under anything less than we are allowed under Proposition 2½," said Councillor Patricia Toland.

The Council finally agreed to place the money in the reserve for appropriation account by a vote of 7-2, with LaRaia and Sheets in opposition.

Legislators Refile Condo, Dog Bills

Bills to restrict condominium conversions and prohibit stray dogs from being picked up in the city and used for medical research have been refiled by Quincy legislators.

The bills, which were taken up by the legislatures last year but died in the waning days of the session, were filed by Sen. Paul Harold and Reps. Thomas Brownell, Robert Cerasoli and Michael Morrissey.

The condo bill would require that elderly or handicapped tenants be given two years notice of conversion. Other tenants would have to be given nine months notice.

Rent increases would be limited to 10 percent a year and tenants would have to be given the right to buy their units, after notice is given.

The stray dog bill would exempt Quincy from a state law requiring communities to turn over dogs for medical research if researchers ask for them.

Thieves Active In GD Lot

A pickup truck and a van were hit by thieves Monday in the General Dynamics parking lot on Des Moines Rd., Quincy Point.

Frederick Newcomb Jr. of Kingston reported to police that the vent window in his 1969 Chevrolet pickup was broken and a bank book, change and sets of wrenches were taken.

Homer W. May of Abington reported that the vent window on his 1973 Ford van was broken and tools and a tool box valued at $600 to $800, as well as two hammers and a pair of glasses were stolen.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipelitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

After Lounge Incident

Bay Inn License Suspended For 2 Days

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board voted unanimously Tuesday to suspend the liquor license of the Quincy Bay Inn for two days after an incident March 13, which resulted in the Aquarius Lounge being closed by police.

But it's questionable how much effect the board's action will have since the lounge is normally closed the days of the suspension, Monday and Tuesday, March 28 and 29.

The lounge is currently closed for renovations and is scheduled to reopen as "Le Mirage" next week.

The lounge was closed March 13, because of uncontrollable underage drinking, several violations of minors drinking, and a crowd of 300 to 400 patrons, according to the police report.

Five Quincy police cars and 10 officers, as well as eight MDC officers, two police cars, and two motor cycles were tied up at the scene, police said.

A police detail had not been requested before hand for the private function, but was added after police assessed the situation.

Lt. John Morton said that when police told lounge manager Albert Colarusso to close the lounge, Colarusso "said he wouldn't close unless the chief of police came down." Colarusso later did agree to close.

"Of course he was reluctant to close at 10:30 at night," said Atty. Robert Fleming, representing Colarusso.

"He's a businessman. He had leased out the function room and there had been no problems. There were only three incidents.

"It was to his financial detriment to close."

Fleming said, "there were no fights, rowdiness. It wasn't one of these crazy parties, that's for sure.

Fleming reiterated that Colarusso did close the bar after discussing the situation with police.

"Considering everything, he acted very responsibly," said Fleming.

Colarusso told the board there were only 200 people in attendance.

City Clerk John Gillis said that the board had reminded Colarusso two weeks ago that a police detail is required for any function.

Fleming said there was some confusion as to how much of a crowd warrants a police detail.

Gillis agreed there was some vagueness on the subject, and said the board would issue a definite policy on police details next week.

"I'm not happy that the police department has to spend its evenings babysitting the Quincy Bay Inn," said Ward Councillor Joanne Condon.

Mrs. Condon pointed out that regular police details were required when the Quincy Bay Inn was issued its license.

She said there have been a variety of incidents at Quincy Bay Inn, and recommended that the board "close the establishment for a period of time."

Fleming asked that a warning be given instead, and requirements for a police detail be given.

"Colarusso deliberately did not order a police detail," said Acting Police Chief Roy Cavicchi, there should be some action."

"He's been avoiding details for two months," said Police Capt. Paul Nestor. "He's been very uncooperative with police details and the police department in general."

Cavicchi made the motion for the two day suspension, which was seconded by Fire Chief Edward Barry.

After the hearing ended, Mrs. Condon informed the board that the lounge is normally closed Mondays and Tuesdays.

Fleming pointed out that the hearing was legally ended, and Gillis agreed.

Police Pay Checks First Off Computer

Pay checks for the Quincy Police Department were to be run off on the computer in the new Data Processing Department yesterday (Wednesday) for the first time.

The Fire Department will be on line within a month, Robert Brennan, director of the department, told the City Council Monday night, and all departments will be operative by July 1.

In addition to payrolls, Brennan said, the department is working to get excise tax bills and appropriation accounting on the computer with a target date of July 1.

He said he has met with the city's major department heads to put together a list of 75 projects in developing a long-range plan to get virtually all the city's business on computers.

"We anticipate we will be able to do the real estate tax bills by computer next fall," said Brennan.

Levine Named To Voter Board

Arnold Levine of 150 Plymouth Ave., West Quincy, has been appointed to a three year term as a Republican member of the Board of Registrars of Voters.

He replaces Joyce Baker, who, said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, declined reappointment. Levine, a former educator in the Quincy and Randolph public school systems, is administrator of the Lupus Foundation, Boston.

He is a graduate of Bridgewater State College and has a master's degree in education from Boston University. He and his wife have two sons.

Police Alert

By LT. WILLIAM MURPHY
Quincy Police Dept.

Good Neighbors

Your own neighbors are often your best security device.

In some neighborhoods it is virtually impossible for a burglar to enter the area on foot or by car without being observed.

Unfortunately, many people simply do not make an effort to know their neighbors.

They are hesitant to report suspicious people or vehicles, fearing that they will be regarded as snooty. You don't have to be close friends with your neighbors in order to look out for their interests.

Neighborhoods in which people are truly concerned with each other and their mutual safety have extremely low burglary rates.

You can begin to build a neighborhood security system by becoming better acquainted with your neighbor's everyday living patterns.

By knowing when they are at work, on vacation, etc., you will be better able to judge whether a stranger should legitimately be at the neighbor's home.

Train yourself and your neighbors to be on the alert for strange vehicles.

If there is the slightest doubt about the legitimacy of a car, a service truck, etc., make certain to jot down the vehicle's license number, color, make, number of doors.

If you ever pass a strange vehicle in the neighborhood which contains radios, television sets or similar items, call the police immediately.

Do not assume that because a vehicle is a service van that it is in the neighborhood on legitimate business. Burglars often pose as repairmen, complete with lettered trucks during the commission of daylight burglaries.

And, remember, that better than half the burglaries committed take place in broad daylight.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions win T-shirts. The next two win bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to win in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the first name of Mayor Francis X. McCauley's wife?
2. The MBTA began operating rapid transit cars in Quincy in: 1966? 1971? 1976?
3. What well-known Quincy business establishment is located at 33 Independence Ave.?
4. True or false: Abigail Adams' maiden name was Quincy.
5. King's Lane is located in what section of the city?
Answer's to last week's Quincy Quiz:
1. Barry J. Welch is Quincy's director of recreation.
2. False. Tokyo, Japan is farther south than Quincy.
3. Eagle Flag Co. is located at 147 Beach St.
4. The three men who served as mayor under Plan E charter were named Burgin, McIntosh and Della Chiesa.
5. Seaway Rd. is located in the Squantum section of the city.

LaRaia Last McCauley Obstacle

Mayor Francis McCauley is fast running out of potential "big name" challengers for this year's election.

But one still remains: Joseph LaRaia. Political observers who like to keep tabs on his movements think he is acting "more and more" like a mayoral candidate.

LaRaia is making the usual rounds mayor candidates make: social and political functions, wakes, funerals, etc.

And he isn't just ducking in and out of gatherings. He lingers to chat and shake hands.

He's even saying hello to old political enemies or relatives or supporters of old political enemies. But he doesn't always get a return hello.

LaRaia, of course, has also become a critic of McCauley and that's interpreted as another sign that he's planning to run for mayor.

LaRaia's long-time style has been "to keep 'em guessing," when it comes to speculation over whether he will run or not.

And he likes dramatics. He has turned up at the last minute before filing deadline with nomination papers and grabbed all the headlines.

There are those who think he will follow the same pattern this year.

He doesn't have to announce early because he certainly isn't a political unknown. He could launch and mount a campaign over a two-month period.

Despite his turbulent two years as mayor and all the things that happened during that term, he still has a loyal following who blame all of the problems of those two years on others. In their minds, LaRaia himself and his stormy administration were victims of people he trusted or their ineptness.

LaRaia is one of the few mayors in Quincy's history who served only one term and was rejected when he sought re-election.

That fact still eats at him. There's nothing more that he would like then to return to the mayor's office. That would be vindication.

If LaRaia does run this year, he's expected to try to make the most out of the fact he's a Democrat even though the city election is non-partisan.

Democrats outnumber both Republicans and Independents in Quincy. McCauley is a Republican. With President Reagan's popularity slipping, a lot of people nationally are becoming more and more disenchanted with Republican philosophy. It could filter down to the community level as the months go by.

Anyway, if LaRaia finally decides not to make the run this year, you can be pretty sure he'll be a candidate in 1985.

LaRaia didn't come back to the City Council to remain a city councillor. He came back to become mayor again.

ARTHUR TOBIN is the 26th mayor to be "hanged"—at City Hall. His official photo joins those of 24 other former mayors in the third floor corridor in new City Hall. Incidentally, Tobin's is only the second color photo among all the other former mayors. The other color photo is that of Joseph LaRaia.

Two of the former mayors are not in the exhibit.

Energy, Weatherization Applications Ready

Quincy Community Action is accepting applications from low-income, elderly and handicapped families to take part in energy conservation and weatherization programs.

The Low Cost-No Cost Self Help energy conservation kits and burner tuneups are available to those who are eligible for the current fuel assistance.

Eligibility for the Home Weatherization Program, which includes insulation, window repairs, burner repairs, etc., is determined by gross income and size of family.

For information and applications call 471-3366 and ask for Donna.

The soda fountain was invented by an American, John Matthews, in 1832.

Photos of Amelio Della Chiesa and Thomas McGrath have been borrowed by Mayor McCauley to hang in his office. Della Chiesa and McGrath were his favorite mayors because of their tight fistfistedness with money. He keeps them as a reminder to him to watch the bucks.

SPEAKING OF TOBIN, here's a sad note. He and his wife, Shirley, had to have their pet dog, Randy, suffering from a painful disease, put to sleep. Randy, a loveable character, followed Tobin everywhere. He was a frequent visitor to City Hall when Tobin was mayor. He'd wait for someone to open the door to City Hall, rush in, then wait at an elevator for someone to open that door and ride up to Tobin's office to visit him. Almost any place Tobin went, Randy wouldn't be far behind.

JAMES MCINTYRE, former Quincy mayor and state senator, now Massachusetts senate counsel, took some good natured ribbing while being honored as "Statesman of the Year" by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Friday night.

RON ZOOLECK, Chamber executive vice-president, came up with these zinger "tributes":

WALTER HANNON: "Without question, the most important man in modern day Quincy. An innovator, a leader, a man to whom Quincy will always be indebted, that's the kind of man Mayor Della Chiesa was. McIntyre was a nothing."

BILL BULGER: "Where do I start—let's see, he's Irish..."

Former Gov. ED KING: "Jim was my favorite Republican mayor."

SHEILA MCINTYRE: "I'm sorry Jim has left politics. Every day when he comes home from work, I have to have a ribbon across the front door so he can cut it."

Mayor FRANK McCAULEY: "Well, I know Bill Bulger says he's Irish!"

ARTHUR TOBIN: "Jim McIntyre was an invaluable advisor. On a critical issue, I'd always ask Jim what to do—then do the opposite. It never failed."

LOUISE BRABAZON, secretary to the City Council, was scheduled to be released from South Shore Hospital Wednesday where she has been two weeks after a heart attack.

Louise thanks you all for the cards. She says she's "feeling fine" except that last week's Quincy Sun reported her age as 61. She says she's really 56 — despite what the Quincy voting list notes it.

Readers Forum Remember When Questions

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
"Remember When" in last week's issue shows what looks like a VW in front of City Hall. Were German automobiles around during WW II?

Also, in "Remember When" of two weeks ago, who is the policeman in the photo? I wonder if you have the correct names of the three men standing in this photo because you mention only 2.

Lastly, in your answer to Number 1, in last week's "Quincy Quiz" your answer is confusing; "members" should have read presidents. I place all these articles in my scrapbooks - hence my interest.

Charles L. Murphy
122 Everett St.

(Editors note: 1. No, that's not a Volkswagen. Maybe one of our other readers can identify it.)

2. The policeman in the photo is believed to be Don McCaulliffe.

3. Yes, "members" should have read "presidents."

Koch Sees New Bid For Council, Mayor Raises

City Councillor Richard J. Koch says he expects that Mayor Francis X. McCauley will make another effort to get a pay raise for the mayor and the councillors through the City Council.

"There's been some talk on the Council of another proposal," he told interviewers on the "News-makers" program on Quincy Cablestystems. "Whether I could support that or not depends on how it's proposed."

"When the last proposal came in, it was for the term in which I was serving and, as a councillor, I could not support that. I would support a salary increase in the mayor's position for the next term."

"I could go along with an increase to $37,500 as certainly warranted for the mayor and I would even be happy to look at several increases over two or three years to bring that to $40,000."

"With regard to the Council, it's difficult. The Council is not a fulltime position. As a first term councillor, I don't think I could put an exact figure on a councillor's pay."

Koch, who voted "present" when his colleagues re-elected John J. Lydon Jr. as council president last January, said his differences with Lydon are over the latter's leadership.

"Councillor Lydon did not display the leadership that I thought the Council President should show to the other councillors in the fiscal restraint area," he said.

"I felt the council president is the one who should show this particular display of fiscal austerity and my not casting my vote for him was a way of showing him that I don't agree."

He cited as one instance of Lydon's "lack of fiscal restraint" the expansion of the council offices and the hiring of parttime help to man them.

"There was some money spent on the expansion of the council offices," he said. "It wasn't a great deal of money but there was money spent."

"I look to the council president as someone to guide the council on the issues and the big issue to date is fiscal restraint. If there is one area the council should restrain itself it's in expenses."

"To me the time is not right for expansion of the council office. It may have been in the past but it certainly isn't today after Proposition 2 1/2."

Koch said he could conceivably run for council president himself in the next session, provided he is re-elected.

"It would depend on who was interested and how I felt that individuals could do the job," he said. "It's a bit early to say at this point. Certainly I'd consider it."

Koch said he may someday run for mayor but not right now.

"Today I don't have any ambition to be mayor of Quincy," he said. "I enjoy my work on the City Council. I am learning a lot about city government."

"However, to me if there is a job in the city that appeals more than any other it is the mayor's job. I would like to continue to get experience in city government and possibly someday look forward to that."

On other matters, Koch said:

"I personally feel that something along the lines of validated parking is absolutely necessary, especially in Quincy Square. But I don't know at this stage if I could say it will go through the Council."

"I personally would like to see the city get out of the hospital business eventually. I think we have to look at it again two or three years down the road and say, 'Should we be in the hospital business?'"

"Basically, I think Mayor McCauley's performance has been a good one. I must say I have had an open relationship with the mayor and his office. Whatever the problem they've been very helpful."

"I have not agreed with all of the decisions the mayor has made, particularly the dismissal of a couple of city employees, Owen Eaton as superintendent of the water department and Dr. Robert P. McKeogh as commissioner of public health."

Koch was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Austin Calls For Programs City Can Afford

City Councillor Edna B. Austin, chairman of the Finance Committee, called for the adoption of a five-year capital improvements program for the city based on what Quincy can afford rather than what it wants.

"The city of Quincy is in a jam, a financial jam, caused largely by the big school construction program," she said.

"Our first step must be to find out just how much money the city has to spend on new improvements for the next five years and then to get a clear picture of just what improvements are needed and their relative necessity."

Mrs. Austin noted that the city has a borrowing capacity of about $5 million and that much is committed to the proposed school construction program. The city has a list of other projects that would cost about $4 million.

"In the face of these figures," she said, "it is obvious that we have to make some drastic decisions. We certainly can't buy $9 million worth of improvements when we have only $5 million to spend."

YARD STICKS TO SHIPS

General Manager Sam Wakeman of the Fore River Shipyard told members of the Boston Propeller Club that the Bethlehem Steel Co. will not consider any other type of work for the yard until all hope is abandoned of obtaining more ship contracts.

He said the new planer-milling machine at the yard, one of the two largest of its type in the world, is evidence that management has faith in the future of shipbuilding. There are also plans, he said, to modernize the yard.

FIREFIGHTER HONORED

Quincy Firefighter John J. Colligan, who rescued a North Quincy man trapped in his burning home, was presented the Basil Q. Emanuel Award by the South Shore Association of Police Reporters and Photographers at the third annual awards dinner.

TAX HIKES SEEN

City Manager William Deegan told the Quincy Lions Club that taxpayers are facing a $2 to $3 tax increase in 1955 and a $1.50 hike in each of 1956 and 1957, adding that the city is "up against a financial wall."

Quincy Tourism Assn. Launches Fund-Raising Drive

The Quincy Tourism Association has launched a fund-raising drive to complete its new brochure "Welcome To Historic Quincy."

The brochure will be produced in three colors with photos, graphics and writing promoting Quincy in terms of history, culture, recreation and special events.

"A very important aspect of this brochure are the maps detailing how to get to Quincy and how to get around once the tourist gets here," said Gary Brennan, spokesman for the Association. "It will also be very handy for people who live and work in Quincy" he said.

The brochure's first printing of 100,000 will have wide distribution; locally, statewide and nationally, Brennan said.

"Quincy businesses will be contacted first as I feel they will benefit the most from increased tourism" Brennan said. We feel that for too long we have been complacent about promoting our attractiveness," said Loren Strout president of the Association. "In practical terms, tourism creates jobs and stimulates the economy."

Contributions accepted will be: Individual, $10; Non-Profit Organizations, $15; and Corporate $25.

Also with the contribution the individual, organization or company automatically becomes a member of the Quincy Tourism Association for one year.

Those wishing to contribute should make checks payable to the Quincy Tourism Association, Suite Sixteen, 711 Southern Artery, Quincy, MA 02169.

Smorgasbord Sunday At Houghs Neck Congregational

The 22nd Annual Spring-time Smorgasbord will be held Sunday at 5:30 p.m. at Houghs Neck Congregational Church's Fellowship Hall.

Each year, the Scholarship Board for the church presents this all-you-can-eat dinner to raise money for its fund which makes scholarship awards each spring to first-year college students in Houghs Neck.

The dinner will feature over 100 different dishes -- a hot and cold buffet, vegetable salad bar, and desserts, all home-made and contributed by members of the church and community.

Gloria Brummitt, chairman of the Scholarship Board, announces that she has arranged for a bus to pick up senior citizens interested in going to the dinner.

The bus will stop at 4 p.m. at four apartment houses: Tobin Towers, Sawyer Towers, Pagnano Towers and O'Brien Towers.

Those interested in going by bus should sign up at their respective buildings.

Following the dinner, there will be entertainment, some preview acts of the up-coming variety show to be presented by the youth groups in the late spring. Paula Christie is director.

Co-chairmen of the smorgasbord dinner are: Hugh Christie, Gloria Brummitt of the Scholarship Board, and Pamela Praetich and Gail Mackay, kitchen coordinators.

Also on the Scholarship Board are: Barbara Christie, Ada Freeman, Dr. Peter V. Corea, Rev. M. Alicia Corea, Peg McDonald, Pamela Craig, John Morris.

Robbie Trubiano is head chef on the serving line, Jackie Price, dessert chairman; Alicia Corea, beverage chairman; Ada Freeman, chairman of the after-dinner kitchen force; Peter Johnston, in charge of set-up; Ralph Freeman, posters; and Jean Bragg, table decorations. Anne Baxendale is seating hostess.

Tickets are on sale from members of the board and members of the church, school and also may be bought at the door the night of the smorgasbord from Pam Craig, ticket chairman. Special family rates are arranged.

Elderly, Handicapped Transportation To Continue

The State Officer of Transportation and Construction will administer for the eighth year a federal grant program to provide financial assistance for transportation of elderly and handicapped persons.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey said the program will provide about $500,000 in grants in private, non-profit organizations for the purchase of vehicles and equipment such as lifts, ramps and two-way radios.

"This year these organizations will receive 75 per cent of the cost of awarded equipment and are responsible for providing the remaining 25 per cent cash contribution," he said.

"The agencies will ultimately own and operate the vehicles."

Further information on the program may be obtained by calling Russell Thatcher of the Office of Transportation at 727-8955 or Rep. Morrissey at 722-2470.

Food Center, Health Dept. Hold Canned Goods Workshop

The Quincy Community Action Organization Inc. Emergency Food Center, in cooperation with the Quincy Health Department, recently held a workshop on the inspection and handling of canned goods.

Over 30 representatives and volunteers of Emergency Food Pantries throughout Massachusetts attended.

The food center recently received a $500 grant from Project Bread, known among the emergency food network for its outreach efforts to combat hunger in Greater Boston (such as the Annual 20 Mile Walk for Hunger in the Spring).

It is only one of the food center's many supporters since its grand opening Jan. 3.

The Emergency Food Center not only provides food to individuals and groups who feed the poor, but also acts as a supplemental reserve which replenishes emergency food pantries all over the city.

The center locates sources of low or no cost food, distributes it free of charge to participating groups and provides information and advocacy for those in need.

Food has been received through the Boston Food Bank, USDA Commodities

and local food drives and donations.

This surplus/salvageable food has been channelled to local agencies and churches who feed the hungry, such as, Protestant Social Services Bureau, St. John's Church, DOVE, Wollaston II and several others.

As the Emergency Food Center is community-based and supported, it relies on the cooperative efforts of the entire community, public, private, and religious.

EFC sponsors are,

Protestant Social Service Bureau, St. John's Baptist Church, Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc., First Presbyterian Church, Quincy Crisis Center, Quincy Point

Congregational Church,

Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Hancock Bank, as well as, some private individual supporters.

If you would like to help or need more information about EFC, contact Steven DeWald, EFC's food coordinator at 471-0796.

Why are more people bringing their money market funds back to us?

More benefits.

You probably invested in a money market fund because it offered liquidity, check writing privileges, and high interest. But we can offer you all those benefits and more. In fact, thousands of smart people have already switched from a money market fund to our Better Money Market Account. Here's why:

- A $2,500 minimum deposit earns interest that is better than most money market funds.
- Unlike money market funds, each depositor is insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC.
- It's totally liquid, with unlimited deposits and teller withdrawals.
- It allows 6 transfers per month, 3 of which may be by check.
- Interest is state taxed at half the rate of money market fund earnings.

- Better Money Market Account deposits are reinvested in the local economy. Money market fund deposits are reinvested in someone else's economy.
- It has no account service fees.

With money market funds, you have to sacrifice your money's safety to get high interest and liquidity. With the Better Money Market Account, you don't have to sacrifice anything, because it's high paying, it's liquid, and it's safe. Call us for the current high Better Money Market Account rate.

For a money market account with unlimited checking, ask about the Super NOW Account... Insured Money Market Checking.

'The Great Muppet Caper' At Heart Fund Theater Party

Tickets will be available at the door for the "John J. Daniels Memorial Night" tonight (Thursday) at the Wollaston Theatre starting at 7:30 p.m.

The 14th Annual Heart Fund Theatre Party will present as the major attraction the motion picture "The Great Muppet Caper" featuring the popular television muppets. Preceding the movie, 20 door prizes will be awarded.

All proceeds will benefit the Southeast Massachusetts Division of the American Heart Association and the research and C.P.R. programs.

Richard J. Koch, general chairman of the event, stated that the single event has raised a total of $19,500 in the past 13 years.

The North Quincy Knights of Columbus donated $100 toward the event in memory of the late Mr. Daniels, a former member of the organization.

Those unable to attend the program but wishing to donate to the project may make checks payable to the Quincy Heart Fund and forward them to John J. McGue, Treasurer, Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02171.

Committee members participating in the 14th Annual Heart Fund Event include: Charles DiNicola, The Quincy Sun, Frank Brillo, Gemma Fertile, Janet Crowley, Carmen Leone, Debra Koch, Linda Bowes, Frank McLaughlin, George Page, Rita Daniels, Robert Woods, Richard J. Koch, Jr., Thomas Koch, Simmie Jo Koch, William Souden, Gerard A. Coletta, Jr., Arthur Chandler, Marilyn Nestor, Paul Koch and Richard J. Koch, Sr.

The Heart Fund Money Cake, donated by O'Brien's Bakery and on display at the bakery, will be in the lobby of the Wollaston Theatre tonight.

Recreation Sites To Be Dedicated To HN Men

Two recreation areas in Houghs Neck will be dedicated this spring to two young men well-known in that section who died in tragic accidents last year. The city park and recreation board has approved dedication of the Chapel Street Playground in honor of Gregory McKinnon, and the adjacent softball field behind the Great Hill School in honor of John Brille.

Mr. McKinnon, 17, was killed by gas fumes in a cabin while on a fishing trip in Maine last May.

Mr. Brill, 24, died in a motorcycle accident on Quincy Shore Drive last September.

Councillor Leo Kelly and Rusty Preble organized a dance last month which raised $1,500 to buy plaques and make improvements at the sites.

5 Residents On Newbury Dean's List

Five Quincy residents Camille Brooks, Dau Dieu, Robyn Gaura, Rebecca Lampert, and Mary White, were recently named to the dean's list at Newbury

Junior College. While working toward an Associate in Applied Science Degree, a student must maintain a minimum of a 3.3 academic average to earn this distinction.

Council Funds New Wage Hikes

The City Council Monday night appropriated $79,000 to pay negotiated wage settlements for employees of the Cemetery, Park and Forestry, Highway and Sewer-Water-Drain Departments for the rest of the fiscal year.

Labor Negotiator David Grunbaum said the money represents flat $500 raises for each employee with a percentage raise next year on the second year of the two-year contract.

Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr., whose father is executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments, left the room while the raises were being discussed and voted on.

Grunbaum said he is still negotiating new contracts with members of the Police, Fire and Library Departments and clerical employees.

The Council also appropriated $2,000 to pay negotiated raises for four nurses in the Health Department.

Live Colt To Dramatize Bethany Service Sunday

As a dramatic way of reliving the Palm Sunday experience when Jesus rode into Jerusalem on a colt, the foal of a donkey, and was hailed as a king, a live colt will arrive at 11 a.m. as part of the festivities Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Centre.

Following the 10 a.m. worship service, children will be able to ride the colt, with supervision, on the Spear Street lawn between the chapel and sanctuary.

Long palm slips will be distributed and persons will be able to wave the branches and join the Church School children in shouting "Hosanna" and "Blessed be he who comes in the name of the Lord."

The religious and educational aspects of this is to enable participants to remember more vividly the details and meaning of the Palm Sunday events.

The Palm Sunday worship service and celebration will take place in the sanctuary at 10 a.m. The Chancel Choir, under the direction of Peter Krasinski, will present the anthem, "Prepare the Way" based on a Swedish melody arranged by Luvaas.

Jean E. Bettinson, Bethany's contralto soloist, will sing the traditional "The Palms" by Faure.

The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will serve as liturgist Bruce J. Byorkman will read the scripture lessons. The senior minister, Rev. J. William Arnold, will preach the sermon entitled "Jesus is Lord."

The following persons will be received into membership: Gerald and Lisa Birr, Jacqueline Gould, Kenneth Fernald, Sarah Luff, and Sandra McGonnigle.

Palms in the chancel will be placed by the Bethany Churchwomen. Small missionary palm crosses made by native Masasi Christians in Tanzania, Africa, will be given to all worshippers.

Nursery facilities and care for babies and toddlers is provided.

Distribution Of Palms At St. John's

Blessed Palms will be distributed at all the Sunday Masses at St. John the Baptist Church, 44 School St., Quincy Center, this weekend.

Masses will be held Saturday, March 26 at 4 and 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 27 at 7, 8:15, 9:30, 11 a.m. and 12:30 and 5:15 p.m.

Solemn blessing and procession of palms will take place at the 9:30 a.m. Mass, Sunday.

During holy week, daily Masses will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 and 8 a.m., 12:10 and 5:30 p.m.

Organ Recital At Good Shepherd

Thomas Handel of Ballston Spa, N.Y. will be performing at the organ Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, West Squantum and Harvard Sts.

His performance will include works by Bach, Boellmann, Brahms, Couperin, and Hindemith.

He will be accompanied by Beth Spencer a soprano studying at Boston University School of Music.

Handel and "Due to the fact I will be performing on Palm Sunday I have chosen to perform music fitting the church seasons of Lent and Easter.

"I hope to add to the audience's celebration of these events" The public is invited.

Handel, 20, has been organist at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd for the past two years.

'Primeval Amoebae' Topic For United Methodists

The four Quincy United Methodist Congregations met last Sunday for their third union service of worship at the Atlantic United Methodist Church, North Quincy, Rev. Walter Wnek preached on the topic of "The Parable of the Primeval Amoebae."

Mrs. Mary Brelsford, director of the Southwest

Community Action Program, introduced during the service and "interviewed" by Rev. Wnek about the work at the Center.

Lay reader was Mary Sheriff. Greeters for the morning were Deborah Warner and Mary Warner.

Worship was led by Rev. Wnek.

fellowship hour following worship was provided by the Mothers Club.

The Mother's Club will serve the Annual Palm Sunday Brunch March 27 following morning worship at the Atlantic Church.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Lois Medford 479-8948.

Palm Sunday Breakfast At Squantum First Church

Young people at the First Church of Squantum will hold a "Breakfast on Palm Sunday Morning" at 9:30 a.m. before the morning service.

The theme of the service will be "The Parable of the Primeval Amoebae."

The service will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the sanctuary.

There will be a special service of the Holy Communion at 10:30 a.m.

The service will be held at 10:30 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Christian Science Church Elects New Readers

At a recent business meeting, members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Quincy, elected new Readers for three year terms.

The First Reader is Barsom J. Kashish of Milton. Mrs. Shirley Senter of Wollaston is Second Reader.

They succeed outgoing Readers Warren Bolon and Mrs. Holly Bolon of Wollaston, who completed their three year term.

Also elected was Mrs. Shirley Ellington of Quincy, as executive board member.

Churches of Christ, Scientist have no ordained clergy. Each Branch Church elects from its membership two Readers who conduct the services by reading from the King James Version of the Bible and the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures." The text book was written by Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science. Prayer, hymns, a solo and organ prelude complete the services.

On Sundays, the Second Reader reads selections from the Bible, alternating with explanatory passages from the Christian Science textbook, read by the First Reader who conducts the service.

On Wednesday evenings, the First Reader conducts the service which features readings from both books. That is followed by a period during which members of the congregation share testimonies of healings and personal experiences of problems solved through prayer alone.

The Christian Science church at 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center, holds services and Sunday School at 10:45 a.m. Sundays, and Wednesday meetings at 7:30 p.m.

During the week, it maintains a public Reading Room at 18 Beale St., Wollaston, where the Bible and Christian Science Literature can be read, borrowed or purchased. A Reading Room attendant will answer questions.

The public is welcome to attend the services and to use the Reading Room.

'Prayers, Plans Of God' Squantum Church Topic

Worshippers at the First Church of Squantum Sunday heard church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin preach on the subject, "The Prayers and Plans of God."

This was another sermon in a series on the theological ideas of the apostle Paul. Text for the sermon was taken from Paul's letter to the Romans "We know what in everything God works for good with those who love Him, who are called according to His purpose" (8:28).

Dr. Langevin, author of the book and service by the Church Choir was Johann's Brothers "Abendglocke."

Members of the Junior Choir sang "The Life is a Feast" by Sarah at birth. The service was held in the sanctuary of the church.

Olson and Melissa Stamos on glockenspiel, Amanda Young and Kristen Reister on xylophone, Blithe Hampson on recorder and Tom Oshiro on organ.

Dr. Langevin spoke to the children in the second service about "The Holy Spirit" Greeting at that service were Jani Hansen and Katherine Hansen, her daughter.

Ushers were Leon MacIntyre and Stewart Scott. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Diane Lindblad and Katherine Hansen.

and Bonnie Adams assisted the pastor as a panel that helped him preach the sermon.

Guitarists at that service were Steven Williams, Andrew Ogilvie and Mary Ruth Scott. Ushers were Grace Holmes and Ruth Swanson.

Yesterday (Wednesday) the Lenten series on the history of the Christian Church since the 14th century concluded. It was preceded by an Italian dinner of chicken Parmigian, stuffed shells, Italian vegetables, spumoni with claret sauce and a beverage.

On Palm Sunday, March 27, there will be a single communion service at 10:30 a.m. Three choirs will perform and palms will be distributed.

Services At Quincy Synagogues

Passover-Pesach Holidays To Begin March 28

By LESTER H. GLASSER

Passover-Pesach holidays will be ushered in by the Jewish people of Quincy next week with services at the city's three synagogues.

Services will be conducted by Rabbi Jacob Mann at Beth Israel Synagogue on Grafton St., Quincy Point, Monday, March 28 at 6:15 p.m. followed by the Seder Supper at home. Other services at Beth Israel will be Tuesday and Wednesday, March 29 and 30 at 8:45 a.m.; and Tuesday at 6:15 p.m.

Services for the last two days of the holidays, April 4 and 5, will be at the same time.

Yizkor, (memorial prayers) will be recited on April 5. All services are conducted by Rabbi Mann. Jack Klavner is president of the Congregation.

Dr. Herbert Hodess, president, announces that Passover services at Temple Beth El, Hancock St., will be held Monday and Tuesday, March 29 and 30 at 9 a.m.; also April 4 and 5 at 9 a.m., with memorial prayers on Tuesday, April 5 at 10:30 a.m.

Rabbi David J. Jacobs and Cantor Morris Semigran will officiate at all services.

At Congregation Adas Shalom, Adams St., Presidents Abe Greenspan and Leo Lofchik announce that there will be a Seder Supper Tuesday, March 29 at 6:30 p.m., preceded by services at 6 p.m.

Rabbi Allan Press and Cantor David Grossman will conduct services and the Seder.

Other services at the synagogue will be Monday and Tuesday, April 4 and 5, at 9 a.m. with Yizkor prayers (memorial) April 5 at 10:30 a.m.

Passover comes in the early spring. Great preparations are made in the home. Every room from attic to the basement receives a thorough cleaning.

It is customary to buy new clothes for the Passover holidays. Dishes that are used daily are stored and special dishes reserved for Passover are substituted for eight days. Silverware is boiled and polished.

Orthodox and Conservative Jews observe Passover for eight days while Reform Jews and many Jews in Israel celebrate the holidays for seven days.

The Seder, which means "order," is a joyous family dinner held at home. However, many congregations have a community Seder on the second night of Passover at their Synagogues.

The Haggadah (means "telling") is read during the Seder Service.

On Passover eve, the entire family gathers at the dinner table for the traditional Seder. Almost always, there are guests at the table, for it is a custom to share the blessings of the holiday with friends, neighbors and even strangers who are unable to get to their own homes.

Children play an important part in the Seder service which opens with the youngest son or daughter asking the four questions of his father, who conducts the Seder.

Why is the night different from all other nights? On all other nights we eat either leavened or unleavened bread.

Why on this night, do we eat only unleavened bread? On all other nights, we eat all kinds of herbs.

Why, on this night, do we eat especially bitter herbs? On all other nights, we do not dip herbs in any condiment.

Why on this night do we dip them in salt water and haroseth? On all other nights, we may sit at the table either erect or leaning; on this night we recline.

The leader replies to the child:

"I am glad you asked the questions you did, for the story of this night was just what I wanted you to know. Indeed, this night is different from all other nights, for on this night we celebrate one of the most important moments in the history of man."

On this night we celebrate the going forth of the Hebrew people from slavery into freedom.

Why do we eat only Matzah tonight? When Pharaoh let our forefathers go from Egypt they were forced to flee in great haste. They had no time to bake their bread, they could not wait for yeast to rise. So the sun beating down on the dough as they carried it along, baked it into a flat unleavened bread called matzah.

Why do we eat bitter herbs tonight? Because our fathers were slaves in Egypt and their lives were made bitter.

Why do we dip herbs twice tonight? We dip the parsley into salt water because it reminds us of the green that comes to life in the springtime. We dip the bitter herbs into the sweet haroseth as a sign of hope; our Fathers were able to withstand the bitterness of slavery, because it was sweetened by the hope of freedom.

Why do we recline at the table? Because reclining at the table was a sign of a free man in olden times; and since our fathers were freed on this night, we recline at the table.

At the head of a beautifully set table is a platter with the following Seder Symbols:

Three Matzos, in memory of the unleavened bread which the Jews ate when they were freed from Egypt.

Bitter herbs for the bitterness of slavery.

The shank of a lamb, as a reminder of the Paschal lamb.

A roasted egg, symbolic of the free will festival offering which accompanied the sacrifice of the Paschal lamb in the Temple.

Haroseth, a food made of apples, nuts, cinnamon and wine, mixed together to look like mortar which the Hebrew slaves used in their servitude.

Parsley or watercress, suggestive of the ancient customary hors d'oeuvres. It is now used as token of gratitude to God for the products of the earth.

A cup of wine is set at the place setting of each celebrant.

As in all Jewish ceremonies of rejoicing, wine is used as a token of festivity. Each participant in the service is expected to partake of four cups of wine. This number was selected as symbolic of the four divine promises of redemption made to Israel in Exodus 6:6-7.

An empty wine cup in the center of the table. This cup is filled as part of the Seder ceremony. It is known as Elijah's cup. It symbolizes the hope of man for the quick coming of God's king down upon the earth.

Early in the Seder service, one of the three matzos on the ceremonial platter is divided in half. The half which is put away to be eaten at the Afikomen, which is derived from the Greek meaning meal or dessert.

The origin of this custom may be traced to the Paschal lamb which was eaten on Passover night. It was customary to reserve a small portion of the lamb to be eaten at the close of the meal. When sacrifices had ceased a piece of the matzah was eaten instead.

Half of the Afikomen was hidden, and the children look for it. The finder receives an award from the host. The Seder meal is then completed.

Probably the most beloved of all Jewish festivals, Passover is rich in songs and poems and stories. One of the most delightful songs in Had Gadyah - "One Kid".

It is a round, sung at the conclusion of the service, that tells the tale of a kid bought by a father for his sons for two zuzim (coins). The little goat suffers a tragic fate, but the song's tale of woe is ended by an act of God who destroys evil.

So the song, like the holiday itself teaches faith in the future and encourages a reliance on God's promise of freedom.

Commemorating a great event in Jewish history, Passover combines beautiful ritual with family warmth and youthful fun.

At the conclusion of the Seder, all participants read the following in unison:

May God cause the light of His countenance to shine upon all men and dispel the darkness of ignorance and of prejudice. May He be gracious unto us. "Amen".

May God lift up His countenance upon our country and render it a true home of liberty and a bulwark of justice. And may He grant peace unto us and unto all mankind. "Amen".

Blessed art Thou, O Lord our God, King of the Universe, Creator of the fruit of the vine. "Amen".

How's Your Hearing?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. All hearing problems are not alike and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid but many can. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 50070, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Abraham Lincoln said of the Bible: "It is the best gift God has given to man." His words might also be paraphrased, "It is the best gift man can give to man."

The birth, growth and functions of the American Bible Society illustrate the truth in both statements.

The American Bible Society was formed on May 11, 1916, in New York City, for the purpose of making the scriptures available to all people everywhere. From a modest start with 60 American Christians (including many prominent men of the time), the Society now includes over 55 denominations which actively support it. Throughout the years over 750 MILLION copies of scriptures have been distributed in 95 countries. The Society is dedicated to the purpose of supplying a copy of scriptures in his own language to every person in the world who wants the word of God.

We are, indeed, fortunate to have such an organization that works constantly to have the Bible read by as many people as possible throughout the world...

Gas Tax

Last week the House gave initial approval to a bill that would place an 11 cents floor on the state tax on gasoline. The state had previously taxed gasoline as a percent of the wholesale price, so that the tax would fluctuate according to the price on the world market. The current tax dropped down from almost 12 cents to 9.9 cents over the past few months with the drop in price of import oil. The floor minimum meant about a 11 cent increase to the consumer. Each 1 cent means approximately 30-40 million dollars in revenue to the state. I did not support the increase because I felt that gasoline is a necessity to most people and that with the price declining consumers should be given a break by the state, especially since the federal tax increase of 5 cents is due to take effect in April. This increase in the gas tax is said to be a critical part of the Governor's Revenue Package to fund the fiscal year 1984 budget.

The Governor has also proposed other sources for increased tax revenue including an increase on cigarette taxes, closing tax loopholes, and better collection of taxes.

If you have any comments or questions, please don't hesitate to call me at home 328-0900 or in the State House 722-2470.

FIRE SAFETY QUIZ

Every year 12,000 Americans are killed in fires and another 300,000 of them are injured. Take the following test to determine how well protected your family is.

Do you conduct periodic home fire drills so that each member of the family knows at least two escape routes, and knows of a designated meeting place outside?

Is your home equipped with smoke sensing alarms? Such devices sense the presence of even small amounts of smoke, at which time they sound a loud alarm?

Do you sleep with bedroom doors closed? In the event of fire, you will gain precious minutes to escape if you do.

Do you periodically check your home for such fire hazards as old newspapers, cartons, old furniture, oily rags, etc.?

Do you exercise care in the use of electricity? Do you refrain from loading outlets with too many appliances, using inappropriate fuses, and hanging electrical cords over nails or running them under carpets?

parking and is very happy with it," he said.

A delegation of downtown businessmen, headed by Kenneth P. Fallon, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, was expected to attend the meeting.

The businessmen include Bernard Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal;

Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelry; William Kelley and John Farmer of the Hancock Bank and Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods, chairman of the QCBPA's Parking and Traffic Committee.

It was the QCBPA that started the drive for validated parking under a management firm more than a year ago.

The businessman agreed that the Ross Parking Garage and Parking lot and the John Hancock Parking area should be operated by a professional outside firm.

"The turnover rate in the Hancock parking lot would be improved immensely due to the fact of no fear of a parking ticket administered by a meter maid," said Reisberg in a letter to McCauley.

Foley said that a study made by the engineering firm of Vanasse/Hangen Associates in August, 1982, "indicated that the city presently loses 33 per cent of potential revenue due to non-compliance with the meters."

There would be 100 per cent compliance when the parking areas and garage are taken over by Kinney, said Foley.

Park, Rec Reorganizes

The Quincy Park and Recreation Board held its annual reorganizational meeting at the Park and Recreation Complex, 100 Southern Artery. All present officers were re-elected.

Christopher F. Kennedy will continue as chairman of the policy making unit responsible for the municipal fiscal properties of the Park and Forestry Departments and the recreational programs sponsored by the Recreation Department.

J. Thomas Mullaney will resume his duties as vice chairman of the Board and Charlotte Digiacomo will stay as the secretary of the Commission.

The Board voted to remain with present meeting dates, the first and third Mondays of each month starting at 6:30 p.m.

Joseph E. Burke and Anthony T. Delmonico were designated by the Board to sign the weekly payrolls of the Park and Recreation Departments and Gerard A. Coletta Jr.

was appointed as the alternate in the absence of either.

The Board voted to provide the chairman with the authority to sign contracts for major work accomplished at public park, playground and beach properties. The new requirement was forwarded to the Board from the city solicitor's office in a new format to involve city agencies in contracts of properties and facilities within their jurisdiction.

Lt. William Murphy of the Quincy Police Department appeared at the meeting to discuss vandalism problems at the park, playground and beach areas and the greater enforcement of rules and regulations governing the parkland.

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary, presented a list of Park Department losses estimated at $20,000 since July with the major cost the Bowling Green Fieldhouse fire. Faxon Park tennis courts lighting destruction and Faxon Park Fieldhouse restroom vandalism.

Koch said the implementation of Proposition 2½ reduced the number of police required for greater protection of parks and playgrounds.

Mrs. Gail Kilcommons, Ward 4 representative on the Board, reiterated her concern for health conditions at the O'Rourke Playground caused by the sewer line through the recreational area that periodically backs up and overflows onto the field.

Koch reported that the Park Department maintenance work force has already noted the reduction of discarded bottles and cans at park, playground and beach areas since the implementation of the bottle bill.

Although its too early in the season to evaluate the impact, Koch said he is confident that the spring and summer cleanup will improve with the decrease in bottles, cans and the reduction of the dangerous broken glass at the playground sites.

Progress In QEA, School Committee Talks

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

It appears that progress is finally being made in contract negotiations between the school committee and Quincy Education Association.

"It was a very positive meeting," said school committee vice chairman Mary Collins of the session recently between the two sides.

"We made a lot of progress. I'm hopeful we'll be able to settle at the next meeting in a couple of weeks.

"I'm very pleased. It's the first time we've had any positive movement," said Mrs. Collins.

She declined to give details of the negotiations, explaining the negotiator cautioned the two sides against discussing the matter publicly.

The QEA has been asking for a one year contract that is not subject to funding.

Hertman (Hank) Pasquerella, QEA head, was not available for comment on the negotiations.

He did, however, institute work-to-rule Tuesday at a tenth school, North Quincy High School.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at city hall:

- Granted a request from the Quincy Historical Society to hold its annual Crafts and Collectibles Fair Saturday, June 11, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the grounds of Adams Academy, Quincy Center.

- Granted a one-day alcoholic license to Commercial Union Life Insurance Co. for a bowling banquet Friday, May 6, 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Knights of Columbus hall.

- Granted a one-day alcoholic license to DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) to be used in conjunction with a Las Vegas Night Saturday, April 9, 7 p.m. to midnight at Knights of Columbus hall.

- Granted a request from Quincy Lodge of the Sons of Italy to sponsor a carnival May 26-30 at Rotary Field. The organization is to have adequate liability insurance, at least two police officers in attendance, proper fire lanes, and is to check with the health department on serving food.

No rides are to be operated until noon Memorial Day so that memorial services will not be disrupted.

- A request from Thomas Jerome for a common victualer license for Sandwiches Unlimited, 1347 Hancock St., Quincy Center was withdrawn without prejudice.

N. Quincy Wins First Hoop Prize

Joe Crowley scored 15 points to lead the North Quincy High School basketball team to a 48-41 victory over Natick and win the Class A title in the Bay State Tournament, the first hoop trophy ever captured by a Raider team.

The Raiders, who had beaten Natick twice by big scores during the season, moved out into a 10-point lead in the second period as Capt. Eddie Densmore, Al Adams and Ed Gilbody began hitting the basket with consistency.

Crowley and George Denneen were selected to the tourney's Class A all star team.

The North Quincy lineup included: Gilbody, Jack Crowley, Ames, Walsh, forwards; Denneen, Adams, center; Joe Crowley, Rockwell, Densmore, Allen, guards.

North gained the final round in the Brandeis University gym by beating Dedham, 54-37, with Crowley again showing the way with 20 points and Denneen sinking seven straight baskets before missing one with two minutes left.

Crowley tossed in 23 points and Gilbody had 22 and Adams 19 to account for all but 15 of the North Quincy points in a 79-61 victory over Framingham in the tournament's opening round.

NORTH SIX CHAMPS

The North Quincy High School hockey team defeated Christopher Columbus, 3-0, on goals by Frank Hurley, Bob Hayes and McCarthy to clinch its first South Shore Hockey League title with a 7-1-2 record.

The North Quincy lineup included: K. Hayes, goal; Hurley, Meleedy, defense; Gorham, R. Hayes, Moran, forwards; Hamel, Keohane, McCarthy, Coos, Noonan, Gill, spares.

The Quincy High School hockey team also wound up its season with a 3-0 win over Williams with the goals coming off the sticks of Ed Mattie, Younie and Storella.

The Quincy lineup included: LaPierre, goal; Chiavaroli, Marcell, defense; Mattie, Younie, Wong, forwards; Storella, Chella, Bonafini, Zanardelli, Belanger, Lyons, Muir, spares.

QUINCY ELIMINATED

A small, speedy Lawrence Central basketball team took charge of the game in the third period for a 67-54 victory that eliminated Quincy High School from the Tech Tournament. Dickie Ruggles and Bob MacDonald had 12 points each for Quincy.

SPORTS BITS '54

Pete Houston, 6-foot-5 center from Quincy, broke the Brandeis gym record with 40 points as the Archbishop Williams High School basketball team overran Revere, 62-43, in the preliminary round of the Tech Tourney. Jack Leary of Wollaston was elected recording secretary of the Quincy Little Football League. Porky Dumart scored his fourth goal of the season to lift the Boston Bruins into a 1-1 tie with the Montreal Canadiens. Robert Holly of Braintree was re-elected president of the Quincy Tennis Club. Capt. Doug Grutchfield's 19 points showed the way for North as the young Raiders clinched the Junior High School basketball title with a 36-29 victory over South. Manager Jack Ferguson led the Shipbuilders, sponsored by Local 5, through their first soccer practice of the season at Fore River Field. Don Evans topped the scorers with 16 points but the Quincy YMCA juniors bowed to Cambridge, 76-58 in the Quincy gym. Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Baltimore Orioles said Sam Mele, the veteran outfielder from Quincy, had promised him he would have the best season of his career. Bob MacDonald of Quincy was named to the Greater Boston League all star team. President Bill Cronin said he hoped that Braintree and Weymouth would join the South Shore League for the next hockey season. Ronnie Frongello, former North Quincy pitcher, signed a contract with the Oak Ridge, Tenn., team in the Cleveland Indians farm system. Manager Lou Boudreau of the Boston Red Sox announced that Jimmy Piersall will play right field at Fenway Park and center field on the road.

North Frosh Girls Team Finishes 6-1

North Quincy High's first freshman girls' basketball team recently completed a good season with a 6-1 record.

The young Raiderettes, coached by Tommy White, had the only freshman girls' team in the city and had wins over Milton, Brockton, Brookline twice and Whitman-Hanson twice. They lost only to Brockton.

The fine season came about despite the team having only one home game and limited practice time.

"The 6-1 record is a credit to the girls' hard work and dedication," said White.

Playing for the North team were Karen Runge, Eileen Warren, Jean Welby, Nancy Lyons, Anne-Marie Hughes, Kelly Doherty, Kathy Stark, Kelly Christensen, Carolyn O'Reilly, Janine Stack, Maureen Costello and Karen Cody.

"We would like to thank varsity coach Paul Bregoli, junior varsity coach Ted Stevenson and Kenny Panaro for all their help during the season," White said.

N.Q. Edges Cohasset, 32-31 In Basketball Tourney

North Quincy edged Cohasset, 32-31, in the Immaculate Conception basketball tournament in Weymouth for girls under 14.

North never trailed in the game as 5-10 center Eileen

Warren had 10 points and 20 rebounds to completely dominate the inside. Karen Runge and Maureen Donovan had nine and eight points respectively.

Jill Caldwell, Karrie Pistorino and Debbie Panaro keyed the defense, while Nancy Flukes and Jean Welby played fine floor games. Beth Bunker had five blocked shots and seven rebounds.

North Quincy plays a semifinal game Saturday at 4 o'clock and the finals are slated for Sunday.

YMCA Gym Teams Compete In State Competition

The South Shore YMCA's Class IV gymnastics teams completed in the recent state championships at Salem State College.

Competing for the Y were Wendy Lampa, Dawn Hartnett, Erin McNaught, Jennifer Bellanich and Lori Novak.

Fifteen teams were entered and South Shore finished seventh with a score of 153.55.

Individually the girls did well, especially on beam. McNaught qualified during the meet for the regional April 8 in Heugonot, N.Y., joining Lampa, Novak and Bellanich.

McNaught qualified with an all-around score of 31.95. She also received a ribbon for a fine floor routine, placing sixth with an 8.5 score.

Lauren Apollo Shines For UNH Hockey Team

Defenseman Lauren Apollo of North Quincy was one of the top players this season for the University of New Hampshire Women's ice hockey team, which successfully defended its EAIAW championship last weekend.

UNH defeated Providence, 5-3, in the championship game Saturday after edging Northeastern, 4-3, in three overtimes Friday. The Wildcats have won four straight Eastern titles.

Apollo, a sophomore, had three goals and 16 assists during the regular season giving her 34 career points (eight goals and 26 assists). In the title win over Providence she had an assist.

A rugged player, the former North Quincy High three-sport letterman (soccer, basketball and softball) has set a school record for penalties with 28. She also plays on the school's soccer team.

Special Needs Programs On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television is observing Special Awareness Month in Quincy during March by scheduling a number of programs about special needs.

On Saturday, March 26 Ch. 3 will present highlights of a special needs athletic night videotaped at North Quincy High School. Quincy youth with special needs are seen competing in relays, floor games and basketball. In addition, Mayor Francis McCauley reads a proclamation of special needs awareness month and presides at a special awards presentation.

Ch. 3 will also feature a special live program called Striving Toward Independence Tuesday, March 29 at 8:30 p.m. The program will be hosted by David Donovan, a teacher at North Quincy High School. Donovan will interview handicapped adults, focusing upon their independent living skills and their integration into the community.

Donovan will also explore how handicapped adults wish to be treated. Viewers are encouraged to phone in with questions to the program participants. Immediately preceding this program at 8 p.m. is a segment of Families. Dr. Ronald Hersch, Ph.D., a psychologist, and his guests discuss how cerebral palsy has affected the members of their families.

Other segments of Families are also scheduled during this week. On March 26 a program dealing with the effects of traumatic injury on the family will be broadcast. Also, on Wednesday, March 30 at 9 p.m. another Families segment is scheduled. In this program Dr. Hersch and his guests discuss mental retardation and the family.

School Board Student Associates On Cable Talk

The four student representatives who serve as associate members to the Quincy School Committee will be special guests on the Quincy Community Television program Cable Talk March 31 on Chan. 3 at 9 p.m.

The four, who attend the regular meetings of the school board and participate in discussions pertaining to student matters, are:

Rocco Stracco, Quincy Vocational Technical; Garth Petracca, North Quincy High; Sue Dacey, Quincy High, and Edward Ahearn, Quincy Junior College.

The students discuss a variety of topics including drugs, size of classes, budgetary restraints, and quality education.

Cable Talk is a public affairs program produced at the Quincy Cable Systems studio by an all-volunteer workshop production crew of Quincy residents. The crew includes Bob Gohl, Mike Greene, Kay Borek, Diane and Edna Solander, Steve Mitchell, and John Noonan. Tom Fahey provides technical assistance.

Nickelodeon.
The channel for kids that's good fun.
And good television.

Kids love to watch TV. And a lot of parents are finding that there's one channel they don't mind their kids watching. In fact, they feel good about it.

On Nickelodeon, parents know their kids see quality entertainment. Exciting TV from the first and only channel exclusively for young people. Available only on cable TV, all day long.

Nickelodeon offers every age group commercial-free shows. All of them non-violent, with positive role models. It's no wonder the entire channel has been endorsed by the National Education Association.

At last, there's TV that both kids and adults can agree on.

The first channel for kids.

WEEK OF: MARCH 24

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19

A little clumsy, but very charming. Be careful in any sports-related program. Easy to meet new friends now, especially those with whom you have intellectual rapport.

PISCES — February 20-March 20

Thursday-Friday favor on the job patchups. Romantic fireworks may be flying on the weekend. Inventions and innovative ideas can earn you prestige and profit.

ARIES — March 21-April 20

Legal and money-related matters dominate the week, and arguments should be based on logic, not hearsay. Recent acquaintance is after a favor. Remember, you're a little vulnerable now.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22

Delays can be expensive; you may be on the phone a lot trying to get things moving. Mental stimulation is accentuated on weekend. Loved one may want you to pamper the ego.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21

Discusses with partner can be resolved if you emphasize humor. Weekend highlights shopping for antiques and nostalgia items. Read between the lines in all correspondence.

CANCER — June 22-July 22

Petty jealousies among friends can be distressing, but financial news is bright and relatives are becoming less critical. Knowledge accumulated through the years proves handy.

LEO — July 23-August 22

Present travel broadens horizons, affects outlook. Current role is that of interpreter; you have a knack for explaining fancy language and grasping the complex motives of friends.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22

An up-and-away week. There is an abundance of small pleasures, some travel-related. Meddling is tempting — but stay detached. Taurus counts on you for romantic counsel.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22

All your friends are enjoying a lucky streak, it seems. Your success comes from being alert to bright new opportunities. Creative and cultural activities spotlighted on weekend.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21

Efficiency peaks, but don't expect coworkers to follow example. If trying to make a difficult point, you succeed through subtle touches. Urge friends to start counting their blessings.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22

Tact has seldom been so important — loved ones are in a super-sensitive state. Spend more time organizing new spring look — and outlook. April Fool's tricks start a little early this year.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20

Keeping a low profile helps you observe family conflict with objectivity. In romance, a light touch is the right touch. Publishing venture is spotlighted by Tuesday.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

A quick wit, an insatiable thirst for knowledge — but with so much on the go at once, you can be a bit forgetful. Simplification is year's keyword. Focus attention on old friends, and get to know all your relatives a little bit better.

BORN THIS WEEK

March 24th, actor Norman Fell; 25th, singer Aretha Franklin; 26th, actress Vicki Lawrence; 27th, singer Sarah Vaughan; 28th, actor Dirk Bogarde; 29th, actress Pearl Bailey; 30th, actor Warren Beatty.

Martell had three assists and Dave Owens and Sullivan one each. Barry Gibbs and Marty Tolson scored for Grogan's with assists for Tolson, Gibbs and Dave Casey.

Somersault Gym Team Looks Good Against Ellis

The Class III girls' gymnastics team from the Somersault Center of North Quincy hosted an older team from the Ellis School of Gymnastics in its first home meet and made a fine showing.

The team is composed of girls between the ages of 10 and 12 from Quincy, Milton and Dorchester. They have completed this year under the USGF compulsory rules and traveled all over Eastern Massachusetts. This is their first year in the program and have shown improvement every week.

In the meet against Ellis Kathy Johnson and Sally Donovan came on strong in the all-around, scoring over 31 points. Carolyn Janik, Debbie McArde, Katie Doyle, Allyson Lawrence, Erin Connolly and Lori Breen had their best vaults of the season, scoring at least 8.0. Marianne Janik's beam routine was her best of the year.

Amy Johnson looked on floor exercise at 7.3. Joanne Ryan keeps improving on her all-around score and two newcomers in their first meet, Allyson Palmer and Kelly Cameron, looked good.

MDA Lucky Total Contest At Olindy's

The final drawing in the month-long Lucky Total Contest for Muscular Dystrophy at Olindy's Bowling Alleys is set for Monday, March 28.

John Mezzetti, co-owner of Olindy's, will bowl three strings and the person who bowls -- or guesses -- closest to Mezzetti's total will win a Paramount bowling ball and carrying bag set.

Each entry requires a 50 cent fee and all proceeds are to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association, which provides comprehensive medical services to children and adults on the South Shore.

The contest is sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Telephone Committee for MDC, co-chaired by Henry Bosworth and Richard J. Koch.

Winner of the March 14 drawing was Robert O'Neil of Quincy.

St. Joseph's Samsons Advance In Tourney

St. Joseph's Samson basketball team defeated St. Thomas More of Braintree, 23-12, in the quarterfinals of the South Shore YMCA tournament. Ralph Bevilacqua Jr., paced St. Joseph's with 16 points and had three assists. E.J. Nordstrom had seven points, seven assists and nine rebounds and Jim Reardon had six steals.

Brian Page, Dean Morris, Jason Simon and Ken Downey all played strong defense.

Council Passes Koch Pay Raise

The City Council Monday night passed an ordinance change giving Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Department, a raise from $26,478 to $31,240. It was noted that Koch, longtime executive secretary of the Park and Recreation Department, recently added the Cemetery Department to his list of supervisory duties.

City Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr., Koch's son, left the Council chamber before the vote on his father's raise was taken.

Mayor On Tax Rate Trip

Mayor Francis X. McCauley expects to go to Boston today (Thursday) with all the figures necessary to set a tax rate for fiscal 1983, the current year.

He declined to speculate on what that rate might be, noting that a precise figure for the total valuation of the city is not yet available, but indications are it will be about $175.

The tax rate for fiscal 1982 was $205.60.

"I don't expect the state to give its approval right away," said McCauley. "They will have to take the time to look at the numbers."

The mayor said he expects Auditor Robert E. Foy III and the three city assessors, Chairman Elmer "Mike" Fagerlund, Patricia Ceriani and James Papile will accompany him to the Department of Revenue.

Sunday Retail Reaction: Some 'Quite Satisfied,' Others 'Too Soon To Tell'

Reaction among local merchants to the opening of Quincy stores, for the first time, following the lifting of the so called "Sunday Blue Laws", was mixed.

Comments ranged from "quite satisfied" to "it's too soon to tell", depending on the merchant contacted.

Several downtown and parking area stores took advantage of the new law and opened their doors between noon and 6 p.m.

Most stores were closed and many of those indicated they will wait until the Sunday after Easter before opening.

Leroy L. (Sandy) Rounseville, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said it was a bit too soon to make any general summary of the situation.

Rounseville, proprietor of Beacon Fabrics, Hancock St., said he did not open his store and doesn't plan to do so until after Easter.

However as head of the business association he said he did survey several stores Sunday afternoon and found that customers were taking advantage of the new shopping hours at T.J. Maxx's, Sawyer's, and others.

"The real test will come after Easter," Rounseville said. He pointed out that there is plenty of free parking available on Sundays, and there are no meter maids tagging cars.

Kenneth Fallon, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, reported that the merchants he talked with about Sunday opening were quite pleased with the results.

Over the past couple of years, by special act of the legislature, stores were allowed to open on certain Sundays prior to Christmas.

Liquor Sales Prohibited Good Friday Afternoon

The sale of liquor will be prohibited in all Quincy establishments Good Friday from noon to 3 p.m., according to a ruling by the

This year a new law allows stores to open on all Sundays of the year. Only liquor package stores are restricted from Sunday opening by the new law.

Michelle Vaughters, spokesman for the Stop and Shop Public Relations office in Quincy said her company was "quite satisfied" and "very happy" with the turnout of food shopping customers at its stores on Newport Ave. and Southern Artery.

Shaw's and Star Market, the other major food chain stores with Quincy outlets, were both closed Sunday.

William Concannon, spokesman for the Paperama store in the Parking-way, said "he was very surprised by the turnout" at his store.

The ruling applies to establishments such as restaurants, bars and package stores.

Rejects Blue Cross Proposal

Mayor Sees No Reason For Hospital Merger

By JOHN NOONAN

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he can see no valid reason at this time to consider Quincy City Hospital merging with South Shore Hospital.

Earlier this week two top Blue Cross-Blue Shield officials, John Larkin Thompson, Blue Shield president, and Leon White, Blue Cross vice-president, announced their opposition to the proposed new construction projects of the two hospitals and recommended the hospitals merge to avoid duplication of services, and, as a cost effective measure.

The Mayor said Quincy Hospital serves an entirely different community from that of the South Shore Hospital.

He emphasized that Quincy Hospital is not seeking to add more beds to its present capacity but it is petitioning the Public Health Council for approval of a Determination of Need certificate to allow the building of a more up-to-date facility.

McCauley said two and half years ago the administration of the hospital was turned over to a professional hospital management concern, Hospital Corporation of America.

"The placing of the administration of the hospital on strictly a business basis, without political interference, has worked out remarkably well," McCauley said.

He said hospital officials are now planning to serve the needs of the Quincy community for the 1990's and after the year 2,000.

Under state law any proposed new hospital construction must be reviewed by the Public Health Council of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. A public hearing is then held by the Department to allow interested parties an opportunity to present opinions on the proposed plans.

Quincy Hospital officials submitted plans for approval and even scaled the plans down somewhat on recommendation of the Public Health Council, the

645 Applications For 80 Units At Hancock Court

Anyone who says there is a glut of apartment units available in Quincy should first check with the builders of the new high rise Hancock Court apartment complex on School Street.

For every apartment unit in that complex there are eight applicants hoping to be approved as future residents.

According to Arthur Casey, spokesman for the O'Connell Brothers Construction Company which has the building contract, 645 applications for the 80 units available have been received.

Casey said that the building is nearing completion and that June 1 has been set as the date when the first tenants will be moving in, if all goes right.

Casey made the "if all goes right" proviso because of the great number of applications received.

The project is designed, with the exception of the street level, for elderly citizens and handicapped persons. The street level units will consist solely of professional offices, such as physicians.

There are 64 apartment units with one-bedroom and 16 other units with two-bedrooms. Preference is given to the elderly and handicapped who meet certain requirements including income.

Prospective elderly tenants must be 62 years of age or older. A single elderly tenant must have an annual income in excess of $15,250. A couple may have a combined income of no more than $17,400.

Handicapped persons in wheel chairs or who ambulate with the aid of walkers are eligible as tenants.

The applications will be reviewed by the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency after which eligible tenants will be notified.

Free Smoke Detectors For Eligible Residents

Free smoke detectors for Quincy residents who meet eligibility requirements are being made available through the City Department of Planning and Community Development.

Residents who live in community development block grant target areas and conform to certain income levels are eligible to apply for up to three detectors.

Eligible residents may contact Elizabeth McLaney at 773-1380, ext. 366 for answers to further questions and for applications.

The program is available

The income guidelines range:

Family Size	Income
1	$16,240
2	$18,560
3	$20,880
4	$23,200
5	$24,650
6	$26,100
7	$27,550
8	$29,000

for homeowners and tenants (who have the permission of the property owner).

Applications will be processed and the applicants notified as to eligibility approved.

Maintenance personnel involved in the community development programs will arrange a convenient time with the applicants for the installation of the detectors. The personnel have been trained by the Quincy Fire Department for proper placement of the detectors on each level of the applicant's place of residence.

The detectors are battery operated and give off a signal when a battery replacement is needed.

City of Quincy Community Development Block Grant Program Pre-Submission Hearings

As required by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) regulations governing the operation of the Community Development Block Grant Program, the City of Quincy, Department of Planning and Community Development will hold a series of pre-submission hearings on its 1983-1984 Community Development Block Grant applications before it is submitted to HUD for approval.

The purpose of these hearings is to obtain comments from citizens on the programs to be funded starting July 1, 1983 through June 30, 1984. The hearings will give all residents of the City of Quincy an opportunity to find out how the 1983-1984 Community Development Block Grant monies will be spent.

The Department of Planning and Community Development urges all interested parties to attend one of these hearings in order to discuss any concerns and answer any questions relative to the programs of Quincy's 1983-1984 Community Development Block Grant application.

Copies of the 1983-1984 Community Block Grant application will be available in the Quincy Planning Department, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, for public review.

Funds Needed To Replace Vandalized Dunking Tank

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A dunking tank owned by the North Quincy High School Band Alumni, which has raised nearly $5,000 for various charities over the past three years, is now in need of funds itself.

The tank, valued at $1,000, was destroyed by vandals recently in the parking area of Woodward Spring, Quincy Center.

"It's very demoralizing," said Bryant Carter, alumni treasurer, who said that only the trailer for the tank could be salvaged.

The vandals apparently used tools such as crow bars, hammers, and hack saws to cause the damage since parts of the tank were pulled apart, things unscrewed and parts scattered, said alumni president Matthew Warner.

The 4-by-4 cubic foot tank, which holds about 1,000 gallons of water, had been parked at Woodward Spring for the past six or seven months, according to Rick Aramiam, alumni secretary.

It has been a popular attraction at local events such as the annual Sidewalk Bazaar in downtown Quincy and the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon at the Quincy Sun pledge center.

The 60-70 member band alumni also rent the tank to community groups. Part of the proceeds go towards the two scholarships that the group awards each year.

Carter estimates it will cost $1500 to replace the three year old tank. To donate money or services, contact Carter at Woodward Spring, 111 McGrath Highway.

"We were just starting to get ahead," lamented Carter, "now we have to start from scratch."

No Change In Bay Inn Suspension

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
"I'm very disappointed that they didn't even discuss it," said Councillor Joanne Condon after the License Board failed to honor her request Tuesday for reconsideration of the Quincy Bay Inn's license suspension.

The board voted last week to suspend the liquor license Monday, March 28, and Tuesday, March 29, after an incident which resulted in the Aquarius Lounge, now known as Le Mirage, ordered closed for the night by police.

Unbeknownst to some of the board members, the lounge is normally closed on the days of the suspension.

"What they (the board) did was not meaningful enough," said Mrs. Condon.

During this week's meeting, City Clerk John Gillis, who is board chairman, read Mrs. Condon's written request for reconsideration and opened the hearing to any discussion.

When none was forthcoming, the matter was placed on file.

"I was satisfied with the board's action taken last week," Gillis said after the meeting.

"I think it was sufficient. It was made with all good intentions."

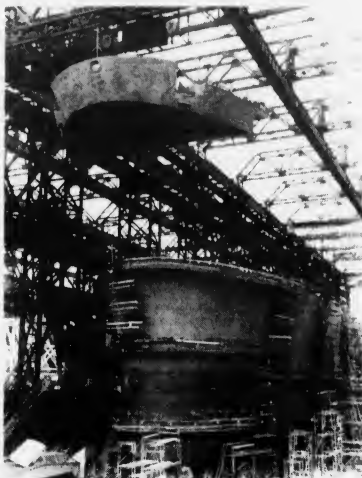

Mrs. Condon disagreed. "A number of people have talked to me about it," she said. "I've had comments from police, bar owners, and constituents, all of whom seem to think what the board did was foolish."

"By not reconsidering, the board didn't support the police. The lounge should've been closed additional times."

Though the board didn't reconsider the suspension, it did announce it will develop guidelines on police detail requirements, an apparent source of misunderstanding between the board and Quincy Bay Inn.

"In the interim, all liquor licensed establishments will adhere to the restrictions imposed on them in their licenses by the Board of License Commissioners," said Fire Chief Edward Barry.

"If in the judgement of the police, there is need for additional police personnel at a particular establishment, such additional police personnel shall be provided by the licensed establishments at the expense of such licensed establishment."

THE BOW OF Massachusetts Electric's ship, Energy Independence, hangs suspended over the hull just prior to being lowered into place. Construction of the ship, which will be the first ocean-going, coal-fired vessel built in the United States in more than 25 years, is in its final stages at General Dynamics Shipyard in Quincy. When the Energy Independence begins operation in the summer of 1983, it will transport 2.2 million tons of domestic coal per year from ports along the eastern seaboard to the company's Brayton Point Station in Somerset and Salem Harbor Stations in Salem.

Car Windows

Smashed

Morris Semigran of 77 Adams St., Quincy Center, reported to police the rear and driver's side windows of his car were smashed while it was parked at the above address.

More Schools Added To Work-To-Rule

Two more schools, Lincoln Hancock and Atlantic, have joined the roster of Quincy learning institutions under "work-to-rule".

The schools are the 13th and 14th to participate in the action whereby teachers perform no duties outside of their contracts.

"We're still protesting stalled contract negotiations," said Herman (Hank) Pasquerella, head of the Quincy Education Association. "We're aggravated."

Pasquerella said that, at an open meeting of the school committee recently, parents spoke in varying degrees of support of the QEA's request for a one year contract that isn't subject to funding.

"We had been advised by the school committee that we had no friends out there," said Pasquerella.

The QEA head said that at the earliest, the next meeting between the teachers' union and school committee would be next week.

"We're not that optimistic," said Pasquerella, "if the school committee listened to the parents, we'd have a signed contract by now."

Pasquerella made a written request to Mayor Francis McCauley Tuesday for part of the unappropriate $300,000 in the city budget to fund the 1979 raises that teachers were voted but never received.

McCauley said he has taken the matter under advisement, but "does not expect to appropriate any additional money to the school department."

The mayor said some $400,000 in additional state aid has been given to the school department for salaries.

"The 1979 raise issues is dead now," added McCauley referring to the recent court ruling that the city is not liable to pay the 1979 raises.

Wants Quarries Preserved

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to speak out on an issue of vital interest to all Quincy residents. The Quincy quarries, an integral part of our city's heritage, are in danger of being commercially developed. Should we, as caring citizens, fail to act now, we would lose forever this unique legacy. The quarries must be preserved as public land.

Quincy granite was long valued for its flawlessness and blue color, making it a distinctive material to be used in the finest of local architecture. The Bunker Hill monument, many mansions on Beacon Hill, the Customs House in Boston, as well as many structures in downtown Quincy are made of Quincy granite. To transport these huge stone blocks to the sea, the first commercial railroad in the nation was constructed at the foot of the now endangered quarries.

When we blot out history, we lose more than we gain. A shared history contributes to a sense of community, which is a fragile feeling - hard even to generate in our transient society. Quincy is an exception: it is a family town, a multigenerational community. It is our place to foster this rare feeling; it is incumbent upon us to preserve our shared history. We want to show our children where we came from so that they, too, can grow up proud of their city and feel a part of its destiny.

The quarries are an attribute of which Quincy can well be proud. Currently, conservation groups are working together with the owner, the MDC, and city officials for ways of keeping the quarries as public land. As residents, we should contact our city representatives and voice our support to save a valuable historic park.

Alarm System Best Protection

An alarm system is a safe, psychological weapon to protect your life and property.

A loud, unexpected noise surprises an intruder, warns him that others have been alerted to his presence and sends him fleeing.

Alarm protection need not be expensive and now is available at prices most anyone can afford.

If you decide you need an alarm system, first do extensive research with the assistance of law enforcement and reputable companies as to the appropriate type for your home or business.

Types of alarms range from a simple, inexpensive noise alarm, battery operated and activated when a door or window is opened, to very sophisticated and costly systems.

Some examples: magnetic contact alarms attached to entry points in which a break-in opens a switch and triggers an alarm; pressure alarms operated by a footstep; photo-electric beams to protect certain points in the home or business; motion detectors; sound detectors; closed circuit television systems.

The choice of perimeter or area alarms or a combination of both is up to you. Your needs and your pocketbook determine what system is best for you.

Both do-it-yourself and professionally installed systems can be effective and reliable. Again, the choice is up to you.

For peace of mind, for protection of your valuables, for the protection of your family, you owe it to yourself to make certain that your home is as burglar-proof as possible through the use of proper locks plus the back-up protection an alarm system can give.

Baharian's Favorite Mayor?

Rev. Bedros Baharian served as chairman of the Planning Board under five mayors.

Does he have a favorite among them: James McIntyre, Walter Hannon, Joseph LaRaia, Arthur Tobin, Francis McCauley?

If he has a favorite, he isn't saying. But he obviously thinks very highly of Tobin.

During a recent interview on the "Newsmakers" program on Quincy cable TV Ch. 3, Baharian was asked about Tobin compared to the other four mayors.

And, Baharian responded:

"All those fellows are friends of mine and men with whom I've worked. To compare one against the other, I think, is too difficult to do because they're different people but Arthur Tobin was good for the city of Quincy."

"I felt that Arthur - and I was very close to him and saw him on virtually a daily basis - put a great deal of time far more than many people realize or appreciated. He worked hard and the development that we have in the city today would not have happened in the four-year period he was in office without not only his support but his leadership."

"Arthur was really the catalyst, the salesman, that sold National Fire Protection to come to the city of Quincy. He started working on them two days after the election and before he was inaugurated in office, he and I had pretty much succeeded in selling them on what a great place the city of Quincy was to come to."

Take a bow, Arthur.

SANDRA McCAULEY, Quincy's present First Lady, is a shy, quiet person who likes to stay in the background.

So, it isn't too surprising how a reader responded to this question in last week's Quincy Quiz in The Sun: "What is the first name of Mayor Francis McCauley's wife?"

The answer, from the reader: "Shirley".

Shirley, of course, is the first name of Sandra's immediate predecessor as First Lady Shirley Tobin who also liked to remain in the background.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipefitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

Klein Criticizes News Media In Court Coverage

Andrew Klein, the chief probation officer at Quincy District Court, came down hard last week on the news media, criticizing its coverage of the court system.

Klein told interviewers on the Quincy Cable-system's program "News-makers" that there is "widespread ignorance about what is going on in the courts, largely due to the media."

"The average case in the Quincy court is an 18-year-old kid stealing a car," he said. "It's not the mass rapist or the person who robs a gas station with a gun. But that's not what we have in the public mind."

"We watch television and we have a wrong idea."

"We think the criminal is basically a lot different than what he is. Chances are in this community the person who rips you off lives within a few blocks of you. It's not the evil hordes commuting from Boston."

Klein said he feels, like many court critics, that the courts are too lenient with some offenders.

"The courts are too lenient in that we wait too long before we crack down on some offenders," he said. "But, in comparison to some other courts, the Quincy court is not lenient."

"The major difference between Quincy and other courts is not how liberal we are but how much more accountability we hold offenders, how much more money they have to pay in restitution."

"We collected more restitution last year than the entire probation department of the city of New York. If people don't pay it we hold them accountable. Last year, our court sent 203 offenders to the House of Correction and 99 were the result of probation revocations."

Klein said the Quincy court sends "more people to jail now than we did several years ago but we send them for shorter periods of time. The goal of sentencing now is different."

"It's not all or nothing punishment. The goal of sentencing now is to get somebody to do something constructive. If they don't do it we send them to jail."

One of the reasons for overcrowded jails, he said, is that "we wait too long to send someone to jail and then we send them for too long. If we hit people harder at the beginning of their criminal careers maybe we wouldn't have to wait."

"The average violent street criminal in this country is 18 or 19 years old. The average age of the inmate in state prison is 25. So we're locking people up for long periods of time but we're getting them after their careers are done. We're not providing more public safety."

Klein said the restitution program at Quincy District Court has increased every year since 1975 "but we still have not collected nearly the amount of money that's due victims of crime."

The nationally known Earn-It program at Quincy District Court, he said, has averaged about 1,500 persons a year over the past five years and the program has a recidivism rate of about 14 per cent.

Klein acknowledged that there have been thefts at the Quincy courthouse, which is open several nights a week for alcoholic and restitution programs.

"I had a jacket stolen, so I know about it," he said.

"But given the large number of people and the openness of the courthouse and the fact that we collect millions of dollars, we have been fortunate."

"We try to keep the building open as much as possible to serve the public. One of the risks in that is that there will be some thefts."

Klein was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of the Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

City Workers Face Pay Cuts In '32 Budget

Five to 10 per cent wage reductions for all city employees except teachers appeared certain following a conference among Mayor Thomas J. McGrath, Council President John P. Flavin and Chairman Eddie D. Carson of the Council's Finance Committee.

The move to cut pay came after John J. Hughes and Edward Hanrahan, president of the Police and Firemen's Relief Associations respectively, told the mayor that their members refused to accept his plan to donate 2½ week's pay back to the city.

March 31-April 6, 1932
51 Years Ago This Week

President Flavin said the Council, which had a plan of its own for the donation of two weeks' pay by employees, will pass the budget for 1932 within a week and it will include a sliding scale of wage cuts.

Mayor McGrath also ordered his own salary as mayor to be cut by $500 in the budget but there was some question whether or not that was legal since the law provides that his salary may not be increased or decreased while he is in office.

PLUMBERS STRIKE

More than 25 journeymen plumbers in union shops throughout the city went out on strike in a dispute with the master plumbers over the size of a pay cut they would take to help the shops through difficult economic times.

The journeymen had agreed to take a wage cut from $1.50 to $1.25 an hour but the masters had given an ultimatum that they would only pay $1.12½ per hour.

LIQUOR DOWN DRAIN

More than 600 gallons of confiscated wine was poured down the drain in the rear of the police station and some 500 gallons of other liquors were sent to Boston to be disposed of by the state.

The illegal booze was confiscated over the past eight months in raids in Quincy by Police Lt. James H. Whelan, the chief liquor officer, and his men.

Mayor continued.

"We are awaiting final approval to go ahead with our future planning and I have no intention to change those plans and seek a merger of our hospital with that of the South Shore," McCauley said.

He reiterated that Quincy Hospital serves a very separate and distinct population and that South Shore Hospital serves an entirely different population in another area.

Quincy Hospital plans are designed to serve the medical needs of the Quincy population for many years, he stressed.

The final decision on the Quincy Hospital construction project rests with the Public Health Council and not with Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

According to a statement issued by James E. Lowenhagen, Quincy Hospital Director, Blue Cross-Blue Shield officials had never contacted hospital officials concerning opposition to the proposed new construction project or with any recommendation that Quincy merge with the South Shore hospital.

Lowenhagen concurred with Mayor McCauley in that the proposed project is strictly a modernization program to meet the needs of the future.

He also said that bed capacity would not be increased by these plans.

O'Neil Sisters In Charity Promenade On Easter Sunday

The 10 O'Neil sisters, whose participation in Boston's Easter parade became a tradition in the 1940's and 1950's, will be on Commonwealth Ave. again this Easter.

Only this time, the sisters, who include three Quincy residents, will be officiating as judges of the fourth annual Boston Charity Spring Promenade, organized by the Mass. County Mounty Patrol.

In years past, the 10 girls, dressed alike in outfits sewn by their mother, would march in the parade with their two brothers flanking the ends.

"We would sure love to have a family all dressed alike win a prize," says Ginny O'Neil of Jamaica Plain.

Jane Deery, 50, of Quincy, has followed in her mother's footsteps with 10 children of her own. She is an active member of St. John's Church.

Evelyn Kiley of Squantum, mother of six, buys, sells and manages real estate as well as teaches classes for the elderly.

Another Quincy resident, Fran Gannon, mother of three sons, is recruitment coordinator for the Sloan School of Management at MIT.

Over $8,000 Raised In QJC Alumni Phonothn

More than $8,000 was raised for student scholarships during Quincy Junior College Alumni Association's first annual phonothn.

Over 60 college alumni, students, faculty and staff telephoned members of the school's alumni to help establish the scholarships.

"We are very pleased with the response," said Dr. Linda Wilson, dean of students and coordinator of alumni affairs. "This is the first time alumni have been asked to give financial support to the college."

She noted that many of the gifts will be doubled by matching contributions from employers.

"Our goal is to provide a total of $10,000 in new scholarships and it is evident that we're going to reach it," she said.

Those alumni who could not be reached by telephone will be contacted by mail.

Calls were made on four nights last week. Coordinating the project was James Haddad of Marshfield, a member of the Alumni Council.

Dramatic Re-creation At Co-Operative Parish

The four congregations of the United Methodist Co-Operative Parish of Quincy will share in a dramatic re-creation of a First Century Christian gathering Maundy Thursday, tonight at 6:30 p.m. at Wollaston United Methodist Church.

The evening will include the sharing of eye-witness New Testament stories and Agape (Love Feast).

Fellowship dinner arrangements are being completed by Esther Paulsen.

Participants in the dramatization are Paul Nogueira as Nicodemus, Dorothy Nogueira, the Woman and His Robe; Frieda Dirks, the Children and Jesus; Sybil Whyte - Peter's Denial; Mary Sherriff - The Crucifixion; and Margaret Minyard - The Resurrection.

The Rev. Dr. Theodore Romberg, and Rev. Walter Wnek will share in the Breaking of the Bread and the Sharing of the Cup.

For reservations to the meal, call the Parish Office at 328-1264.

Easter Sunday, there will be 9:30 a.m. services at the Adams Shore and Wollaston Churches, and 11 a.m. services at the Atlantic and Quincy Centre Churches.

The four congregations celebrated Palm Sunday at the last Union Service for the month of March at the Atlantic Church.

Rev. Dr. Romberg preached "Palm Sunday - From Life to Death".

The Choir Anthem was "The Palms" by Faure; the Offertory was a duet sung by Ted and Ruth Romberg entitled "All Glory, Laud and Honor" by Teschner.

Lay reader was Mrs. Grace Shields. Members and friends were greeted by Bob and Barbara McConaghy.

The Mother's Club served its Annual Palm Sunday Brunch following morning worship.

St. John The Baptist Church School Street, Quincy, Mass.

HOLY WEEK SCHEDULE

Dear Friends:

May you and your loved ones experience personally and together all the happiness of Easter, that truly wonderful day when Jesus Christ made possible for us a new life that will never end.

Be strengthened, be encouraged by Christ's words, "I am with you always." He understands your needs, your problems. Place them in his hands, through prayer.

Open your heart to others in Christ's name through kindness and understanding and His love will reach more people through you. Attend and participate in these Holy Week Services and receive Holy Communion each time, and may the strength you derive from celebrating Christ's Paschal mystery fill your heart and your home with lasting peace.

In the Risen Christ.

Holy Week, Easter Services At Bethany Church

Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Easter Sunday services will be held at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center.

A special Maundy Thursday service will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Bethany sanctuary.

The first portion of the worship will be the observance of Holy Communion, since Maundy Thursday commemorates Christ's institution of the Last Supper in the Upper Room.

Associate minister, Rev. Joel F. Huntington will give the meditation on "Free to Serve" based on the Gospel lesson from John 13:1-20.

The senior minister, Rev. J. William Arnold, will conduct the liturgy. Deacons serving the Communion will be William F. Greene, Russell Hodgkins, Robert Lockwood, Kinia Mikami, and Edwin Roberts.

Peter E. Krasinski and the organ console will direct the chancel choir in two anthems, "A Legend" by Tchaikovsky, and a composition by T. Tertius Noble, "Go To Dark Gethsemane."

The second portion of the service will be the fourth century office of Tenebrae, which portrays the dramatic events leading to Christ's arrest, trial and crucifixion, as recounted in selected scripture passages. Readers represent the disciples.

Tenebrae readers will be Wendell Cosgrove, Robert DelVecchio, Olive Hodgkins, Barbara MacFarlane, B.

Warren French, Ruth Penn, Robert McLain, and Jean Ross.

As each reading is completed, a candle is extinguished and the sanctuary lights are dimmed until everything is in complete darkness, symbolizing the flight of all Christ's followers who deserted and left him alone in his hour of trial. The service closes in silence.

On Good Friday, April 1, there will be two identical 45-minute devotional services in remembrance of the death and burial of Jesus. The services, in the Bethany Chapel, will be held 12:15 to 1 p.m. and 7:30 to 8:15 p.m.

The services will include portions of "The Order for the Burial of the Dead" and a litany, "Confessions at the Tomb." The cross will be draped in black and a crown of thorns plant will be on the altar.

Organist Peter Krasinski will offer improvisations for the prelude, "Meditations on the Cross" and for the postlude "Meditations on the Tomb." Contralto soloist, Jean E. Bettinson, will sing "The Calvary Road" by Lillenas. Rev. Huntington will serve as the liturgist and Rev. Arnold will give the meditation, "In God's Embrace."

The resurrection of Jesus Christ will be celebrated Easter Sunday at 10 a.m. in the Bethany sanctuary.

There will be a brass ensemble, timpani, fanfare, soprano descants, stirring hymns and organ music, all under the direction of Krasinski. Prelude for organ and brass will be "Chaconne" by Couperin, and the postlude "Canzon duodecimi toni" by Gabrieli.

The Chancel Choir will sing, "The King Shall Come When Morning Dawns" by Lovelace. The Childrens Choir, under the guidance of Marsha Archer and Sandra Jones, will sing "Lord of the Dance" arranged by Sydney Carter. The combined Chancel and Childrens Choir, accompanied by brass, timpani, and organ, will present the "Fanfare for Easter" by Jane M. Marshall.

Marie Terese Giordano, lyric soprano, will offer the special selection, "Alleluia" from "Exsultate, jubilate" by Mozart.

"Victory Over Life" will be the sermon topic of Rev. Arnold. A responsive "Act of Joyful Adoration" will be led by Rev. Huntington.

Additional white clergy stoles and paraments for Easter, Baptism and Holy Communion, will also be dedicated.

Some 140 lilies will fill the chancel as symbols of Christ's resurrection and as memorials. The lilies will be given to persons confined at home, in hospitals, or in nursing homes.

The morning will begin with an Easter breakfast at 8:30 a.m. in Bethany's social hall for church members, friends, and guests.

The breakfast is sponsored by the Christian Education Committee under the leadership of Gerald Capobianchi and Jean C. Smart, with young people serving.

Church School classes will be omitted.

Maundy Thursday Observance At Squantum Church

The First Church of Squantum will hold a Maundy Thursday observance of the Lord's Supper tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

The Chancel Choir will sing.

Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin's sermon will be "The Unavoidable Cross."

Easter Sunday, members of the congregation and friends will gather at the church at 7:15 a.m. to drive to Moswuset Hummock for a morning Sunrise Service at 7:30 a.m.

After the service, worshippers will join in a breakfast cooked on the beach.

The Easter service is open to all, but persons wishing to participate in the breakfast are asked to make reservations in advance by calling the church office at 328-6649.

The traditional Easter service at the First Church of Squantum will be held at 10:30 a.m. Three choirs will participate. Dr. Langevin's sermon is entitled, "The Finest Day."

The Palm Sunday service began with an unusual reading of Luke's account of the events of the first Palm Sunday when Jesus entered Jerusalem acclaimed as a king.

Although the reading was narrated by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, speaking parts mentioned in the scripture were taken by persons who stood up and spoke their lines from where they were sitting in the congregation.

They included: Stewart Scott, Jesus; Barbara Walters, Gloria Cutler, Ralph Dougherty, owners of the colt; Siobhan Corrigan, Katharine Hansen, Joan Hansen, Barbara Anderson, disciples; Calvin and Gretchen Bumpus, Pharisees; with the church choirs as the crowd.

At the conclusion of the reading, the Junior Choir, the Youth Choir and the Chancel Choir formed a large procession which wended its way down the aisles and around the sanctuary with palms in hand, singing, "Prepare Ye The Way of the Lord" by Stephen Schwartz.

Robert Frazer sang the solo. Mary Ruth Scott accompanied on the piano. Mark Williams and Michael Stamos distributed palms.

After another Bible reading, the choirs processed down the aisle again, singing, "All Glory, Laud, and Honor," The Junior Choir and the Youth Choir combined to sing, "Blessed Is He" by Hal H. Hopson. As the offertory anthem, the Chancel Choir sang D.H. Williams' "Draw Nigh to Jerusalem."

Other hymns sung during the service were "Ride On, Ride On In Majesty", "God Is My Strong Salvation" and a special benediction written by the pastor.

Dr. Langevin preached on the topic, "The Things That Make For Peace," taking his text from the Jesus' words in Luke: "Would that even today you knew the things that make for peace! But now they are hid from your eyes." (19:42) Earlier, he had spoken to the children on the subject, "What a Parade!"

The service was preceded by the annual Palm Sunday Breakfast sponsored by the young people of the church. The breakfast was supervised by Hazel Mayne.

Greeters for the service were Paul and Mary Gifford. Ushers were Ken Johnson and Leon McIntyre.

The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Barbara Anderson and Shirley Mason. Renee Johnson and Adelaide Nelson were in charge of the Ladies' Aid Bake Sale table.

Stay Alive!

PREVENT KITCHEN FIRES

For most people, there's no finer investment than a home. But a fire can—in a matter of seconds—turn that dreamhouse into a nightmare. And neither homeowners insurance nor life insurance can compensate for the loss of a home, or, certainly, the people who live in it.

More fires start in the kitchen than in any other part of the home. Most of them, however, are food fires—a problem not related to construction of the building. But if there is a window above the stove, don't plan to hang curtains there when and if you become the owner.

If you have small children, you will want to be sure that burner controls on built-in ranges are not within reach of inquisitive fingers.

Many kitchen ceiling fixtures are unventilated and overlamped, producing heat that bakes insulation on wiring to a crisp. After moving in, such wiring should be replaced and lower-wattage bulbs installed.

Frank E. Remick Community Recognition

Tribute April 6

Quincy will play tribute to the late Frank E. Remick at a Community Recognition Memorial Service Wednesday, April 6, at noon at historic United First Parish Church, Unitarian, Quincy Sq.

The public is invited to the service in recognition of Mr. Remick, long-time prominent Quincy businessman and civic leader, who died March 7 in Boston where he made his home.

Mr. Remick owned and operated Remick's of Quincy from 1931 to 1979 when he retired. His father, the late Alfred H. Remick, founded the store in 1896.

Members of the Remick family are expected to attend the service which will have music by the North Quincy High School concert choir.

Words of tribute will be given by Paul Hurley, of Hurley Insurance Agency, Inc.; John R. Herbert, chairman of the board, Quincy Cooperative Bank, and former editor of The Patriot Ledger and Boston Herald Traveler; Kay McGlone, controller at Remick's of Quincy; former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin; Mayor Francis McCauley; and Rev. Keith Munson, minister, First Parish Church.

Ushers and planning committee members are Rev. Munson, Herbert, Miss McGlone, Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Dr. Lawrence Creedon, superintendent, Quincy public schools; Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr., executive director, Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; Roger Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home; Peter Kenney, executive secretary to Mayor McCauley; and Ronald Zooleck, executive vice president, South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Tillio DelMonte, 71, Retired Painter

A blessing will be given today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. in St. John's Church, Quincy Center, for Tillio DelMonte, 71, of Quincy, who died Monday at Quincy City Hospital.

A lifelong Quincy resident, he was a retired painter for General Dynamics and a former South Shore musician.

He was also a member of the Quincy Bowling League. He is survived by his wife, Edna (Coombs) DelMonte; a daughter, Edna Dahlgren of Virginia Beach, Va.; two brothers, John DelMonte and Fileno DelMonte, both of Quincy; two sisters, Palmera Mascioli of Quincy and Philomena Ricci of Braintree; two grandchildren; and three great grandchildren.

Visiting hours were scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday) 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at Vincent Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St.

Burial will be in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Elvira Santarpio, 98, Bakery Operator

A funeral mass was said March 21 at St. Anthony's Church, Somerville, for Elvira L. Santarpio of East Boston, who operated the Santarpio Bakery in Roxbury for 30 years.

She died March 18 in Mass General Hospital at the age of 98.

Mrs. Santarpio was the mother of Guy Santarpio and Elvira Sico, both of Quincy.

She is also survived by sons Henry of Watertown, Romeo of Newtonville, Vincent of Stoughton, Frank of Somerville and daughters Anna Camillio of Roslindale, Giuliano Falzarano of California, Rose Spacco of Dorchester, Pauline Edigion of East Boston, and Vivian Brown of Franklin.

A native of Italy, she came to Boston in the early 1900s and owned and operated the bakery in Roxbury with her husband from 1927 to 1957.

She leaves six sons, six daughters, 61 grandchildren, 75 great-grandchildren and 16 great-great grandchildren.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Christians accept as everlasting truth, the story of a happening in 33 A.D. . . . that a Man lived, was crucified, died and was buried in a tomb. They accept as truth that the tomb empty three days later. They accept as truth that He had risen, as He said He would . . .

They accept as truth the unchanged story told by one generation to another from the time of the Apostles. They accept as truth that resurrection is a fact and not a mere theory about death. They accept as truth that there is a literal, moral and spiritual sense about life, death and resurrection that makes sense. They accept as truth that just as He lived in the flesh yesterday, He lives today and will live tomorrow in everlasting fellowship, in glory and peace with God. They accept as truth that their own future can contain that same certainty. They accept as truth that there need be no fear of death . . . It's a wonderful truth, isn't it? . . .

PHARMACY TOPICS

By Edward David R.Ph.

Special urine tests can give early warning of active relapse in leukemia patients, long before symptoms appear. Certain body chemicals cast off in the urine change at this time and serve as markers. Correlation was discovered at Ohio State University in Columbus.

Ultrasonic scanner may replace the angiogram procedure as a test for arterial disease. It can monitor major arteries without injecting any substance into the body, and provides a Polaroid color print of the image.

A cure for baldness? Hyper-tension drug called minoxidil seems to grow hair on patient's heads. Manufacturer is now trying to develop a lotion that will do the same thing.

New ulcer drug, sucralate, has been found safe and effective. Unlike cimetidine, which acts systemically, sucralate works locally by protecting duodenal tissues from the effects of stomach acid, pepsin, and bile. Substitute for kidney stone surgery: West German procedure uses shock waves to shatter the stones. High success rate is reported.

Koch Club Planning 35th Anniversary Events

The Koch Club of Quincy will celebrate its 35th anniversary as a community service organization this year with a series of special events.

A dinner dance will be held Saturday, May 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the George F. Bryan V.F.W. Hall, Broad St., Quincy.

Annual programs of the Koch Club conducted in May and June will be incorporated into the special events announces Richard J. Koch, executive director and founder of the Quincy based group.

Established in May of 1948 with an intramural softball program at Cavanagh Stadium in North Quincy, the Koch Club has continued to flourish for 35 years with its emphasis in sponsoring youth and adult recreation teams and leagues.

Since 1948 more than 100,000 children and adults have enjoyed the variety of athletic, social and charitable endeavors sponsored on behalf of Quincy residents.

The Koch Club is comprised entirely of volunteers with four districts located in Quincy: the parent North Quincy District directed by Gary and Joan Demole, Broad Meadows District headed by Anthony and Gerry Delmonico, Montclair District led by Howard and Janet Crowley and West Quincy District directed by David and Margaret Donaghue.

Following the May 7 dinner dance, the sixth annual Memorial Mas for deceased members and friends will be held on Thursday, May 26 at Our Lady's Chapel of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

On Tuesday, June 14, the 32nd annual Flag Day Parade will be held in Quincy Center at 6:30 p.m. and the 35th annual Family Picnic will be conducted Sunday, June 26 at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park.

A souvenir newspaper highlighting the Koch Club History in stories and pictures will also be available during the activities.

Former and present members of the organization are invited to participate in any of the scheduled events and may contact Mr. Koch.

Quincy Bantam B's Win State Title

Quincy's Bantam B hockey team won the state championship recently, winning all five games played at Burlington and Woburn.

Quincy defeated Natick, 6-3, in the championship game as Mark Zimmerman had a hat trick. Mike Bille took two goals and Matt Furtado one. Bille had three assists, Zimmerman and Paul Connolly two apiece and Tim Hall, Billy Roche and Jon Hays one each.

Quincy defeated Melrose,

5-2, in its opening game, followed up with an 8-4 decision over Gardner, a 6-2 win over Arlington and in the semifinals downed Billerica, 5-2.

David Newcomb and Ron Fletcher were outstanding in goal and also playing well were David Hack, Bobby Furlan, Billy Lynch, Scott Hohmann, Mark McCabe, Peter Schofield, Bobby Salton, Peter Schuerch, and Mike Benson. The team was coached by Ernie Zimmerman and assistant Bud Furtado.

The Bantam B's will go to Lake Placid for an international tournament, then will play in the regional tournament in Natick April 8-10. Quincy will play Illinois in the opening game at 4 p.m. April 8.

Playing in the regionals will be teams from Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, N.H., Maine, Rhode Island, New York and Mass., represented by Quincy.

May Be A First

4 QYHA Teams Wearing State Crowns

The Quincy Youth Hockey Association has a right to be proud after the Squirt, Pee Wee and Bantam B teams all captured Div. 2 state championships and the Squirt A team last weekend added the state Div. 1 crown.

It is believed to be the first time one group has ever won four state titles in one season.

Previously QYH teams had won only four state titles, the Midgets in Div. 1 in 1975-76, Bantams Div. 2 in 1978-79, Squirts Div. 2 in 1980-81 and Squirts Div. 1 a year ago.

This year Quincy hosted the Squirt Div. 2 tournament, splitting it with the Randolph Arena, eight teams in Quincy and a like number in Randolph.

All visiting teams praised the Quincy facility and understood the uniqueness of a youth hockey organization owning its own arena. The City of Quincy has always given its full cooperation.

The Pee Wee B's played at the Cape Cod Coliseum and the Bantams in Burlington with the finals in Woburn. As they each won, the players and their parents returned to Quincy to join the Squirts in celebration.

The Quincy Bantam and Midget Div. 1 teams played in the state championships but neither was able to bring home a title.

The Pee Wee B's played in the Regionals last weekend in Buffalo against New York, New Jersey and Illinois.

The Bantams will play in the Regionals April 8-10 at Natick.

6 Quincy Wrestlers On All Star Team

Mike Notarangelo (114 pounds), Joe Madden (134), John DePolo (140), Mario Venturini (147), Bill Rollins (157) and heavyweight Jamie Gravelle of Quincy High were named to the Suburban League wrestling all-star first team.

Quincy's Dave Coulter

(100), Bill Marston (121), Kevin Cabezas (169) and Bob Willard (188) were selected to the second team.

'Run For Your Life' Set For April 24

The annual "Run for Your Life" five-mile road race, sponsored by the Run For Your Life Committee and sanctioned by the NEAC, will be held Sunday, April 24, starting at noon at the Long Island Hospital and finishing at the Atlantic Middle School on Hollis Ave., North Quincy.

Registration will be held at the Atlantic Middle School starting at 10 a.m. and no registration will be accepted after 10:45 a.m. Buses will leave there for Long Island Hospital. No alternative means of transportation will be allowed.

A trophy will be presented to the winner as well as awards to the first three men and first three women in the following categories: 18 and under, 19 to 29, 30 to 39, 40 to 49, 50 to 59 and 60 and over. A "Run For Your Life" T-shirt will be given to the first 250 runners registering.

There is a $5.00 pre-registration fee and $6.00 the day of the race. Proceeds will be used to continue the "Run For Your Life" scholarship and to purchase cardiac equipment.

Applications should be made to "Run For Your Life", c/o Richard H. Meade, 31 Greene Street, Quincy 02170.

3 Track Club Members Shine

Three Quincy Track Club members scored well in the recent TAC N. E. Indoor Track championships at Taunton High.

Karen Cashmen won three events, the 50-yard hurdles, 1000-yard run and shot put for girls 11 and 12 years of age.

Laura Ciulla placed second in the 300-yard run for girls 13 and 14 and Sutee Sirikanjanikhai took second in the mile race for boys 11 and 12.

Gilbody On All-Star Team

Quincy High senior Paul Gilbody has been selected to the Mass. Basketball Coaches Association Academic All-Star team.

The criteria for selection is demanding. A player must have SAT scores of 1100 and be in the upper one-fourth of his class as well as excelling on the basketball court.

St. Ann's Blue Knights Parochial League Champs

St. Ann's Blue Knights basketball team won the South Shore Parochial School League title with a 14-0 record and then defeated St. Joseph's of Holbrook and Sacred Heart of Kingston to win the league tournament and qualify for the state tournament.

St. Ann's made the state finals and dropped a 65-63 overtime heartbreaker to St. Raphael's of Medford, the defending state champion which had four returning starters in the lineup.

Thanks to the tremendous board work by Tommy McDonald and George Reese, outstanding defense by Chris Barry and consistent outside shooting and driving layups of Co-Captains Jay Moreschi and Bill Burkhead, St. Ann's kept the game close.

In its opening game St. Ann's had edged St. Pius of Lynn, the undefeated North Shore champion, 49-48, on Robbie MacDonald's 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer.

Despite a definite height advantage St. Pius couldn't pull away and the score saw-sawed back and forth. St.

Ann's went up, 47-46, with 28 seconds to play but St. Pius scored on a desperation shot with 13 seconds left.

Playing without Burkhead, who had been in foul trouble, St. Ann's called time out to set up the last shot. "We had three plays called," said Coach Jim McNeil, but it took the 25-foot shot by McDonald to win it.

St. Ann's received fine work from its bench, as Peter Quevillon, Ken McLaughlin, John Henry, John McManus and Robbie McDonald came through whenever called upon.

As this year's B team lost only three games, St. Ann's is hoping for another shot at the title next season.

NQHS Football Boosters Special Meeting

Parents of members of the North Quincy High School football team are urged to attend a special meeting of the Boosters Club Monday.

April 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Plans are underway for the next football season, but input and ideas from parents is sought. Volunteers are needed in almost every phase of operating the Boosters Club.

The Boosters Club provides buses to games, donates equipment for the team, the Friday night films, trophies and sports banquet at the end of the season.

Lyons Goals Boost Clan To State Cup

The Clan MacGregor soccer team of Quincy scored four goals in the last 15 minutes to overcome a one-goal deficit and defeat the Worcester Scandinavians by the two-game score of 4-1 and win the state cup and championship in Shrewsbury.

Johnny (Dobbler) Lyons booted three goals for the Clan and Alec Beattie had the other.

The MacGregors lost the first of the two-game, total-goal series to the Scandinavians by a 1-0 score at Lincoln Park, Boston, when a Worcester kick eluded Finlay, the Quincy goalie, at the 25 minute mark.

The Clan MacGregor lineup in the final game included: Finlay, goal; Milne, J. Hay, backs; Allison, T. Hay, Christie, halves; S. Hay, Lyons, Hutchinson, Beattie, Greer, forwards.

BETHANY TAKES TITLE

Johnny Bagen threw in nine points to lead his Bethany Congregational team to a 23-20 victory over the United Synagogue team and capture the Greater Quincy Church Basketball League championship in two straight games.

Dan Lubarsky had 10 points for the losers. Bethany drew first blood in the two-game title series with a 20-18 decision with Pierce getting nine points and Bagen and Ellis Hughes throwing a defensive blanket over the Lubarsky boys, Dan, Louie and Mush.

The Bethany lineup included: Church, Sullivan, Tirri, forwards; Pierce, Spear, McDonald, centers; Began, Hughes, guards.

The United Synagogue lineup included: M. Lubarsky, Asnes, Shapiro, forwards; Cutler, center; L. Lubarsky, Abel, D. Lubarsky, guards.

GERMAINE PINS IOVANNA

Ted Germaine of South Boston used an airplane whirl to pin Johnny Iovanna, the colorful Manet AC wrestler, in the third and deciding fall of their bout at Joe Beston's gym before the largest crowd ever to attend a wrestling match in Quincy.

LANGE KAYOS TWO

Paul Lange of Quincy knocked out Henry Gezar of Lynn in two rounds and kayoed Frankie O'Brien of Brockton in the first round to win the 126-pound novice division title in George "Tex" Reed's amateur boxing tournament at Brockton Arena.

PHANTOMS TAKE THIRD

Joe Winship tossed in a game-high 12 points to escort the Quincy Phantoms to a 32-25 decision over the North Enders and win the City Junior Basketball League title for Coach Bill Nugent's team for the third straight year.

Dr. Russell Doucette Collection At Thayer Academy Gallery

The primitive art collection of Dr. Russell Doucette of Quincy, will be on display at the Thayer Academy Gallery now through April 22.

For more than 30 years, he had been collecting art and artifacts from Polynesia, Melanesia and the aborigine culture of Australia, all in their native environments.

Recently, he has extended his interests to Pre Columbian Americas. The collection was made for its teaching value as well as its aesthetic and humanistic appeal.

The gallery is open from 8:30 - 3:30 when school is in session.

Mother-Child Program At YMCA

The South Shore YMCA is offering a new program for mothers and children age 1-2 years old.

The program involves fitness instruction, gymnastic instruction, and hand and eye coordination skills for the mother and child to participate in together. The children will learn ball skills, rope skills, songs, aerobics, and stretching exercises. It's a good program to get the mother and child involved in learning together and staying in shape together.

The class will start April 14 and continue on Thursdays from 10:30 - 11:15 a.m. for eight weeks.

Following the class, there is a Water Babies class from 11:30 - noon.

For more information, contact: Anne Rosa - 479-8500.

Registration Begins For Beechwood Classes

Registration is underway for spring classes at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Classes will begin the week of April 11. More information is available by calling 471-5712.

New classes are being offered in arts and crafts.

Cake decorating will be held Thursdays, 7 to 9 p.m. for eight weeks.

Ceramics is scheduled for Mondays, 7 to 9 p.m. Instruction, selected paints and the firings are included in the fee.

A four-week beginning needle work class Monday mornings will explore needlepoint, quilting, candlewicking, counted cross stitch and crewel.

A poetry workshop will be held 10 a.m. to noon. Silkscreen will be offered for middle school and senior high students on Saturdays 12-2 p.m. Students will design and print their own T-shirts, pillow cases.

Children's Art classes are offered Tuesday afternoons, afterschool and Saturday mornings.

Regular classes for Tailoring, Calligraphy, Quilting, Oil Painting and Watercolor will be continuing.

The "Be-Fit" Center will offer aerobics classes for teens through senior adult, mornings, after school and evenings.

Yoga is offered Monday mornings and Thursday evenings. Weight Control Exercise groups meet Wednesday evenings.

Pre-School Tumbling will be offered two times this session: Friday at 10 and Saturday at 11 a.m.

Jazz-Tap-Ballet lessons are offered Wednesday evenings and Saturdays.

Several children's classes will be continuing in the spring.

Spanish Classes are offered Thursday afternoons.

Fun Factory, an art and movement class for children 2½ to 4 years, will continue Monday and Wednesday mornings.

Theater for Fun, a drama, music and movement class, will begin working on its next stage show to be performed in June.

Recorder Clubs, Blues Piano and Popular Piano Styles classes are offered as well as private music lessons for all musical instruments.

Rose Of Tralee Contest At St. Ann's

St. Ann's Parish, Wollaston, will sponsor the Rose of Tralee contest at the monthly dance Saturday, April 9.

All girls of Irish ancestry, between the ages of 18 and 25, are eligible to participate.

The winner from St. Ann's will compete in the Boston finals to be held at Lantana in June.

The overall Boston winner will receive a free trip to Ireland and will represent Boston in the Rose of Tralee pageant in Tralee, County Kerry in August.

Quincy Closed Captioning Cable Decoders Available In April

American Cablesystems Corporation, in conjunction with the National Captioning Institute, announces plans to make closed captioning cable decoders available to cable subscribers in Quincy and Arlington.

American Cablesystems' subscribers who are hearing impaired will be the first in New England to have the opportunity of enjoying cable television with closed captioned programming.

David Keefe, vice president for American's Massachusetts Operations, said

"The decoders offer the hearing impaired access to programming they have long been denied. We sincerely hope that our company's commitment to offer the closed captioned devices will lead to an increase in the variety of closed-captioned programming available," Keefe said.

Currently, there are 40 hours of closed captioned programming per week, including exclusive cable programs on SHOWTIME and ESPN, as well as ABC World News Tonight and PBS favorites -- Nova, Sesame Street, and Masterpiece Theatre.

The special decoder will provide subtitles in clear, uppercase white printed letters on a black band. Two text channels are also available with the decoder. One provides news, weather and sports, while the second channel offers a schedule of all captioned programming for the week.

In making the decoder available to subscribers who might wish to use the service, American Cablesystems will sell the decoder at cost for $275 or rent the decoder for $12.50 per month. There will be no installation charge. American Cablesystems in Quincy will make the decoders available in March.

Arlington subscribers will be able to obtain the units in April.

Residents in Quincy can obtain information on the decoders by calling Quincy Cablesystems, 471-9611.

American Cablesystems Corporation serves more than 85,000 subscribers in Massachusetts, New York, Virginia, West Virginia, and Tennessee. The company will make closed-captioned decoders available to subscribers in other systems later this year.

WEEK OF: MARCH 31

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Tighten the money belt and avoid speculative ventures. Bringing skills up-to-date and planning for the future are worthwhile tasks. Friend's memory cannot be relied on.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

It's easy to underestimate the expenses of a trip or the work involved in a fitness program. You can face professional challenges with a determination that wins applause.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Important challenges greet you as the month gets under way. Detective work engaged in this week proves highly rewarding. Financial news - brighteners are arriving in pairs.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Expressing your ambitions to a trusted relative can prove therapeutic. Bold and creative touches are accented in your new spring look. Weekend presents series of delays.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Friends may catch you off guard, so avoid controversial subjects unless you're backed up with facts. Financial restraint is critical through the week. Loved one wants pampering.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Staying informed of community and workplace happenings is all-important. Romantic fog begins to clear by weekend; you're starting to see where the relationship is headed.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Leo people can be a shade too independent now. If you don't open up, you may wind up on a lonely limb. Unexpected communication solves a mystery or answers a complex question.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Finance-related tensions start easing up, and it's possible to make money from a hobby or take on a profitable sideline. In requesting professional favors, timing is absolute.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

One of the luckiest weeks in months. Also, a time to be more receptive to the wishes of loved ones. Friends of the opposite sex help you articulate important goals.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Joint efforts bring satisfying results - a fine week for entering into partnerships. Financial prospects gradually improve through the period. Property matters require new opinions.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Discreetly question the motives of super-eager friends or colleagues. Healthwise, dress appropriately for changing conditions. On-the-job success rate increases dramatically.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Tend to minor ailments promptly - procrastination is your enemy. Feeling of being cooped up can be overcome with spontaneous jaunt. Offbeat ideas begin to prove their worth.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

A born leader, naturally aggressive, ready to take charge in any crisis. Sometimes you look forward to a challenge for its own sake. New partnership activities spotlighted in late spring. Financial picture brightens when you learn when to quit.

BORN THIS WEEK

March 31st, actress Shirley Jones; April 1st, actress Debbie Reynolds; 2nd, actor Alec Guinness; 3rd, singer Tony Orlando; 4th, actor Anthony Perkins; 5th, actor Gregory Peck; 6th, conductor Andre Previn.

SEWER-USER RATES

Be it ordained by the City Council

That Chapter 20 of the Revised Ordinances be amended to read:

ARTICLE 111 SEWER USE ORDINANCE Section 14 CALCULATION OF SEWER USE RATES

The City shall implement an Ad Valorem Sewer Use Fee effective July 1, 1982. Such fee shall be collected in the following manner from the following three classes of users:

1. Major Industrial Users -

Users who discharge more than 25,000 gallons per day into the sewerage system shall be classified as Major Industrial Users. These users shall pay their share of wastewater treatment costs in proportion to their actual use of the sewerage system. Users in this class shall be charged based on the actual water use.

2. Tax Exempt Users -

Users who are exempt from Real Estate taxes shall be classified as tax exempt users. Users in this classification shall pay their share of wastewater treatment costs in proportion to their actual wastewater loading of the sewerage system. Users in this class shall be charged based on their actual water use.

3. Small Commercial and Residential Users -

Users who are not exempt from Real Estate taxes and who do not discharge more than 25,000 gallons per day of sewage into the sewerage system shall be classified as small commercial and residential users. Users in this classification shall pay their share of wastewater treatment costs in proportion to their actual wastewater loading of the sewerage system. Users in this class shall be charged based on their assessed valuations. Sewer Use fees shall be reviewed biannually to reflect changes in operating costs and revenue requirements.

Section 15 COLLECTION AND DISPOSITION OF RATES

The Treasurer and Collector shall receive and collect all sewer rates and any other income and place same to the credit of the Sewer Department. All fees collected under this ordinance shall be dedicated and used to pay for the operation and maintenance costs, bonded debt and interest costs and Metropolitan District Commission costs incurred by the City of Quincy Sewer Division of the Department of Public Works. All revenues received by the City as a result of Sewer User Fees and not spent on operation and maintenance costs, bonded debt and interest costs and Metropolitan District Commission costs shall be placed in a sewer reserve account.

Section 16 PAYMENT

All bills for sewer use shall be due and payable each year to the Treasurer/Collector on July 1 and January 1. Except Major Industrial Users, who shall be billed on a monthly basis. There shall be a lien placed upon real estate using the sewerage distribution system in the event that said bills are not paid in full within sixty days after due date. In case of non-payment of sewer rates the owner of the premises, whether he is an occupant or not, shall be required to pay said rates and all charges connected therewith, provided he has been duly notified.

Section 17 POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE COMMISSIONER

The Commissioner of Public Works shall have full supervisory, direction and control of the Sewer Department and shall make such rules and regulations for its government as may be deemed expedient.

Section 18 OBLIGATIONS TO METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COMMISSION

The City agrees to accept and adhere to the Metropolitan District Commission Rules and Regulations covering the Discharge of Sewage, Drainage, Substances or Wastes to Sewerage Works within the Metropolitan Sewerage District, which have been established in compliance with the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972.

• Mite-Squirt House Balducci, Lydon Tied For Top

Balducci's and Lydon Russell are still tied for first place in the Mite/Squirt House League with the Paul Harold Club just one point behind.

Balducci's edged Feeney's Devils, 5-4, with Mike Rudnisky and Matt Riley scoring two goals each and Bob Ford one. Sean Parrell and Sean Connelly had two assists apiece and Ford, Jim Cosgrove and John Gladu one each. For Feeney's John Shea had two goals and Carrie Hughes and Steve Barkus one each. Sean O'Donnell had two assists and Mark McMillen one.

Lydon Russell got by Bo

Car Printing, 4-3, as John Shea and Eric Kreuz scored twice each. Mike Rudnisky, Mike Christopherson and Dave Manning had assists. Joe Shea had two goals and Jim Smith one for Bo Car. Smith had two assists and Joe Zona and Steve Jewell one each.

Harold Club topped UCT, 3-1, as Pat O'Donoghue had two goals and Matt McGowan one. Bob Daggett, Jay Evans and Scott Joyce had assists. Mike O'Brien scored the UCT goal.

The standings: Balducci's, 9-7-3; Lydon Russell, 8-6-5; Paul Harold, 8-7-4; Feeney's, 7-7-5; Bo Car, 7-8-4; UCT, 6-10-3.

St. Joseph's B Team Advances

St. Joseph's B basketball team advanced to the finals of the South Shore YMCA Church Basketball tournament with a 15-12 win over St. Francis of Braintree in the semifinals.

E. J. Nordstrom had seven points and five rebounds, Ralph Bevilacqua Jr. six points, three rebounds and three assists and Jimmie Reardon two points and three steals.

Coach Mark Donovan and assistant Dennis Meigs have done an outstanding job keeping these 7 to 9 year olds up for each game.

Whereas, a large number of responses to alarm systems made by the Quincy Police Department are a result of misuse or malfunction of such alarm systems; and

Whereas, a result of responding to misuse or malfunction of alarms is a drain on the availability of police officers for other necessary functions; and

Whereas, a result of responding to misuse or malfunction of alarms is the unnecessary endangering of general vehicular traffic, as well as officer safety; and

Whereas, a "Burglar Alarm Study" has been proposed by the Integrated Criminal Apprehension Program staff, Planning & Research Division of the Quincy Police Department, recommending that the City implement measures which will decrease the incidence of misuse and malfunction of alarm detection systems; and

Whereas, it is the duty and responsibility of the Chief of Police to maintain the integrity of the Police Department communications system.

Be it ordered that the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, be hereby amended by adding after Chapter 15, Article 1, Section 2, Paragraph 2, the following paragraph:

"The Chief of Police is hereby authorized to promulgate rules and regulations for the orderly use of alarm systems within the City. Such rules and regulations may provide for the payment of fees or fines for the misuse or malfunction of such alarms. Such fees and fines shall be reasonably related to the cost incurred by the Police Department in responding to alarms which are misused or malfunction. Such rules and regulations, including without limitation any provisions with respect to such fees and fines, shall be subject to the written approval of the Mayor."

'Sexual Assault' Program April 6 At QCH

"Sexual Assault" will be the topic Wednesday, April 6, as part of the Health Education Series being sponsored by Quincy City Hospital and the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room in the hospital's administration building.

Joan Hassol, coordinator of education and training in Norfolk County Sexual Assault Unit will be the speaker.

Collins Sees No Reason For 'Subject To Funding' Session

A special negotiating session with the entire School Committee present to discuss the controversial pay raise qualifying phrase, "subject to funding", would serve no useful purpose.

That's the opinion of Mary Collins, vice-chairman of the School Committee, following receipt of a letter dated March 22, and signed by John Keefe, president of the Hospital, Library, and Public Employees Union in Quincy.

The letter was sent to Collins and other members of the school board and city council.

In his letter, Keefe wrote "I respectfully request that a negotiating session with the entire School Committee present be held at an early date to discuss this dangerous precedent."

Collins said the matter was out of the hands of the school board.

"It's the law and unless legislation is enacted to change it there is nothing the School Committee can do about it," Collins told The Quincy Sun when asked to comment on the request by Keefe.

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request from the Quincy Legion Post Auxiliary to conduct its annual Poppy Drive May 5, 6 and 7 (rain dates May 12, 13 and 14). There is to be no soliciting at intersections.

- Granted a one-day all alcoholic license to the Quincy High School Alumni Basketball group for a banquet April 7, 8 p.m. to midnight at the Fore River Club House.

- Granted a change in the restrictions placed on the repair shop license of Albert Zero for 471 Rear Hancock St. The shop can now remain open 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. six days a week, and up to 10 motorcycles will be allowed within the building.

- Approved change of partnership for Dwyer's Samoset Service Station, 169 Sea St., with James M. Aldoupolis of Quincy acquiring William A. Dwyer's interests.

Tony Dwyer will remain as a half partner. There is to be a general clean-up of the premises before the change in partnership takes place, and no tires are to be stored outside the building.

- Approved change of manager of Atlas Liquors, Inc., 665-673 Adams St., 60-72 Hilda St., from Robert White to Mrs. Marcia Fine.

- Continued for one week a request from the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Quincy Aerie No. 1180, 47 Mass Ave., for pool table and pinball machine permits.

Tax Bills To Be Mailed By April 15

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he expects tax bills for the second half of fiscal 1983 will be in the mail to Quincy's property taxpayers no later than Friday, April 15.

A tax rate of $177 per thousand, down $28.60 from the $205.60 tax rate of fiscal 1982, was announced last week, based on the city's old real property values.

"There is some reconciling of figures to be done before the bills are mailed," he said. "We hope to do that as quickly as possible and even get the bills out before April 15."

The bills for the first half of fiscal 1983 were mailed last fall, based on an estimated tax. Later, the city was allowed to use the old values again while awaiting 100 per cent revaluation.

McCauley said that, as a result, the second half tax bills will be much lower than those of the first half since the tax rate, prodded by Proposition 2½, has gone down.

The $28.60 decrease for fiscal 1983 was the second large cut in two years, thanks to Prop. 2½. The fiscal 1982 tax rate was down $37 per thousand from the previous year.

McCauley noted that property taxes for a homeowner with an assessment of $6,500 have been reduced by $426.40 or 27 per cent over the past two years.

He said a further reduction can be expected in fiscal 1984 when Prop 2½ mandates a further reduction in the tax levy of some $3.5 million at which time the city will have reached the Prop 2½ limitation.

Property tax bills for fiscal 1984 also will reflect the new 100 per cent valuations, which are expected to be announced early in the summer.

McCauley also noted that the city finished fiscal 1982 in the black for the first time since 1975. He said there was a $5,000 surplus compared to a $2 million deficit for fiscal 1981.

The mayor said deficits for the past six years (fiscal 1976-81) totaled $13.8 million and were largely responsible for the rapid deterioration in the city's financial standing.

Court Suit Threatened If Billboards Banned

The billboard industry executed a neat pincers movement on the City Council Monday night in an all-out effort to stave off a complete ban on outdoor advertising in Quincy.

Wilson Tanner softened the councillors.

George Berman got tough with them.

And when it was over, the councillors indicated they might be more interested in listening to what Tanner had to say than they were in an outright ban of billboards.

The occasion was a three-hour hearing into a proposed city ordinance that would prohibit off-premises signs, of which there are about 50 in the city, most of them used by Ackerly Communications.

"If this ordinance is passed, Ackerly must contest it in court," said Berman, who was identified as Ackerly's litigating attorney.

"Ackerly will not be put out of business without a fight. The lawsuit will be expensive and lengthy. Ackerly will not take down a single billboard until the last appeal to the Supreme Court."

"I hope my comments are not taken as threats," he added. "They are just facts."

Fire Dept. Needs 4 New Pumpers

By TOM HENSHAW

All four Seagrave pumers now in service with the Quincy Fire Department are well beyond the recommended replacement age and should be replaced immediately, Chief Edward F. Barry told the City Council Monday night.

Replacement would cost about $130,000 apiece, he said.

"I've been preaching this for years," said Barry. "I know that the problem is money but as fire chief I feel I have to point this out to the people of Quincy."

The Council appropriated $17,000 to purchase a diesel motor for the pumper at the Houghs Neck Fire Station, which has been out of service because of serious defects in the motor.

"The pumper is 23 years old," said Barry, "and the motor parts are no longer available. The recommended replacement age is 15 years. New York City replaces its pumers after 10 years."

Barry also told the Council that his department has only one master mechanic to keep its engines going. He needs at least two, he said.

"No one man is physically able to maintain all our equipment," he said.

The pumper stationed in Squantum needs $3,500 worth of work, he said, and Councillor Joanne Condon said the mayor has indicated he will send an appropriation order for the fixing to the next Council meeting.

Some cities, said Barry, are looking into the possibility of leasing, not buying, fire equipment as an economy measure.

Lease-Purchase Plan For City Equipment

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is preparing a lease-purchase proposal for the City Council in an effort to replenish the city's depleted supply of aging and broken-down capital equipment.

"We are not in a tough spot for capital equipment," said McCauley. "Our vehicles and machines are functioning. But we are reaching a point where they have to be replaced."

Under the McCauley plan, the city would lease new equipment for the Police, Fire, Public Works, Parks and Cemetery Departments with the machines becoming city property at the expiration of the lease.

The lease agreements could be structured so that, except for fire equipment, preventive maintenance would be done by the leasing company.

The mayor said he has obtained a proposal from the Munilease Co. that will serve as a guideline for his own proposal which would go to the Council and then out to bid.

His proposal, he said, would wait until the financial picture is clear for fiscal 1984.

The advantages of a lease-purchase plan, he said, is that "we would not get hit for the full purchase price in one year." There would be a financing charge, he said, but it would be worth it.

Proposition 2½, with its limitations on the tax levy, has virtually ruled out capital outlay in the city budget for the past year.

"Not a lot of capital equipment has been purchased in the last few years," said McCauley. "It's easy to ignore it. You've got to pay the fixed charges and personal services."

The mayor said he has obtained a list of the most needed new capital equipment and department heads and it includes two new pumers for the Fire Department.

Fire Chief Edward F. Barry told the City Council Monday night that all four Seagrave pumers now in service are well beyond the replacement age and should be replaced immediately.

A BABY DUCK drew the attention of Melissa Hassan, 3, and Sean O'Connell, 3, who were all dressed up in their Easter finery for an Easter Mass at St. John's Church for tiny tots and pre-schoolers.

McCauley Names Cable TV Advisory Committee

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has named a five-member Cable Television Advisory Committee to handle complaints and keep an eye on the operations of the city's cable TV system.

Members are Virginia Kurtzman, 24 Perry Rd., and Francis X. Morna, 103 Darrow St., three years; William L. Phinney, 4 Brunswick St. and Thomas Nutley, 235 Billings St., two years; and Kevin J. Madden, 57 Narragansett Rd., one year.

Mrs. Kurtzman was appointed chairman.

McCauley said the committee will hold an organizational meeting shortly to adopt bylaws and any other rules and regulations necessary to carry out their duties as set forth in state and federal law.

The mayor said the naming of the committee does not reflect any unhappiness with the operation of Quincy Cablesystems.

"Overall our experience with cable has been good," he said. "But things come up from time to time."

State Restrictions Slow Schools Sale

By TOM HENSHAW
State guidelines initiated by the Ward Commission's probe of state contract corruption are delaying the disposal of abandoned school buildings in Quincy.

Planning Director James Lydon told the City Council Monday night that the city is "hamstrung" by the guidelines in awarding a contract for the demolition of the Hunting School in Adams Shore.

The Massachusetts Field, the Pollard and the Willard Schools also were tied up by the guidelines, he said, but now bids for reuse layout of the buildings are expected by 4 p.m. today (Thursday).

"It's unfair," said Councillor Stephen J. McGrath. "Quincy was never accused of any contract corruption yet we are being restricted in disposing of the old schools."

Councillor James A. Sheets said he is concerned about possible problems in the sale of the Willard School in West Quincy because of sewer surcharging in the area.

"Any development of the Willard School building could worsen the situation," he said. "If I conclude that development is not good for the area I will oppose it."

Lydon was summoned before the Council to give a report on the status of the nine school buildings that have been abandoned as schools.

The old Bryant School, he said, has been sold to the Ricciardis for development as condominiums.

The Great Hill School has been leased to the Houghs Neck Congregational Church and is being renovated now.

Negotiations have not been completed on the lifting of the state sewer ban on building in South Quincy.

Development of the Adams School is awaiting a lifting of the state sewer ban on building in South Quincy.

The Cranch School has been awarded to a Hingham developer who plans 17 units of condominium housing.

"But the Cranch is particularly sensitive issue in the community so we are going slowly," said Lydon.

Council Votes $5,000 For Traffic Signs, Police Radios

The City Council Monday night appropriated $5,000 so that new traffic control signs can be posted and the Police Department's communications system can be kept operational.

Supt. Edward Lynch told the councillors that he is concerned that the police radio system is out of money for repairs. Also he can't post signs for the ordinances the Council passes.

"I need money to purchase pipe and brackets for the erection of signs that have been knocked down or vandalized and to post new ordinances," he said in a letter to Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

"I need money to purchase radio parts to maintain and keep our police department's communication system operational.

"I need money to pay the bill for repairing our emergency generator, which was $4,325.

"I also need money for traffic signal maintenance.

"You offered me $5,000. It's not enough to fill my needs but it will certainly help."

LeNormand, Baker Named To Historic District Commission

The City Council Monday night approved the appointments of Robert LeNormand to a one-year term and Mrs. Joyce Baker to a three-year term on the Quincy Historic District Commission.

Councillor Joseph J. LaRita took the opportunity to note that, in his experience, the Historic District Commission, "is not totally sensitive to the merchants making a living."

He added he hopes the commission will work more in harmony with storekeepers in complying with district guidelines.

Both Sides Optimistic

QEA - School Committee To Resume Talks Tonight

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Contract negotiations between the Quincy Education Association and School Committee are scheduled to resume tonight (Thursday) and both sides are approaching the meeting with varied degrees of optimism.

"I'm very hopeful we can settle it soon," said Mary Collins, school committee vice chairman, "it's dragged on so long.

"We're due for a breakthrough," agreed Herman (Hank) Pasquerella, QEA president, "I'm more optimistic about this meeting than I have been for any of the other meetings.

"I'd be gravely disappointed if this is false hope."

Contract negotiations are stalled over the QEA's request for a one year contract that isn't subject to funding.

At the last negotiating meeting, both sides progressed to making proposals and counter proposals according to Pasquerella.

"They may be closer to settling, and we may be closer to settling," said Pasquerella.

"There can't be too much left to talk about. I detect some urgency.

"We're going there to listen, and I hope the school committee will do the same."

"If not . . . we're not quitters. We'll dust ourselves off and go back."

Both Pasquerella and Mrs. Collins said they hoped the progress made at the last meeting would continue. The meeting tonight is scheduled for 7 p.m. at Quincy High School.

Meanwhile, Pasquerella added two more schools to the work-to-rule posture in protest of the stalled negotiations.

The Squantum School was scheduled to go under work-to-rule yesterday (Wednesday), and the Parker School today (Thursday).

The schools are the 15th and 16th schools to adopt the posture whereby teachers perform no duties outside of their contracts.

Pasquerella Won't Seek QEA Re-election

Herman (Hank) Pasquerella, head of the Quincy Education Association, will not seek re-election to that post after his term expires June 23.

"I have other obligations," Pasquerella told The Quincy Sun.

"There will be a whole new slate up for nomination the last week in April."

"I have pressing obligations and commitments that I've neglected for a year," said Pasquerella who explained they include time for his family and himself.

"Being president of the 710 member union is a lot more demanding than I had anticipated.

"My whole life has been the QEA for a year.

"I came in like a tiger, and I may have exhausted myself. I tried to do too much."

Pasquerella said the stalled contract negotiations between the QEA and School Committee had nothing to do with his decision.

"I'll remain as chairman of the negotiating team until June 23," said Pasquerella. "I certainly hope things are concluded by then."

Pasquerella said he will also preside at the QEA's annual meeting May 18. Among the topics will be the QEA's possible disassociation with the Mass. Teachers Association.

A teacher for many years at Quincy High School, Pasquerella said he has no immediate plans to leave that school but "is keeping his options open."

He expects to remain as a member of the QEA but is unsure what his role will be.

"I'm not the type to do things half way.

Beware The Home Improvement Scam

This is the time of year when homeowners start thinking of how they can improve their property.

And this is also the time of year when unscrupulous salesmen start thinking of ways in which they can swindle the homeowner out of his money.

Their schemes often can be identified by one or more of the following claims or promises made by the salesman:

- He will claim he's from a factory, or he wants to make your home into a display or model. Or he offers you cash to display a sign in your yard or put your name on television.

- He will quote a high price for work to be done on your home and then quickly lowers the price by hundreds of dollars as a "factory discount" or offers to consolidate your outstanding bills into a single loan.

If any of these well-worn phrases is used by the salesman, you may be falling prey to a home improvement scheme.

To protect yourself from being victimized:

- Beware of unknown companies, glib-tongued telephone solicitors and "too good to be true" price advertising.

- Beware of Salesmen promising payment of money for displaying your home, posting signs or offering price discounts.

- Always get competitive bids and don't be rushing into signing a contract. Sleep on it first.

Finally, do business with responsible home improvement contractors. Remember, the time to investigate a contractor is before you sign a contract, not after.

Quincy Art Assn. To Sponsor H.S. Students Exhibit

The Quincy Art Association announces that work must be submitted Wednesday, April 13, 3 to 5 p.m., for its annual high school students' exhibit.

The work, by Quincy residents attending a public or private high school, will be on exhibit May 9 to 13, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at association's new home, 26 High School Ave.

Cash awards and scholarships will be presented at a reception May 13, 7 to 9 p.m.

Prizes will be awarded for grades nine through 12 in three categories: painting, photography and crafts.

The association will award three scholarships of $300 each, one to a student from North Quincy High School, Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational Technical School.

In addition, the F.E. Bergfors scholarship of $1,000 will be awarded. To be eligible, a high school student must be a Quincy resident who is continuing his or her education in the field of art.

A portfolio of work should be brought to 26 High School Ave., April 13 during the above hours.

For more information, call 471-3863.

Oil Painting Program

Quinn Being Urged To Run

Mayor Francis McCauley is fast running out of potential challengers in this year's election but he can't completely relax — not just yet.

One possibility — though somewhat slim — will still remain even if former Mayor Joseph LaRaia decides not to make a bid.

The possibility: former City Councillor John Quinn.

LaRaia reportedly has told McCauley he doesn't think he will run this year even though he has been acting like a mayoral candidate.

But LaRaia could always have an 11th hour change of mind and jump in.

Meanwhile, Quinn has been pledged support and campaign funds if he will run against McCauley.

Quinn, of course, has been around a long time and has political savvy. He's politically practical not naive.

He confirms he has been approached and asked to run and is "thinking about it."

"I'm not totally committed one way or the other," he says.

But then he asks: "Are there any issues out there to campaign on?"

And he realizes it is difficult to defeat a freshman incumbent mayor running for a second term. Most voters tend to give a first term mayor a second term as long as they know he's trying, has some common sense, is honest and has honest people around him.

QUINN

And, of course, if he has some luck.

McCAULEY

Luck? Some observers think McCauley has a horseshoe in one pocket and a four-leaf clover in the other.

With the exception of two or three controversies (Dr. Robert McKough, Owen Eaton, Joseph McParland) he has had a quiet administration and a shortage of issues.

McCauley asked and gets another delay in the implementation of revaluation.

Then last week the tax rate dropped $28.60.

It's things like that that makes Quinn observe: "I'm practical enough to ask are there any issues out there?"

He really doesn't look like he's about to step into this year's mayoral ring. "Unless," says he, "something suddenly happens."

What about 1985?

"Well, that's a pretty good possibility. I'm going to stay politically tuned in and I'll be watching the political scene just as I am now."

A Blue Cross executive, he will be retired by then.

Quinn is the Quincy City Council's longevity champ. He served 12 consecutive terms — 24 straight years — before losing in 1980.

He's still interested in the City Council and might even attempt a comeback there this year — or 1985 — "depending on the situation at the time."

After nearly a quarter-century in office, a man gets politically practical.

McGrath Urges Approval For QHA Security

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath has asked the state and federal governments to give their approval for the hiring of security personnel at Quincy Housing Authority facilities.

McGrath, in letters to the State Office of Community Development and the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, cited particularly the problems at 80 Clay St., Wollaston.

"I cannot state too strongly the need for security personnel for this building," he said.

McGrath said the commissioners of the QHA have approved specifications for a contract with a security firm and are now awaiting approval so the firm can be hired.

Taleb Grotto Band Concert For Cancer Crusade

The Taleb Grotto Band of Quincy will provide a two-hour band concert Sunday April 24, between 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. at the City Hall Plaza. The concert is to remind Quincy residents that the door to door cancer crusade will take place on Tuesday, April 26 between 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Richard J. Koch, Cancer Crusade Chairman of Quincy, said the public is invited to attend the concert.

Ward and precinct chairmen are requested to attend a meeting of the Quincy Cancer Crusade organization on Monday, April 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Park and Recreation Complex, 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount Park to discuss the house to house campaign.

Some 1500 volunteers in Quincy will visit their neighbors with life saving information relative to the early detection of cancer and an envelope seeking a donation to aid in the research, educational and patient programs of the American Cancer Society.

Koch announced the following appointments of ward chairmen for the Quincy Cancer Crusade.

Ward 1 - Councillor Richard J. Koch, Jr., Ward 2 - Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, Ward 3 - Mrs. Janet Crowley, Ward 4 - David J. Donaghy, Ward 5 - Joseph E. Burke and Ward 6 - Mrs. Linda Bowers.

Additional volunteers are needed to aid those unable to meet their commitment due to illness or assist in areas where additional crusaders are needed. Contact Koch at 241 Newbury Ave or any of the ward chairmen if you wish to help.

Dental Health Program At Martensen St.

A comprehensive dental health program for older people will be sponsored by South Shore Elder Services, beginning Monday, April 11, 10:30 a.m. to noon, at Sawyer Towers, 95 Martensen St., Quincy Point.

The program will offer on-site oral screenings as well as a weekly educational component by area dentists.

Some of the topics to be covered are: dentures, financial barriers, changes due to aging, periodontal disease, prevention and nutrition.

The program will be coordinated by Jackie Anapolle, R.D.H., M.D.-P.H. and Kathy Bryant on of South Shore Elder Services.

The South Shore District Dental Society will provide volunteers and a referral list at the screening to allow for accessible dental care.

For an appointment, call Norma Johnson at 472-6667.

More information is available by contacting Kathy Bryant at 335-1310.

Kavanaugh Sees Point Federal Funds Squabble Resolved

Principal Planner Gerry Kavanaugh says he feels that the dispute between the city and Quincy Point over federal funds has been resolved and "we'll work very cooperatively with each other to provide a good program for the Point."

Kavanaugh, a member of the Planning Department staff, was interviewed on the weekly "Newsmakers" program on Quincy Cablestern's Ch. 3.

The problem was, said Kavanaugh, that Quincy Point residents who thought they were not being treated fairly in the dispersal of federal funds by the city were being vocal and so was the city but neither was listening to the other.

"Councillor Ted DeCristofaro has made it clear to us that he wants a communications network set up," he said. "As a result of that we've spoken with the neighborhood residents on several occasions and we're holding hearings throughout the city.

"We have every intention of beginning a new comprehensive program within the Quincy Point area now that we feel Quincy Point and the rest of the neighborhoods have been treated somewhat equitably."

Kavanaugh noted that more than $2.5 million in federal rehabilitation money was spent on projects in Quincy Point in the early 1970s before the new community development programs began in such areas as Atlantic, Houghs Neck and Southwest Quincy.

"We're getting to the point now," he said, where the Atlantic and Houghs Neck neighborhoods are beginning to reach the point where the same number of housing units have been rehabilitated and the same number of streets have been resurfaced as had been in the Point.

"As a result of that, both the city and the federal government are looking more favorably on the expansion of the community development program into Quincy Point."

Kavanaugh said the Planning Department and Fire Chief Edward Barry are currently working out a new ordinance and safety code for the oil tanks on the shores of Town River and Town Bay in Quincy Point.

"They are not unsafe, as some people have suggested," he said. "They are absolutely 100 per cent safe. But what we would like to do is make certain by law that they cannot be unsafe."

On other topics, Kavanaugh made these points:

"The Campanelli building is the salvation of downtown Quincy. We're taking an additional 600 to 800 people a day and putting them on the streets. That's why you see a market for commercial space."

Development of the old Adams School in South Quincy has been slow because it "went out to bid in one of the worst times in the past eight to 10 years, with interest rates high in the middle of a recession and developers have difficulty putting together an adequate money package."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and his aide, Arthur Foley, are still trying to find a tenant for the old Sears building to provide a "major anchor" in downtown Quincy. "It's going to be important for the long term vitality of the city."

Kavanaugh was interviewed on the show by John Noonan, staff correspondent for the Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Injunctions Granted In 3-Month Strike At Shipyard

Federal Judge George C. Sweeney granted injunctions sought by the National Labor Relations Board ordering the Bethlehem Steel Co. to bargain in good faith and the striking Shipbuilding Workers Union to halt mass picketing at the Fore River Shipyard.

Meanwhile, Union President John J. Grogan made an offer to Bethlehem President Arthur B. Homer which he said would return 17,000 East Coast shipyard workers to their jobs while further efforts are made to end the three-month strike.

One of the proposals called for submission of the dispute to a presidential fact-finding board, a suggestion that was rejected by Homer, citing the company's "opposition to any so-called fact-finding board as a substitute for free collective bargaining."

Said Grogan to Homer:

"The adamant position taken and the bargaining methods pursued by some of your highly placed subordinates make it clear that no agreement can be reached unless the union abjectly surrenders."

"Our union's striking members and their families are not willing to sacrifice the heritage of American freemen."

QUARRY DUMPING HIT

The State Department of Public Health recommended that the city stop dumping its refuse in Hitchcock's Quarry, cover it with two feet of clean fill and find a new dumping area pending future construction of an incinerator.

The advice was issued after the department's Sanitary Engineer Harold Rose toured the quarry area, where the city had been dumping for some three and a half years, at the instigation of Quarry St. residents who complained of bugs, rats and stench.

PAYROLL STOLEN

Thieves entered the Wollaston Fire Station and stole a $1,571 payroll from the desk drawer of Capt. Francis Moriarty while the eight men were answering a false alarm at Pine and Granger Sts., eight blocks away.

Capt. Moriarty said he would arrange a $1,000 loan for a few days to tide the men over.

could return to the ordinance later on if they don't."

The Council, sitting as the Ordinance Committee, pretty much left it like that.

Earlier, the Council heard a long list of those in favor of the ordinance, including Planning Director James Lydon and Building Inspector Allen MacDonald.

Lydon said the 50 billboards that exist in the city now bring in less than $3,000 in revenue to Quincy, adding, "this is a legally defensible ordinance that would improve the looks and safety of the city."

MacDonald bemoaned the fact that the city lost control over billboards in the 1930's "when Gov. Curley's daughter married a Donnelly," of the Donnelly outdoor advertising company.

"Billboards have done nothing to beautify our city," he said.

Andy Sutcliffe, another Ackerly representative, set out to disprove that with an impressive slide show.

"Ackerly does more public service advertising than any Boston television station," he told the Council. "We believe that Quincy could use a major promotion campaign but I doubt if the city can afford it."

He showed slides of some examples of tasteful billboards that could be used to promote Quincy — including one that said, "Season's Greetings from Councillor Joanne Condon," who just happened to be chairing the committee meeting.

"The city has a choice," said Sutcliffe. "Pass this ordinance and enter a lengthy and costly litigation. Or cooperate with us and eliminate the bad billboards and get a promotion campaign."

A number of persons spoke up against the billboards, both as individuals and as representatives of civic organizations.

Richard Crespi cited the safety factor of billboards distracting drivers.

"Quincy is a most livable city, the nation's historic hall of fame," said William A. O'Connell of 109 Putnam St., past president of The Quincy Historical Society. "Commercial billboards are a blight on our area."

"There has been a steady improvement of the district," said Lawrence Yerdon, acting chairman of the Historic District Commission. "This ordinance would be another step in the beautification of the city."

Phelma O'Connell Auditorium Dedicated At Eastern Nazarene

During intermission of the Good News Musicals performed by students and alumni of Eastern Nazarene College, the recently completed 500-seat auditorium in the new Fine Arts Center was dedicated.

The Phelma Shaffer O'Connell Auditorium has been provided by Peter and William O'Connell, O'Connell Brothers Construction Company of Quincy, in memory of their mother.

Mrs. O'Connell attended Eastern Nazarene College from 1934-1936. Her interest in fine arts caused her to study extensively with Professor Edith F. Cove for whom the fine arts center is named.

During her college days she met Mr. William O'Connell. Upon their marriage she settled in Quincy and became the mother of five children — William, Peter, Barbara, Thomas and Cynthia.

She also served as office manager for the O'Connell Brothers Construction Company.

The service of dedication included words of appreciation from ENC president

Stephen W. Nease, greetings from Councillor James Sheets on behalf of Mayor Francis X. McCauley, and words of tribute from Peter and William O'Connell.

Rev. Barry Mohnhey, former pastor of Mrs.

O'Connell's family, gave the prayer of dedication.

Following Mrs. O'Connell's death March 17, 1981, the O'Connell brothers expressed an interest in establishing a memorial to their mother at her alma mater.

Navy Ships In Boston Could Bring Shipyard Work

Sen. Paul Harold reports that if the Navy selects Boston as the East Coast location for five of its ships, it could mean work for the Fore River Shipyard.

Harold said that if the ships are home based in Boston, "it could specifically benefit the Fore River Shipyard because the Navy has a policy of doing repair work locally."

The only two local facilities that could handle the work are in Quincy and Bath, Maine, Harold said.

Though there would be an expected influx of 2,300 Navy personnel, Harold said there would be no local housing crunch and there are no plans to expand the Naval housing area in Squantum.

"The personnel will be dispersed throughout the Boston area," said Harold.

If the ships are home based in Boston, about 3,000 civilian jobs will be created, some $75 million in payroll brought into the metropolitan area, and hundred of millions of dollars will be spent in contracts for local companies, according to Harold. A decision by the Navy is expected in the next few months. New York and Rhode Island are also being considered.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

American ingenuity and technology opened a new frontier in space. Unlike the explorations of Columbus, our courageous astronauts knew where they were going, knew how to get there, knew what to do when they got there - and knew how to get home. Their marvelous lunar landing and unforgettable return to earth proved that God has endowed man with remarkable intelligence. He has endowed man with the means, minds and machines, discipline and dedication to do great things . . . to establish stimulating goals and reach them in rigorous manner.

It seems obvious questions should now be asked. What does God expect us to do; what does He anticipate we will do? Has the time come for us to check our conquest of space and devote equal time, the same endless effort, and the same billions of dollars to establish new bonds of brotherhood, new concepts of human concern? Since man has the intelligence to face and solve problems in step by step procedure, should we not now determine how to make deserts fertile, cultivate the oceans to provide plentiful food to insure that no man ever starve? What are your views; what do you think? . . .

William S. Ash, 88, Past Legion, Veterans Commander

Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) at 1:30 p.m. at the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., for William S. Ash, past commander of the Quincy Legion Post and the Quincy Veterans Council.

He died Monday at the Colonial Nursing Home in Abington at the age of 88. A native of England, Mr. Ash came to Quincy in 1916 and was a gardener for the state at the Lemuel Shattuck Hospital, Jamaica Plain, until his retirement.

He was an army veteran of World War I, a member of the World War I Veterans of America and the Bryan VFW Post. He was commander of the Veterans Council in 1974.

He leaves his wife, Margaret M. (Barnie) Ash; a son, William B. Ash of Quincy; and three grandchildren.

Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Walter Lee, 92, Retired Shipbuilder

A Funeral Mass will be said today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. in St. John's Church for Walter Lee, a retired employee of the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard.

He died Sunday at the Elihu White Nursing Home in Braintree at the age of 92.

A native of England, Mr. Lee lived in North Quincy most of his life.

He leaves two nephews, Kenneth McKinnon of Florida and Douglas McKinnon of Baltimore; three nieces, Elsie Cresswell of Florida and Agnes and Florence Flood, both of Blackpool, England.

He was the husband of the late Florence (McKinnon) Lee.

Funeral arrangements are by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St. Burial will be in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Anne Goldstein, 77, Community Center, Temple Founder

Funeral services for Anne (Smith) Goldstein, 77, of Quincy, who with her husband was a founder of the Quincy Jewish Community Center and Temple Beth El, were held Sunday at the temple.

Mrs. Goldstein died of cancer Saturday at Quincy City Hospital after an illness of more than a year.

Born in New London, Conn., she was a former Red Cross and USO worker who served countless meals to servicemen and women in the Boston area during World War II. She frequently put up at her home servicemen and women who were on leave.

She was the widow of the late Mr. William B. (Goldie) Goldstein, owner of Goldie's Inc., a salvage yard in Quincy and Braintree, who died in February.

She and her husband, who had been married since 1929, donated a lounge for teenagers in the community center in honor of their daughters, Joan Wechsler and Harriet Goldman, both of Quincy.

A member of Beth Israel Synagogue and Congregation Adas Shalom, she was a member of Hadassah, B'nai B'rith and several other charitable organizations.

She is also survived by five grandchildren and several cousins, nieces and nephews. Rabbis David Jacobs and Jacob Mann and Canto Morris Semirag officiated at the funeral services.

Burial was in West Roxbury.

Funeral arrangements were by Schlossberg Funeral Home, Canton.

Due to the Passover holiday, the memorial week will be omitted.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Medical Foundation, 29 Commonwealth Ave., Boston.

Paul G. Blampied, 80

A Memorial Service for Paul G. Blampied, 80, of Lantana, Fla., formerly of Squantum, was held Tuesday at First Church of Squantum.

Mr. Blampied died April 3 at Bethesda Hospital, Boynton Beach.

He moved to Florida five years ago.

He is survived by a son, Douglas Blampied of Bow, New Hampshire; a brother, Edward Blampied of Boynton Beach, Fla., and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Scobee-Combs Funeral Home, 1622 Northeast Fourth St., Boynton Beach, Fla., 33435. Donations may be made to the Leukemia Society of America.

Planning ahead can offer peace of mind . . .

It is only human to put things off. But proper planning for the event of one's death can spare a family many traumatic decisions and financial burdens. By pre-arranging the desires and wishes of one's funeral, burial and expenses can be specified to eliminate confusion, differences of opinion and difficult decisions on the part of family members. To ease this burden, we are making available to you FREE a booklet with all necessary information and forms to assist and guide you. Why not visit us or write for your FREE Pre-arrangement Booklet.

Booklet covers the following subjects:

- * Funeral and Interment Preferences
- * Vital Statistics and Data
- * Survivors Information, Social Security, Insurance, Bank Accounts, Real Estate, Automobile, Safety Deposit Box, Savings Bonds, Stocks and Bonds, Retirement Accounts and Veterans Benefits.
- * Pre-Arrangement Information
- * Three duplicate copies of a Funeral and Interment Pre-Arrangement Agreement.

Easter Dramatization At First Squantum Church

The Easter service of the First Church of Squantum began in darkness with a dramatization of the women's early morning visit to Jesus' tomb and their encounter with the angels who announced His resurrection.

As the women ran from the tomb to spread the word that Jesus had risen, the sanctuary lights came on and the congregation sang, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today."

The women were played by Genevieve Todd, Diane Lindblad and Bonnie Adams; the angels by Tom McKim and David Williams.

The Junior Choir sang "Alleluia" by V. Earle Copes, accompanied by Blythe Bumpus, xylophone; Lori Ogilvia, Amanda Young, Krista Olson and Kristen Reister, glockenspiel.

Other hymns sung during the service were "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today", "Christ Arose", and "The Day of Resurrection."

Instrumentalists accompanying members of the congregation as they sang were Sarah Harrison, flute; Robert Gorriell, trumpet; Daniel Walter, bassoon; and Mary Ruth Scott, organ.

As he gave his talk to the children on the subject of Jesus' resurrection, church pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, painted a large, two-color picture of the Risen Christ appearing to His disciples as they gathered behind locked doors.

In his sermon for the adults, Dr. Langevin preached on the subject, "The Finest Day", taking as his text these words from 1 Corinthians: "But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who have fallen asleep" (15:20).

The sermon was unusual in that it developed the theme of an Easter anthem that was sung as the conclusion of the sermon. The anthem, "Walter W. Schurz's 'The Finest Day', was sung by the Youth Choir and the Chancel Choir combined. Flutist Sarah Harrison accompanied the singers.

Greeters for the morning were Don and Barbara Frazer. Ushers were Tore Wallin, Harry Holmes, Leon MacIntyre and Don Frazer. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Hazel Mayne and Katharine Hansen.

Earlier in the morning, members of the congregation had gathered at Moswetuset Hummock for an Easter sunrise service and outdoor breakfast.

Guitarists for that service were Andrew Ogilvie, Steve Williams and Mary Ruth Scott. The breakfast was sponsored by young people of the church and supervised by Hazel Mayne, Grace Holmes and Gretchen Bumpus.

There will be two services next Sunday morning, the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m.

Sermon at the first service will be entitled "Breakfast with Jesus." At the second service, Dr. Langevin will speak on the subject, "What Shall We Do About the Nuclear Freeze?"

Craig Hamel Honor Student At Military Academy

Craig C. Hamel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hamel of Quincy, has been named to the Honor Roll for Term II at Fork Union Military Academy, Fork Union, Va.

The achievement is particularly significant at Fork Union Military Academy because of the Academy's One-Subject Plan of study, whereby students take one course during an eight week period, one term representing an entire year's work in that subject. The plan has been in continuous use at Fork Union in the high school grades since 1950.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipefitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

Our IRA pays off right away.

Sign up now, and keep the Cross pen.

Planning for a financially secure retirement and finding a way to reduce your taxes are growing concerns for everyone. Especially when you consider the state of our troubled Social Security system. But help is as close as your nearest Hancock Bank.

Our professionals have developed two Individual Retirement Account plans. Each lets you set aside up to $2,000 a year ($2,250 if you have a non-wage earning spouse) toward your retirement. That money comes right off of your total earned income for income tax purposes — reducing your taxable income and your tax obligation every year you put money in your IRA. It could even make the difference between paying the IRS and getting a refund!

Plus, the interest your IRA earns is deferred until you claim your account at retirement (when most people are in a lower tax bracket). Hancock Bank offers a choice of Fixed Rate or Variable Rate options. Call your Hancock Banker today for the current interest rates.

You have one more choice: either a Classic Black Cross pen or a beautiful Chrome Cross pen when you sign up and deposit your first $500.

Expert advice to help you plan a financially secure retirement, the flexibility of a high-yielding IRA with two tax-sheltered investment options, and a free Cross pen — three more ways we show our growing concern for you.

Koch Club 35th Anniversary Committee Meets Thursday

The Koch Club 35th Anniversary Committee will meet tonight (Thursday) evening at 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy to complete plans for the series of events to be sponsored by the organization to celebrate its three and one-half decades as a community service organization.

Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, Ticket Chairman of the Anniversary Dinner-Dance to be held on Saturday, May 3, will be present to accept reservations and assign tickets to table captains and receive returns to date.

A social hour will be held between 6:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. at the George F. Bryan VFW Hall, Quincy, with a catered roast beef dinner to follow. Dancing will be from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. to the music of C.C. and Co.

James B. Moody, general chairman, has requested that members and friends of the Koch Club from various periods, programs and activities join in the reunion celebration and obtain tickets from Mrs. Nestor or any of the committee members.

Mrs. Janet Crowley is chairperson of the Decorations Committee and will be joined by a number of other members in providing a series of souvenirs and surprises to mark the occasion.

The deadline for submitting material or pictures for the 35th anniversary souvenir tabloid newspaper is Friday, April 22.

The sixth annual Memorial Mass for deceased members and friends of the Koch Club will be held on Thursday, May 26, at 7:30 p.m. in Our Lady's Chapel of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mrs. Edward Keohane is chairman of the program.

Also included in the series of activities planned is the 32nd Annual Flag Day Parade scheduled on Tuesday, June 14, at 6:15 p.m. and the 36th Family Picnic planned for Sunday, June 26 at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park.

City-Wide Parents

Meet April 11

Middle school principals will be the guest speakers at a meeting of the Quincy City-Wide Parents' Council Monday, April 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Media Center of Central Middle School.

Election of officers will take place.

300 To Walk 10 Miles For Protestant Social Bureau

Some 800 participants will walk 10 miles Sunday, April 10, to raise $30,000 to aid the adoption and counseling services of the Protestant Social Service Bureau.

Now in its 36th year, the Quincy-based human services agency serves ten South Shore communities.

Mrs. Linda Palmer of Milton is chairwoman of the walk which will cover areas of Braintree and Weymouth. The route begins and ends at the Heritage United Methodist Church, Grove Street, Braintree. The starting time is 1 p.m.

Former Celtics star Jim Loscutt and local officials will lead the group.

Montclair Men

Plans for a membership drive will be discussed at the regular monthly business meeting of the Montclair Men's Club tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in the clubhouse, 93 Holbrook Road, North Quincy.

Walkers are members of 50 South Shore churches and expect to raise $5,000 more than last year.

Community coordinators include Robert Steen for Weymouth, Melissa Norris for Braintree, Connie Hodgekins for Scituate and Hingham, Robert Christian for Randolph and Holbrook, Mrs. Ethel Schow for Milton and Gail Montgomery for Quincy.

Coordinating the various town activities is Mrs. Emily Stephens of Quincy.

Members of the walk committee include Palmer, Mrs. Barbara Pike of Milton, Miss Mary Lou Glaman of Quincy, Mrs.

Carol Block of Quincy, Robert Steen of Weymouth, H. Wallace Sylvester of Quincy, and Mrs. Barbara MacFarlane of the agency staff.

An awards night celebration is planned for May 20 to honor walkers and churches for outstanding support of the event. Chairing the event are Miss Mary Lou Glaman and Mrs. Ethel Schow.

Along with its adoption and counseling services, the Protestant Social Service Bureau, 776 Hancock Street, Quincy, provides foster care services for adolescents and operates a free emergency food program.

Dance Saturday At St. Ann's School

St. Ann's Parish, Wollaston, will hold its monthly dance Saturday 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. in the school hall.

The Rose of Tralee

QJC Wins Small Conference Championship

The Quincy Junior College basketball team capped off an exciting season recently by capturing its first Greater Boston Small College Conference championship. The Jaguars coached by Brian Buckley finished first in regular season play, then swept through the playoffs.

QJC was 14-2 in league play and 24-8 overall after defeating Bunker Hill Community College and Northeastern Essex Community College in the playoffs.

This was a complete turnaround for the Jaguars, who a year ago finished 4-19.

Highlights of the season included an overtime win over North Shore Community College, an exciting double overtime win over Bunker Hill and three hard-fought victories over Northern Essex, the only losses in conference play for the Knights. The other conference teams were Mass. College of Pharmacy, Wentworth Institute, Emerson College, Daniel Webster College and Essex Agricultural. Non-league opponents included Harvard jayvees, Brandeis, Bridgewater State Jayvees, Mass. College of Art, Atlantic Union, Blue Hills Technical Institute and Massachusetts Community College.

QJC had some strong individual performances including Gary DiNardo going eight for eight from the foul line and Fran McEachern scoring all his 11 points in double overtime against Bunker Hill.

Jim Conboy not only scored a season and team high of 37 points in a playoff game, he also scored his 1000th point. A two-year all-star, he was voted the conference MVP for the second straight year and was named to the conference all-star and tournament all-stars together with Paul Gill and Steve Belcastro.

Sophomore Keith Realini had some strong games and was instrumental in wins over Northern Essex. QJC had three freshmen average in double figures, Gill, Belcastro and Paul Forbes. Gill, the conference playoff MVP, made both the conference and tournament all-star teams. Belcastro, the second leading scorer, also was named to both star clubs.

The top defensive players were guards Ricky Anderson and Ken Mann. Rounding out the roster were Tom Deegan, Paul Stevens, Bill Walsh, Brian Connolly, Mike Jaehmig, Tom Pound and Peter Dalberti. Brett Buckley was the Jaguars' manager.

CHUCK MARSHALL, of 48 Baxter Ave., Quincy is a member of the 1982-83 Suffolk University Basketball Team. Marshall, a freshman majoring in government, is a 1981 graduate of Boston College High School. He is the son of Norfolk County Sheriff and Mrs. Clifford.

Atlantic, Beechwood Undefeated In Senior Loop

The Quincy Recreation Department Senior Basketball League has completed its season with two teams undefeated. Atlantic finished at 4-0 in the 76ers Division, while Beechwood was 4-0 in the Celtics Division. Both will draw byes in the first round of the single elimination tournament which will decide an all-city champion.

Snug Harbor will play

Montclair and Atherton Hough will meet Point in the opening round. Central, Sterling, Squantum and Merrymount were eliminated from tournament play.

Last week Beechwood topped Merrymount, 56-22 with Mike Murphy scoring 12 points, Mike Sullivan 14 and Mike Cunnis 10. Mike Haynes led Merrymount with 18, Pat Haddigan and Rex Haddigan had two points each.

Atlantic finished up with a 37-28 win over Central Vin Barry had 12 points, Paul Cahill and Mike Cavanaugh 10 points each and Mark Scanlon and Steve Warren eight each. Jim Reardon and Paul Marsters had six points each and Ross Connerty four for Central.

Montclair made the playoffs with a victory over Squantum as Don Baker had 10 points and Bill Morris six. Jack Bolster had 18 for Squantum.

The standings: 76ers Division - Atlantic, 4-0; Snug Harbor, 3-1; Point, 2-2; Central, 1-3; Sterling, 0-4. Celtics Division - Beechwood, 4-0; Atherton Hough, 3-1; Montclair, 2-2; Squantum, 1-3; Merrymount, 0-4.

Point, Atherton Win Middle School Openers

For the first time in the 30-year history of the Quincy Recreation Department's all-city basketball championships, a boys' middle school division got under way last week.

Recreation director Barry Welch pointed out that this division made up of grades 6, 7 and 8, reflects the changes made by the reorganization of the Quincy Public Schools.

The 10 teams in the single elimination tournament are made up of participants in the Recreation Department's winter gymnasium program and are coached by recreation leaders from each center.

Point edged Snug Harbor, 57-54, with the Cronin brothers leading the way. Dennis and Mark had 25 points apiece with Dennis having 14 and Mark 13 in the first half. Anthony Battistone had four points and Steve Sullivan had three and rebounded well. Billy Ryan and Keith McCray played excellent defense. Billy Burkhead of Snug Harbor led all scorers with 26 points. Jay Dennett and Jim Dennett had six each and Bob Hatfield and Tom Cunnene four each. Dennis Keefe, Joe Dunn and Donny Remillard all played strong games.

Atherton Hough, which looms as the school to beat in early action, rolled over Sterling, 59-14.

Dennis DeCoste had 18 points and Steve Austin 12 to lead Atherton Hough and Steve Gardner. Tom McKinnon, Chris Hughes and Mossy Houlihan rounded out the scoring. Sterling couldn't find the scoring punch but never stopped hustling. Shawn Myett, Gary Doten, Paul Dellabarra, Steve Fox and Rich Carnale all played well.

North Girls Lose To St. Mary's

The North Quincy girls' youth basketball team lost to St. Mary's of the Hills of Milton, 45-42, in the finals of the Immaculate Conception Tournament in Weymouth.

The North girls had defeated Our Lady of Lourdes of Brockton, 49-30, in Saturday's semi-finals.

In the semi-final win Eileen Warren was outstanding, scoring 20 points while teammate Karen Runge had 16. Leading, 31-16, at halftime, North Quincy increased its advantage in the second half as Debbie Panaro, Karrie Pistorino put constant pressure on the Brockton guards while Maureen Donovan, Beth Bunker and Jill Caldwell controlled both boards. Also playing well were Jean Welby and Nancy Flukes.

Falling behind, 18-8, early against Milton, North took the lead at halftime, 27-26, thanks mainly to the offensive showing of Warren and Runge. Again, defense was a key as Welby and Flukes pressured the Milton team and caused numerous turnovers.

The second half was nip and tuck. With Milton leading, 43-40, Flukes drove the land for a basket to cut the lead to one. Needing the ball back, North fouled with 10 seconds left and Milton made both shots.

Warren again led North with 15 points and Runge added 12, and Flukes 10, including eight from the foul line.

This was a freshman tournament but North Quincy had only three freshmen, an eighth grader (Donovan), four seventh graders (Bunker, Flukes, Pistorino and Caldwell) and a sixth grader (Panaro.)

MacDougald Hurls Quincy To 9-0 Win Over North

Bob MacDougald pitched a two-hitter and John Walsh slugged a triple and a single as the Quincy High School baseball team opened the season with a 9-0 victory over North Quincy at Adams Field.

While MacDougald was striking out eight batters, his mates were battering three Raider pitchers for 14 hits, including pairs of singles by Dave Milner, Don Darracq, Pete Mottla and Fran Conroy.

The Quincy lineup included: Mottla 2b, Rappoli ss, Darracq cf, J. Walsh lf, Mottla 1b, Conroy 3b, W. O'Meara c, B. O'Meara rf, MacDougald p.

The North Quincy lineup included: Sadlier 3b, Hay 2b, Densmore cf, McCabe lf, Johnson 1b, Connolly ss, Omar rf, Carroll c, Clark p, Dunn p, Blanford p.

NORTH TRACKMEN WIN

Pete Bartoloni won the pole vault, placed second in the low hurdles and tied for second in the high jump for 10 points to lead the North Quincy High School track team to 67-55 victory over Hingham at Cavanaugh Field.

Jeff Simmons contributed nine points with three second places in the discus, javelin and high hurdles while half miler Al Walker, miler Annie Kaupp, discus thrower Brian Conery and hurdler Dick Kemp won their events.

REQUIRED READING

"The Science of Baseball: Analysis of Positions, Players and Baseball Strategy," a 29-page book written by Ed Phillips, the new North Quincy High School baseball coach, was required reading for candidates for the team.

"I've taken my notes in the clinics sponsored by the coaches, the old Boston Braves and the Red Sox and put my own ideas on baseball with them," said Phillips. "Together they present my best ideas on the game."

TENNIS TEAM TRIUMPHS

Al Henderson, Tommy Orenberg and Ronnie Wilson swept the singles matches and Paul Hurley, Marty Cohen, Howard Cooper and Gerry Peak won in doubles as the Quincy High School tennis team shutout Silver Lake, 5-0, in the South Shore League opener.

SPORTS BITS '60

Jimmy Green, a former Quincy High trackman, finished third in the Boston Marathon in two hours, 23 minutes, 37 seconds, the fastest time of his career. . . . Third Baseman Frank Malzone was chosen the top player of the Boston Red Sox spring training season and pitcher Tom Borland was named the outstanding rookie. . . . Tom Scanlon scored 22 points and Bob Johnson had 16 as the Fore River Local 5 basketball team whipped Pneumatic Scale, 75-50, to win the Industrial League title. . . . Former Holy Cross end Bob Dee of Braintree signed to play with the Boston Patriots of the new American Football League. . . . Jim Gaffney of Woburn was named assistant pro at the Wollaston Golf Club. . . . Jack Tocchio of the Quincy Police Boys Club scored his fourth straight knock out, stopping Bill Dukaine of Manchester, N.H., in their 157-pound class bout at Rollaway Arena, Revere. . . . Fordie Pitts and Al Denly led the Wollaston Golf Club team to an 11-4 sweep of Franklin in the Norfolk County Four Ball Golf League opener. . . . Coach Jack Garrity's Quincy High School football team scrimmaged Beverly, Watertown, Arlington and St. Mary's of Lynn during the month-long spring practice period. . . . Frank Ramsey had 24 points and Bill Russell and Tom Heinsohn 22 apiece as the Boston Celtics walloped the St. Louis Hawks, 122-103, to win their third NBA title in four years. . . . Ralph Frazier of North Quincy was a leading candidate for guard at the Boston University spring football practice. . . . Don Zimmer, who demanded that the Los Angeles Dodgers "play me or trade me," was sent to the Chicago Cubs for three minor leaguers and $25,000. . . . Ch. Rudel's Johnny Come Lately, owned by Drs. Elsie and Rudolph Neustadt of Quincy, won the Giles Memorial Trophy in the Rhode Island Kennel Club Dog Show, retiring the prize after winning it for the third time. . . . The Quincy Local 5 baseball team, defending champions of the South Shore League, was seeking a manager after the retirement of Joe Doyle.

Students In N.E. Volleyball Competition

Twenty-four students representing three of Quincy's middle schools have been taking part in the New England Juniors Volleyball Program.

"Juniors" is affiliated with the U.S. Volleyball Association, a nationally run organization. The students are in the 13 and under age bracket, the youngest of four divisions.

In their first tournament recently, the Suburban 1 and Suburban 2 teams placed second and fourth, losing to a strong Chelmsford squad.

The Quincy teams are coached by Susan Callahan, a 1980 Quincy High graduate currently at Northeastern on a volleyball scholarship, and Karin Deady, a 1981 QHS graduate now at Bridge-water State College.

The girls practice Sundays at North Quincy High and are preparing for the state tournament at Chelmsford high May 7 and the zonal championships at the University of Delaware Memorial Day weekend. If the girls do well in the states, they will qualify for the nationals in Chicago in June.

The teams spend a majority of their time in conditioning, serving and performing various defensive drills that often resemble the Japanese Olympic team training films with players' bodies flying for balls toward the floor.

Led by Co-captains Lauren Standing and Ginny Duggan, the teams also include Susan Parry, Terry Duggan, Dawn Mezzetti, Chris Menz, Alyse Zacheo, Carrie Campbell, Brenda Campbell, Kerry Gearin, Tricia Koski, Jeanine Queigley, Denise Marnell, Pam Austin, Eileen forward, he brought the Pizzamen back from a 4-1 deficit with two booming slapshot goals and assisted on three other goals.

Frank Fitzgerald added a hat trick and an assist and Chuck Brosnan had two goals. Goalie Randy Calhoun, again playing a strong game, stopped 28 shots.

Johnson Finishes In First Place

Johnson Motor finished first just three points ahead of the surging Quincy Sun as the Bantam House League completed the regular season.

The Sun edged Johnson, 4-3, as Steve Brooks had a hat trick and Karl Staskywitz the other goal. Eddie Flynn had two assists and Patrick Harrington and Mossie Houlihan one each. Robbie Sheehan played well in goal. Kevin Provenzano had two goals and Mike Crowley one for Johnson. Shawn Craig had three assists and Keith Freeman one.

Baskin Robbins edged Burgin Platter, 2-1, on goals by Bob Burgess and Dave Maimaron. Ed Flavin, Mike Tenney and Tony Scola had assists. Rich Connelly scored for Burgin.

McGinn Sunoco won by forfeit over Doran & Horrigan.

The final standings: Johnson, 13-6-2; Quincy Sun, 12-8-1; Doran & Horrigan, 10-10-1; Burgin Platter, 9-11-1; Baskin Robbins, 6-10-5; McGinn, 7-12-2.

Squirt A's Win Second Straight State Division Crown

The Quincy Youth Hockey Association can now boast of four state championships this season after the Squirt A team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, captured its second straight state Div. I crown last weekend in Billerica.

Previously Quincy's Squirt, Pee Wee and Bantam B teams won state Div. 2 championships.

Quincy blanked Abington, 4-0, Sunday in the championship game as the first line of Joey Fasano, Kevin Daly and Richie McDonald each had a goal, while Fasano and McDonald also had assists. Michael Hughes scored the fourth goal with Brian Zimmerman and Matt Smith assisting.

Ken Staskywitz, Matt Kelley, Ronnie Last and Smith were outstanding on defense, limiting Abington to just seven shots on goal.

Also playing exceptional games were Michael Baylis, Steve Carroll, Timmy Collins, Dave Santosuosso and Joey Bevilacqua. Goalie James Tiberio recorded his 14th shutout of the season.

Quincy opened with a 2-0 win over a strong Billerica team as Tiberio played his first game of the year. McDonald scored the game-winner later in the second period on a beautiful feed from Fasano. Zimmerman iced the game with an unassisted goal in the third period.

Quincy then defeated Wakefield, 4-2 with a solid team effort, blanketing John Lilley, the best Squirt player in the state.

After falling behind, 1-0, in the opening period, Quincy stormed back with three second period goals. Staskywitz tied the game, beating goalie Greg Rush with a top corner shot to the far side, and Baylis put Quincy ahead as he beat the Wakefield defense on a fine pass from Zimmerman, and Carroll jammed in Collins' rebound with one second remaining on the clock.

After Wakefield closed to 3-2, Daly intercepted a pass and fired a high shot that deflected off a defenseman into the net. Smith had an assist.

In game 3 Quincy edged

Shrewsbury, 4-3, with Daly having two goals and Last and Hughes one each.

Zimmerman and Smith had two assists apiece and McDonald and Baylis one each. Fred Regan played well in goal.

Quincy completely dominated the semifinal game but just edged Lexington/Bedford, 2-1, as goalie Paul Tedesco was brilliant, kicking out 35 of Quincy's 37 shots.

Zimmerman scored the first goal with Hughes and Carroll assisting, and Baylis scored the winner with Zimmerman having an assist.

Coaches Dave Fasano and Bill Hughes accepted the championship trophy, which will be on display at the Quincy Youth Arena.

QSO In Youth Concert Friday

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will present its first concert of the season, "Youth Performs", Friday, at 8 p.m. at North Quincy High School, Hancock and East Squantum St.

Tickets are $5 for adults, $2.50 for students and senior citizens. The concert of four major works will be of special appeal to young people and adults.

Trumpet soloist for Trumpet Concerto in E Flat Major by Franz Joseph

Hayden will be Anthony DiLorenzo, a sophomore at Stoughton High School. DiLorenzo is first trumpet with the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra and has appeared as soloist with the New Bedford Symphony. He is a student of Peter Chapman of the Boston Symphony.

Piano soloist for Concerto for Piano and Orchestra written by Northeastern University professor, Reginald Hache.

will be Ann Karnofsky. She received her musical training at Eastman School of Music, the Juillard School of Music and Indiana University. A professor at Northeastern University, she has performed with many chamber music groups and orchestras.

The program also includes Alexander Borodin's "Polovetsian Dances" from Prince Igor and Gabriel Faure's Pavane.

QHS, Vo-Tech 'Stardust' Revue

Students from Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational Technical School will present "Stardust" a musical revue at Broad Meadows Middle School April 6, 7, and 9.

The musical, under the direction of Catherine Carnabuci, will be in two acts.

The first act will pay tribute to the female stars and the planets. Act-two will be centered around the galaxy.

Among the selections sung by the Jazz Choir will be "Birdland", "Misty" and "Satin Doll".

"Planet Rock", "Honky Cat", "Venus and One" are among the numbers to be performed by the dancers.

Members of the show's three dance companies are: Richard Parker, Garth Morris, Steve Magee, Brad Kenyon, Frank McArdle, Maria Pietrantozzi, Rita Casadio, Michelle DelVecchio, Joanne Valante, Melinda Joseph, Anne Mulligan, Leah Keddy, Amy Carolyn, Todd Batson, Ron Sheehan, Bruce Marshall, John Thorne, Jack Joyce, Joanne Doherty, Maryann Henwood, Lisa Burrelli, Tammy Kliphan, Suzi Finnegan, Kathy Mullin, Tricia O'Toole, and Janet Buttmor.

The chorus with a cast of 44 members will be in full swing performing numbers such as: "Hey Good Lookin'", "Ain't She Sweet," and "Memory."

Coalition Evening Of Music

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights will present "Come Sunday: The Music of Freedom and Peace," May 1 at 7 p.m. at United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

The evening of music will feature vocalist Semanya McCord and her jazz ensemble, including Herb King on drums, Frank Wilkins on piano and Ron McWhorter on bass.

For tickets or further information, call 472-3396.

Company Theatre To Present 'The Miracle Worker'

The Company Theatre, which includes several Quincy residents, will present "The Miracle Worker," the dramatization of the story of young Helen Keller, Friday to Sunday at 8 p.m. at Weymouth South Junior High School.

Zoe Bradford and Jordie Saucerman of Houghs Neck will co-direct their 15th show with the Company Theatre. Drips Kleiman of Quincy will be technical director for the production.

Bryan Galligan of Houghs Neck, an eighth grader at Broad Meadows Middle School, made his semi-professional stage debut last December in the Company's "Oliver" in which he played the title role.

In "The Miracle Worker", Bryan will portray the Keller's housekeeper's son, who helps Annie Sullivan in her attempt to teach Helen language.

Michael Costa, a North

BRYAN GALLIGAN, 14, of Quincy will play Percy, the housekeeper's son, who helps Annie Sullivan teach Helen Keller, played by Becky Herzberg, 13, of Hingham, to speak.

Quincy High senior who recently played Nathan Detroit in his school's "Guys and Dolls" and Fagin in the Company's "Oliver", will play the doctor.

Lighting design and direction will be handled by Marco Zanelli of Quincy who is a communications major in his second year at Northeastern University. Dave Cuervels, also a senior at North Quincy High, will act as Zanelli's assistant.

Tickets are available at the door, and may be obtained at a reduced rate in advance. For further information call Terry Fielding at 335-5480.

WEEK OF: APRIL 7

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
You're in a highly influential position, especially in the eyes of older persons. Good period for taking inventory and asking for money. Old friend shows a new side.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Do-it-yourself chores, such as household repairs, may not be worth the aggravation. Finances are favorably aspected for you and family members. Approach fitness scheme with vigor.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Good time for experimenting in various fields - but not in finance. Emphasis is on laying the groundwork for important projects. One-time admirer may step into the picture.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Long-awaited news comes by the end of the period. Diversification is keyword on the job. Travel may include some mixups. Shopping with friends can be expensive for yours truly.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Romantic picture becomes more complicated before you see where you're headed. Professional partnership may be launched by Tuesday. Contract or other agreement is subject to delay.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
You can be on your own more than you planned, providing time for important introspection. Money earning talents are improving, but don't make any premature moves.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Surprise visits and optimistic business announcements are highlights of the week. Don't take on major project without considering your investment of time, energy and emotions.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Pay debts promptly, meet as many social obligations as you can - this is a quiet time that precedes a sustained period of activity. Be alert to opportunists in your midst.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Career opportunity opens up, in interviews, be forthright without being aggressive. Social times are lively, though much of the fun is on a superficial level. Loved one is apologetic.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Reaction to your academic plans is upbeat. Take time out to enjoy new recreational activities. Expensive obligations may be shared with another party. Romantic tiffs can be resolved.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Conflict between reality and dreams peaks by the weekend. Reserve time for soul searching and sorting out priorities. Multiple financial gains possible after Monday.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Time to move into the future, not dwell on past deeds. Romance can be on your mind more than usual, and partner lets you have your way. Business interest perks up.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're known for qualities of bravery and leadership, impulsiveness and stubbornness. Next seven months accent shift toward greater independence. Extensive travel accented through 1983 - make an effort to broaden your horizons.

Burke Optimistic As QJC Opens Season

By PETE ZOIA

Dave Burke, the only baseball coach Quincy Junior College has had, is starting his 15th season at the Jaguars' helm.

Burke, who has the reputation of being a low key sort of person, is optimistic about the coming season.

"We play a short schedule and most of the players have part time jobs, making it difficult for them to make all of the practice sessions," he said. "But we manage and the attitude is very good."

Gary DiNardo, who had in outstanding 1982 season, heads the pitching staff. The former Quincy High and Morrisette Legion standout doubled as a starter and relief man last season.

Other pitchers are Bruce Tobin of Quincy, who had a line year last spring; Dave Bregoli of Braintree High, Kevin Whalen of Abp. Williams and Joe Smith of Christopher Columbus.

Handling the pitchers will be Tom Canavan of Quincy High and Russ McIntyre of Braintree. Canavan will play in the infield when needed, as he did last season.

QJC has some experienced infielders in Tom Bowes, Dave Desmond, Paul Gordon, Ken Harris, Steve Onrick and Canavan.

The outfielders are Brian Tobin, Rick Venti, Steve Conley and Dennis King, all of whom have impressed Burke.

QJC and Charlie Bunker's North Quincy High team met in their annual pre-season practice game Tuesday. The Jaguars opened their regular season yesterday (Wednesday) against Suffolk, will host Wentworth Institute today (Thursday) at 4 at O'Rourke and Monday will play at Thayer Academy at 3:30.

QJC will again play all home games at O'Rourke Field.

Koch W.Q. District Registration Saturday

The West Quincy District of the Koch Club will hold registrations for the boys baseball and girls softball program Saturday, between 10 a.m. and noon at O'Rourke Playground located between Robertson St., Furnace Brook Parkway and Quarry St.

All boys and girls eight years old but not 13 years old before Jan. 1, are welcome to join and participate. Every boy and girl registering will be assigned to a team and participate. The leagues play Monday through Thursday evenings at O'Rourke Playground.

The North Quincy, Broad Meadows and Montclair Districts of the Koch Club will begin on Monday, May 2.

The North Quincy, Broad Meadows and Montclair areas will include boys 8 years through 11 years in baseball and girls 7 to 14 years in softball. There are no tryouts and all boys and girls registering to play will participate.

The North Quincy District meets at Cavanagh Stadium and Atlantic Middle School Field, Broad Meadows District at the Broad Meadows Junior High School Field on Tuesdays and Thursdays and the Montclair District at the Bishop Playground on Holbrook Road, Montclair from Monday through Thursday.

Faiella Team Continues To Set Pace In St. John's League

Lou Faiella's team continues to lead St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 59-19 record and total pinfall of 19,437.

The rest of the standings: Ed Linehan, 47-31 (19,610); Dick Guerriero, 39-39 (19,323); Mike Panarelli, 32-46 (19,725); Jim Mastrantonio, 31-47 (18,610), and Bob Saluti, 26-52 (19,178).

Panarelli rolled the weekly high single of 141 and Saluti had 123. Guerriero and Saluti tied for high three with 347 and Charlie Chambers had 340.

Panarelli's team had the high team single of 526 and Saluti had 511. Saluti had the high team three of 1505 and Panarelli had 1471.

The Top Ten: Saluti, 114.0; Panarelli, 122.3;

Guerriero, 110.9; Linehan, 100.7; Faiella, 106.7; Tom Darcy, 105.8; Joe Mata-razzo, 103.3; Art DiTullio, 102.3; Mastrantonio, 102.3, and Lew MacLennan, 100.2.

Fire Hydrant Testing Starts April 11

Chief Edward F. Barry announces the Quincy Fire Department will start its annual hydrant testing program, Monday, April 11. Deputy Chief Thomas Andrew and Firefighter Robert N. Mood of the Training Division will supervise the testing which will take place from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Hydrant testing will take place in all sections of the city at the same time.

During the testing, residents may experience some discoloration in water.

The water is not harmful to drink or use, but should be checked before use in washing machines, a Fire Department spokesman said.

Persons experiencing discoloration of water are requested to flush their water systems by opening their cold water faucet for a few minutes then wait approximately one hour. If the water does not clear repeat the flushing procedure.

Chief Barry estimates that the testing will take approximately four weeks to complete.

Ice Cream Shop For Adams Building

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The Adams Building, which was recently restored to its late 19th century appearance, will soon have an old fashioned ice cream shop as a tenant.
The License Board granted a common victualer license Tuesday to David Dickerman of Cohasset for Dickerman's Ice Cream Shop at 1356 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

The shop is scheduled to open about May 1 and will seat about 32 people. Hours will be 9 a.m. to midnight seven days a week.

There will be 10 to 13 employees at the shop.
Atty. Peter Fleecy.

representing Dickerman, said the shop will have a green and white motif with butcher block tables and counters and Tiffany lamps.
Eley said about 15 flavors of ice cream will be made on the premises with a $12,000 ice cream machine. Toppings will be folded in, Eley said.

Dickerman said he has a similar shop in South Boston and that he runs "a strict store."

Dickerman said he will not tolerate obscenities or loitering by customers. According to the application, there will be no video games or juke boxes in the shop.

Increased Storage Approved At Gas Station

The License Board granted increased storage permits Tuesday for Amoco Oil Co., 545-571 Hancock St., after oil company representatives agreed to add greenery to its plans to upgrade the station.

The board approved additional storage of 14,600 gallons of gasoline and oil under ground in addition to present storage at the Prioli Brothers station.

Larry Larssen and Maurice Bern of Amoco told the board the company plans to spend $25,000 to improve the station with regard to appearance and cleanliness, and to put in new storage tanks.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald complained that he has seen 14 cars as well as trucks parked at the station.

"They're in business to make money," said City Clerk John Gillis, as long as the cars aren't there overnight I see no problem."

MacDonald recommended that the renovation plans include landscaping along the front and sides of the station.

"Other stations comply with this," explained MacDonald.

"We're not against plantings," answered Bern, "we just don't want driving obstacles."

Larssen agreed to try the landscaping.

The new tanks are to be installed under the direction of the Fire Department, and the greenery is to meet the approval of the Building Department.

Work is expected to begin within a month.

Daily Parking In Wollaston Area Approved

Wollaston residents who live near the MBTA station soon will be able to park all day on their home streets without interference from police or commuter parkers.

The City Council Monday night passed an ordinance that will permit residents to purchase 52 permits that will allow them to park on streets near their homes both day and night.

All day parking has been banned from areas around the city's MBTA stations to prevent Boston commuters from leaving their cars there while they commute to their jobs.

FOR SAFER CYCLING

The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety recently conducted a study of some 888 police reports of bicycle accidents in Maryland, and concluded that cyclists were "probably responsible for the initiation of 78 percent" of the crashes, and that the percentage of "probably responsible" cyclists "diminished sharply with increasing ages over 12."

Researchers said older cyclists were less likely to be the cause of their crashes because they were better able to localize sounds, perceive movements out of the corners of their eyes, and were more competent at reading, understanding and obeying road signs.

In a separate report, the Consumer Product Safety Commission advises parents: "If you're buying a bicycle for a child, choose one to fit his size as he is today, not one he will grow into later on." The report gives detailed instructions on how to select, use, and maintain a bicycle. High School Student

By TOM HENSHAW

Students at Quincy's high schools plan to kick off the prom and graduation season in a novel but pragmatic way -- with a rally against drunken driving.

The Quincy chapter of SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) is sponsoring a monster rally at both high schools Wednesday, May 4, to emphasize safety.

An added attraction will be the appearance of Gov.

Michael Dukakis, who will proclaim the week of May 2-6 SADD Week in Massachusetts, and State Public Safety Commissioner Charles Barry.

"It will be the first time in history that the two Quincy high schools will have a rally together in order to save lives -- maybe their own," said John (Butch) Mahoney, social health coordinator.

High schools in 100 other communities have been invited to send representatives to the rallies, which will start at 9:30 a.m. at Quincy High School and North Quincy High School.

The governor will be introduced at 9:30 a.m. at North Quincy. Mayor Francis X. McCauley will speak at Quincy High School.

Another guest will be Robert Anastas, director of health education for the Wayland public schools, who founded SADD.

At Construction Site

Traffic, Floods, Sewage Worry West Quincy

Traffic, floods and sewage problems were very much on the minds of some 100 West Quincy residents who attended a hearing on a proposed $100 million office park-hotel development Monday night.

The development is proposed on a 177-acre site of the Old Colony Crushed Stone Co., which was purchased by a group of investors from the Persian Gulf country of Kuwait.

Residents were told that sewer problems in the Robert St. area would be taken care of by a new sewer main that will be constructed under the Burgin Parkway Extension and the Fort Hill Pumping station.

Future flooding problems would be alleviated by construction of four holding ponds scattered around the site to slow the rate of water flow after storms.

Any increased traffic would be handled by re-locating the entrance to Old Colony Co. to Folsom St. and forbidding left turns onto Center St. The site would have access to the Route 3 ramps.

The presentation to the hearing was made by George M. Lovejoy, president of Meredith and Grew Management of Boston, the local agent for the Kuwaitis.

McCauley Sees GD Tax Agreement In 4-6 Weeks

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday he expects to announce within four to six weeks the terms of an agreement with General Dynamics on payment of a $12 million court-ordered tax rebate to the shipyard.

Other than that, McCauley declined even to say that negotiations are going on.

"I'm keeping a low profile," he said.

"I don't have anything to report. There's been nothing settled yet. When we reach some sort of a settlement then we'll call everybody in and announce it.

"Hopefully, that will be within the next four to six weeks."

After that, McCauley said, the city probably will have to go to the state legislature for permission to borrow the money outside the limits of Proposition 2½.

"The impact on the city would be so great that I would assume a payment structure would be part of any agreement," said the mayor. "That would require legislature approval also."

The city lost its final appeal in January from a decision by Superior Court Judge Hiller B. Zobel that Quincy overassessed the shipyard in 1977 through 1980 and must repay $12.1 million.

Deadline for settlement was set at June 1.

McCauley 'Heartened'

$3.5 Million State Aid Boost Seen For City

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he is "heartened" by word from the State House Tuesday that Gov. Michael Dukakis has proposed a state aid formula that would bring an additional $3.5 million to Quincy in fiscal 1984.

"The figure is higher than we expected," said McCauley, who is currently putting together the city budget for fiscal 1984, "but it will still be a tight squeeze before we finalize the budget numbers."

The mayor said he was expecting about $2.8 million in additional state aid, a far cry from last year when the state showered some $7 million in extra aid on the city.

"Last year we did well in both receipts and expenditures on the cherry sheet," said McCauley. "We won both ways. We still don't know what we will be charged for the MDC, MBTA, etc., on the cherry sheet."

Last year, expenditures charge to the city declined $700,000.

The mayor said he plans to meet with City Auditor Robert E. Foy III on Tuesday, April 19, to discuss potential receipts for fiscal 1984 "and other numbers for the pot."

"In about two weeks we'll be able to construct something," he said.

City To Start Foreclosures

The city is planning to start foreclosure proceedings against some property owners who were warned last November that they were in arrears in taxes but still refused to pay.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley placed the amount of money involved at nearly $1 million.

"It's something we're not really anxious to do," said McCauley.

"But some of the delinquent taxpayers have paid up or have made agreements to pay and it is not fair to them if we do not follow up with those who have shown no willingness to pay their fair share."

Letters were sent out in November to 102 delinquent taxpayers who owed some $1.2 million plus interest in back taxes. Since then, about $258,000 in back taxes and $85,000 in interest has been received.

If foreclosure proceedings are brought, said McCauley, the delinquent taxpayer will not only have to pay the tax bill and interest but legal costs as well.

City Treasurer Franklin Jay said the matter of how many delinquent taxpayers will be foreclosed is being left to the city solicitor's office since there are various categories of delinquents.

"Some of those on the list," said McCauley, "have severe financial problems and we will be understanding with these people. We're not going to throw anybody out of his home."

The mayor said some of the problem -- particularly among residential homeowners -- was brought about by the refusal of some banks to collect tax money monthly like they used to.

"Banks have to pay interest on escrow money now," he said. "So people are not paying the taxes as part of their monthly mortgage. They are getting hit with tax bills twice a year."

McCauley said the list of delinquents involved in this foreclosure process does not include the top 12 tax delinquents, who were singled out for payment before the 102.

Some of them already are in the foreclosure process, said McCauley.

2½ Year Sentence In Racial Bombing

Bradley Poor, 23, has been sentenced to 2½ years in the House of Correction for the fire-bombing of an apartment occupied by a black family in a Germantown housing project last September.

Judge Alan J. Dimond also suspended a one year sentence for violating the black family's civil rights and placed Poor on probation for two years under supervision.

Poor, who is white, has lived in Germantown, Brockton and now resides with his wife and two children in Hull.

New defensive measures are being taken to protect the Presidents Golf Course in North Quincy from new attacks by vandals.

Members of the Men's Club are planning to conduct unscheduled patrols of the area during the night and flyers are being distributed asking neighbors to help with a Neighborhood Watch of the course.

Boulders also are being set up at vehicle access points to prevent cars and trucks from entering the course through openings in the 9,100 feet of fence around the area.

All this is being done in the wake of joyriders in a stolen van who did $5,000 to $7,000 worth of damage to the 12th fairway and the 11th green of the course.

John Nourse, director of Presidents Golf Course Defends Against Vandals

the county-owned facility, said it is not the first time that vandals have wreaked havoc at the old Wollaston Golf Course in North Quincy.

"We've had it," he said. "The first one that gets caught gets the limit. We're going to set an example."

Nourse said the van broke through the fence on the Milton side of the facility, did wheelies on the 12th fairway and gouged deep ruts in the 11th green.

"We've repaired the damage as best we can," he said, "but the green will need constant attention for the next six or seven weeks."

The golf course opened March 15 and was used by some 250 golfers Saturday, April 2, the first good day of the season.

The van that did the damage was found Friday morning, abandoned at the corner of Hamilton and Harvard Sts., North Quincy. It was reported stolen the night before from the North Quincy MBTA station by George Hamrah of Milton.

Nourse said the van was found by facility employees who fanned out through the neighborhood in search of it Friday.

Board Approves California Glass Enclosure Expansion

Diners in Quincy Sq. will soon have more room to enjoy their meals in the glass enclosed dining room at California, 79 Parking-way.

The License Board approved a request Tuesday for expansion of the glass enclosed area by 42-ft. by 16-ft. The area will accommodate 56 additional seats.

Owner Carl Miranda said he expects the addition to be completed in about three weeks. Total seating in the glass enclosed area would be about 103 seats, he said.

City Clerk John Gillis, who is board chairman, said the parcel of land was recently purchased from the city.

Kenneth Fallon, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said California does a "great lunch business" and the expansion would enhance the area.

QEA Asks Fact Finding In Contract Negotiations

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Quincy Education Association has asked mediator Elliot Glitzman to certify fact finding for contract negotiations between the teachers' union and the school committee.

"It means that the two sides can find no common ground to negotiate," said Herman (Hank) Pasquerella, QEA president.

"The QEA feels it's been negotiating long enough - since November, 1981. We've shown more patience than even Job.

"We feel an outside party, a stranger to the situation, may be better capable of dealing with the issues."

Pasquerella explained that the fact finder's decision would be a "strong suggestion" but would be non-binding. The teachers' union would be willing to accept the decision if the school committee would be willing to do the same, he said.

"We feel the fact finder will see things in our favor," added Pasquerella. The QEA head pointed out that the mayor said he would abide by the court's decision in the case of the 1979 teachers' pay raise which was voted but never paid.

"We hope that the school committee and mayor's office will be consistent," said Pasquerella.

Members of both negotiating teams expressed disappointment at the lack of progress made during a five-hour negotiating session last week.

"I thought we might be able to settle, but it didn't turn out that way," said school committee vice chairman Mary Collins.

According to Pasquerella, subject to funding language is still among the problems.

The school committee will go along with a 2 per cent raise for teachers the first year, if the QEA agrees to a second year contract subject to funding with a pay raise of not more than 3 per cent, Pasquerella said.

Mrs. Collins suggested that lack of progress in negotiations might be related to the QEA elections next month which will include an open spot for president since Pasquerella has announced he will not seek re-election.

"They are no different than anybody else," said Mrs. Collins. "They're politicians.

"They don't want to alienate people. They may wait until after the election (to settle)."

Mrs. Collins said she doesn't think there will be too much difference if a fact finder is brought in to the negotiations.

"It will just prolong things," she said, "they may be more apt to settle then only because it has gone on longer."

Mrs. Collins said she is not authorized to discuss what the school committee would agree to as far as the fact finder's decision.

"We'll make a decision depending on what the fact finder says. I couldn't say before going in."

"It may take a while longer," said Mrs. Collins, "but everything will get settled eventually."

Lefty's Rights Day At Lincoln-Hancock School

The Lincoln-Hancock Community School recently celebrated the third annual Lefty's Rights Day.

The original committee formed at Adams School when there were seven left-handed persons in one room.

Since then, on or around April Fool's Day, the children gather data from each class to determine the number of left-handed children, and compute to find percentages.

This year, the committee shared its results with a display. They were surprised to learn that their school had 66 left handed children, 33 boys and 33 girls. They comprized 14 1/2 per cent of the school population.

Kindergarten children were not included because many have not clearly developed a hand dominance.

They also surveyed the faculty, and found that seven out of thirty-three or 21 per cent were left-handed.

The Mothers' Club purchased Lefty's Rights Day buttons for all the left-

Committee Named To Oversee Contracts

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has named a three-member Designer Selection Committee to oversee the award of contracts for construction design services estimated to exceed $10,000.

The designer selection process was mandated by the State Legislature recently in response to findings by the Ward Commission of corruption in the award of State building contracts.

Named to the committee were Gregory Doyle, a principal planner in the Public Works Department, chairman; David P. Tenney of 55 Albion Rd., and Robert W. Wilson Jr. of 184 North Central Ave., both Wollaston.

Tenney, formerly principal of Broad Meadows Junior High School, is a real estate broker dealing in investment property, and Wilson, a food broker, is president of the City-wide Parents Council.

The committee will evaluate proposals for construction, select the finalists and rank them in order of qualification for selection by the city department head awarding the contract.

If a designer other than the first one on the list is selected, the department head will have to file a written justification with the committee.

McCauley said he believes Quincy is among the first municipalities in the state to adopt a designer selection committee.

Readers Forum Wants Anti-Sunday Workers To Unite

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Anti-Sunday workers unite! I am an employee at a local supermarket that has recently opened for business on Sundays because of the repeal of the Blue Laws.
Last Sunday I was asked to work, but refused.
Although I would have earned time and a half, I had no desire to contribute to what I believe is extremely poor judgement on the part of our legislators.
I would much rather relax at home with family and friends whom I do not see very often during the week. I believe that Sunday should be a day of rest, a change from our last-paced daily routines.

Anyone who works on Sundays after a five or six day work week will soon be worn out physically and emotionally.

If works unite and refuse to work on Sundays, how can the stores remain open?

Braintree White Sox Rekindle Fond Memories

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Nostalgic memories of the gone-for-ever days when semi-pro ball was at its zenith and nearly every diamond and sandlot in Quincy were occupied from dawn to dusk, will be rekindled next month. As the proven stars, frustrated players and fans of yesteryear rendezvous for their annual Old Timers' night of nostalgia at Braintree Legion Hall on Friday, May 6th at 6:30 p.m.

With Leon Barton and Herb Boardman handling the organizational, per usual, the 14th annual Braintree White Sox reunion promises to be again devoid of long-winded speeches. Just a relaxing time for renewing friendly rivalries, replete with exaggerated tales of diamond exploits, over a bit of cheer. Abetted by the customary satisfying roast beef dinner served up by Frank and John Basile, who've filled the role admirably ever since the get-together was first dreamed up.

It's "reservations only" but all are welcome. Simply contact Leon Barton, 465
Plymouth St., Holbrook

Flim Flam Hits HN Elderly

Quincy police received word recently of a new flim flam game that was played on a 93-year-old woman in Houghs Neck.

Two white males came to her home at 10 a.m. when she was alone and told her they were from the telephone company.

They said they came to collect $10 she owed on her last bill.

One of the men went to check the wiring in the cellar while the second man engaged the woman in conversation in the kitchen.

The man told her that he had a $50 bill and would give it to her in return for her four $10 bills.

The woman did so but in the process she got so confused that she did not take the $50 bill.

Both men left the house by the rear door and drove away in a white pickup truck.

If you have any information on this flim flam game, please contact the Quincy Police Department.

Quincy Man Close To Astronauts

A Quincy man had a key role in the successful launching of Challenger on its five-day orbital mission.

Edward Tobin, brother of former Mayor Arthur
Tobin, was assigned to the safety of astronauts Paul Weitz, Karol Bobko, Story Musgrave and Donald Peterson.

Tobin worked with the astronauts for weeks in preparation for the launch. He rode up in the elevator with them and harnessed them in.

If you were watching on TV, he was the man in the white fire-proof suit who locked the hatch on the space ship just before launching.

And, if you were really watching closely, he was also the one who scraped dirt from Bobko's shoes at the last moment.

And Bobko, in a light moment before the dramatic launch, turned around and tipped Tobin a dime.

Tobin is going to have the dime framed as a memento.

Incidentally, if anything had gone wrong in the final seconds it would have been his job and that of a few others to unlock the hatch to get to the astronauts and drop down a chute with them to safety.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE Vice-Chairman Mary
Collins is still giving serious thought to challenging Joanne Condon for the Ward 6 City Council seat.

She says she's still "99 per cent sure" she will run but won't make a final decision until early May.

Mrs. Collins is in her sixth year (second term) as a School Committee member and has two and a half years left on the term.

She topped the field both times out.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Condon is already out campaigning for re-election and distributing flyers.

So far this year's city election is shaping up as the dullest in many, many years. So far, no battles.

A Condon-Collins square-off might at least keep voters awake election night. It would be, as one observer says, a political hair-puller.

DON'T LOOK NOW, but Sandy Rounseville is at it again. And if you think that's a lot of bull--well, you're right.

Sandy, owner of Beacon Fabrics in downtown Quincy has had his moments the past three years leading various protests or supporting a cause.

You'll remember him as Comfortman, climbing the side of his store to protest the closing of the comfort station in the Hancock Parking lot.

Then he was Sandy Revere riding a horse up and down Hancock St. warning shoppers "The meter maids are coming, the meter maids are coming!" That, of course, was to protest cars of shoppers being tagged at eters.

Then, of course, last year he rode "Nellie" the elephant up to City Hall to present Mayor Francis McCauley with a petition favoring validated parking in the Hancock and Ross parking areas and the municipal parking garage.

And just this past February, he dressed up as Rita the Meter Maid and roller-skated up and down Hancock St. "tagging" cars with Valentines which could be redeemed for a variety of prizes.

Now, Sandy has decided to lead a campaign for Sunday shopping in downtown Quincy.

The word is that he's been seen around out-of-town farms looking for -- get this -- a bull.

In fact, it all goes well, he plans to have the bull in Quincy Thursday for a press conference.

And then bring the bull back again on Sunday. Sandy the Matador (or is it Shodador?) will engage him in a little bullfight on Hancock St.

What's the bull got to do with shopping on Sunday, you ask?

"Well," explains Sandy, "I'm bullish on Sunday shopping."

"And, that's no bull."

FED DeCRISTOFARO will Association building on Battery-march Park, West Quincy.

KELLY

IF IT ISN'T Leo Kelly's fondest moment in his career as city councillor, it has to be right up there.
That was the night of the public meeting on the proposed MDC Braintree-Weymouth pumping station and interceptor at which he led the opposition.

The meeting, originally scheduled for the Snug Harbor School auditorium had to be shifted to St. Boniface Church because of the large turnout.

And when Kelly got up to speak, some 500 persons attending got up to give him a standing ovation.

"It made me feel good," Kelly says. "I never expected anything like that."

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

McGrath Skeptical On Validated Parking

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath says he has "yet to be convinced of the merits" of Mayor Francis X. McCauley's proposal for validated parking in downtown Quincy.

McGrath was interviewed on the panel show "Newsbreakers" on Quincy Cable Systems.

"We have to ask ourselves exactly what are we trying to do," he said. "Are we trying to raise money? Or are we trying to have an orderly system of parking?"

"I don't feel that we should be trying to raise money. Parking should be offered as a convenience to shoppers to encourage them to shop in downtown Quincy."

"If we want to make it more convenient, then the question becomes how are we going to do that?"

"I question whether it is wise to end up with a validated system whereby it's left up to the whim of the businessmen as to who is going to participate and who is not."

"Suppose I went in to Remick's, Caradonna's News Stand and Hanlon Shoe. Who is going to pay my parking ticket? What if I go into a store and don't buy anything?"

"I don't feel that the 15-minute free parking the administration is advocating is adequate. Suppose we made it 30 minutes of free parking? That might be more workable."

"Another thing that bothers me is that the person who is employed by a business in the square is going to have his parking fee more than doubled to $25 a month. That's very high."

"There are a lot of questions that have to be answered."

McGrath also said he hasn't decided which way he'll vote on an ordinance now before the City Council that would ban billboards and other off-premises advertising in Quincy.

"Sometimes we in government, with all good intentions, pass ordinances that are difficult to enforce," he said. "In 1979, we passed a sign ordinance and to this day many of the signs banned still exist."

"Are we going to get into a situation where we ban billboards, get into a law suit, and then end up with billboards never coming down either through lack of enforcement or through the appeal process?"

McGrath made these points on other subjects:

"I enjoy the City Council very much and I intend to seek re-election. But under the present circumstances, if something were to open up, I could visualize myself again being a candidate for state representative."

"I would have to say I'm interested in being Council President. But at this point it is a little presumptuous for me to be talking very seriously about it. The voters have not yet given me permission to plan ahead."

• "Arthur Tobin was a good mayor for the city. He did an excellent job in bringing large amounts of development into Quincy. Development is what Arthur Tobin will be remembered for."

• "Mayor McCauley is a different style mayor. He's more what I would call a business-oriented mayor. He has set as a goal to really straighten out the financial aspects of the city."

• Pollution of Wollaston Beach is directly related to the Nut Island Sewage Treatment plant. "What we have to do is force the MDC to clean up the mess that has been caused by the MDC. I'm optimistic that with the new commissioner, Bill Geary, who is from Wollaston, that we're going to see some action."

McGrath was interviewed on the program by John Noonan of The Quincy Sun, Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA, and Ray McEachern of The Patriot Ledger.

FR Tanker Loss

Blamed On Democrats

An official of the North American Shipping and Trading Co. said the Fore River Shipyard probably lost $33 million in contracts to build three more 45,000-ton tankers because the Truman administration harassed Stavros Niarchos, owner of World Tankers, Inc.

Edward Ferris spoke at a reception in the Neighborhood Club following the laying of the keel of the first 45,000-ton tanker at the yard. A Fore River spokesman said the ways were prepared for a second tanker but the option was cancelled.

"Due to the harassment of Mr. Niarchos, the second 45,000-ton tanker will not be built in Quincy," said Ferris. "Due to the bungling of the Democrat administration, we are not now laying the keel for the largest cargo vessel ever conceived under the American flag."

Ferris said Niarchos had no official connection with the North American Shipping and Trading Co., which had been under investigation for alleged irregularities in the purchases of ships five years before.

WHITE HOUSE VISIT

A delegation from the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee, headed by Chairman George A. Daley, Jr., visited the White House with a plea for more support for the nation's merchant marine and more contracts for Fore River, where 1,600 workers faced loss of jobs.

Max Rabb of Brookline, a member of President Eisenhower's staff, explained to the delegation that many businesses were exerting pressure on the administration and that such decisions would be made "on the basis of essentiality."

The President was golfing in Augusta, Ga., at the time.

WORST STORM

Quincy escaped with little more than three to five inches as the worst mid-April snow storm in 35 years brought plows and sanders out of storage. There was a brief power outage in Houghs Neck and Germantown and WJDA was off the air for 2½ minutes.

CRIME PREVENTION BUREAU

Police Chief William Ferrazzi announced creation of a new crime prevention bureau as a separate unit of the detective bureau to specialize in juvenile problems. It was to be composed of Juvenile Officer James Ford and Patrolmen William Spencer and Edward Kusser.

QUINCY-ISMS

City Councillor Frank N. Orcutt asked City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. to send an order to the Council for $38,000 for the purchase of an aerial ladder for the Atlantic Fire Station. William Marcellino was elected president of the Adams School PTA. Dr. Samuel T. Arnold, provost of Brown University, was the speaker at the dedication of Eastern Nazarene College's new $190,000 Nease Library. A third group of seven hull draftsman from Fore River were loaned to the Newport News shipyard to help with the large volume of work at the Virginia yard. Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert opened bids for the removal of five buildings and shacks on Cottage St. to make way for the East of Hancock St. parking area. The Siesta Sleep Shop opened at 221 Parkway with a special three-hour sale of inner spring mattresses at $12.99. Bishop Eric F. McKenzie was among the mourners at a solemn high mass of requiem for the Rev. James Donnelly, retired pastor of St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, who died at the age of 75. Stew beef was 59 cents a pound at the Mohican Market, 29 Chestnut St. Airman second class E. Brady Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Wilson, 10 Gordon St., North Quincy, was home on leave after 12 months in Korea. Melvin Thorne, president of the Quincy Jewish Community Center, announced that Molly Picon, linguistic singer and comedienne, will be featured on a program observing the fifth year of Israeli independence at the Center on April 27. Sam Lombardo and his Singing Strings were playing for weekend dancing at the Sportland Grille, 80 Copeland St., West Quincy. Atty. Gen. George Fingold agreed to be the speaker at the annual banquet of the Republican Club of Quincy June 3. "Niagara," starring Marilyn Monroe, Joseph Cotten and Jean Peters, was playing at the Strand. The South Quincy Bocce Club contributed $50 to the Sally Jones Fund, bringing to more than $1,000 the amount collected for the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, 106 Liberty St., who had to have a leg amputated. Mrs. Gertrude M. Lemieux, president of the Wollaston World War I Widows, left for the national convention which now has more than 150,000 members in 100 schools on the east coast, in 1981.

High School Students Rally Against Drunk Driving

The organization, with its program of lectures and seminars and public service announcements, was a response to the fact that more than 7,000 teenagers died in auto accidents in 1980, many of them alcohol related.

Mahoney said the object of the May 4 rally is to "raise the level of consciousness about drunken driving before the proms and graduation" when many students are on the road to and from parties.

Some 3,000 students from both high schools plus guests are expected to attend. Bands from both schools and cheerleaders will add sound and color to the festivities.

The program will get underway at 9:30 a.m. with the introduction of Gov. Dukakis at North and McCauley at Quincy.

A student member of SADD will speak, then Public Safety Commissioner Barry will be introduced, followed by another talk by a SADD member.

About 10 a.m., Anastas will speak for a half hour, explaining the SADD program.

Activities at Quincy High School will take place about a half hour earlier with Aldo Lombardi, a former Quincy High athlete now social health coordinator at Canton High School, speaking for Anastas.

At 10:40 a.m., the program will break for lunch followed by 11:15 a.m. workshops for visiting students to enable them to hold similar rallies at their home schools.

Mahoney said rallies will be held May 5 in Marlboro and May 6 in Springfield, but Gov. Dukakis will attend only the rallies in Quincy.

The rallies will be taped by Quincy Cable Systems and Channels 4, 5 and 7 in Boston have been invited to cover the activities.

Members of the steering committee for the rally at Quincy High School and the Vocational Technical School include:

Suzi Finnegan, Sue Davey, co-chairmen; Maryanne Higgins, Betty McLaughlin, Robin Lytle, Glynis Beardsley, Dianne Carboneau, Michelle Dunn, Judy Dacey, Rico Stracco, Donna Picard, Michelle Dauphine, Janet McLaughlin and Jennifer Josephs.

Members of the steering committee for the rally at North Quincy High School include:

Chamber Job Fair To Be Held May 7

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce's annual Job Fair will be held Saturday, May 7 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at State Street South, North Quincy. The Chamber is planning the event in conjunction with the Norfolk County Development & Tourist Council and the Quincy Job Matching Center (a Division of Employment Security).

Both large and small firms will participate.

The annual event is sponsored by the Chamber's Personnel Managers' Group. Heading the program this year is Nancy Savage of State Street Bank.

Along with employer booths, there are mini-seminars which serve to attract interested persons. The sessions will include resume and interview techniques.

Booth reservations are now being accepted. The Souvenir Newspaper On Koch Club's 35th Anniversary

The Koch Club of Quincy will issue a souvenir tabloid newspaper to commemorate the organization's 35 year history.

The tabloid will highlight in stories and pictures activities and programs of the recreational, social and charitable association established in 1948.

Members and friends of the Koch Club are encouraged to participate as patrons, sponsors or boosters. They can aid in the charitable endeavors planned by the 35th Anniversary Committee by filling out the coupon below and forwarding it with the choice of contribution to "Koch Club 83", 241 Newbury Avenue, Quincy, MA 02171.

The publication will be initially distributed at the Koch Club 35th Anniversary Dinner-Dance Saturday, May 7, and will be provided at various events and upon request.

The ticket committee will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Avenue, North Quincy tonight at 7 p.m. Those interested in obtaining tickets are welcome to attend.

Other 35th anniversary programs include the Memorial Mass for deceased members and friends of the Koch Club Thursday, May 26, at Our Lady's Chapel of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy; the 32nd Annual Flag Day Parade in Quincy Tuesday, June 14, at 6:15 p.m. and the 36th Annual Family Picnic Sunday, June 26, at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Several other events are also being planned.

CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH program was held recently at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq., sponsored by the South Shore Dental Hygienists Association. At right, Brenda Garcia, Joan Ahern and Diane Fabrizio instruct youngsters and Mickey Mouse in brushing their teeth. Event was part of National Dental Health Month.

John McArthur, 87, Nantucket Ferry Designer

A funeral service for John McArthur, 87, of Quincy, a retired naval architect and designer of the Nantucket ferry, was held Saturday in Quincy Point Congregational Chapel.

Mr. McArthur died April 7 in Scituate Ocean Manor Nursing Home.

He had lived in Quincy since 1938.

Born in Dunbarton, Scotland, he was graduated from Dunbarton Academy and the Royal Technical College in Glasgow, Scotland.

Mr. McArthur came to this country in 1920 and became employed as a turbine draftsman for General Electric in Schenectady, N.Y. He later became a naval architect for the Standard Shipbuilding Co. and for United Fruit Co.

For 20 years he was a senior naval architect at the Mystic Steamship Co., a division of Eastern Gas and Fuel Co., and later became a partner in the Boston firm of Potter and McArthur Inc., before he retired in the late 1970's.

Mr. McArthur designed the 125 foot research vessel, "Hero", the National Science Foundation's first ship; the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries research vessel, operated by the Biological Laboratory of Woods Hole, and a Duke University research ship.

He was a past president and past secretary-treasurer of the Quincy Lawn Bowling Green Association, and recipient of several lawn bowling awards.

The subject of several articles in newspapers and sports magazines, he is listed in the world almanac.

Husband of the late Mrs. Eliza (Reekie) McArthur, he is survived by a son, James McArthur; and two grandsons, Ian McArthur and Alec McArthur, all of Marshfield.

Rev. Winston Clark officiated at the services. Funeral arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Donations in his memory may be made to the 1000 Southern Artery Memorial Fund or to the Quincy Point Congregational Fund.

Jean M. Greenhalgh, 85, Retired Quincy Teacher

A funeral service for Jean M. (Gibby) Greenhalgh, 85, of Quincy, a teacher for 20 years in the Quincy public schools before her retirement, was held Tuesday in Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Mrs. Greenhalgh died Saturday in her home.

She was a Quincy resident for 80 years.

Born in Elizabeth, N.J., she moved to Quincy at the age of five. A graduate of Quincy public schools, she was also graduated from Bridgewater State Teachers College.

A member of Quincy Point Congregational Church for 69 years, she was honored by that church last month as its longest active member.

Mrs. Greenhalgh was a member of the church choir for more than 50 years.

A founding member of the Quincy Choral Society, she was a former member of the Wollaston Neighborhood Club.

For 17 years, Mrs. Greenhalgh was a volunteer receptionist at 1000 Southern Artery. She was also a member of the Evening Star Chapter of the Protestant Guild for the Blind, the Rice Eventide Home Auxiliary, The Quincy Women's Club and the Quincy Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Wife of the late Mr. James Greenhalgh, she is survived by two daughters, Jean Neil of Weymouth and Barbara Greenhalgh of Quincy; four granddaughters, Marcia Serino of Quincy, Claudia Neil of Waltham, Pamela Lynch of East Bridgewater and Andrea Neil of Weymouth; and a great granddaughter, Lois Serino of Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by Deware Funeral Home. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations in her memory may be made to the Quincy Point Congregational Church Memorial Fund; the 1000 Southern Artery Memorial Fund, Quincy; the Protestant Guild for the Blind, 456 Belmont St., Watertown, 02172; or to Hospice, c/o the Visiting Nurse Association, 400 Franklin St., Braintree, 02184.

City Pays Tribute To Frank E. Remick

Friends, associates, relatives and officials paid tribute to the late Frank E. Remick at a Community Recognition Memorial Service at historic United First Parish Church, Unitarian, Quincy Sq.

He was eulogized as a man with character who touched the lives of all who knew him. Mr. Remick died March 7 at age 73.

Mayor Francis McCauley said Quincy is a better community because of the dedication and love Mr. Remick had for his community.

"We will probably never see again anyone quite like Frank," said John R. Herbert, banker and former newspaper editor.

Herbert praised Mr. Remick for his faith in Quincy and for fostering and promoting parking facilities in Quincy as a means of competing with shopping malls.

Former Mayor Thomas Burgin said Mr. Remick possessed "Character, cordial personality, sincerity of purpose and a sense of humor."

Rev. Keith Munson, minister, said that Mr. Remick, a devout member of the First Parish congregation since early childhood, was a man who was loved and respected by all.

Paul E. Hurley, businessman and longtime personal friend, said that Mr. Remick was a private person who was "not only a gentle person but a true gentleman as well."

An employee of Mr. Remick for 40 years, Catherine McGlone, praised him for his treatment of every employee with respect and love.

"What you saw was what you got, a model in every way, a man of kindness and decency," said Peter Citkowitz, college student and former maintenance employee at the Remick's store in Quincy Sq.

Mr. Remick's son, Bruce, said that his father strongly believed in the equation that the most important elements in life are people.

"He left his mark on all of us," said Bruce, "we were fortunate that he touched our lives."

Michael P. McCormack, 27, QHS Graduate

A funeral service for Michael P. McCormack, 27, of Quincy, a graduate of Quincy High School, was held Saturday in Most Blessed Sacrament Church.

Mr. McCormack died April 7 in Framingham Union Hospital after a long illness. He was a lifelong Quincy resident.

He is survived by his parents, Charles R. and Barbara J. (Smith) McCormack of Quincy; three brothers, Charles R. McCormack, Jr., and Stephen F. McCormack, both of Quincy, and Mark P. McCormack, serving with the Coast Guard in Marshfield; four sisters, Patricia M. McCormack, Janet L. McCormack and Elizabeth K. McCormack, all of Quincy, and Joyce A. Conley of South Boston; and his grandmothers, Louise McCormack of Quincy and Lillian Norling of West Roxbury.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Anthony J. Delorio, 56, Boston Edison Worker

A funeral mass will be celebrated in St. John's Church at 11 a.m. today (Thursday) for Anthony J. Delorio of Quincy, a Boston Edison employee for 32 years.

He died Monday at the age of 56 after suffering an apparent heart attack at work.

A native of Chelsea, Mr. Delorio lived in Quincy for 22 years. He was a Navy veteran of World War II and a member of Morrisette Legion Post.

He was a cable leader and conduit installer with Boston Edison for 22 years.

Mr. Delorio leaves his wife, Isabella C. (Milne) Delorio; two sons, Gary Delorio of Quincy and Anthony J. Delorio Jr. of Woburn; his parents, Joseph and Filomena (Delliacono) Delorio of Jamaica Plain; and two grandchildren.

He was the brother of the late Mary E. Colon.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St. Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The Statue of Liberty is a symbol of the hopeful opportunity sought by all our families, who in generations past, left other shores to be free men among free and friendly people. Do you know about or did you ever read the full inscription on the Statue? It reads:

"The New Colossus" - by Emma Lazarus . . . "Not like the brazen giant of Greek fame, With conquering limbs astride from land to land; Here at our seaway, sunset gates shall stand - A mighty woman with a torch, whose flame - Is the imprisoned lightning, and her name - Mother of Exiles. From her beacon hand - Glows world-wide welcome; her mild eyes command - The air bridged harbor that twin cities frame. 'Keep, ancient lands, your storied pomp!' cries she - With silent lips. 'Give me your tired, your poor, - Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, - The wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed, to me - I lift my lamp beside the golden door.'"

As we look elsewhere in this lopsided world and make comparisons, should not that inscription be constantly appreciated by all who are privileged to live in America?

McIntyre Heads QJC 25th Anniversary Committee

Former Mayor-Senator James R. McIntyre has been appointed honorary chairman of the 25th anniversary celebration committee for Quincy Junior College.

McIntyre, who currently serves as counsel to the Massachusetts Senate, will be assisted by Mrs. Jeanne Greene of Marshfield, a graduate of the school, and John Barron, a Quincy real estate broker and trustee of the college.

A 25th Anniversary Ball will be held Saturday, Nov. 5, at the Lantana in Randolph.

"This will be a major event," said Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, interim president of the college. "Along with the area residents and leaders, we look forward to having hundreds of college alumni with us on that evening."

The committee is asking Mayor Francis X. McCauley of Quincy and Boards of Selectmen of South Shore towns to declare Oct. 31 to November 5 as "Quincy Junior College Week" to call attention to the service which the school renders to the area.

Other events include a luncheon for scholarship recipients given by the Community College Association April 15 at the

JAMES R. MCINTYRE

Quincy Neighborhood Club and the Honors Banquet May 6 also at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Serving on the committee are Peter Kenney, assistant to Mayor McCauley; Ronald Frazier of Braintree, general manager of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Marguerita Bellotti of Quincy, a graduate; Prof. Edward White of Weymouth; Mrs. Alicia Coletti, director of the college's Women's Center; Paul Kirch of Norwell, a student at the college; and Carl R. Deyeso of Braintree, college administrator. Margaret Buck, director of the college's basic skills center is the historian and John Graham, public relations consultant to the college, is an advisor.

Coordinating the activities of the committee is Toby Felton, assistant to the president.

Donations to help rebuild the Quincy High School Band Alumni's dunking tank can be forwarded to Bryant Carter at Woodward Spring, 111 McGrath Highway, Quincy.

The tank was recently destroyed by vandals. It had been used to raise nearly $5,000 for various charities over the past three years.

Last week's Quincy Sun inadvertently listed the North Quincy High School Band Alumni as owner of the dunking tank.

Dr. Thomas Barnard ENC Dean Of Students

The executive committee of the board of trustees gave unanimous approval to the appointment of Dr. Thomas Barnard as dean of students at Eastern Nazarene College recently.

Dr. Barnard has been serving as acting dean of students since the resignation of Rev. Robert Helfrich in October, 1982. He joined the staff of ENC in the fall of 1982 as executive assistant to the president, and will continue to fulfill some of the responsibilities of that office along with the new assignment.

Dr. Barnard came to ENC from Bethany Nazarene College where he served as dean of students and professor of Christian education.

He was teacher of what is believed to be the largest Sunday School Class in the Church of the Nazarene at Bethany First Church of the Nazarene.

Squantum Church Pastor Endorses Nuclear Freeze

Worshippers at the second service of the First Church of Squantum heard church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin endorse the Nuclear Freeze in a sermon entitled, "What Shall We Do About the Nuclear Freeze?"

Debate on that issue was scheduled to begin Wednesday, April 13, in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The Congressional Freeze Resolution, House Joint Resolution #2, calls for a mutual and verifiable freeze and reduction in nuclear weapons produced and deployed by the United States and the Soviet Union. The resolution is sponsored by two representatives from Massachusetts, Democrat Edward Markey and Republican Silvio Conte.

"I hear people say that the nuclear freeze is not enough," said Dr. Langevin. "No, it is not enough but it is a start. And we have to start somewhere soon or we may all be the victims of a catastrophe of unimaginable proportions."

"Without minimizing the real threat to our democratic system from outside alien powers, be they totalitarian or terrorists of any kind, we must also realize that we are facing another and equally dangerous adversary in the nuclear arms race."

"In truth, from this point on, we must devise a strategy by which all of us can live together in the same world or face a common nuclear extinction."

The pastor cited a host of other Christian leaders who are also urging the nuclear freeze: many Protestant leaders, including those of the United Church of Christ and the American Baptist Churches, and Roman Catholic leaders, such as the bishops whose pastoral letter on this question has been in the news recently.

S.S. Handicapped Assn. Re-schedules Dance

The annual benefit dance for the South Shore Handicapped Association has been rescheduled to Friday, April 29, 8 p.m. to midnight, at the Bryan VFW Post, Quincy Center. The dance was to be held Earlier in the service, Dr. Langevin spoke to the children about world peace, borrowing his ideas from the famous "peace" prayer of Francis of Assisi.

The Chancel Choir sang the anthem "Beautiful Savior" as arranged by David Allen. Other hymns sung during the service were "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today", "Christ Arose", and "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today".

Ushers were Paul Paulson and Tore Wallin.

At the first service, Dr. Langevin preached on the topic, "Breakfast with Jesus", taking his text from that passage in the gospel of John in which the Risen Christ meets His disciples on the beach on the shore of the Lake of Tiberias and prepares their breakfast for them.

When the service began, worshippers were asked to join with others sitting near them to compose a cinquain (poem) on the theme of Christ's resurrection.

During the sermon, as a token of the "wonderful surprises" that Christ's resurrection brings to humanity, muffins and coffee were served as the worshippers read their poems aloud.

Guitarists for that service were Steve Williams and Mary Ruth Scott. Ushers were Tom Adams and Chris Dixey. Hazel Mayne and Grace Holmes were in charge of refreshments.

There will be two services next Sunday, the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. when the sermon will be, "How Are You Growing Spiritually?" and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. when the subject will be, "Which Christ Do You Follow?"

Both the Youth Choir and Chancel Choir will sing at the second service, which will also be attended by members of the Nickerson Post of the American Legion.

Christ Church Guild To Meet

The Women's Guild of Christ Church will meet today (Thursday) at noon. A coffee hour will be followed by a business meeting and card party.

In Quincy Public Schools:

Spotlight On Special Needs Awareness Month

Mayor Francis X. McCauley proclaimed March 1983 as SPECIAL NEEDS AWARENESS MONTH in Quincy to highlight the programs and services available to children with special needs and to increase the community's sensitivity to and awareness of persons with special needs.

The many events that occurred throughout the month were planned and coordinated by a Planning Committee that included representatives from the Quincy Public Schools, the Thomas Crane Public Library, and the Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education.

Louis Tozzi, Judy Paul, and Carol Lee Griffin represented the school system and brought to the Committee an extensive knowledge of the range and magnitude of handicaps among children in Quincy and the programs and services available in the school and community.

Jane Granstrom, Supervisor of Children's Services of the Thomas Crane Public Library, contributed her in-depth knowledge of resources available to adults and children. The unique perspective of being the parent of a child with a special educational need was shared by Virginia Collins, Julia McCarthy, Susan McKeon, Julie Morrissey, and Ann Wickberg, all members of the Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education.

One common goal united the Committee—a commitment to increase community awareness of special needs children in Quincy—their needs, their handicaps, and the programs and services available to help them to reach their individual potentials. Programs were planned to impact and involve children and adults within the community.

A six session inservice program on "Understanding Handicaps" was presented to Henry Marani's fifth grade class at the Atherton Hough School. Members of the Pupil Personnel Services staff who lead the sessions are Lynn Rowe, William Mulcahy, Mary Ann Chase, Carol Shiffer, and Joyce Lebewohl.

With support from Joan McDonald from the Volunteer Information Agency, the staff taught students about such handicaps as blindness, learning disabilities, physical disabilities, mental retardation, and deafness. Students sat in wheelchairs; walked with crutches; walked blindfolded with canes; experienced the frustrations of the mentally retarded child; learned about braille and sign language; and learned, through the use of puppets, books, and films about the world of the handicapped person.

On March 16, over 50 persons joined Louis Tozzi and Judy Paul and visited several special education classes and/or programs within the Quincy Public Schools for students ages three through 22. The Open House included visits at the Snug Harbor and Atherton Hough Schools as well as North Quincy High School. At North, visitors were served lunch in the Bowl and Board Restaurant by special education students receiving vocational training in food services.

WELCOMING VISITORS TO their classroom during the Special Education Open House are Brian Brunstrom, Debbie McGrath, and Keith Dunn. The children attend the Special Needs Learning Center at the Snug Harbor School.

To the cheers of over 300 parents, relatives, friends, and staff, more than 70 students in the Quincy Public Schools demonstrated their athletic skill at the Third Annual Special Needs Athletic Night held March 23 in the North Quincy High school gymnasium.

The event was directed by Louis Tozzi, Coordinator of Special Education and Mary Pratt, adaptive physical educator.

Novelty relays, circuit training, soccer and floor hockey provided an exciting array of activities for students. The evening culminated in a fast-paced basketball game with Jim Lynch's team edging out a narrow victory.

The stirring music of the North Quincy High School band, under the direction of Anthony Ferrante, All-Star tee shirts, and ribbons all added up to make the evening an unforgettable one for everyone.

Special education teacher David Donovan hosted a program entitled "Striving Toward Independence" on Channel 3 of Quincy Cablesystems on March 29. The program enabled viewers to enter into the world of the adult handicapped, to learn of their experiences at work, in their place of residence, and in our community, and to share in their hopes for the future. Many viewers called in with questions that were ably and honestly responded to by the handicapped men and women who served as panelists. Staff from the South Shore Rehabilitation Center assisted Mr. Donovan with the production.

Throughout the month the Thomas Crane Public Library displayed books and materials on a wide variety of handicaps as well as materials that can be used by handicapped children and adults. Displays of the academic and creative work of children with special needs were displayed throughout the city, including the new City Hall.

Appreciation and thanks are extended to all of you who participated in the events and activities of Special Needs Awareness Month. Special thanks to Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun, Maurice Reardon of the Patriot Ledger, and Steven Marx and Chris Sullivan from Quincy Cablesystems, for extensive and sensitive coverage during the month.

To all of you who share our commitment to further the development of school and community resources and support so as to enable all handicapped persons to achieve their highest potential, we express our gratitude. We invite you to join with us in this continuing quest and in the process we shall discover that we have enriched our lives and strengthened our community.

It is fair to say that the best index to the civilization of a community is what is done with its exceptional children.

FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, The Quincy Public Schools have a long and proud tradition of educating students with special needs, and

WHEREAS, The City of Quincy wishes to continue to provide quality programs and a supportive and healthy environment for the handicapped; and

WHEREAS, The Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education, The Quincy Public Schools and School Committee, the Thomas Crane Public Library, and the Mayor's office are desirous of highlighting the programs and services available to children with special needs and increasing the community's sensitivity to and awareness of persons with special needs; and

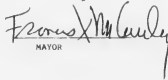

WHEREAS, It is beneficial to the persons with special needs to create a better public awareness of their problems and accomplishments by focusing on their activities within the City of Quincy; and

WHEREAS, Various activities have been scheduled in order to heighten awareness of the persons with special needs;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY, Mayor of the City of Quincy, do hereby declare the month of March, 1983, as in Quincy, and urge all residents to support this worthwhile effort.

"SPECIAL NEEDS AWARENESS MONTH"

Quincy Special Education

Over the years, the Quincy Public School system has had a proud tradition of excellence in its special education programs and services and has been recognized as a leader in implementing state (Chapter 76b) and federal (P.L. 94-142) mandates governing special education.

This year more than 50 special education teachers supported by guidance counselors, psychologists, speech therapists, nurses, and occupational and physical therapists educate and service more than 1400 students. These students, found to be in need of special education, range in age from 3 through 22.

Who Is The Special Education Student?

Special education students in the Quincy Public Schools are very different from each other. Although many may have similar needs, each is an individual and as such, has an individual program plan.

There are, however, three generalizations that can be made about all special needs students in Quincy:

- Each is certified under Massachusetts law as a student "in need of special education services".

- Each has an IEP (Individual Education Plan) written for him/her based upon his/her individual needs.

- Each will receive the precise services, instruction, materials, etc. as prescribed for him/her in the IEP.

What Is A Team Evaluation?

The TEAM evaluation process is the procedure by which special needs students are identified. A written request for a TEAM evaluation mailed to the principal of the child's school by a parent, teacher, court officer, guidance counselor or physician will initiate the process. Each Quincy school has a TEAM Chairperson whose responsibility it is to meet with the parents of a child referred for a TEAM evaluation in order to explain the process and to get parental consent for testing. No TEAM evaluation can proceed without parental consent.

The testing to be done by specialists for the TEAM evaluation must be completed within 30 school days.

A full TEAM evaluation will include the following assessments of the child:

- Educational history
- Medical Assessment
- Classroom teacher assessment
- Educational testing
- Social assessment
- Psychological assessment
- Other testing as necessary

When the individual diagnostic testing has been completed, the TEAM evaluation meeting is scheduled. Parents are encouraged to attend this important meeting. A full TEAM evaluation meeting may include the TEAM Chairperson, school principal, classroom teacher, special needs teacher, guidance counselor, school nurse, psychologist, and the child's parents.

At the meeting, the participants:

- Share the results of the testing completed,
- Determine if the child is in need of special education services, and if so,
- Write an IEP (Individual Education Plan) to meet his/her individual needs.

The IEP is sent to the parents and with their written approval, the prescribed program can be implemented.

What Programs Are Available For Students?

The intent of Chapter 766 and the philosophy of the Quincy Public Schools with regard to special education students is "mainstreaming". To the greatest extent possible, each student should have his/her needs met in the regular education program. The following are examples of program options available to special needs students within the Quincy Public Schools:

- Regular classroom program with monitoring,
- Regular classroom program with support services, such as speech, hearing, and language therapy, counseling, and/or special help in a resource room setting.

- Substantially Separate Class program such placement in the Pre-School Special Needs Center, the Special Needs Learning Centers, the Language Development Centers, or the Classes for Emotional Growth and Development.
- Home Program.

The Key Is Communication!

The key to the success of the special education student's program is the communication that exists between the special education personnel providing services, the regular education teachers working with the child, and the parents. A liaison person is assigned on the IEP for each student. That person shares written progress reports with parents and is the first person parents should call if they have questions regarding their child's program. The liaison person is responsible also for communication to all school staff regarding the needs of the special education child.

The entire staff strives to work cooperatively and collaboratively with students and parents to develop and implement an Individual Education Plan that meets his or her unique needs and enables each student to fulfill his or her highest potential.

In 3 Key Areas: Public Library Moves Toward Full Services

In the spirit of public library service to all citizens, libraries have a responsibility to serve adults and children with special needs in the manner most appropriate to those needs.

Library patrons with disabilities share with society in general such universal needs as acceptance, independence, cultural arousal, informational and recreational satisfaction.

Public libraries across the nation have developed various services to meet these universal needs.

The Quincy public library system has steadily moved toward full service to the handicapped in three key areas, materials, facilities, and personnel.

The visually impaired, both adults and children, have a range of library materials available to them. An extensive collection of large print books in the adult department and a modest large print collection in the children's department serve patrons who have retained some vision. The Readers Digest and The New York Times are also part of the large print collection. Materials in Braille include anthologies for children, embossed picture books for sharing between the sighted and the non-sighted, a monthly news journal and a multi-volume dictionary.

Recordings also form a large part of library service to the visually impaired. The music room offers adult phonorecords of music and the spoken word. The children's room houses phonorecords of music, stories, television productions, activities and soundtracks. This department recently began acquiring children's stories on cassette.

Talking books are loaned to the library by the Perkins Institute for the Blind. These may be borrowed by adults and children who are blind, visually impaired, physically handicapped, or learning disabled.

Communication's technology has opened new avenues for the hearing impaired. A teletype machine in the lobby of the central library enables hearing impaired persons to communicate with each other or with a hearing person via typewritten conversations on paper.

The children's room has several kinds of special format materials for hearing impaired youngsters. A collection of books in signed English features folk tales, rhymes and informational subjects. Communication kits, packaged in a carrying case, include reading material for parents of deaf children, books in signed English, and toys. A collection of textless and captioned filmstrips for use with or by hearing impaired children ranges in interest level from pre school age into the teens. When filmstrips are requested for individual use, an easily operated rearsview projector may be borrowed as well.

The library's book collection includes high interest/low reading level books for those who have difficulty reading and understanding the written word. These are interspersed with other books in the adult department and may be located by checking the Collections' Catalog in the lobby. An orange dot appears on the back of high interest/low reading level books in the children's department. These, too, are interspersed with other books.

JANE GRANSTROM, Supervisor of Children's Services for the Thomas Crane Public Library shares special needs library resources in the children's room.

Sensory media, such as toys and puzzles, as well as visual and auditory media, such as filmstrips and recordings, are useful with all children in addition to those with special needs. In 1981 the central children's room received a federally funded demonstration collection of games, toys and recordings for use with children with special needs. Materials in the collection help develop one or more of these skills, reading and language, listening, motor, visual, and number skills. Also included in the collection are several slide tapes which may be borrowed by agencies and organizations concerned with special needs children.

PROJECT IT, also federally funded provides recreational multi-media materials for children who are confined at home or limited to the home because of a physical, mental, or emotional disability regardless of the length of confinement. Materials, selected for children from pre school through age twelve, include: paperbacks, filmstrips, projectors and screens, cassettes and cassette players, and games.

In addition to this array of specialized materials the library's circulating and reference collections serve the informational needs of the handicapped themselves and of those working with, parenting, or studying about the handicapped.

Access to public buildings is of vital concern to the physically disabled. In March of 1982 a wheelchair ramp was presented to the library. The ramp was constructed by students in the Extended Vocational Alternatives Program at the Vocational Technical School and is installed at the gallery entrance to the library on Washington Street. An elevator which accommodates crutches, walkers and some wheelchairs is at this building level and provides access to areas in the adult department. There is direct access to the children's room from the ramp entry point.

Physically handicapped patrons are urged to notify the library in advance so the entrance may be opened for them. Funding is not currently available to expand access at the central library nor to provide access at the branch libraries. The telephone offers a point of access to all library patrons, and it can facilitate many forms of library service.

A resource as important as its collection of materials is the library staff. Staff members have participated in workshops designed to heighten awareness and to develop skills relative to persons with special needs. They have devoted time at staff meetings to thoughtful discussion of material selection and services for the handicapped. They avail themselves of professional journals and items from the library's collection that will broaden understanding and develop effective service methods. They have benefitted from the counsel of those who work with the handicapped, of those in whose family there is a handicapped person, and from the handicapped themselves. Staff members in all departments are trained to locate information and eager to assist all patrons.

By participating in Special Needs Awareness Month the Quincy public library system informs the community of its substantial collection of materials and services for the disabled. But equally important, the library reaffirms its commitment to serving adults and children with special needs.

Q-PAC: Active, Viable In Special Education Needs

MARCH

...is Special Needs
Awareness Month
...in QUINCY

Quincy, The Quincys
MAYOR

THE PLANNING COMMITTEE for SPECIAL NEEDS AWARENESS MONTH IN QUINCY included Carol Lee Griffin, Ann Wickberg, Susan McKeon, Jane Granstrom, Judith Paul and Louis Tozzi.

The Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education, known as Q-PAC, began six years ago. It started with a handful of parents of special needs students meeting with the Coordinator of Special Education a few times a year. From those simple beginnings, Q-PAC has grown to a very active viable organization whose open membership includes all parents of special needs students throughout the city.

In general, the organization provides information and advice on special education issues to its members; input to the Special Education Administration regarding planning, implementation, and evaluation of programs; heightened awareness of people with special needs to the community at large, which inspired Special Needs Awareness Month three years ago.

In answer to parent's requests, through brainstorming sessions, the Q-PAC has offered many informational programs including rights and responsibilities of parents, mainstreaming, community resources for special needs, the law and the disabled, and services available for special needs students after graduation. The next meeting on April 11, 1983, will feature speakers from various community recreational resources. This will be a fine opportunity to become aware of after school as well as summer programs which serve the special needs students.

Q-PAC also publishes a newsletter periodically throughout the year which is mailed to all parents of special needs children in Quincy.

Lobbying the legislators at the federal as well as the state and local levels on issues which will effect our children has proven to be very worthwhile. Citizen input at these levels has historically been crucial to special education. Q-PAC's success depends on each of us.

Please call if:

- You have concerns about your child's education.
- You would like more information about Q-PAC and its activities.
- You have suggestions for future programs or meetings.

Susan McKeon, 479-7040 (days); Ann Wickberg, 471-8533 (evenings); Julia McCarthy, 471-5048 (days and evenings).

Next Q-PAC meetings - Mark your calendar:

April 11, 1983, 7:30 p.m. - Lincoln Hancock School (Water St. Entrance) - Recreational Programs for Special Needs.

May 23, 1983, 7:30 p.m. - Lincoln Hancock School, Annual Meeting.

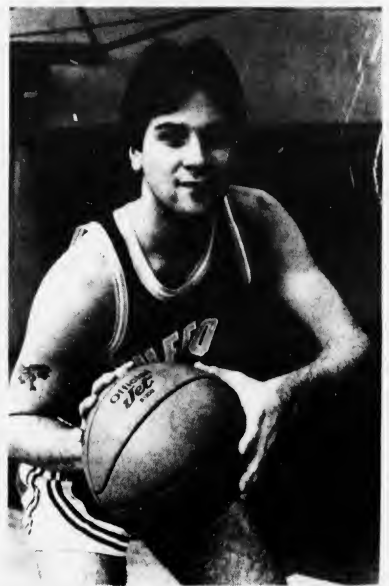

Bunker Optimistic North Opens At Milton

By TOM SULLIVAN
For the past two seasons the North Quincy baseball team got off to woeful starts, then were outstanding over the second half of the schedule.
For the previous few seasons the Raiders had started with a bang, then faded over the second half to miss making the Eastern Mass. tournament.
This spring, with plenty of experience, Coach Charlie Bunker hopes to put a complete season together and is hopeful for better success.
"Last season we were 1-7 through the first half of the schedule, then were one of the top clubs in the Suburban League over the second half, going 7-2 to finish 8-9," Bunker said. "I feel optimistic about putting two good halves together this year."
When North opens its season today (Thursday) at Milton at 3:30 p.m. Bunker will have six returning starters, only three of whom are seniors. The rest of the squad is made up of juniors.

The Raiders will host Abp. Williams Monday at 2 p.m. at Adams Field and next Wednesday will be at Canton at 10:30 a.m. They open their league season April 25 at Cambridge Rindge and Latin.
"We have had six outside scrimmages and I am pleased with our progress," Bunker said. "I like to have a lot of scrimmages and think they are better than just having intra-squad games."
The veteran coach feels veteran pitcher-first baseman Jim Kelly is one of this year's key performers. The big right-hander was one of the top pitchers in the league over the second half of last season and he also pitched well in Legion ball during the summer.

"He has the capability of pitching a shutout every time he takes the mound," Bunker said. "He also is a good hitter and is a fine first baseman."
Behind Kelly on the pitching staff are right-handers John Comeau, up from the jayvees, and newcomer Bill DiMattio, and Bunker's son, Chris, a promising southpaw who played the outfield last spring.
Catching these pitchers will be three-year veteran John Kozlowski, an outstanding receiver, and junior Mike Gill, who also will play the outfield.
Bunker has an experienced infield with Kelly at first base when not pitching, backed up by Jack Bolster and Brian Gibbons; and returning starters Dwayne Wilcoxon at second, Bob O'Brien at shortstop and Steve Hogan at third base. Other promising infielders are Mark Hubbard and Brian Lowe.

North has an outstanding outfield with Garry Brown, Steve Higgins, Bunker, Keith Smith, Gill and Dan Baker.
"This is the finest defensive outfield I've ever had and I think our infield is also outstanding defensively," Bunker said. "O'Brien is one of the finest defensive players I've seen outside of professional ball."
"Offensively, I feel we will have a balanced hitting attack with a lot of consistent hitters. We don't have any real power hitters but will be getting a lot of singles and doubles."
North has four night games scheduled at Adams Field with Cambridge, Quincy, Canton and Milton and the May 23 game with Waltham may also be made an arclight contest.

DEAN COLETTI of 14 Alden St., Quincy is a member of the 1982-83 Suffolk University Basketball Team. Coletti, a freshman majoring in marketing, is a 1981 graduate of Archbishop Williams High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Coletti.

Mosher Sees Good Season

Quincy Faces Weymouth N.

Veteran Quincy baseball coach Bud Mosher not only promises his Presidents will improve on last year's disappointing 5-11 record, but he feels they will have an excellent season if a few boys who show promise in scrimmage come through offensively this spring.
Quincy, led by Co-Captains John Balzano and Andy Eames, the team's two top performers, opens its season Friday at Weymouth North at 3:30. Monday the Presidents host Don Bosco at 10:30 at Adams Field and next Wednesday will play at Silver Lake, also at 3:30. They open their Suburban League season April 27 against Brookline.
"We have the makings of a real good ball club," Mosher said. "Balzano and Eames are our key players. Balzano, who will play third base and pitch some if necessary, is the most dedicated player and one of the finest players I've coached in 11 years at Quincy. He is an outstanding hitter and an excellent defensive player and has a wonderful attitude."
"Eames is our most versatile player, being our number one pitcher, our second baseman when not pitching, he can fill in at any infield or outfield position and is our backup catcher."
Behind Eames on the mound will be senior Joe Conti, the Presidents' best relief man who will also start, and Mike Notarangelo, who looks like the No. 3 hurler. He will play the outfield when not pitching. Another Joe Conti, a promising sophomore, will pitch as well as playing the outfield. Shortstop Paul Cedrone also will do some pitching if he is needed.

Bob Campbell will be the catcher with Eames ready if needed.
Veteran Bob Mudge will be at first base, Eames at second when not pitching, Cedrone at shortstop and Balzano at third base.
Dennis Sullivan, a left-handed batter, and speedy Willie Cullen will start in the outfield with Notarangelo, Joe Conti the younger and Mike Bates also seeing action there. Mark Chambers and Paul Medcke will see action in utility roles.
"We need hitting help from Mudge, Cedrone, Campbell and Sullivan and if they come through as I hope they will, we could have a good offensive team," Mosher said.

"Cullen is a real speedster and we have to have him on base. Defensively we should be strong. I'm hopeful of putting together a good offense and a strong defense and am looking forward to a good season."
Mosher has been pleased with the Presidents' progress in five outside scrimmages, including one with cross-town rival North Quincy. They will meet the Raiders in a second scrimmage Saturday.

Local Golfers In Myrtle Beach Classic

The South Shore Sunday Golfers recently held their third annual Myrtle Beach Classic in Myrtle Beach, S.C., consisting of two-man teams from the league's 24 members.
Topping the field were Al Bortolotti of Milton and Dr. Richard LoGuercio of Norwell as they finished six strokes ahead of their nearest competitors in this two-round tournament. The third round was postponed due to an untimely snowstorm.
Tied for second place were Don Smith of Norwell and Robert Lawson Jr. of Milton with Brian Buckley of Quincy and Paul Radzik of Canton. Awards were presented to winners after the final round by John Johnson of the Surf Golf and Beach Club of Myrtle Beach.
The South Shore Sunday Golfers will continue their league play at a variety of courses on the South Shore and Cape Cod.

QJC Rally Defeats Wentworth

By PETE ZOIA

Dave Burke started his 15th season as Quincy Junior College baseball coach on the right foot last week when the Jaguars came from behind to defeat Wentworth Institute, 10-7.

QJC will host Newman Prep today (Thursday) at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field and next Wednesday will play at Bristol at 3:30.

Wentworth jumped on AJC pitcher Gary DiNardo for three quick runs in the second inning, collecting two triples and a double.

The Jaguars bounced back with three in the same inning without a hit. Two walks, a hit batter and a costly error accounted for the runs.

Quincy took a 6-3 lead with three runs in the third when Brian Tobin doubled. Dan Dunn and Tom Bowes singled. The Jaguars added four more runs in the fourth on a walk to Tom Canavan, Brian Tobin's second double, an error, a walk and Bruce Tobin's double.

Wentworth rallied for four runs in the fifth but DiNardo struck out the final batter to end the threat.

There were several fine fielding plays by Quincy,

DiNardo making a fine stop and throw to nip a runner at first, Brian Tobin making a sensational catch in center-field and Canavan making a fine catch of a towering foul fly.

"It's always nice to start with a win," said Burke, the only coach QJC has had. "For a season opener it was fairly well played by both teams."

Youth Soccer League Opens

The Quincy Youth Soccer League opened its spring season over the weekend with several games being played and several others being rained out.

In Div. 1, boys under 8, Monarch Security System blanked the Furies, 3-0, with Aidan O'Donoghue scoring twice and Keith Triandofis once. Chris Adams played well and J. J. Schnabel stood out in goal. Peter Trippi played well in goal for the Furies.

Quincy Foreign Car edged Quincy Savings, 1-0, on Jason Fennessy's goal. Robert Cibotti assisted. Steve Campbell and Kevin Mulcahy played strong games. For Savings Pat

Shea excelled in goal and Nickie Mastrogiacomo, Mike McMann and Kevin Boylen played well.

All Div. 2 boys under 10, games were rained out.

In Div. 3, boys under 12, Jack Conway topped Balducci's, 5-0, with Matthew Donovan and Billy Monteith scoring two goals each and Jamie Greene one. Mike Hughes had two assists and Greene, Jay McClaren and Jonathan Sullivan one each.

The Rowdies defeated W. Y. Hight, 2-0, with Scott Raptelis and Jimmy Tiberio having the goals and Bobby Manning, Eric DeBoer and Rapellis having assists. Kevin Burke starred in goal. For Hight Matthew Pierce and Mark Pierce played strong defense. Timmy Burke played well and Billy Earley sparked in goal.

Sons of Italy downed the Tornados, 3-1, with Jimmy DiCarli, Bobby Moriarty and Timmy Roache scoring the goals and DiCarli, Moriarty and Jimmy Flaherty having assists. Michael Toland played well in goal for the Tornados.

Wickens & Troupe edged Yamaha Suzuki, 2-0, with Kevin O'Connor and Tommy McNamara scoring the goals. Benny Goodman had two assists and Michael Megias played well in goal.

In Div. 4, boys under 16, the Bullets and Giovanna's Bakery tied, 1-1. Keith Freeman scored for the Bullets and Michael Perkins was outstanding. Peter Quevillon scored for Giovanna's with Oscar Jara assisting. Steven Delaney starred in goal.

Manet Shell edged Moors & Cabot, 1-0.

Quincy Cable Systems blanked the Timbers, 4-0, on goals by Pat Marcham, Paul Hennebury, Eddie Flynn and David Duffty. Mike Cocce and Marcham had two assists each and John Murphy stood out in goal.

In Div. 5, girls under 9, Alford & Bertrand edged the Arrows, 1-0, with Amy Soderstrom scoring the goal. Karen McCabe shone in goal and Merri Caniff, Erin Duffy and Amy Bertrand played well. For the Arrows Kerry Gaagan, Lori Fitzpatrick and Erin Smith played strong games and Jill Glennon and Shairlynn West played well in goal.

All games in Div. 6, girls under 12, and Div. 7, girls under 16, were rained out.

Wollaston Legion Tryouts

The Wollaston Legion baseball team will hold its first tryouts of the season Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at O'Rourke Field and Sunday at 1 p.m. at Merrymount Field. Players must have been born after Aug. 1, 1964, to be eligible. Wollaston is being coached by John Belcastro and Dick Travers.

Champ's Brother Leads Thayer Over No. Quincy

The Thayer Academy baseball team, led by Lou Marchegiano, brother of heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano, scored two runs in the 10th inning to defeat North Quincy, 7-6, at Bishop Field in Montclair.

Marchegiano tripled in Thayer's two-run seventh inning, drove in the tying run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth and contributed a single to his team's 10th inning rally.

The game was marred by an injury to Dick Rodgers, North's right fielder, who suffered a severe ankle sprain and tore several ligaments when he slid into third base on a close play in the last of the 10th.

Al Elkhill went all the way on the mound for the Raiders, scattering 10 hits and holding a 5-2 lead until the seventh when he weakened.

The North Quincy lineup included: Densmore ss, Crowley, cf, Mullin 3b, Alberti lf, Rodgers rf, Coolidge 1b, Spooner c, Nogueira 2b, Elkhill p. White ph.

QUINCY BOWS

The bats of Marv Weinstein and Bob Gosselin led the Quincy High School baseball team to a 2-0 lead after three innings but then Chelsea's big Dick Ebert shut them down and the Red Devils emerged with a 4-2 victory over the Presidents.

Weinstein had a double and a single and Gosselin had two singles for Quincy, which out-hit Chelsea eight to six. Ebert was tough in the clutches and struck out 12 while walking only two.

The Quincy lineup included: Lotterhand rf, Vespi rf, Lopez lf, Hebert cf, Weinstein c, Oriola 3b, Gosselin 2b, Collins ss, Tobins 1b, Berry p, Morrison p.

TRACKMEN TOP THAYER

A strong finish by anchorman Ronnie Dearn of the relay team and a sweep in the pole vault by Russ DiBiase, Jim Kelley and Bob Bowering lifted the Quincy High School track team to a 45-41 victory over Thayer Academy.

FRONGELLO HOME

Ronnie Frongello, the North Quincy pitcher, returned home with a sore arm from the Cleveland Indians training camp in Daytona Beach, Fla. "I think I started burning them in a little too soon," he said.

MALVESTI RESIGNS

Nick Malvesti of Quincy resigned as South Shore scout for the St. Louis Browns. "I feel that because of my work as coach of Morrisette Junior Legion, I wouldn't be able to devote enough time to scouting," he said.

Vacation Swimming At Lincoln Hancock

The Quincy Recreation Department announces it will conduct a special schedule of swimming at the Lincoln Hancock Community School during the school vacation period.

The pool will be open from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Tuesday, April 19, Wednesday April 20, and Thursday, April 21 for youth age 6-18 years. Adults who accompany children may also swim. A regular pool participation card can be used or a guest fee can be paid at the time of the swim. The pool is open to Quincy residents, and the swims are supervised by Recreation Department personnel.

In addition to the day swims, the normal evening programs at the pool will still be held on the regular schedule except for Sunday, April 17, and Monday, April 18 which will be closed to observe the Patriot's Day Holiday.

Track Club Registration Saturday

The Quincy Track Club will hold registration for its spring and summer programs Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 16 Hunt Street, behind North Quincy High School.

Registration cost is $10.00 per child and Quincy boys and girls 6-18 years of age are urged to join. Further information can be had by calling 328-8188.

FREE SMOKE DETECTORS

The City of Quincy, through the Department of Planning and Community Development is sponsoring a Smoke Detector Installation program.

The Department of Planning and Community Development will provide smoke detectors free of charge to those Quincy residents living within the CDBG Target Areas and who also conform to the income guidelines listed below:

Family Size	Income

2	18,560.00
3	20,880.00
4	23,200.00
5	24,650.00
6	26,100.00
7	27,550.00
8	29,000.00

Please contact Elizabeth A. McElaney at 773-1380 extension 366. Miss McElaney will forward those interested an application and answer any further questions.

The program is available to both homeowners and renters (who have the permission of the property owner).

Quincy Girls On Suburban Volleyball Team

Several Quincy High School girls are playing on the 17-and-under Suburban Juniors volleyball team and the 15 and under team.

The 17-and-under squad, led by co-captains Chris Gallery and Carolyn Leonard of Quincy, combines the top players of Quincy, Brockton, Boston Latin and Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

In the four tournaments to date, Suburban won twice, beating a North Suburban squad in a New Hampshire tournament and a Merrimack Valley squad at the recent Bentley tournament, and lost twice.

Coached by Quincy High assistant coach Chris Prenderville, Suburban is favored to win the May 1 state tournament in Attleboro, which would give the team a berth in the June 22 National AAU championships in Chicago.

In the Bentley Tournament Suburban went 10-0 on the day, scoring 126 points to 54 for the opposition. Led by the strong hitting of Quincy's Gallery and Latin's Ginny Tom. Suburban was unstoppable, winning the title match, 15-6, 15-8.

Other squad members are Karen Marnell, Colleen Dunn, Susan Beven, Theresa Munroe, Barbara Fain and Ellen Deady of Quincy, Merle Solomon of Brockton, Michelle Quintangle of Boston Latin and Michelle Parry and Lisa Cavalucci of Cambridge.

The 15-and-under squad is undefeated in its age division, winning tournaments at Attleboro and North Quincy. Tri-Captains Stephanie LeVangie and Kathy McGregor of Quincy and Karen Mackinaw of Brockton lead the squad, coached by Quincy High coach Ray Whitehouse.

The squad entered a 17 and under tournament held at the U. of New Hampshire and, although they didn't win, the young players took the veterans to double figure scores every game.

St. Ann's Registration April 23

St. Ann's baseball and softball leagues will hold registration next Wednesday, April 20, at St. Ann's Youth Center for boys and girls, 5 to 12 years of age.

There will be a registration charge of $1.00 a person. Further information can be obtained by calling Frank at 773-7809.

QHS Band Alumni To Meet April 19

There will be a general membership meeting of the Quincy High School Band Alumni Association

Tuesday, April 19, at 7:30 p.m. at 65 Cross St., West Quincy. All members are urged to attend.

Morrissey Office Hours

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey will hold office hours for constituents tomorrow (Friday) from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

Bart Petracca Wins 7th Cohasset Race

North Quincy's Bart Petracca, the Raiders' boys' track coach and a former North and Cornell University standout, won the seventh Cohasset Race By-the-Sea 6.2-mile road race Sunday with a fine 30:03.7 timing, just seconds off his personal-best clocking.

Former Quincy High distance star John Furey finished second in 30:54.6.

Petracca wasn't supposed to run in the race and didn't enter in his own name until race time. He decided to give it a try when his roommate chose to skip the race and gave Petracca his number. It almost wasn't worth it to the former North Quincy star, who was almost hit by a car while leading the race.

ENC Receives $150,000 For Cove Fine Arts Center

Eastern Nazarene College has received a check from the Kresge Foundation in the amount of $150,000.

In July of 1982 the Kresge Foundation announced a challenge grant of $150,000 toward the Edith F. Cove Fine Arts Center. That grant was conditional upon ENC's raising the remainder of the $1.4 million dollars needed for the project by Jan. 15, 1983. The challenge was met and the grant has now been received.

The Cove Fine Arts Center was completed in December and now houses the Department of Music and the Department of Communication Arts as well as an auditorium seating just under 500 people. Dedication of both the auditorium and the Fine Arts Center are scheduled for Spring of 1983.

Funding for the new building has come from contributions by Nazarene churches of the Eastern Educational Region, personal gifts from alumni and friends of ENC, generous gifts from business friends in the Quincy South Shore area, and a major gift of $300,000 by Peter and William O'Connell in memory of their mother who is an alumna of Eastern Nazarene College.

Dr. Stephen W. Nease, President of ENC, in expressing gratitude for the grant from the Kresge foundation made note of the fact that as is his custom Stanley S. Kresge inscribed the back of the check with the words "In the name and for the sake of Jesus Christ."

Friday Deadline For Girl Scout Poster Contest

The fourth annual Quincy Girl Scout Earth Day celebration will take place Monday, April 18.

This year's theme is "A Girl Scout Leaves a Place Cleaner Than She Found It."

All girls, Brownies through Seniors, have an opportunity to submit, through their leaders, a poster to The Quincy Sun for judging. Deadline is Friday at noon.

Each troop should choose a section of open space near their neighborhood that they would like to improve.

Several troops are planning a meal or party after their cleanup.

Areas to be cleaned are: Old Sailors Home Cemetery, White Rock at Black Creek, Sailors Home Pond, the field at Watkins and Cleaves, Merrymount Park, North St. Park, Welcome Young Playground, Hummocks and Wollaston Beach, Cranch School yard, Christ Church Cemetery, St. John's School and Church.

WEEK OF: APRIL 14

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Period favors tying up loose ends, not launching grandiose schemes. New business acquaintance may be less trustworthy than you imagine. Weekend can find you lucky in love.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Business negotiations and legal affairs positively aspected through the week. Challenge accusations before they begin to circulate. Romantic mis-understandings can be a trend on the weekend.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Business negotiations and legal affairs positively aspected through the week. Challenge accusations before they begin to circulate. Romantic mis-understandings can be a trend on the weekend.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Favorable are new business ventures and opportunities for part-time employment. Matchmaking and other romance-related projects may backfire. Partner tends toward exaggeration.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Small financial bonus perks up the week, but workload remains heavy. Older and younger relatives benefit from your special brand of encouragement — don't wait to be asked.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Healthy competition makes the week a success. Partner's ego can use a boost. Possible friction with neighbors is offset by professional reconciliation. Salesmanship shines.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Watch tendency to impose your taste on others, especially if traveling this week. Communication breakthrough gets projects rolling by Monday. Financial news brightener arrives soon after.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Direct approach brings results in mending relationships. Short-term goal is within reach, but cooperation is all-important. Don't buy bargains without checking quality and guarantees.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
Offers issued now will be taken to heart; don't promise more than you really want to. Watch tendency to tackle minor chores before facing the really important tasks.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
Programs — work, recreational, cultural — can be more strenuous, more costly than expected. Loved one is in a playful mood, but serious decisions should not be postponed.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
Educational activities are spotlighted; but moderation should be your keyword. Reluctant friend becomes more interested in your ideas — don't expect endorsement just yet.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Play by the rules in dealing with personnel. In money matters, be fanatical about bookkeeping and budgeting; your thoroughness here should pay off by next month.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're famous for your wit, your thirst for knowledge, your leadership abilities and your quick bursts of temper — which subside as fast as they flare up. Small personal sacrifices lead to a steady series of financial gains over the next ten months.

BORN THIS WEEK
April 14th, actor John Gielgud; 15th, actress Elizabeth Montgomery; 16th, composer Henry Mancini; 17th, actress Monique Van Vooren; 18th, actor Robert Hooks; 19th, actor Don Adams; 20th, actress Nina Foch.

MIFA Approves $1.6-M Bond For Pilgrim Plaza

The Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency (MIFA) has approved a $1.6 million low interest, industrial revenue bond for Quincy Commercial Area Revitalization District (CARD) project by Pilgrim Plaza Limited Partnership.

Pilgrim Plaza will use proceeds from the bond to construct a 23,015 square-foot retail building at Quincy Ave. and Scammel St., Quincy. The site is located in Quincy's CARD, making the project eligible for the low interest bond.

The partnership has secured leases with First Federal Savings & Loan, Dicarolo Jewelers and Val-Clean, and is currently negotiating with Med-Mart. The Quincy Industrial Development Financing Authority (IDFA) will issue the bond.

The project will create an estimated 60 new jobs.

Work-To-Rule At Merrymount School

Work-to-rule has gone into effect at the Merrymount School according to Herman (Hank) Pasquerella, president of the Quincy Education Association.

The action, whereby teachers perform no duties not specified in their contracts, is to protest contract negotiations which continue to be stalled.

The only Quincy public school not under work-to-rule is Quincy Junior College and Pasquerella was scheduled to speak to faculty at that school yesterday (Wednesday).

Accident Victim In Poor Condition

Anna Antonuccio, 73, of 80 Clay St., Wollaston, remained in poor condition at Quincy City Hospital Tuesday with injuries received when she was struck by a car on Beale St., Wollaston.

Her name was on the danger list. Police said Mrs. Antonuccio was struck by a car driven by Anne L. Gould, 24, of 283 Belmont St., Wollaston, about 6:30 p.m. Sunday in front of the Heartland Drug Store.

No charges were placed against the driver.

Police said Gould told them she was traveling about 20-25 miles an hour in the heavy rain and could not see Mrs. Antonuccio until she was in front of the car.

Wollaston Man Condition Good

Gerard J. Ceurevels, 23, of 64 Piermont St., Wollaston, remained in good condition at City Hospital with injuries suffered in an early Monday morning auto accident in Wollaston.

Police said Ceurevels' Chevrolet pickup truck left the road at 1:45 a.m. and struck a tree. A privet hedge was destroyed at 234 Harvard St.

Ceurevels told police another car cut him off and he spun into the tree.

City License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a tag day permit to the North Quincy High School Track Boosters Club for Friday, April 22, and Saturday, April 23. Rain dates are April 29 and 30. There is to be soliciting at street intersections.

- Granted, subject to a routine police check, transfer of motor II (used car) license for Dave's Auto Sales, 481 Quincy Ave., from Richard A. Toma to David P. Osis Jr. of Braintree. Not more than two cars are to be displayed in front of the shop.

- Granted a request from R.A. Locarni, Inc., 371-373A Granite St., for expansion of the licensed premises to include a larger, walk-in refrigerator. The board also approved change of manager for the establishment with a retail store-all alcoholic license from Robert A. Locarni to Mrs. Patricia A. Locarni. Mrs. Locarni explained to the board there will be no new construction. The expansion will be within the building.

- Allowed to be withdrawn a request from Fraternal Order of Eagles, Quincy Aerie No. 1180, 47 Mass Ave., for multiple deposit pool table and pinball machine licenses.

- Postponed to April 19, at the request of the proprietor, a hearing regarding conditions at Exxon Company USA, 443-457 Southern Artery.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

STEP UP SAFELY

The National Safety Council reports some 30,000 to 40,000 Americans have disabling falls from ladders each year. Many are disabled for life. And 300 to 400 people are fatally injured. For those who have home repairs or painting on the agenda, it's a good idea to give some thought to the ladder and its use.

A ladder used to gain access to a roof should extend three feet above the point of support to enable the user to have something to grip while working or climbing onto a roof. It also allows a safety margin for a minor slip. More accidents are caused by ladders slipping and falling than anything else.

If any kind of a ladder is placed near a doorway, the door should be locked so someone can't come barging through and knock the user into the injury statistics book.

Don't reach out too far, jeopardizing your balance. Instead, move the ladder. Never straddle space between the ladder and another object. Finally, never use ladders in a high wind.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipelayers of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

To learn your rights free of charge, or to bring an asbestos claim, contact:

ISN'T THIS BETTER THAN BOX STORAGE!

This is the Dependable way of doing things.

Wouldn't your rather have all your winter clothes stored on hangers than cramped in a cardboard box all summer! Of course you would.

When we store your winter clothing in our climate controlled vaults, your clothing gets first class treatment. We own the vaults. We control the quality from beginning to end.

You get superior treatment right from the start: Your clothing is cleaned promptly when it is brought in to avoid "setting stains"; it is hung in the vault with controlled spacing to avoid crushing; the entire contents of the vault are fumigated to guarantee no moth or mildew damage; the temperature and humidity are monitored daily to prevent furs from losing their natural oils; and finally, just before we return your clothing in the fall we give every article a special pressing to make sure it is worthy of the "Dependable" name.

All nine Dependable locations can accept your cleaning and storage orders, or, one of our drivers will be happy to pick up your order at your home. Just call 773-7400 for this service.

Germantown, Squantum Cited Firefighters Claim Unmanned Engines Protection Threat

By TOM HENSHAW

The Quincy firefighters union charged this week that the state of manpower in the Fire Department is such that "the public is not always safe."

"Seeing fire trucks in the stations doesn't always mean they will respond when you need them," said the Quincy Fire Fighters Association in a full page advertisement in this week's Quincy Sun.

"It has become common practice to put engine and ladder trucks out of service because there are no firefighters to man them," Fire Chief Edward Barry was not available for comment.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said, however, that the Quincy Fire Department has not suffered under Proposition 2½ as much as departments in other cities and towns.

"Quincy has had no direct layoffs of firefighters," he said. "Last year we brought in a budget that would cut 22 positions but when we got state aid they were returned to the budget."

He conceded, though, that the Fire Department has lost personnel through attrition in that some firefighters who have retired or resigned have not been replaced.

In their ad the firefighters said:

"There have been numerous days and nights when there is no ladder truck operating out of West Quincy and one less engine company operating out of headquarters to respond to fires and emergencies."

"Isolated fire stations, such as Germantown and Squantum, many times have only two fire fighters to protect their area against fires and medical emergencies."

"On many occasions the only way the ladder truck in North Quincy can respond to a call for help is for the lieutenant to drive the truck because there is no fire fighter to drive."

Mayor McCauley asked the City Council Tuesday night to approve an appropriation of $3,500 to repair a 22-year-old 1,000-gallon pumper at the Squantum station.

Two weeks ago, the Council quickly approved a request for $17,000 to purchase a desisel motor for the pumper at the Houghs Neck station. That one is 23 years old.

McCauley said he is currently putting together a plan where fire equipment can be obtained under a lease-purchase plan. Such equipment, he said, could be available by 1984.

"I don't want to sound abrasive," said the mayor. "I'm sure the firefighters are concerned. We are concerned, too. But we have restrictions on money."

"We have had to cut the tax levy under Proposition 2½ and everyone has to share the burden. The fire fighters have done well in Quincy. Some cities have had to shut stations. We haven't."

Friday, April 15.

"I'm pleased that we were able to get them out so soon," said the mayor. "Last year we didn't get them in the mail until May 28. This will save us a lot of interest on short term borrowing."

More than 22,000 second half tax bills were mailed for an amount in excess of $20 million based on a tax rate of $177 per thousand under the city's old real property values.

The due date is May 16. McCauley urged taxpayers not to wait for the deadline to pay their taxes.

He said that those taxpayers who have applied for statutory exemptions (veterans, widows, elderly, blind and others) should receive abatement certificates in the mail within the next two weeks.

If they are not received within that time, he said, the applicants should contact the assessors' office.

Member's Rent Hike Upsets Grievance Board

Two members of the Rent Grievance Board will confer with Mayor Francis X. McCauley next week to decide what to do about a third member accused of raising rents on an apartment in West Quincy by $310 a month.

Executive Secretary Jane Reikard said the Board was "embarrassed" by the action of Harold Bertoni in raising from $240 to $550 the rent on a two-bedroom apartment on Smith St. he owns with David Mariano.

"It's the largest rent increase to come to my attention," said Reikard. "The Board is furious about it. We want to tell Mayor McCauley how upset we are."

Reikard said she and Board Chairman Elinda Lipsitz have an appointment with McCauley next week and one of the topics will be whether McCauley should ask Bertoni to resign from the Board.

"We had hoped to settle this in the office," said Reikard after the issue became public knowledge Tuesday afternoon.

Bertoni said the large rent increase was needed because the occupants of the apartment frequently leave the windows open raising the heating costs which he and Mariano pay.

City Council Hears Validated Parking Bid

An impressive lineup of downtown businessmen were scheduled to speak Tuesday night in favor of validated parking at a public hearing on the issue before the City Council.

Sandy Rounseville, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, was reading a petition containing 130 names of businessmen who promised to participate in validated parking.

Before the Council's Downtown and Economic Development Committee was Mayor Francis X. McCauley's proposal to have Kinney Systems of Boston take over management of the municipal parking lots.

"I hope the Council can take some action on it tonight," said McCauley before the meeting. "I hope at least they can endorse the concept of it."

Under the plan, shoppers would be allowed a 15-minute free grace period for quick trips to the store and merchants would validate their parking stubs for longer store visits.

Some councilors, notably Stephen J. McGrath, have expressed some doubts as to the length of the grace period and he questioned the effectiveness of a voluntary validation system.

"I hope the hearing will have at least cleaned up some of the questions the councilors have on the proposal," said McCauley, whose aide, Arthur Foley, has worked on it for nearly a year.

Foley was scheduled to lead the administration's forces at the hearing.

Probable speakers from the business community in favor of the proposal included Rounseville, Kenneth Fallon of the QCBPA, Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods, and Bernard Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal. Colman and Reisberg are both past QCBPA presidents.

Visitor Dies In Wollaston Fire

A visitor in the first floor apartment of a two family Wollaston house died early Tuesday during a fire which caused an estimated $7,500 damage.

Keith Campbell, 30, who was visiting the apartment of George Cavanaugh of 120 Fayette St. was pronounced dead at the scene.

Cavanaugh was not at home at the time of the fire, which officials said was started by careless disposal of smoking materials near a couch in the living room.

The house is owned by Mr. and Mrs. David Hourin who occupy the top floor apartment and were able to escape the fire without apparent injury.

Five pieces of Quincy fire apparatus responded to the fire which was confined to the living room area of the first floor apartment. There was smoke and heat damage to other rooms in the apartment.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday the city is getting a "good response" to tax bills for the last half of fiscal 1983 which went in the mail

Donnelly Hits Reagan Shipbuilding Policies

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly has lashed out at the Reagan Administration for its shipbuilding policy, which he called "an attack against American shipbuilders."

Reagan's Transportation

Secretary Elizabeth Dole recently told Congress that "a major thrust of the President's policies is to allow U.S. ship operators to construct or acquire foreign tonnage."

"At a time when

Congress is looking for ways to reduce unemployment," said Donnelly, "the administration is recommending that we go overseas to build ships for the American maritime industry.

"We do not have any jobs to export."

Donnelly said the Reagan proposal was the second attempt to remove legal incentives that ship operators have for building in American shipyards. The first was blocked last year.

The program proposed to Congress by Secretary Dole included:

- Repeat the law requiring ship operators who receive federal subsidies to operate only American-built ships.
- Repeat the tariff on repairs and overhauls conducted in foreign shipyards.

- Allow government cargoes to be transported on foreign built vessels.
- Allow tax-deferred earnings of American ship companies to be spent on foreign-built ships. Under present law, shippers must either pay taxes on their earnings or reinvest them in American-built ships.

"America's tax and subsidy programs should be used to benefit Americans, not to subsidize employment in the foreign shipyards that are competing with us," Donnelly said.

"While we have been fortunate to receive several Navy contracts recently at the Quincy Shipyard, the Reagan program guarantees that there will be no ships for international commerce built in Quincy or in any other shipyard in the country."

He noted that other major shipbuilding countries have aggressive subsidy programs to attract orders.

"The administration should be working actively with Congress to develop a program to bolster employment in one of this country's basic industries," Donnelly said.

Conservation Commission To Reschedule Old Colony Hearing

A Quincy Conservation Commission hearing May 4 on development of the 170-acre Old Colony Crushed Stone project in West Quincy scheduled for May 4 will be held at a different date to be announced later.

Meredith & Grew of Boston, which represents Middle East investors who purchased the site at the beginning of the year for $5.3 million, are unable to attend on May 4.

Hearings on development of the property, expected to include an office park and hotel, were held last week at City Hall.

Assistant City Planner Richard Meade said the commission decided to hold additional hearings because of the magnitude of the project.

The commission is considering the drainage plan for the property. A series of ponds and construction of an access road are among the plans.

Continuing the hearing will give the commission more time to consider the matter, added Meade.

Wollaston Woman Hurt In Bicycle-Truck Mishap

A 23-year-old Wollaston woman was injured Monday when the bicycle she was riding was in collision with a truck at the corner of Hancock St. and West Elm Ave.

Elissa Schwartz of 87 West Elm Ave., was in good condition at City Hospital.

Police said Schwartz' bicycle collided with a 1974 Dodge truck driven by Frederick J. Cobban, 34, of 86 Exeter St., Wollaston, shortly after 4 p.m.

Cobban told police he was making a turn from Hancock St. to Wollaston Ave. when he saw the bicycle bearing down on him. He accelerated the truck, he said, and the bike struck its rear.

Citywide Cleanup Planned For May

The Clean City Committee will meet Tuesday, April 26, at 7:15 p.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall, it was announced by Patricia Toland, chairman of the City Council's Beautification Committee.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has designated the month of May as Quincy Looking Great Month and on Saturday, May 21, volunteers from each neighborhood will stage a massive clean up of the city.

Financial support of the clean-up campaign is being solicited from businesses in the areas.

Members of the Clean City Committee include: Elizabeth Houston, chairman; Pat Yovino of the Atlantic Neighborhood Center; Roberta Fitzgerald and Richard Meade of the Planning Department; Pat Ridlen of the Manet Community Health Center; Richard Koen, executive secretary of the Park and Recreation Board.

Mary Bennett of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services; Clara Yeomans, former executive secretary of the Conservation Commission; Ken Hawes; Louis Aristides; Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary; and David Colton of the Public Works Department.

Volunteers are being sought and interested citizens are urged to attend the April 26 meeting.

Quincy Bay Inn Can Have 12-Piece Bands

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Quincy Bay Inn, North Quincy, will soon be alive with the sound of music by contemporary show bands of up to 12 members.

The License Board voted 3 to 1 Tuesday to allow manager Albert Colarusso, Jr., to increase live entertainment in the Mirage Lounge from 4 to 12 piece bands.

Acting Police Chief Roy Cavicchi voted against the change which is for a trial period of April 27 to May 24. Fire Chief Edward Barry was not at the meeting.

Colarusso said he is trying to increase business in the lounge at 24-29 Hancock St. which recently underwent $55,000 in renovations.

"We've changed it 100 per cent," said Colarusso who explained that he has also eliminated past gimmicks and reinstated a strict dress code in an attempt to attract the 25-36 age group.

"Everyplace has live entertainment now," said Colarusso who assured the board there will be no disco music which is prohibited in his license.

"It will be top 40s music that you can listen to or dance to," said Colarusso.

Colarusso said an agent advised him that a band of under seven or eight pieces would not be feasible.

"The number (of people) in the band is not the issue," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, "it's what it will attract."

"If you have real disco or rock 'n roll you've got problems," said City Clerk John Gillis, board chairman.

Cavicchi said if the bands attract large crowds, he wants additional police details at the establishment.

"If business goes back to where it was," said Colarusso, "I'll be glad to put them on."

"If there are any incidents right away..." warned Cavicchi, "you're gone," finished MacDonald.

Cavicchi explained after the meeting, "My concern is what it (the band) might attract, that it could lead to an incident which couldn't be controlled."

Colarusso will appear again before the board in a month.

Kelly Seeks Support For Nut Island Bills

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has written the chief executives of 21 cities and towns asking their support in two pieces of legislation he has filed involving the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant.

Both bills were scheduled to be heard yesterday

(Wednesday) in the State House.

One bill would establish an advisory board of local officials to supervise the Nut Island plant and the other would credit capital expenditures by cities and towns against their MDC assessments.

Toll-Free Phone To Washington For Small Business

The Small Business Administration has taken a page from Cong. Brian J. Donnelly's book and established a toll-free telephone to Washington to help small businessmen with their problems.

"Small businesses often spend a lot of time just trying to have their questions answered by the government," said Donnelly, who had his own toll-free phone put in as soon as he took office in 1979. "They shouldn't have to waste valuable time and energy on matters such as patent and trademark procedures, export trading, interest regulations, or local licensing requirements."

The SBA's new Answer Phone is available to aid small businesses Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Most inquiries can be answered right away.

The toll-free number is 800-368-5855.

Why Quincy Animal League Opposes Pound Seizure

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

With the refiling of a statewide pound seizure repeal bill and a bill requesting exemption for Quincy from pound seizure, the Quincy Animal League would like to take this opportunity to explain exactly what pound seizure is and why we oppose it, for the sake of those who may not be familiar with the issue.

In 1957 the Mass. Legislature passed a law permitting scientific researchers to seize from city and town pounds any animals held there for ten days and use them for experimentation. For the past 26 years thousands of these innocent pets have been burned, gassed, scalded, blinded, starved, injected with diseases, surgically mutilated and tortured, often with no anesthesia, and these experiments, often needless and repetitive, have been funded with millions of our tax dollars.

Most states have long ago repealed pound seizure, but not Massachusetts, where the wealth and power of Harvard outweigh the will of the people. Many city and town dog officers simply refuse to turn over the dogs in their care to these butchers, and no action is taken against them, but this does not happen in Quincy, where our dog officer has readily complied with Harvard's every request for years, despite knowing full well how the people of Quincy feel about it.

Our local officials and legislators support us all the way and we appreciate their backing, but we must reach other lawmakers, through our friends and relatives in other districts, and attempt to enlist their help in battling this despicable practice. That is why the Quincy Animal League was formed, and we ask all who share our concern to work with us in this humane endeavor. The more voices that join ours, the sooner this odious law will be repealed.

Enjoyed Article On N.Q. Girls Track Team

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a former North Quincy High School runner, and fan of long standing, I very much enjoyed Tom Sullivan's recent fine article about the North Quincy girls track team. It was such an informative article that copies have been forwarded to several alumni in other parts of the country who do not have the opportunity to follow the teams in person.

I am sure the readers of your paper will join me in thanking Mr. Tozzi for his extraordinary leadership of both boys and girls track teams over the past decade, and in wishing him continued success in his new job as coordinator of special education.

Ruth Gordon Remembers Library

Ruth Gordon has a new favorite book. Not one she has written.

It's "Descent From Glory", authored by Paul C. Nagel and covering four generations of Quincy's illustrious Adams family from 1735 to 1927.

Nagel not only takes a close look at the public triumphs of the family but at its private troubles, too.

As Charles Francis Adams, grandson of President John Adams put it, the family history was "one of great triumph in the world but of deep groans within, one of extraordinary brilliancy and deep corroding mortification."

"I think it is the finest modern book I've read," said Miss Gordon in a telephone call from Martha's Vineyard.

"Not just because it is about the Adams family. It's an inspiration. Everyone should read it."

And she wants to make it easier for Quincy residents to do just that.

"Would you check the Crane Public Library and see how many copies of it they have?" she asked.

Librarian Warren Watson counted and came up with four circulating copies. That's one copy for the main library, the Adams Shore, Wollaston and North Quincy branches.

"And, they're all in circulation," noted Janet Husband, acquisitions librarian.

A call back to Miss Gordon on the Vineyard.

"All right," she said. "I'm going to send you two copies of the book to give to the main library so more people can read it."

A few days later, a package arrived: the two books. And with it this hand-written letter from Miss Gordon:

Dear Thomas Crane Public Library,

GORDON

Please accept these two copies of "Descent From Glory" which I have asked my friend Henry Bosworth to deliver to you. I think it is the finest modern book I've read.

I hope everybody in Quincy will read it. It's not only about the great John and Abigail Adams and Louisa and John Quincy Adams and Charles Francis and Henry and Brooks Adams, it's about all of us New Englanders and how hard it is to live our lives and make it come out right.

Dear Thomas Crane Library, you meant a lot to me in my teens. I carried home as many books as I could get on my library card. A big square bound Theater Magazine. Oh, how heavy! I was going to be an actress. An Ibsen play, a Yeats play. I was going to be an actress. A book titled "Haremlik" that looked wicked. I was going to be wicked. "Haremlik" was about life in a harem. I wasn't going to be in a harem so it was no use, plus which it was slow.

I hope "Descent From Glory" will bring pleasure and courage to all who read it. We need it.

May "Descent From Glory" help you on your way! God bring me patience!"

Ruth Gordon

"I'm thrilled that she would have that much interest in the library and in the library having that book," said Watson.

"The book is in great demand. I'm sure the two copies Miss Gordon has given us will get a lot of use."

"It's nice that she remembers us. And we shall cherish her letter as a fond memento."

Miss Gordon, one of the most talented actresses of them all, is staying busy.

She was a delight on the Bob Newhart Show Easter night as the salty grandmother who had done a little time in prison.

That particular segment was written especially for her and it got excellent reviews. So good that she'll be returning from time to time in that role.

She liked working with the entire cast and crew. Tom Poston is an old friend. And "Bob Newhart is the most charming, adorable person."

Miss Gordon has no thoughts of retiring.

"I'll be doing a movie soon with Walter Matthau," she says.

"And I want to do a play."

She's quite a gal.

Police Alert

Burglars Look Like Anyone Else

Burglars refuse to oblige the police or the public by "looking like burglars." They may be clean shaven, crew-cut, and fitted out in sports clothes, repairman's uniforms, or similar attire which blends into the background of the neighborhood in which they are working.

In general, the public is woefully misinformed about the violence of burglars. Many people persist in believing that burglars are "non-violent-type" criminals. The actual record of personal attacks perpetrated by burglars, including murder and rape, should dispel this myth.

To begin with, while burglars do not expect to be apprehended, they do commit their crimes in a state of high tension. Most would probably prefer not to encounter the homeowner but are able and willing to react violently if such a confrontation does occur. While some burglars may not be armed with a firearm, they normally possess weapons such as knives, screwdrivers, pry bars, etc.

The theory that homeowners need not fear burglars, because the burglar is only interested in their property, just does not make sense.

Included among the ranks of burglars arrested each year are an appreciable number of rapists, dope addicts, and mentally unbalanced individuals. No one can afford the luxury of believing that he is safe from personal attack as long as the burglar can obtain the property items he seeks.

But there is one important part of the burglar's psychological profile which should be noted. With few exceptions, the burglar is not a hard worker. Confronted with some serious obstacles to his entry, such as a good alarm system and set of door locks, the burglar is likely to pass up your home in favor of an easier target. There are more than enough unprotected homes to go around.

Quincy Quiz

One winner in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Amelia Abdallah of 57 Winter St., Quincy Point, wins a T-shirt.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

Only one member of a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce?

2. The Adams Mansion, now the Adams National Historic Site, 135 Adams St., was built by: President John Adams? Major Leonard Vassall? Richard Cranch?

3. What well-known Quincy business establishment is located at 389 Hancock St.?

4. True or false: "Manet," the motto of the city of Quincy, means "It Remains" in Latin.

5. Wolcott Rd. is located in what section of the city?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Virginia Kurtzman is the chairman of Mayor Francis X. McCauley's new Cable Television Advisory Committee.

2. False. The city seal of Quincy contains a view of Mt. Wollaston.

3. The Quincy Square Deli is located at 1360 Hancock St.

4. The Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant began operating in 1952.

5. Antonio Vissa Square is at the junction of Willard and Cross Sts., West Quincy.

Geary Promises More MDC Police Presence At Wollaston Beach

MDC Commissioner William J. Geary says he plans to increase the police presence this summer on Wollaston Beach in an effort to cut down traffic accidents and enforce drug and drinking laws.

Geary, who lives in Wollaston, appeared on the Quincy CableSystem's "Newsmakers" program.

"You can look forward to more police officers along that beach engaged in intensive traffic enforcement as well as the revitalization of our drug enforcement team," he said.

"We're going to increase our presence by way of a motorcycle squad which will intensively patrol the beaches so that all of our citizens can feel free to use our recreational facilities."

"We enrolled the largest class of new police officers in the history of the Quincy just three weeks ago and those officers will be on the street in July."

Geary said there will also be changes in signalization and bright new sodium vapor lights on Quincy

Shore Drive "but there is no substitute for a very forceful police presence."

The new police officers, he said, will also be trained to detect violations of anti-pollution regulations, particularly those by large companies discharging industrial wastes.

"We are going to create in our Police Division an environmental enforcement squad to go after people who are dumping that type of waste into our sewage system and overburdening it," he said.

"We're going to go after the people who dump large amounts of refuse in our marsh areas such as the Neponset Marsh and similar areas."

Geary said the MDC is going to "take an active role this summer in monitoring the coliform fecal counts emanating from storm drains along Wollaston Beach. We will be testing them on a daily basis."

On other subjects, Geary made these points:

- MDC water rates will be going up within the next year. "We are projecting that if we do not authorize an overall rate increase within the next calendar year we will be operating at a substantial deficit in the cost of providing that water."

WILLIAM J. GEARY

"We increase our charges to the communities every five or six years and unfortunately now is the time."

- The routing of the Germantown Interceptor is being reviewed and probably it will be re-routed to avoid Palmer St.

"The Palmer St. route would be too disruptive to the community and an increased cost factor would be reasonable to avoid the dangerous disruption of digging up the primary access to Germantown."

- The problems of the MDC's Sewer Division are "at a crisis stage and I'm approaching that in terms of making certain that we do have sufficient personnel to operate those plants."

"We are at a point now where we have a somewhat aging work force who acquired their training in diesel engines in the service during the war and then came to work for the MDC. Many of them are ready for retirement."

"To attract the next generation of plant operators, I am making recommendations that many of the graded positions be upgraded. That's absolutely essential."

Geary was interviewed on the program by John Noonan of the Quincy Sun, Herb Fontaine of WJDA and Ray McEachern of the Patriot Ledger.

Quincy Animal League To Join Boston Rally Sunday

The Quincy Animal League will be among the organizations taking part in the rally for animal rights to be held Sunday on Boston Common from 1 to 4 p.m.

Quincy League President John H. McDuff, Jr. said thousands of animal activists from all north-eastern states will participate in the Boston rally, one of four scheduled across America at that time, in observation of World Day for Laboratory Animals.

Among the scheduled speakers are actor Earl Holliman, actress Morgan Brittany, and animal activists Cleveland Amory, and Dorothy Cheechi O'Brien of Plymouth. There will be musical groups and display booths, including a Quincy Animal League booth.

McDuff urges all QAL members and friends, as well as concerned people from other South Shore communities to assemble in front of Park Street Church, beginning at noon, to carry a sign if possible, and plan to walk across the Common to the main rally site at 1 p.m.

'Pressure' Charged As Tax Talks Are Cancelled

Two scheduled speakers cancelled talks on tax abatement procedures before the Quincy Taxpayers Association and Executive Secretary William M. Edmonston charged that Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and city assessors were behind the move.

First to cancel his appearance at the Central Junior High School meeting was John D. Wright of Newton, a member of the State Tax Appellate Board, who said it would be "improper and injudicious" for him to speak on such a subject.

Edmonston declined to reveal the name of Wright's replacement for fear that "pressure against his appearance might be exercised by Mayor Burgin and the assessors who are apparently opposed to the meeting."

The mystery speaker turned out to be Atty. Thomas Joyce of Boston, a member of the legal department of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations and its lobbyist on Beacon Hill, who also backed out at the last moment.

Finally, the talk was delivered by Atty. Faneuil Adams of Boston, who practices before the Tax Appellate Board, who explained to small homeowners in Quincy how they could use the Board to reduce high assessments on their property.

LIQUOR BAN BEATEN

The State Senate, by a tie vote of 18-18, killed a bill that would have permitted Quincy voters to ban the sale of liquor on Wollaston Boulevard and the vote touched off a hot dispute between two Quincy legislators.

Sen. John D. Mackay charged that Rep. Charles W. Hedges, who filed the bill at the behest of the Wollaston Improvement Association and City Councillor Avery Gilkerson, had secretly lobbied behind the scenes for its defeat.

"What are we coming to if we can't do business in God's sunlight," said Mackay.

"I not only deny the senator's charges," said Hedges, "but I will go further and brand them as false."

CITED FOR HEROISM

Mayor Burgin said he plans to write to the Carnegie Foundation with a recommendation that a medal for heroism be given to Jean Allen, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allen of Adams Shore, for her rescue of three boys who were drifting out to sea in a row boat.

Jean, a student at Central Junior High School, swam fully clothed to the boat, rescued one of the boys who had fallen overboard, then went back and brought the others to shore in the boat.

The show will begin at 4 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St.,

Shore Elder Services Nutrition Program is on a reservation basis. Seniors interested in taking part should call the meal site at 770-0681 and make their reservations through Nicci Marchi, Site Manager.

In addition, volunteers are needed to help with outreach, transportation and delivering meals to homebound elders in their communities. Anyone who would like to help in the program is asked to call Volunteer Coordinator, Lois Rumney, at 335-1310.

The large cast features singers, dancers, comedians and musicians.

The temple is the center for CPR training, bloodmobiles and is used by the public and by charitable organizations. It seeks the support of the public to continue its services.

Bloodmobile April 30 At Star Of Sea Church

The public is invited to take part in a bloodmobile to be held at the Star of the Sea Church, 107 Bellevue Rd., Squantum Saturday, April 30 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Contact Janet Coughlin at 328-5124 or Greg Galvin at 328-0854 to set up an appointment to donate at the bloodmobile.

Bar Assn. To Honor 'Man Of The Year'

The Quincy Bar Association will hold its Man of the Year Dinner Monday, May 2, at Mr. Kelly's Quincy Point.

There will be a social hour starting at 6 p.m. Dinner will be 7 p.m.

Association members are urged to attend.

Over 1,000 Join Quincy Cancer Crusade

Richard J. Koch, Quincy Cancer Crusade Chairman, announces that more than 1,000 persons have volunteered to visit their neighbors Tuesday, April 26 to leave life-saving information relative to cancer and seek donations in behalf of the research, education and patient programs.

More crusaders are needed to replace those ill and unable to meet their commitment or to assist in areas where volunteers were unavailable.

Those wishing to assist may contact Koch at 241 Newbury Ave. or any of the ward chairmen.

"The American Cancer Society's record-breaking income in Massachusetts last year is evidence of the importance the public attaches to the Society's cancer control programs," said Koch. He said a total of $3,437,985 was raised in this state in addition to $984,919 which was raised in legacies.

"This year, our state goal is $3,691,500," Koch said, noting that the American Cancer Society is not government-funded. "We depend entirely upon the generosity of people in Quincy and in communities across Massachusetts to continue the Society's life-saving work."

According to Koch, the money raised in this year's State Cancer Crusade the Society's annual educational and fundraising campaign—will be allocated by the Society's Massachusetts Division volunteer Board of Directors to support programs aimed at the prevention, early detection and treatment of cancer, and to provide assistance to people who have cancer.

"Research claimed 33 percent of our budget in Massachusetts last year," Koch said. "More than $10 million was invested by the Society in Massachusetts institutions for this purpose."

"Our grants support original ideas in areas of study that other kinds of support don't reach. This had led to the development of new methods of diagnosis and treatment, making our research program one of the most important components in the fight to control cancer."

"While we are waiting for answers from basic research, we are also trying to educate people in cancer prevention and the importance of early detection and prompt treatment," he said. "This year, during our annual House-to-House Crusade, more than 110,000 volunteers will be handing their neighbors a coupon redeemable on May 10 Bowl Cancer Detection Day for a free, simple stool blood test. The test detects hidden blood in the stool, which is a sign of possible bowel (colorectal) cancer."

Pointing out that about 145,000 people with cancer will probably die this year because they are unfamiliar with early detection techniques, Koch noted that public education programs took another 18 percent of the budget.

Health Works '83 At Plaza Friday

William Henderson, public relations director of Quincy City Hospital, is coordinator of non-medical personnel for Health Works '83 Friday, noon to 8 p.m. at the South Shore Plaza, Braintree.

Health Works is a series of free public health fairs featuring a screening clinic. During the week of April 25 to May 1, there will be over 100 community-based health fairs in various locations.

For those over 18, the basic screenings include: height, weight, blood pressure, anemia and vision.

Other services include: health exhibits, demonstrations, individual review and referral.

All "Health Works '83 sites will offer an $8 blood chemistry test that screens for diabetes, cholesterol, triglycerides, kidney and liver disease, gout and thyroid problems.

Site coordinator for Health Works '83 is Martha Sweeney, administrative supervisor of Elihu White Nursing Home. Medical director is Ronnie Todino, president of South Suburban Nurses Registry, Inc., Hanover.

For more information, contact South Suburban Nurses Registry, Inc., 871-2965.

3 NQHS Graduates Honored By NAA

The National Association of Accountants (NAA) recently honored eight students from area colleges for outstanding achievement in accounting.

Three of the eight were graduates of North Quincy High School class of 1979.

Each student was chosen as the top accounting student at their respective colleges.

The North Quincy High School Students:

Thomas Dunn, son of Mr.

and Mrs. Maurice Dunn of Quincy, received the award for Babson College. He has a grade point average of 3.94 in accounting and ranks in the top two percent of his class at Babson. He has accepted a position with Ernst & Whinney, CPA firm and will begin working on their audit staff upon graduation.

Jill Soddeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur

Soddeck, 38 Russell St., received the award for Boston College. She has a grade point average of 4.0 in accounting and has accepted a position with Laventhol & Horwath, CPA firm in Boston.

Phyllis Germain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Germain of 201 North Central Ave., received the award for Suffolk University. She has a 4.0 grade point average in accounting.

For more information and pre-registration, call Miss Roche-Cotter or Miss Newman at 471-8683.

Bereaved Parents Group At St. Margaret's

HOPE - a new organization for bereaved parents who have experienced the death of an infant through miscarriage, stillborn, or newborn death - is meeting at St. Margaret's Hospital the first Wednesday of every month.

The first meeting was held recently in the North Wing Conference Room of St. Margaret's Hospital, 90 Cushing Ave.

Questions should be directed to St. Margaret's Hospital at 436-8600 ext. 286 during the day.

Planning ahead can offer peace of mind . . .

It is only human to put things off. But proper planning for the event of one's death can spare a family many traumatic decisions and financial burdens. By pre-arranging the desires and wishes of one's funeral, burial and expenses can be specified to eliminate confusion, differences of opinion and difficult decisions on the part of family members. To ease this burden, we are making available to you FREE a booklet with all necessary information and forms to assist and guide you. Why not visit us or write for your FREE Pre-arrangement Booklet.

Booklet covers the following subjects:

- Funeral and Interment Preferences
- Vital Statistics and Data
- Survivors Information, Social Security, Insurance, Bank Accounts, Real Estate, Automobile, Safety Deposit Box, Savings Bonds, Stocks and Bonds, Retirement Accounts and Veterans Benefits.
- Pre-Arrangement Information
- Three duplicate copies of a Funeral and Interment Pre-Arrangement Agreement.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

In the calm sunshine of a peaceful day, one seldom thinks about death. So, when the motion of life stops, emotion sets in. Unnecessary confusion all too often follows. Such confusion can be and should be minimal. No one needs to struggle in shadows of uncertainty. Because we see these situations more often than they should occur, we offer this word of caution. For your comfort and peace of mind if or when anything happens while you are out of town . . . if death should strike . . . we humbly and sincerely suggest you phone us promptly. This is far, far better than making "arrangements" in a strange town with strangers. We can and will act instantly for you no matter where you are - and you can depend on it. No confusion, no worry. No uncertainty.

Just pick up a phone. Any operator in the country - or anywhere in the world - can put your call through to us instantly, day or night. Don't worry about the phone number. The operator will put your call through to us without it. We hope you never have this experience of course. But - if you do - remember what to do to avoid confusion and uncertainty . . .

Nickerson Post Memorial Ceremony At Squantum Church

Members of Nickerson Legion Post #382 attended the First Church of Squantum Sunday morning and participated in a memorial ceremony for deceased members of the post.

Commander Donald Ross led the men into the church. Color-bearers were Jack Kelly and Tony Wolawitz. Color guards were Wallace Griffiths and Dave Mercier. Also attending were Mayor Francis McCauley and State Rep. Michael Morrissey.

Richard Hendry, post chaplain, read a list of the names of the deceased comrades. This necrology was followed by a moment of silent prayer and then a memorial prayer by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin.

Hymns sung were "God of Our Fathers, Whose Almighty Hand," "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," "O Beautiful for Spacious Skies" and "God of Grace and God of Glory."

Accompanied by James

E. Sumner on the violin and Mary Ruth Scott on the piano, the Youth Choir and the Chancel Choir combined to sing, "This Is The Day of The Lord" by Walter W. Schurr.

Dr. Langevin preached a sermon on the question, "Which Christ Do You Follow?", taking his text from the New Testament story of the rich young ruler.

Greeters for the morning were Warren and Marjorie Miller. Ushers were Tore Wallin and Leon MacIntyre. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Adelaide Nelson and Renee Johnson.

During the early service, Dr. Langevin spoke on the subject, "How Are You Growing Spiritually?" Sarah Mildram led the opening prayer. Leaders of the prayer of the congregation were Dianne Ahearn, Bonnie Adams, Annabelle Lombardi, Gretchen Bumpus and Hazel Mayne. Barbara Walters gave the prayer of dedication. Tom Adams and Mark Williams served as ushers. Guitarists were Steve Williams and Mary Ruth Scott.

No "Faith Group" was scheduled to meet Wednesday evening of this week because of a meeting of the Board of Deacons that night.

Last week, the group gathered with the pastor to watch a Ch. 3 television program on what the effects would be if a nuclear bomb were dropped on Squantum.

Afterwards, the group discussed the nuclear freeze now being debated by the U.S. House of Representatives. Dr. Langevin has endorsed the freeze from the pulpit.

There will be two services next Sunday morning, the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m.

The sermon at the first service will be entitled, "What Is Success Anyway?" The sermon at the second service will be "Three Ways of Being God."

Cable delivers. Just ask the Rabbit.

In high school, John Baldassini was so quick on the athletic field that he was labeled the Rabbit. That was 42 years ago. Today the Rabbit still gets around. Delivering mail on the same 3½ mile route in North Quincy to over 375 homes. The name has stuck and so has his love of sports.

So it was only natural that when cable came to Quincy that the Rabbit ran to cable. "It brings me all the sports I could possibly want. Twenty-four hours a day. Celtic games and title fights that aren't on regular TV. Games from as far away as Atlanta and as close as Quincy. There are even two channels with nothing but sports.

In fact, I became so involved with the programs that we had cable installed for my wife. Then my son and daughter. Everyone found something that they liked. It seemed a shame not to be able to see them all."

So, the Baldassini's became a three-cable family. The Eyes of Quincy show them their neighborhood, show them the world. Sports, health, music, films, you name it. The Rabbit and his family have it. It's just a hop, skip and a jump away.

To Aid Children's Hospital 'I Love Children's Week' June 6-12 In Quincy

Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston will be able to do its job just a little bit better thanks to the support of a newly formed Quincy group.

The Young People's Committee of Quincy is planning an "I Love Children's Week" June 6 to 12 to help support the hospital's programs which will include a new facility for the treatment of suicidal adults.

Stephen O'Rourke is chairman of the event which will include bloodmobiles at various locations. The "grand finale" Sunday, June 12, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. will include a celebrity softball game at Montclair Field and events such as baby races, pie eating contests, pony rides and refreshments.

There will also be a drawing.

The Young People's Committee is a newly formed, non-profit charitable organization developed to organize government, business organizations, businesses, community organizations and individuals to plan and run the children's week.

The event is sponsored by the North Quincy Business and Professional Association, Brendan Gallagher, President; the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, Thomas Nutley, president, Patricia Yovino, director; and Mayor Francis McCauley.

The committee meets Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. in North Quincy High School's trophy room.

For more information, contact Stephen O'Rourke, or Brendan Gallagher, 328-8399 or 328-3770, John F. Hynds, Jr., 328-3325, or Patricia Yovino, 773-1380, ext. 338.

Quincy Has First Tiger Cub Group At H.N. Church

The first Tiger Cub Group in Quincy belongs to Houghs Neck Congregational Church which also has Cub Scout Pack 6 and Boy Scout Troop 6.

The Tiger Cub program was introduced nation-wide this fall by the Boy Scouts of America. A one year, family-oriented program prior to being graduated into the Cub Scout program, it is made up of activities designed for boys in the second grade to do at home with the rest of the family.

The Houghs Neck group meets monthly for a group activity and a chance for the Tiger Cubs to share their family activities with the other Tiger Cubs.

In the Tiger Cub program, every boy joins with an adult. They spend their year in Tiger Cubs participating as a team. The responsibility for the monthly group meeting rotates from team to team.

In the November meeting, the team of Kevin Kelley and his mother, Frances Kelley, was responsible for the group activity on the topic, "Prepare for Emergencies", the Big Idea chosen for the month by the group from the 17 Big Ideas in their workbooks.

Tiger Cubs is the first all-new program of the Boy Scouts of America since the introduction of Cub Scouting in 1930. The emblem of the new program is an adult tiger and a tiger cub side-by-side.

The official uniform consists of a Tiger Cub emblem ironed on to a T-shirt or other shirt that the boy already owns.

The program emphasizes the word "adult" team partner as opposed to parent. The participating adult in most cases will be the parent, but the boy can also be joined by an aunt or uncle, grandparent, and adult brother, or even a friend.

The program is organized in this way because of the increasing number of nontraditional families today.

W. Quincy Residents Renovate MDC Playground

Quincy recently attempted to clean up their part of the world by renovating an MDC playground.

"It's so nice and clean now," says Mrs. Tupe of the playground off Willard St. near the skating rink.

"Now people in the neighborhood are able to use it."

For five hours on a recent

Saturday, area youngsters and adults swept up broken glass, raked grass and painted the swing set. The MDC fixed the fence, according to Mrs. Tupe.

A resident of Hawaii for many years, Mrs. Tupe returned to Quincy and decided to solicit donations from local businesses, and city services to beautify the MDC playground.

"The Metropolitan District Commission is extremely pleased with the dedication and concern of the Quincy residents in being a force in maintaining a high quality for the facility," stated Mrs. Tupe. "Many thanks go out to the following for their participation: the MDC, Alquist Florist, Hancock Paint, Curry's Hardware, Quincy Police, Quincy City Park Department, Corner Variety Store, and Friendly's for donating ice cream for the children after the clean-up day," Mrs. Tupe stated.

Kelly Pleased With Ward 1 Improvement Funding

City Councilor Leo J. Kelly says he is pleased at the continued success of the Ward 1 Home Improvement Loan Program.

Started in 1981 with $40,000 in funding, the program has now grown to a funding level of more than $170,000, he notes.

Twenty-three loans have already been made to Ward 1 residents to finance numerous types of home improvements - new plumbing, wiring, heating systems, and siding - to name a few.

Loans are provided at five percent interest, with a maximum loan amount of $5,000.

Kelly has been working with the City's Department of Planning and Community Development to ensure the program's success. The Department, in addition, has been working with the Old Colony Bank and Trust Company, which, under the direction of Vice President Jean Shulenberg, has offered to service the loans.

There have been more loans provided in the Ward 1 target area than in any other neighborhood in the city, Kelly said. As residents with current loans continue to pay back these low interest loans, the proceeds or "paybacks" are being used for additional loans to new borrowers, Kelly said. Several new loans have already been made with such paybacks.

Kelly said that "with this revolving fund, it is expected that loans will be made for years and years to come for the benefit of all Ward 1 residents."

Quincy Cablesystems Donates $1,000 To Heart Association

Quincy Cablesystems has presented the Southeast Division of The American Heart Association with a check for $1,000.

The donation was the result of Quincy Cablesystems efforts to support the American Heart Association during February "Heart Month".

Throughout February,

salespeople for the cable company distributed the Heart Association educational literature to all new subscribers in the South Shore area. In addition, Quincy Cablesystems donated $1 from every new subscription acquired during Heart Month.

"We, at Quincy Cablesystems feel it is important to support the American Heart Association," said Frank Costello, Director of Marketing for the cable system. "Their research, education and community programs are vital to the health of the American people, and in particular our South Shore community."

"Heart disease is our nation's No. 1 killer, and here at Quincy Cablesystems, we want to do our part to help the American Heart Association win their battle against cardiovascular illness.

- Voted to request that Midas Muffler, McGrath Highway, appear before the board April 26 to show cause why its license should not be revoked because of conditions at the premises.

Cerasoli Named To TV, Broadcasting Committee

Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy) has been appointed to the Special Committee on House Television and Broadcasting by Speaker Thomas W. McGee.

The new committee was formed as part of the 1983 House Rules package to make an investigation and study of the manner in which formal sessions of the House of Representatives will be televised and broadcast to the public.

Currently, over 30 state legislatures have some sort of television coverage. The session of the United States Congress were first televised in 1979 and continues to be broadcast on many cable networks.

Cerasoli is part of the 11-member committee chaired by Majority Leader Representative George Keverian of Everett. During the course of its investigation and study, the group will explore all aspects of production including technical services, incurred expenses and publicly supported communication systems. They are also prepared to study and compare the radio and television procedures and regulations of other state legislative bodies.

The special committee will also develop rules and procedures for the governing of all radio and television broadcasts from within the chambers of the House of Representatives.

"Television is perhaps the most prevalent form of mass communication used for information today," Cerasoli said. "Broadcasting the sessions of the House will serve as an effective tool for better public understanding of both legislative procedure and state government as a whole."

Wine Reception At Grogan Business Machines

Quincy Edges Don Bosco On Sullivan Homer

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy's baseball team won only five games last year but the Presidents are off to a good start this season and, following a thrilling 4-3 extra inning win over Don Bosco Monday morning, took a 2-0 record into the game yesterday (Wednesday) against Silver Lake.

Coach Bud Mosher's Quincy team hosts Weymouth South today (Thursday) at 10:30 at Adams Field and next Wednesday will open its Suburban League season against Brookline at Adams at 3:30.

The Presidents probably won't win a more thrilling decision than Monday's nine-inning victory over Don Bosco.

Don Bosco scored a run in the top of the ninth but in the bottom half Danny Sullivan hit a two-run homer that traveled at least 375 feet and cleared the right field fence at Adams Field.

"This was truly a great one to win," said Mosher. "That was a tremendous clout by Sullivan and had to travel at least 375 feet. It was a nerve-wracking game and we had chances to win it before the ninth. But it is just a great victory."

In the top of the ninth Don Bosco had taken a 3-2 lead on a triple and a passed ball.

In the bottom half John Balzano opened with a single but was forced at second base. Sophomore Joe Conti hit what looked like an extra base hit but the center fielder made an outstanding catch. Then, with two outs, Sullivan belted his game-winning homer.

Don Bosco had taken a 2-0 lead in the second inning. In the fourth Quincy scored a run on Sullivan's single and Bob Campbell's double and the Presidents tied it in the fifth with an unearned run.

It remained that way until the ninth inning.

"The real story of this game is the pitching of Joe Conti (the senior)," said Mosher. "He went the entire nine innings and gave up only four hits and one earned run. He didn't walk a man and threw only 85 pitches. He also fielded his position flawlessly and he was given fine support."

Quincy collected seven hits including Sullivan's homer and single, two singles by Andy Eames Campbell's RBI double and Balzano's single that opened the ninth.

Quincy had opened its season last week with an 8-3 victory over Weymouth North.

The Presidents exploded for all their runs in the sixth inning as Eames pitched the first five innings to pick up the win and Conti pitched the last two for a save.

Joe Conti the sophomore drove in the first run with a pinch hit triple. Mark Chambers knocked in two with a bases loaded single and Balzano had another key hit, driving in two with a double.

North Bows To Abp. Williams On 2-Hitter

North Quincy's baseball team, which got off to a great start last week, struck a snag Monday and took a 1-1 record into the game yesterday (Wednesday) at Canton.

Charlie Bunker's Raiders will open their Suburban League season Monday at 3:30 p.m. at Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

After rolling over Milton, 8-0, North Quincy was held to two hits Monday and dropped a 4-0 decision to unbeaten Abp. Williams (3-0).

Bob O'Brien and Chris Bunker collected the only hits for the Raiders but several outstanding defensive plays by the Bishops prevented what looked like several other hits.

"They have a very good defensive team and made some outstanding plays," Bunker said. Quincy's Scott Mele made several excellent plays at third base for the Bishops, coached by veteran Connie Carozzi, an assistant coach for the Morrisette Legion team.

Jack Bolster started pitching for North and pitched a strong four innings. Jim Kelly pitched the next two innings and his wildness was costly as he walked three batters in a three-run sixth. Two runs scored on a bloop single.

Steve Hogan pitched the final inning for North and looked good.

It was a much different story last week at Milton when the Raiders hit the ball hard to back up the fine pitching of Bolster and Kelly.

Hogan and Bunker hit back-to-back homers to key a five-run eighth inning. Hogan's two-run blast made it 4-0 and Bunker's solo shot gave North a five-run lead.

Bunker, who had three hits, had an RBI single in the ninth (the teams decided to play nine innings instead of the usual seven), scoring John Kozlowski, who had tripled.

Bolster had three hits and he and Kelly combined for a four hitter. Bolster pitched the first four and Kelly the last five to get the victory.

"We did everything well in that game," Bunker said. "We hit the ball hard and both Bolster and Kelly pitched extremely well."

Sansatini, Giachetti Homer In Lost Cause

Babe Sansatini and Frank Giachetti drove in nine runs with a home run and a single each but the Quincy High School baseball team lost to Braintree, 14-10, for its second defeat of the season at Hollis Field, Braintree.

Sansatini stroked his home run in the third with Jock Ready and George Hoyt on base and Giachetti belted his round tripper in the five-run seventh frame with the bases loaded.

NORTH BOWS

Capt. Sonny Ela's grand slam home run treated the North Quincy High School baseball team to a 6-5 lead at the end of five innings but the Raiders were unable to hold on and lost to Milton, 7-6, on the Milton field.

North received a second setback in the eighth inning when Ela suffered a badly sprained wrist in action around third base and it was announced that he would be lost to the team for several weeks.

The North Quincy lineup included: Dinsmore cf, Smith lf, Conroy 2b, Ela 3b, Manning rf, Moody c, Pendergast 1b, Purtell rf, Regan 3b, Meyer ss, Bray p, Keene p, Hannigan ph, Darling ph, Driscoll pr.

Over 70 Star In Special Needs Athletic Night

More than 70 students in the Quincy Public schools demonstrated their athletic skill at the recent third annual Special Needs Athletic Night before over 300 parents, friends and staff at the North Quincy High gym.

The event, one of the many activities planned as part of Special Needs Awareness Month in Quincy, was arranged by Lou Tozzi, coordinator of special education, in cooperation with Mary Pratt, physical educator. Jack Raymer was the announcer and Jack Wier assisted Miss Pratt as referee.

The following students from the Snug Harbor, Squantum, Atherton Hough and Montclair Schools ran races, jumped over hoops and rode scooterboards in a variety of novelty relays:

Circuit training, soccer and floor hockey provided excitement in the second event. The following from the Squantum, Merry-mount, Atherton Hough and Atlantic Schools participated:

Team 1 - Capt. Dana Martin, Lisa Archibald, Lori Cinquegrano, Derek Cornell, Kevin Cunningham, John Farley, Brian Jabotte, Russell Kemp, John Lennon, Kenneth Lombardi, Scott MacQuarrie, Erin Riley, William Savage and Russell Walsh.

Team 2 - Capt. Robert Lalley, James Brown, James Bryan, Darrin Grey, Kevin Hirtle, Michael LaChance, Michael McAleer, Susan McGonagle, Elaine McKeon, Gerald Neal, Colin Nee, Tracy Prinocchio and Todd Stewart.

In a fast-paced basketball game, Jim Lynch coached his team to a 16-15 victory over Howard Mason's team.

Lynch's team was sparked by top scorer Mark Smith, Dan Troy and Paul Grant. Anthony DiBona, Michelle Germaine, Kenneth McCloskey, Richard Smith and Tim Jones all played well for the winners.

High scorers for Mason's team were Eugene Kvam and Margaret Goguen. Also playing well were Richard O'Brien, Michael Cassidy, J. P. Agres, Joseph Howe, Kelly Lydon, Scott Marsden, Tim Murphy, Joseph Ruscio, Beverly Schechman, Sean Wheeler and Diane Woelfel.

Awards were presented to all students.

Students, staff and parents all showed their appreciation to Mary Pratt for her dedication to students and the many hours she spent with them in preparation for this evening. Constance Graham presented Miss Pratt with flowers on behalf of the staff while students Ned Wickberg and Elaine McKeon presented a gift on behalf of the Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education.

Midway through the evening Mayor Francis X. McCauley read his proclamation of March as Special Needs Awareness Month in Quincy and presented it to Ann Wickberg and Julie McCarthy, co-chairpersons of the Quincy Parent Advisory Board to Special Education, I. Paul Marini, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library, and Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, Director of Pupil Personnel Services for the Quincy Public Schools, all representing the organizations responsible for the month's events and activities.

Adding to the festive spirit of the evening was the music of the North Quincy High School Band under the direction of Anthony Ferrante.

Members of the North Quincy High School Student Council served refreshments, some donated by O'Brien's Bakery.

BILLY SAVAGE makes an Olympian jump through the hoop in the relay races at the Special Needs Athletic Night.

Squirt B's Win S.S. Conference Title

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team, which earlier had won the state championship, won the South Shore Conference title with a 3-0 win over Randolph in the finals of the playoffs.

Mike Lally scored the winning goal at 7:11 of the opening period. San Manganaro scored the second goal with Kelly Morris and Bobby Scott assisting 17 seconds later and Joey Bevilacqua scored the final goal with Jimmy McCarthy, Jeff Freeman and Greg Hohmann doing some fine passing.

Quincy bombed Brain-tree, 8-0, in the opening round with Jeremy Burr, Hohmann and Jason Radzevich had two goals apiece and Bevilacqua and Mark Kelleher one each. Bevilacqua and Billy Lydon had two assists apiece and Hohmann, Freeman, Morris, Kelleher, Scott and McCarthy one each.

Quincy then rolled over Neponset, 9-0, as Scott and Morris scored two goals apiece and Lydon, Radzevich, Freeman, Hohmann and Kelleher one each. Manganaro had three assists, Burr and Bevilacqua two each and Lydon, Lally and Radzevich one apiece.

In the opening game of the best of three finals Quincy downed Randolph, 5-2. Lydon scored twice and had the game winner at 6:37 of the first period unassisted. Manganaro also scored twice and Hohmann rounded out the scoring. Bevilacqua, John Grennon and Radzevich had assists.

John Witham and David Mellyn were outstanding throughout the playoffs. Coach Sonny Pugliese heaped praise upon goalies Freddie Regan and Richie Brooks, who allowed only two goals in the four games and had an amazing three shutouts.

It Was A Win Weekend For Kevin Daly

Kevin Daly of West Quincy recently accomplished quite a feat when he won the boys 10 and under state racquetball championship and on the same weekend played a prominent role in helping the Quincy Squirt A hockey team to its second straight state title.

In racquetball Kevin, son of Jim and Barbara Daly, won the state crown for the second year in a row, defeating Jim Secandiani of Beverly 15-7, 15-11, in the finals.

Earlier, after drawing a first-round bye, he defeated Jimmy Smith of Pittsfield 15-13, 15-1, and Joey Feroli of Plymouth 15-5, 15-4.

Kevin's two older brothers and older sister also did well in the tournament. Michael placed second in the 14 and under division, his sister Tracy took third in girls 16 and under, and brother Jimmie, a former state champ, lost in the quarterfinals of the boys 16 and under group. Kevin was a high scoring right wing on the state championship Squirt A hockey team, scoring 67 goals and 58 assists for 125 points.

Kevin and three teammates, Matt Smith, Ken

Staskywitz and Brian Zimmerman, also played on last year's Squirt A state championship team, the first time this has been accomplished in Quincy Youth hockey history or in the state.

Recreation Dept. Basketball In Quarter, Semi-Finals Action

The Quincy Recreation Dept. all-city basketball championships continue through the quarterfinals and semifinals with plenty of action on all fronts.

In the southern division, Merrymount defeated Central's A team, 52-39, behind Tom McDonald's 23 points and 15 by Jay Moreschi. Central's Mark Dimattio had 15 and Dan McLaughlin followed closely with 14. Mike Carpenter scored six first-half points to get Merrymount off to an early lead.

Merrymount coach Gary DiNardo had high praise for Kevin Haddigan's defense and Eric Seaman's playmaking. Central Coach Brian Buckley hailed Anthony Rubnetta's overall hustle, the defense of Eric Marsters and the ball handling of Jim DiCarli.

Merrymount's joy was short lived as it ran into tournament buzz saw Atherton Hough and lost, 50-33. Steve Picarski and Steve Austin had 12 points each for Atherton Hough and Kyle Robertson had eight. Moreschi had 14, Chris Barry nine and Dan McCloskey three for Merrymount.

Central's B team jumped off to an early lead and never looked back as it rocked Point, 60-41.

Jim Phelan of Central led all scorers with 16 points. Tom Logan had 10 and Don Green eight. Mike Mulaney's outstanding defense was a big reason why the Cronin brothers, who scored 50 points in the first game of the tournament, were held to a combined 21 points. Mark had 12 and Dennis nine. Van Lester of Central and Keith McCray of Point did some strong rebounding and Point's E. J. Hartnett and Tim Brillo played solid defense. Mark Molloy did some fine passing in Central's scoring surges.

In Northern division action Beechwood Knoll defeated Squantum, 40-21, paced by Robert McDonald's 12 points. Kevin Duff had 10 and Joe Nelson six. Lance Panaro added four, as did Dan McDonald and Joe Mulvey and Paul Murphy had two each. Squantum's Dave Lawless led all scorers with 15 points. Mike Doherty had four and Doug Newton two. Don Gillespie played strong defense for Squantum.

Montclair was too tall for Atlantic and took a 31-23 victory. Atlantic was led by Joe Barresi with 12 points. Ted Stevenson had 10 and Joe Manning three. For Montclair Kevin Segalla had 10, Jeff Morris six, Steve Happs five, Pat Leahy four and Keith Segalla two, Mike Shield and Mike Ainsley played well for Atlantic.

PRETTY POISON

It may be hard to believe, but there are many plants that grow in a peaceful meadow, along a quiet river, or in your own backyard that can be labeled as poison just as one labels a bottle of ammonia or a container of furniture polish.

Included in the more than 700 species of plants in the United States and Canada that are known to cause death or illness are some of nature's most delicate creations: the oleander bush, the lilly of the valley, and the rhododendron.

Each year an estimated 12,000 children ingest these plants and others like them. A Seattle study revealed that 10 percent of 100 child poisoning cases observed were of youngsters who had eaten toxic plants.

In your garden, for example, even the foliage of potatoes and tomatoes contain alkaloid poisons that can, when swallowed, create nervous disorder and stomach upset.

It is essential that children and adults understand the dangers in ingesting plants which are not cultivated for eating, or only certain parts of which are safe to eat.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipefitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

QJC Rebounds On Dunn 2-Hitter

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team broke even in two games last week and took a 2-1 record into the game at Bristol yesterday (Wednesday).

Dave Burke's Jaguars will play at Blue Hills Technical Saturday at 10:30 and Tuesday will host Wentworth Institute at O'Rourke Field at 4 o'clock.

QJC dropped a 2-1 squeaker to Blue Hills in a well-played game. Pitcher Bruce Tobin allowed only one hit over 4½ innings but was wild as he walked nine and struck out seven. Gary DiNardo relieved and gave up the winning run on a walk and a double. Each team was held to two hits as winning pitcher Tom Richmond was outstanding, striking out 10 and not walking a batter.

This marked the first win for Blue Hills over Quincy.

The Jaguars bounced back to defeat New Prep, 7-3, with surprise starter Dan Dunn pitching a two-hitter. He struck out 10 in an outstanding performance.

Quincy didn't get its first hit until the fifth inning but scored two runs in the second and three in the fourth without a hit, thanks to walks and errors.

Tom Canavan, Brian Tobin and Steve Conley found the range in the sixth inning for the final two runs. Dunn and Rich Ventl pulled off a nice double steal.

"I think the cold weather is giving the batters trouble," Burke said. "You couldn't ask for better pitching and the pitchers seem to be ahead of the batters for this time of the season. I hope warmer weather will produce more hits and runs."

Quincy Girls Defeat Weymouth N.

The Quincy High girls' softball team has only two returning starters, catcher and Capt. Sue Dacey and second baseman Susan Morrison, but the First Ladies put on quite an offensive show in their non-league opener last week as they came from behind to top Weymouth North, 19-15, in a wild one.

Coach Barbara Webster's Quincy team plays at Weymouth South today (Thursday) at 10:30, and opens its Suburban League season next Wednesday at Brookline. The First Ladies will host Brockton next Thursday at 3:30.

Dacey and utility player Laurie Prescott are Quincy's only seniors as juniors dominate the lineup.

"We have some fine athletes, but it's a matter of how quickly they develop," said Webster.

Three key players are first baseman and former track star Beth Anderson, left fielder and volleyball player Beth Veneto and sophomore pitcher Cathy Thornton.

Juniors Diane Collaton and Andrea Griffin share the shortstop spot with Chris Cucinatta at third base, Peg O'Neil in center field and Ellen Thomas in right. Another promising outfielder is sophomore Diane DeWeaver.

In last week's wild victory Morrison was three-for-three with five RBI. Griffin had two hits and two RBI and Cucinatta had a homer and single and drove in three runs.

Morrison keyed a six-run fifth inning with a two-run triple as Thornton recorded the win.

Reception Sunday For Adams Family Book Author

The Quincy Historical Society and Oxford University Press will hold a reception for Paul C. Nagel, author of the recently published "Descent from Glory" Sunday, April 24.

The event will take place at the Society's Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St. at 3 p.m. admission is $2.

Dr. Nagel will discuss his author's experience and his subject, and will autograph copies of his book. Refreshments will be served.

"Descent from Glory" has been widely acclaimed for the depth of research into the Adams as people; people with human frailties as well as human strengths. John and Abigail Adams are shown as people who set very high standards for themselves and for their descendants. Nagel describes in a most interesting fashion how the striving to meet these standards affected the lives of the famous couple and all their family for four generations.

those whose meeting the challenge raised them to glory, and those whose effort to meet the challenge resulted in various degrees of failure.

Nagel is well known in this area as a scholar and speaker having spent much time in Quincy and Boston during his research for the book. He has held high academic posts at Missouri, Kentucky and Georgia universities, and is currently Director of the Virginia Historical Society.

'Archie's Place '83' At Abp. Wms. High School

"Archie's Place '83", a fund raising event featuring a collection of nightclubs under one roof, will be held Friday and Saturday, April 22 and 23, at Archbishop Williams High School, Braintree.

The event, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. each night, will feature a combination of entertainment, food and drink.

Each room will be transformed into a different entertainment area.

There will be an Irish Pub featuring the Tillermen; a 1940 USO show with the group, "Reminiscence"; a stage show in the auditorium and a sing-along featuring the school principal.

A casino, Ragga Room, a restaurant and silent auction will also be included.

Jim Plunkett will do two shows Friday night.

There will also be a Middle Eastern room with food and entertainment, an Italian room with food, and a stage show.

Funds raised will go to the school.

Tickets are available at the school, and will also be sold at the door.

Recreation Dept. Ceramics Display In Quincy Sun Window

Ceramics pieces made by over 50 youngsters in the Quincy Recreation Department Instructional Ceramic Program are on display through April 30 in the window of The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

The display features work by boys and girls age 8 through middle school in the Recreation Department's three locations.

Locations and instructors are: Beechwood Knoll: Nancy Joyce, Lisa Belcastro, George Dolbec, and Junior Leader Margaret McBride; Fore River Clubhouse: Carol Brillo, and Jennifer Seams; Lincoln Hancock Community School: Lori Prescott, Kathy Picardi and Janice Weinberger.

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch said, "The display is only a small sampling of the excellent work by the participants during the 20 week winter program, and many other pieces could not be used because of size limitations."

Those with pieces on display are:

Bobby Orr On Cable Talk April 28

An Evening With Bobby Orr will be featured on The Quincy Cable TV Ch. 3 program Cable Talk Thursday, April 28 at 9 p.m.

The former Bruins star discusses a wide range of subjects during the half hour presentation. Orr emphasizes the need for parents and organizations to encourage participation in sports by young people of all ages.

He says the stress should be placed on physical fitness, team coordination, development of leadership qualities, and not totally on the win at all costs attitude which seems to dominate some sports today. A volunteer film and production crew recorded Orr's remarks to local groups recently. The crew includes Steve Mitchell, Mike Green, Ken Runge, Hugh MacLeod, Kay Borek, Bob Gohl and Diane Solander.

WEEK OF: APRIL 21

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
You can be wearing several hats during a week that accents versatility and new responsibilities. Favor-seeking acquaintance tries new strategy. It's best to follow your instincts.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Financial complications, romantic entanglements get the period off to a hectic start, but the trend snaps by Monday. Financial bonanza and romantic celebration reverse the situation.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Hobbies are accented as a diverting and perhaps profitable outlet for your energy. Weigh pros and cons objectively as you approach a career or academic crossroad.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Good week to sharpen rusty skills and renew old business contacts. In romance, it's your turn to make the first and second moves. Be quick to recognize loved one's achievements.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Job rivals may be changing tactics — don't try to beat them at their own game. Long-term relationship should not be taken for granted — make an effort to enhance this friendship.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Don't be subtle when making requests, you can't expect anyone to be reading your mind. After a week start, a happy new friendship is ready for takeoff. Colleague is willing to compromise.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Virgo can influence your major decisions this week. Be aware of changing moods of friends. Out-of-town shopping spree or travel proves a diverting spring tonic.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Children can influence your major decisions this week. Be aware of changing moods of friends. Out-of-town shopping spree or travel proves a diverting spring tonic.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
On the homefront, tiffs seem a way of life. Libra's special brand of diplomacy is crucial. Accent should be on exercise and health — no matter how busy you are.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
Emphasis is on revision. Ideas and plans change several times through the week. Telepathy is uncanny. In romance take the initiative — even if it isn't your turn.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
Curiosity becomes increasingly active — and with good reason. Stay alert especially to changing trends in neighborhood. If seeking advice or information, visit top specialists.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Marvelous buying and selling opportunities abound through the week. Meditation and philosophical conversations help you formulate ideas. Insignificant issues become controversial.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Down-to-earth and dependable taste is inspiring. On the flip side, you're stubborn and self-indulgent. Good companionship and surprise talent highlight the year. You may be less successful at reaching short-term goals than planning long-term ones.

BORN THIS WEEK
April 21st, actress Elaine May; 22nd, actor Jack Nicholson; 23rd, actress Valerie Bertinelli; 24th, actress Shirley MacLaine; 25th, singer Ella Fitzgerald; 26th, actress Carol Burnett; 27th, actress Sandy Dennis.

Koch Club Baseball, Softball Registration Next Week

The Koch Club boys baseball and girls softball leagues of the North Quincy, Broad Meadows and Montclair Districts will distribute applications and register boys and girls interested in participating in the spring recreational program for 1983.

Officials will be at the three locations next week to sign up any boy or girl wishing to participate in the 33rd season scheduled to begin May 2.

Registrations will be conducted from Monday, April 25 through April 28

Olindy's Raises $310 For MDA

Olindy's annual Lucky Total Contest collected $310 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Funds were raised by 50¢ donations made by entrants to guess the three-string total bowled by Olindy's Co-owner John Mezzetti.

Winner of the final drawing for a Paramount bowling ball and bag set was R.P. Jansky of Milton with a correct guess of 313.

MDA fights muscle disease through worldwide research projects and local medical services programs.

Olindy's Lucky Total Contest is one of the events sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Telethon Committee, co-chaired by Henry Bosworth and Dick Koch.

between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The schedule:

The North Quincy District sign-up will be at Cavanagh Stadium, Birch St., Monday through Thursday for boys 5-11 years and girls 7-13 years in the baseball and softball programs.

Broad Meadows registration will be Tuesday, April 26 and Thursday, April 28 for boys 5-12 years and girls 7-13.

The Montclair District will distribute applications Monday through Thursday from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. at Bishop Playground, Holbrook Rd. to boys 5-11 years and girls 7-13 years in the softball leagues.

The emphasis of the program is enjoyment with competition secondary. There are no tryouts and every boy and girl who registers will participate.

A $6 registration fee includes hat, T-shirt and other requirements for the season.

Boys and girls in any section of the city are welcome to join the Koch Club at whatever geographical district they choose.

To The Citizens of Quincy

We, the Quincy Fire Fighters, feel obligated to bring the following facts to the attention of the public. As Fire Fighters, our primary function is one of public safety. However, we feel that currently the public is not always safe.

It has become common practice to put Engine and Ladder Trucks out of service because there are no Fire Fighters to man them. Seeing Fire Trucks in the stations doesn't always mean they will respond when you need them.

There have been numerous days and nights when there is no Ladder Truck operating out of West Quincy and one less Engine Company operating out of Headquarters to respond to fires and emergencies.

Engines and Ladder Trucks that are able to respond to fires and emergencies are sometimes manned by one or two Fire Fighters. How much can one Fire Fighter on a Ladder Truck or two Fire Fighters on an Engine do?

Isolated Fire Stations such as Germantown and Squantum, many times have only two Fire Fighters to protect their area against fires and medical emergencies.

On many occasions the only way the Ladder Truck in North Quincy can respond to a call for help is for the Lieutenant to drive the truck because there is no Fire Fighter to drive.

Quincy's only Rescue Truck has always been manned by one Officer and two Fire Fighters, but has digressed at times to no Officer and only one Fire Fighter. The Rescue Truck responds to many rescue situations and emergencies throughout the City, so we ask, can one Fire Fighter do the job of three in a life and death situation?

We, the Fire Fighters in the City of Quincy, have tried to show some of our concerns with the current Public Safety situation, and we now ask the citizens of Quincy to express their concerns to their elected officials.

Sincerely,

Quincy Fire Fighters Association

McCauley To Seek Mayor, Council Raises For 1984

Mayor Francis X. McCauley plans to request a raise to about $40,000 for himself and $6,500 for the City Council in the budget for fiscal 1984 that goes to the Council Monday, May 2.

"If you said that you wouldn't be far wrong," said McCauley Tuesday. He refused to volunteer the exact figures, saying he wants the councillors to see them first.

"I have discussed it with some councillors," he said, "but I haven't done any spadework as far as lining up votes. I have sent the council an update on what other cities have done on raises recently."

"What I will be requesting is not out of line."

McCauley disclosed that he will be asking for raises in the 1984 budget for the first time last week when he was interviewed on the show "Newsmakers" on Quincy Cable Systems Channel 3. He amplified his statements in an interview with The Quincy Sun.

"We've been monitoring what is going on in the cities of Massachusetts. Most mayors are underpaid. A number of cities have raised their mayor's salaries effective Jan. 1, 1983."

Last year, the mayor submitted a proposal to the Council for a raise for the mayor from $25,000 to $48,500 and an increase for the Council from $3,500 to $7,500 but it was defeated in Council.

McCauley also told interviewers in the wide-ranging interview that he hopes the City Council will pass his validated parking proposals at its May 2 meeting.

"Comments by the City Council indicates a majority of the members will vote for the plan," he said.

He said the proposed parking contract with Kinney Systems of Boston has not yet been finalized and one of the things being worked out is an escape clause for the city if the plan doesn't work out.

The mayor said there was no evidence that Forestry Supt. John Koegler, who was suspended for taking gasoline from the Public Works pump without signing for it, was taking it for anything other than city purposes.

"But he is a leader in the city and we expect people like that to follow the rules, to set a good example for the rank and file," he said.

"What we really need down there is a computerized system and we plan to do that when we get to that point in our automation under the Data Processing Department."

"We are going to tighten up the procedure for the

Sickness, Injuries High

$256,000 In Budget For Fire Overtime

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has placed $256,000 in the budget for fiscal 1984 to cover overtime for firefighters but, like the $250,000 that was appropriated last year, it is not expected to last long.

The McCauley budget is scheduled to go to the City Council Monday, May 2.

Firefighter overtime has become the subject of some controversy in the past week in the wake of charges by the firefighters union that the state of manpower in the department is such that "the public is not always safe."

"There is no district in the city without fire protection," said Chief Edward Barry, although he acknowledged that he has not been able to fill in for sick and injured men since the overtime account ran out last December.

And sickness and injury in the Fire Department is running high.

Barry said that there have been 3,992 absentee days in his department in the first 298 days of fiscal 1983. The figure does not include vacation time.

"It is up considerably over last year," said Barry, although he added he did not have last year's figures immediately at hand.

McCauley said it costs the city $141 a day to bring a firefighter in for overtime, $197.40 if the overtime is at night. Overtime for officers ranges up to $262.40 a day and $367.36 a night for deputy fire chiefs.

"A quarter of a million dollars doesn't last long under those circumstances," said McCauley. "And with Proposition 2½, we can't

City To Bypass Prop. 2½ Bypass

Quincy probably will not take advantage of the opportunity presented by the State Legislature to spread out third year cuts in the tax levy over two years.

"We don't really need it," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley Tuesday, as the so-called Proposition 2½ bypass bill neared final passage and the governor's signature.

Prop. 2½ requires that municipalities cut their tax levies 15 per cent a year until the statutory 2.5 per cent of total property valuation is reached.

The bill nearing the status of law would permit 11 cities and towns, including Quincy, to split the third year's 15 per cent cut into two years of 7.5 per cent cuts.

"Based on the figures at my disposal now," said McCauley, "we are only going to have to cut 6 per cent in this, the final year of cuts."

The tax levy reflected in the budget he plans to send to the City Council Monday, May 2, will be down by $2.9 million to reach a floor of $45.4, or 2.5 per cent of the city's estimated valuation.

"It is a budget that I am comfortable with," said the mayor.

McCauley indicated a difference of opinion with Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, who told the South Shore Chamber of Commerce legislative breakfast last week that "Quincy is in the worse financial condition of any city in this state."

"The future looks bright, if we can settle this General Dynamics situation," said the mayor.

"We have been able to live within Proposition 2½. We are going in the right direction. For the first time we had no revenue deficit in fiscal 1982. We are making progress."

The city owes General Dynamics a court-ordered $12,225,000 in tax abatements. A payment schedule is currently being negotiated with the firm. McCauley has promised an announcement in two to four weeks.

MDC, City To Meet On QSD Traffic Problems

William J. Geary, the new MDC commissioner, has called a meeting of Quincy city officials Wednesday, May 4, at 8 p.m. in the Beechwood Knoll Community Life Center to discuss traffic problems and road conditions on Quincy Shore Drive.

"It is now time to involve community leaders before a final decision is made and implemented this summer regarding Quincy Shore Drive," said Geary, who lives in Wollaston himself.

Asked to attend the meeting and present suggestions were Sen. Paul D. Harold, Reps. Michael W. Morrissey and Thomas F. Brownell, and City Councillors Patricia Toland, Stephen McGrath, Joanne Condon and Leo J. Kelly.

Geary said representatives of various civic organizations also have been invited and that maintenance of the beach area will also be discussed.

"Our agency has taken an in-depth look at the traffic and street lighting as it affects the traffic flow and safety of the citizens in the area," said Geary.

"We have also considered the degree of police presence and its potential effect as a deterrent to drivers who exceed the speed limit regularly."

Chief Finn Returns

Police Chief Francis X. Finn returned to duty Monday, nearly four months after undergoing quadruple bypass heart surgery at New England Deaconess Hospital.

Finn, 57, entered the hospital Dec. 26 and the surgery was performed Dec. 29. Capt. Roy Cavicchi was acting chief during Finn's absence.

SCORES OF FISHERMEN, many from outside Quincy, get an early spring start fishing for flounders off the shores of Wollaston Beach. The experts say the flounders are emerging from their mud flats this early because of the unusual temperature of the water due to a rather mild winter. During the summer season hordes of outsiders as far away as New York and New Jersey flock to Quincy shores for flounder fishing.

Board Continues Reggie's Hearing

By NANCY McATGILIN
The License Board voted Tuesday to continue to May 10 a hearing regarding alleged violations that occurred at Reggie's Inc., 7-9 Copeland St., West Quincy.

The hearing was continued so that police officer William Laneragan and Cheryl Egan of West Quincy can appear at the next meeting.

Quincy Police Lt. David Rowell, chief of detectives, told the board the Feb. 18 incident involved a possible gun shot according to the report he received.

Rowell said that when police responded to the night time call from the bar, they found Reggie's front door dead-bolted. Police had assumed the bar would be open for business at that hour, Rowell said.

Police questioned bartender Frank Morris, according to Rowell, and found him "very evasive."

"There was a total lack of cooperation according to the report," Rowell said.

Napkins with apparent bloodstains were found in the bar, Rowell said, and officers found a bullet hole in a pool table and, nearby on the floor, a fragment from a .38 caliber-type fire arm.

Det. Robert Miller said that Morris told him he was downstairs getting beer when the alleged incident took place and heard a sound he thought was a cuestick being broken.

Miller said he also questioned Morris about serving a minor, Miss Egan. Morris, a bartender at Reggie's for one and half years, denied the report.

Morris said he was told that shots were fired so he cleared the bar, Miller told the board.

Miller also said that Morris answered all his questions.

Atty. Irving Sheff, representing Reggie's, attempted to refute earlier testimony by pointing out the blood on the napkins wasn't proved to be from a bullet.

"It could be from a nosebleed," said Sheff who also pointed out that the investigation did not determine how old the fragment was and when it was fired.

Sheff said that the hole in the pool table was never tested to see if it was a bullet hole.

"Everything you say is hearsay," Sheff told Rowell.

The board recessed for more than 20 minutes so that Sheff could read the police report and an affidavit by officer Laneragan regarding the incident.

Sheff said he would like to interrogate Laneragan.

Ward Councillor James Sheets said that he has remarks to give on the incident, but will wait until the May 10 hearing.

Donut King

Extension Continued

A request from Donut King, Inc., 151 Copeland St., West Quincy, for extension of the common victualer license was continued to May 10 by the License Board.

Owner Joseph L. Melchione was instructed to meet with ward councillor James Sheets and neighbors to work out problems such as parking.

Atty. Brian Shontz said that the addition, directly behind the existing building, would be for storage and a private office and would not increase business.

"It appears that Melchione has not been too cooperative," said Fire Chief Edward Barry who explained a trailer has not been removed as directed by Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

Housing Rehab Money Available For Point

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristoforo announces that the Department of Planning and Community Development has made the Housing Rehabilitation Loan Program available to residents of Quincy Point.

The program is designed to assist low and moderate income single and two-family homeowners by offering a maximum of $5,000 to be paid back over a period of five years at an interest rate of 5 per cent. The loans are serviced by several local banks.

These loans are available for the structural rehabilitation of the home so that all health and safety hazards are eliminated and each home brought up to standards of the Quincy Building Code and the State Sanitary Code.

Also, minor carpentry work, installation of insulation or other energy conservation measures as approved by the Quincy Housing Rehabilitation Office can qualify for loans.

For further information contact Quincy Housing Rehabilitation Office, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy 02169 or call 773-1380, Ext. 398.

Metro Water-Sewer Board Proposed In Brownell Bill

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell says creation of a Metropolitan Water and Sewer Authority would "depoliticize the function, which is a major cause of its problems under the MDC."

Brownell testified before the Legislative Committee on Housing and Urban Development in favor of his bill that would strip the MDC of water and sewer functions and vest it in a seven-member board.

"The failure of the MDC to effectively manage its water and sewer responsibilities has resulted in inadequate staffing, no preventive maintenance and a system in total disarray," said Brownell.

"The reason is that it is difficult to deal with basic public services on a political basis. The intent of this bill is to depoliticize the metropolitan water and sewer functions."

"The provisions of this bill would effectively insulate the water and sewer functions from the day-to-day executive and legislative politics which has brought current MDC services to an all time low.

"We need technical management, not political meddling."

The bill, which Brownell called his major legislation for the year, would set up a seven-member authority, appointed by the governor, who would then choose a certified public engineer as executive director.

Board Grants Rosie's Hours Extension

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Citing a "good track record", the License Board voted Tuesday to grant an extension of hours for Rosie's at the Wollaston Recreational Facility.

Rosie's can now open at noon Sundays, instead of 1 p.m., and can remain open until 10 p.m. during the week, rather than closing at 9 p.m.

Atty. James Shannon said that people from the neighborhood are frequenting Rosie's which is "not being operated as a bar or lounge."

Facility administrator John Nourse said that the later closing would accommodate golfers who finish a round of golf at night and would like a snack.

"You know what a staggering effort it was to get the license," said Fire Chief Edward Barry.

"You've had a good track record. Hopefully, it will continue."

Health Fair Draws 325 For Testing

More than 325 residents of Quincy were tested for various physical ailments and deficiencies Monday at a Health Fair in the second floor conference room at City Hall.

The Health Fair was organized by William Henderson, community relations director of City Hospital, and was staffed by hospital doctors, nurses, technicians and volunteers.

Among the tests were those for high blood pressure, vision, height, weight and blood. The latter test required an $8 fee.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said similar Health Fairs may be held again from time to time.

Brownell Defends Prop. 2½ Bypass Vote

"I don't know if you know it or not," said Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, "but the city of Quincy is in the worst financial condition of any city in this state."

And that, he told the annual legislative breakfast of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, at the Lantana, Randolph, is why he voted for a bill that would ease the third year impact of Proposition 2½ on 11 communities, including Quincy.

The resolution, which is part of a local aid package that would mean an additional $3.55 million in state aid to Quincy, has drawn the fire of Prop 2½ advocates as chipping away at the effectiveness of the tax-cutting law.

"This is not a repeal of 2½," said Brownell. "It's an option for 11 cities and towns to extend 2½ for another year. These are the cities and towns that have borne the brunt of 2½."

"It's a very serious problem in the city of Quincy, where we are faced with the General Dynamics decision which will cost $22 million. I don't know where we are going to find $22 million.

"I as a legislator have to do the right thing. My job is to bring as many dollars to the city of Quincy as I can. This package brought $3.55 million to Quincy. It replaced all of this year's losses."

Brownell said he thinks Prop 2½ is "a good thing. It forced local government to re-examine its priorities and make some very hard decisions."

"Primarily education has been victimized by 2½," he said. "In Quincy, the educational system has been decimated. There is a mass exodus from the public schools into private schools."

"And do you know how much money I saved this year on my tax bill? 300 bucks. 300 bucks for all the destruction, all the heart-ache. Who is suffering here? It is the kids."

"All we're saying in this resolution is that the City Council, if it has the courage to do so, can spread the third year cuts over two years instead of one. I don't think that's catastrophic. I think it makes a lot of sense."

Dr. McKeogh's Job Suit Dismissed

Dr. Robert P. McKeogh's suit seeking reinstatement as Public Health Commissioner has been dismissed in Norfolk Superior Court.

Judge George W. Cashman ruled that Mayor Francis M. McCauley acted within his authority when he fired Dr. McKeogh last year, for, among other things, failure to devote his entire time to his duties.

Dr. McKeogh also was accused of practicing medicine during working hours of the Department of Public Health and failing to meet the statutory requirements for the commissioner's job when he was named.

Dr. McKeogh sued for a declaratory judgement to determine whether the mayor acted properly in dismissing him. Judge Cashman ruled that he had.

Adams Building, Quincy School Nominated For Register

The recently renovated Adams Building in downtown Quincy and the abandoned Quincy School in Atlantic have been nominated for the National Register of Historic Places.

Planning Director James Lydon said such a nomination, when approved by the National Park Service, gives a developer tax credits that allows him to take accelerated depreciation on renovations. But all work on the building must be found historically appropriate by the Massachusetts Historical Commission.

The Commission made the nominations for the register and submitted them to the National Register Office, a division of the USNPS, in Washington for approval.

Politics, English Style

Picture, if you can, Ronald Reagan standing up in Congress proposing a social security cut and all the Democrats booing him.

Or, Michael Dukakis addressing the Massachusetts Senate and House of Representatives telling them he wants another gasoline tax and the Republicans sending up a wave of catcalls.

Well, that's what English Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has put up with. Nothing personal. It's politics, British style.

State Senator Paul Harold attended a session of Parliament while in London recently and found everything nice and dignified until "the answer period".

Thatcher, who is also a member of the Legislature and a Torrey (Conservative Party), then proceeded to be grilled by the Labour Party opposition. "All hell broke loose," says Harold who couldn't believe his eyes — or ears.

The opposition, for example, would ask her what she had done that day. And she responded she had entertained a visiting dignitary.

"And did you find time to help the people of England?" the opposition wanted to know as the heckling began.

"And why," they also wanted to know, "was the Queen Elizabeth being converted back to a cruise ship in Malta after service as a troop ship during the Falklands War."

Boos rang through the chamber from the opposition. The reason the Queen Elizabeth conversion work was being done in Malta because it had to be completed on schedule, Thatcher explained.

"And what about the poor unemployed shipworkers in England," the opposition asked, sarcastically. More boos and cat-calls.

Meanwhile her party tried to work in a few cheers in her behalf.

The session is not televised or filmed but is broadcast on radio.

The opposition, of course, wants to use the boos and catcalls sound effects to convey the image to the radio listener that she isn't doing the job she should be doing.

The election can be called at anytime and the campaign is limited to five weeks. So the opposition tries to make as much political noise as possible during the answer sessions.

Council Cautious On Validated Parking

A proposal to lease municipal parking lots to a private management firm, raise the prices and institute validated parking received a mixed reception from city councillors last week.

"Validated parking is not going to work unless there is a positive commitment from downtown merchants," said Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., who wanted to know what the merchants would put "up front."

Sandy Rounseville, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, gave the Council a petition containing the names of 120 businessmen who promised to participate in validation.

It was noted that the petition was taken a year and a half ago and some councillors said they would like to see a more up to date survey of those who would participate now.

Councillor James A. Sheets urged that the Council "either vote the parking proposal up or down quickly."

"We would be less than responsible if we do not act quickly," he said. "As I walk the downtown streets I see the Sears building vacant, largely because of the parking problem."

"It is up to us to promote ways to fill that building."

BURGIN

Plan E mayor.

Burgin holds an historic distinction among Quincy's mayors. He is the only one to go unchallenged for reelection. That was in 1940.

But he may have to share that honor this year with Mayor Francis McCauley. No major — or minor — candidate has stepped — or even inched — forward so far to run against McCauley this year.

McCauley, however, says he's going to "run scared" He still has "a feeling" that someone is going to challenge him.

YOU CAN SCRATCH John Barron from this year's City Council race. A former aide to Congressman Brian Donnelly and a member of the Planning Board, Barron had been considering a run against Ward 5 Councillor Stephen McGrath.

He's eliminating himself from the political arena this year because he's starting his own business and wants to give full time to it.

"But," he says, "I'll definitely run for something in the future. I want to get into politics and from what I have seen so far the City Council level is where I would find the most satisfaction."

SPEAKING OF THE City Council, two potential opponents are scheduled to put aside their political differences tonight in a common worthy cause.

Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon and School Committee Vice-Chairman Mary Collins are among the models for the Squantum Women's Club Scholarship Fashion Show at 8 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

VFW Loyalty Parade Sunday

A Loyalty Parade will be held Sunday in Quincy by the Bryan Post and the Department of Massachusetts, VFW.

The parade will start at 1 p.m. at St. John's Church, School St., and proceed north on Hancock St. to Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Reviewing stand will be at the Quincy Armory.

Thomas M. McDonald of North Quincy, past state commander of the VFW, is state chairman for loyalty day which was authorized by Congress in 1958 as a day to demonstrate loyalty to flag and country.

McDonald urges local residents to watch the parade.

THOMAS McDONALD

"There is no lack of patriotism in the South Shore area," he stated.

Sunday has been proclaimed by Mayor Francis McCauley as Loyalty Day in Quincy.

Lead elements will have these and many others from around the state: Quincy Police Color Guard, Army Marching Unit from Ft. Devens, Marine Corps Color Guard, American Legion, Viet Nam Veterans, Civil Air Patrol, Paul A. Spera, state commander, and his staff of the VFW of Massachusetts.

Massachusetts state commanders and county council: Thomas M. McDonald, PSC, loyalty day chairman, department color guard, Bryan Post 613 color guard and post; Quincy Veterans Council;

Mayor Francis McCauley; Sen. Paul Harold; Cong. Brian Donnelly; City Council and School Committee, invited guests, Marjorie Karlson, state president, VFW auxiliary, chief of staff, Margaret Aldrich, Kathleen Clement, loyalty day chairman, state color guard, captain Norma Avola, state officers, past state presidents, and ladies auxiliary of Massachusetts, junior girls units of Massachusetts, Quincy, Hott and Foxboro; Quincy High School band.

The Quincy police and auxiliary police will block off the streets for the parade route.

Striking Granite Cutters Leave City Seeking Jobs

A strike of 350 granite cutters, laborers and truck drivers entered its fifth week and a number of striking workers were preparing to leave the city in search of jobs in other stone centers such as Westerly, R.I., and Mt. Waldo, Maine.

"These men who are going out to other places to work will appreciate all the more the vast sums of money that Quincy manufacturers have spent on improving conditions in their plants," said Edward D. Marnock, secretary of the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association.

"We are so far advanced over other centers that these men will find it difficult to work under conditions they will see in other places."

The granite workers were striking for a 35-hour work week. The manufacturers had offered them an eight-hour day at $13 a day for the first six months and a seven-hour day at $12.50 a day for the last six months.

The Rev. Bedros Baharian announced that 24 young people from the Quincy Point Congregational Church would spend two weeks in Harlem, the Negro district of New York City, this summer, repaying a visit by 22 Harlem youngsters to Quincy last July.

$256,000 For Fire Dept. Overtime expand the overtime budget."

The cost of firefighters who are out with injury is particularly high, said the mayor, because the city has to pay them at the full rate for the time they are out.

"As of last Nov. 1," said McCauley, "the injury days are running well above the prior year."

For all of fiscal 1982, he said, there were 756 injury days. For the first four months of fiscal 1983, the last time a count was taken, the total was 581 days.

"The chief says we cover all the stations," said McCauley, "although sometimes it gets a little tight."

The firefighter overtime controversy got started last week when the union charged in a full page advertisement in The Quincy Sun that due to lack of manpower "the public is not always safe."

"Seeing fire trucks in the stations doesn't always mean they will respond when you need them," said the ad, which was purchased by the Quincy Fire Fighters Association.

"It has become common practice to put engine and ladder trucks out of service because there are not firefighters to man them."

Chief Barry conceded that there "have been occasions when a piece of equipment is out of service" but he added that it has not affected the safety of the city.

Barry said that fire personnel sometimes is reduced by injury and sickness and he has been unable to fill in for them because of a no overtime rule laid down by the mayor in December.

"The money isn't there for overtime," he said.

Barry said the department is about 39 men understrength, dropping from 277 in 1980 to 238 now, due largely to the budget cuts brought about by Proposition 2½.

use of city vehicles that go home with many people who have to use them in emergencies during nights and weekends.

"I'm sending out a directive to those individuals not to use the car for private purposes, on weekends or evenings."

In other matters, McCauley said:

"Last week one of the top 12 delinquent property taxpayers paid us some $211,000 in back taxes and interest, per an agreement. He still owes us another $100,000 that will be paid at the end of the year."

"We hope to wrap up all the contracts with city workers by the end of the fiscal year, including the fire and police union contracts which expire June 30."

"The $1.4 million pay raise that was promised the teachers in 1979 but was never paid is 'a closed case. We are negotiating for fiscal 1983 and 1984. We hope to reach a settlement prior to the end of the fiscal year."

McCauley was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McCauley, reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

MR. and MRS. FRANCIS O'BRIEN

Mr., Mrs. Francis O'Brien Celebrate 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Francis O'Brien of Pagnano Towers, 109 Curtis Ave., Quincy Point, recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at a party given by their daughters and held at the Nickerson Post.

The party was given by Mrs. Hans Christensen of North Andover and Mrs. George Flavin of Weymouth.

Relatives and friends came from the Poconos, New Jersey, New York, Cape Cod and locally for the celebration to honor the O'Briens who were married April 4, 1943 in Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy. Music was by Mabel Biagini at the anniversary party.

The couple received a Papal Blessing.

Mrs. O'Brien, the former Phyllis Grocott, has lived in Quincy all of her life. She worked at Howard Johnson's, and Dora Ferguson's, and Bailey's, and is active in St. Joseph's Sodality.

Mr. O'Brien has lived in Quincy since 1932. He worked as a bus driver for Eastern Mass., and at Sacred Heart School, North Quincy. He was president of Pagnano Towers for four years, and is a member of the Happy Wanderers singing group.

Both are active at St. Joseph's Church. They have 3 grandchildren.

'Didn't Follow Directions,' Koegler Says

"I just didn't follow directions," said suspended Forestry Supt. John F. Koegler. "That's it."

Koegler has been suspended without pay for 60 days for taking gasoline from Public Works Department pumps without filling out the proper forms.

"They sent out a new procedure," explained Koegler. "We had to keep separate slips on gas taken in cans or in vehicles. I wasn't filling out the slips."

"We always keep a certain amount of gas on hand in case our vehicles run out at night. It doesn't happen often when it does happen. It's always been done that way."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Koegler was given a hearing Wednesday and "it was confirmed that he consistently failed to fill out the slips."

Under a directive handed down Jan. 1, the mayors said, all persons taking gas from the pumps must fill out the slips, whether the gas is going into a car or a can.

"It came to our attention that Mr. Koegler allegedly wasn't filling out the slips properly when he came in with five-gallon cans," said McCauley.

AID AND PROPOSITION 2½

In the last two weeks, the Legislature has been trying to deal with local aid and its impact on Proposition 2½. I have received a number of calls on this most important issue and thought I would try to explain its full impact on both Proposition 2½ and the City of Quincy and its ability to pay its court ordered tax settlements. First, let me say that this is not an override or a repeal of Proposition 2½. The provision will allow eleven of our older and more needy communities to spread their losses over a two year period.

This is only a one time, one year, proposal to allow some of those communities who must cut under the mandate of 2½ to continue to cut and NOT increase real estate taxes while allowing them to continue cutting in future years.

This provision cannot be used without a vote of the City Council and the approval of the Mayor. The additional $3.5 million in local aid to Quincy should more than make up for a large percent of the money being cut by the City. There should be no reason for the City to even consider voting to defer the losses over two years unless the City must start to repay the money we owe General Dynamics because of the recent tax suit.

This is why the provision to defer the losses over two years could be critical to Quincy. It offers some immediate relief and a possible safety valve to allow the City to start to repay the $20 million owed. This suit has a bigger impact on Quincy than the Tregor Bill had on Boston. If we do not have to begin repayment, then the need for such a provision to defer losses should not be used.

Our tax liability and debt owed because of the law suits could reach $25 million, while our city budget is just over $69 million. Proposition 2½ has had a different affect and impact on different communities and may require different solutions for each community. I do not advocate that Quincy officials should even consider spreading out the losses over a two year period unless the Courts force the City to begin repayment.

Further, to turn our backs on some of those communities that are in extreme need at this time could greatly hinder our ability to receive any future legislative approval for a plan that would allow Quincy to meet its tax liability to General Dynamics and other further suits still pending.

I hope you can appreciate this most difficult decision, and if you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to call me.

Meeting May 5 On Sewage Backup Solutions

Solutions to sewage backups will be discussed Thursday, May 5, at a meeting between Mayor Francis McCauley and officials from area communities serviced by the Nut Island sewage treatment plant.

The meeting, to begin at 9:30 a.m. in the second floor conference room in Quincy City Hall, was called by McCauley at the request of Norwood selectmen.

Norwood selectmen and Quincy are planning a suit against the MDC to force it to improve its sewer lines.

The MDC has acknowledged that its sewers and treatment plant are inadequate, but says it must wait for federal funds to make improvements.

The Rev. Thomas Mitchell, grandson of Mrs. Rodgers, officiated at the Mass. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Donald M. Deware
Director

"Youth is not entirely a time of life; it is a state of mind. It is not wholly a matter of ripe cheeks, red lips, or supple knees. It is a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of emotions. Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years; people grow old by deserting their ideals. You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubt, as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear, as young as your hope, as old as your despair. In a central place of every heart, there is a recording chamber; so long as it receives of beauty, hope, cheer and courage, so long are you young. When the wires are all down and your heart is covered with the snows of pessimism and ice of cynicism, then, and only then, are you old." . . . (General MacArthur's words on his 75th birthday.)

Based on his description, and forgetting calendar dates - can any one deny that on the whole - we have a lot of "Young people" in our nation?

Recently I have answered many questions from people concerned with pre-arranging funeral instructions. The "Pre-Need" Funeral arrangement procedure is very simple, it takes very little time and has many many advantages. If you, or one of your family members have any questions concerning "Pre-Need" funeral arrangements, please feel free to call, write or stop by at the funeral home, we would be pleased to answer any questions you have concerning "Pre-Need" Funeral Arrangements.

Mass Fields School Fire

Fire Department officials are investigating a smoky fire at the vacant Mass. Fields School, Rowan Road, early Monday which was apparently caused by vandals and resulted in about $300 damage. Dep. Chief Carl Valenti said there were no reported injuries at the fire which was started in a pile of rubbish in a classroom on the second floor.

Low Interest Bonds Approved

Two low interest bonds to buy and renovate office buildings in Quincy Center and North Quincy have been approved by the industrial development finance authority.

Approval was given for a $1.8 million bond for Dimmock Realty Trust, owned by Frank Evans of Quincy, to buy and improve the Dimmock Building, Hancock and Dimmock Sts.

A $1.7 million bond was also approved to buy and renovate the Otis Elevator Building at 275 Hancock St., by Regal Realty Trust, owned by Ronald Cahaly and Ronald Carlow.

Approval is still needed by Mayor Francis Mc-

Cauley, the city council and Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency.

'Evening To Remember' At St. John's April 30

A musical "Evening To Remember" will be presented on Saturday, April 30, in St. John's Church Hall, Quincy Center.

A social hour will be held 8-9 p.m. Showtimes will be 9 and 11 p.m. A hot and cold buffet will be served between shows.

The opening musical number will be a medley from "My Fair Lady" by the choir, followed by solos and duets by Jini Collins, Vivienne Curran, Paul Forrest, David Fuller and Roger Laberge.

During the second half of the evening, Gale Fuller and David Fuller will entertain with favorite musical pieces.

Gale Fuller has performed extensively on the east coast and as soloist with leading choral and orchestral organizations in the Boston area. She is cantor and soloist at St. Ignatius Church at Boston College.

David Fuller has sung numerous recitals at Hammond Castle in Magnolia, Boston Conservatory and the University of Massachusetts. He has twice been a Metropolitan and Boston Opera finalist and can be heard in Virgil Thomsons' "The Mother of Us All" recorded on New World records. He is cantor and soloist at St. John's.

Accompanist for the evening is Bob Love, music teacher at Malden and Melrose high schools, and organist and choirmaster of the First Baptist Church in Malden.

He has given concerts on many of the cathedral organs in Germany, Austria, England and Holland, and has performed at the Methuen Organ Hall and at Symphony Hall, Boston.

Chairwoman for the evening is Phyllis Ross, assisted by Roger Laberge, ticket chairman. Mary Dilworth, prize table, and her committee. Tickets and reservations can be made by calling Miss Ross, 773-2213.

Laberge, 479-2431, Mrs. Regina Fruzzetti, 472-5147 or any choir member.

Rev. Wismar To Be Installed Wollaston Lutheran Pastor

REV. A.H. WISMAR, JR.

The Rev. Dr. Adolphe H. Wismar, Jr., will be installed as the third Pastor of the 52-year-old Wollaston Lutheran Church during a 5 p.m. service Sunday.

Rev. Wismar will also be installed as manager of Fenno which celebrated the 10th anniversary of its dedication recently.

Installing minister will be the Rev. Martin P. Dienst of Burlington, Vt., president of the New England District of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, and the Preacher the Rev. Gregory J. Wismar, Pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church of Lynnfield and brother of the installer.

Otto A. Staehr of Squantum, Chairman of the Board of Wollaston Lutheran Church Apartments, Inc. will read the First Lesson and I Bradford Hutchinson of Braintree, President of the Congregation, the Second Lesson. Douglas Annis of Wollaston will serve as Acolyte.

Master of Ceremonies will be the Rev. Frank J. Bauer, Pastor of Wollaston Lutheran Church since served as Pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, West Henrietta, N.Y.

In 1975, he was awarded the degree of Doctor of Ministry from the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School in Rochester, N.Y.

Since 1978, he has served as Regional Consultant for New York State for the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service. In that capacity he developed a state-wide program for refugee resettlement which resulted in the sponsorship and resettlement of over five hundred refugee families.

In 1980, Pastor Wismar was awarded the "Citizen of the Year" award for his work on behalf of refugees by the Rochester Area Chamber of Commerce.

Married to the former Barbara Fulling of Cambria Heights, N.Y., Pastor and Mrs. Wismar have three children: Timothy 12, Kathryn 9, and Julia 6. The family will reside in the church parsonage on Ellington Road.

The Bauers have moved to an apartment in a condominium on Sea St.

'Death Of A Salesman' At Squantum Church

Two scenes from the play "Death of A Salesman" by Arthur Miller were used to illustrate the pastor's sermon Sunday at the early service of the First Church of Squantum.

The sermon, given by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, was entitled, "What Is Success Anyway?"

Assisting the pastor in the sermon were David Williams, Diane Ahearn and Steven Williams.

Text was Jesus' question in the Gospel of Luke, "For what will it profit a man, if he gains the whole world and loses his soul?"

Deborah Stohberg offered the prayer of dedication. Sandra Ahearn and Tom McKim led the congregation in prayers of petition. Grace Holmes and Calvin Bumpus served as ushers.

At the second service, the sermon title was "Three Ways of Being God". The subject was the doctrine of the Trinity.

The Chancel Choir sang "Once More, My Soul", an American folk hymn arranged by Robert Roesch. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Greeters for the service were Hazel Mayne and Janet Sumner. Ushers were Tore Wallin and Donald Frazier. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Gloria Lester and Lorraine Josselyn.

The Faith Group of the First Church of Squantum will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss issues relating to the practice of Christian education in the church.

The only service at the First Church of Squantum next Sunday morning will be held at 10:30 a.m. because so many of the men in the congregation will be attending the South Shore Men's Annual Prayer Breakfast at Valle's in Braintree at 7 a.m.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin's sermon title will be "When Love Burns Out".

Bloodmobile Saturday At Star Of Sea Church

A Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Star of the Sea Church, Bellevue Rd.,

Squamton, Saturday, April 30, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Anyone between the ages of 17 and 65, in general good health, has never had hepatitis, weighs at least 110 pounds, and has not given blood in the past eight weeks may donate. Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross office at 471-5440.

Bloodmobile At St. John's Friday

A Red Cross bloodmobile will be at St. John's Church, School St., Quincy Center, Friday, April 29, from 1 to 6 p.m.

Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross office at 471-5440.

Jason Stone To Be Installed JWV Commander Sunday

Jason Stone will be installed as commander of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post at the 44th annual installation of officers Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Gratham St., Quincy Point.

Breakfast will be served at 9:30 a.m. The installation will then be held, followed by the annual memorial service.

Installing officer will be Oscar Rottenberg of Milton, past department commander of the Jewish War Veterans of the USA.

Irving Isaacson, past commander, will be master of ceremonies, assisted by past commanders David Minkofsky, Ralph Paull and Nathan Goldberg, and other post members.

Other officers to be installed are: Maurice M.

Freedman, senior vice commander; past commander David Minkofsky, junior vice commander; past commander Benjamin Rudner, judge advocate; B. Herman Shaffer, surgeon; Paul Bailey, trustee, three years, Manny Halter, two years, Herb Fine, one year; Julius Brooks, quartermaster; D. Minkofsky, officer of the day; and H. Solomon, adjutant.

S.S. Men's Prayer Breakfast Sunday

More than 500 are expected to attend the annual South Shore Men's Prayer Breakfast Sunday, 7 a.m., at Valle's Restaurant, Braintree.

The breakfast is sponsored by the Protestant Social Service Bureau, an adoption and family counseling agency serving South Shore communities.

Dr. Harrell F. Beck, professor of Old Testament at the Boston University School of Theology will be the speaker.

Music will be by "A Taste of Harmony", divisional winners for 1982 of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing.

Proceeds from the breakfast event help support the Protestant hospital chaplaincy program at Quincy City Hospital.

General chairman for the 1983 breakfast is Russell O. Barritt of Quincy.

Tickets for the breakfast are available at $5 through the Protestant Social Service Bureau, 776 Hancock St., Quincy or by calling 776-6203.

Larry Glick At Point Congregational Sunday

WBZ Radio Talk show host Larry Glick will be the speaker Sunday at 7 p.m. as part of the Pastor's Program Series at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington

Spring home improvements are a wise investment

Home remodeling is on the increase this year

Home remodeling expenditures will near the $60 million mark in 1983 to make it a record year for improving the old homestead, according to the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI).

Of that figure, 66 percent will be installed by professionals and, according to Department of Commerce estimates, about half that amount will be added by do-it-yourselfers.

Economy isn't major factor

And, it will happen this way even if the economy fails to complete its apparent turnaround, says NARI.

NARI is the association of the professionals. It includes remodeling contractors, distributors, manufacturers, utilities and the trade press, representing all facets of residential and light commercial renovation. It combines the memberships of the former National Remodelers Assn. and the National Home Improvement Council, which merged last year.

NARI President Neil Kelly, an Oregon contractor, and Board Chairman Sam Graziano, a New Jersey distributor, agree that the condition of the economy will not be a major factor in 1983 growth.

"The folks need to improve their homes. It's as simple as that," said Kelly. "Over the last few decades as inflation rates increased, homeowners tended to move into new homes to reflect their own progress. The higher prices of new homes now inhibit that solution, so the answer for the '80s is home improvement."

Graziano voiced NARI's expectations of an improved economic climate in 1983. "It obviously has started to turn around," he said, "with the dropping of the prime interest rate, home mortgage rates and consumer loan rates. That will stimulate action in the remodeling sector. It should also stimulate new home buying, and that is good for the remodeling industry."

When to remodel

"It is not generally realized that 10 percent of all homeowners do some remodeling within the first two years after they buy the home, and within the first six years nearly a third of them do some significant remodeling."

According to Elaine Murray, executive director of NARI, the $40 billion spent through professional remodeling contractors will go for purchase and installation of 2,511,600 kitchens,

ONE OF THE BEST HOME IMPROVEMENT INVESTMENTS can be the addition of durable solid vinyl siding from CertainTeed Corporation. The product comes with a 50 year limited, non-prorated warranty, offering the homeowner years of virtually maintenance-free living at a very low cost per year of service.

3,593,750 bathrooms, 3.2 million insulation jobs, 1 million room additions or dormers, nearly another million family and rec rooms, 2.7 million roofing jobs, and 1.3 million siding jobs. She added that it also includes 17 million replacement and prime windows and 12 million doors.

Murray noted that the public will get a better break than ever before in history "because we all are working to make it a better, more responsive and more responsible industry."

Professional quality

She said much of the association's effort is directed to education within the industry, adding: "Remodeling contractors are much more customer-oriented than they were a dozen years ago. They are more sophisticated both in business management and in service, and that means their customers will get better value for their money than ever before."

"But," she advises the remodeling-buying public, "when you go looking for a contractor, be sure you get a real professional who has a place of business and is a member of the community."

Invest in vinyl siding to upgrade value: it makes very good sense

Before making improvements to their homes, today's consumers are giving a lot of thought to the investment value of home remodeling projects. Words formerly reserved for their stockbrokers — "payback" and "return on investment," for example — are cropping up more and more in conversations with remodeling contractors.

Homeowners who are thinking about re-siding their homes often conclude that the installation of solid vinyl siding offers one of the best remodeling paybacks. A quick analysis shows why.

Wood frame or clapboard covered homes look fine when they're freshly painted, but appear shabby when they're not. To keep wood siding attractive-looking, it should be painted about every fifth year, say house painters.

Since even a small home can cost $2,000 or more to paint, it would cost $400 per year to keep it freshly painted, and a staggering $20,000 to maintain it for 50 years.

Solid vinyl siding from CertainTeed Corporation, on the other hand, never needs repainting and comes with a 50-year limited, non-prorated warranty. Although re-siding that same small home with solid vinyl siding might cost $4,000, the investment cost per year would be only about $80, or one fifth the annual cost of keeping wood siding in fresh paint.

What if you don't expect to be living in the same home for the next 50 years? Well, if you are seriously thinking about repainting or re-siding, you are probably going to live there long enough to recoup your investment in solid vinyl siding.

And, when you go to sell your home, you'll have a valuable selling point in that CertainTeed's 50-year prorated warranty is freely transferable to the new owner.

The reason CertainTeed can offer such a lengthy warranty on its solid vinyl siding is that it is extremely tough and durable. The color of the siding goes clear through the panels, so that even if the siding is scratched, the scratches won't be visible. And the siding will not peel, chip or flake as will painted siding materials, so touchups are never needed.

CertainTeed solid vinyl siding is a joy to behold, as well as to live with. It comes in nine attractive colors and in various panel widths, including an exclusive double six-inch size that complements most architectural styles. All the panels are embossed with a fine woodgrain texture.

To discover why more homeowners are investing in solid vinyl siding, don't call your stockbroker. Instead, write to CertainTeed Corporation, Vinyl Building Products Division, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482. Ask for the free booklet entitled, "Consumer's Guide to Home Improvements."

Springtime repairs made easy for lawn and patio furniture

With springtime just around the corner, now is the time to get backyard equipment in shape. After the long winter, it would be wise to see how well lawn and patio furniture weathered the storm and to make any necessary repairs.

One of the best ways to repair furniture made from wood or metal is with epoxy. However, up until now, most epoxies have been difficult to work with and messy to use. New from the Devcon Corporation this season is an epoxy in putty form that makes backyard furniture repairs a snap.

Easy to use

Un-Reel™, a fast-curing epoxy putty on a handy pocket sized spool, features Devcon's 5-Minute® Epoxy Putty in a new easy-to-use form. Simply tear or cut the needed amount from the spool, blend together between fingertips and apply to a clean dry surface. Both resin and hardener are layered together on the spool to make application easy, quick and clean.

Devcon 5-Minute® Epoxy Putty is extremely effective for filling gaps, plugging holes and making durable repairs to lawn furniture made from wood, metal and other materials. The fast-bonding putty sets in five minutes and reaches full strength in two hours. Cured material can then be drilled, tapped, sanded or painted.

The lightweight, compact Un-Reel™ spool can easily fit into a shirt pocket or tool box to be readily on hand for other quick, emergency repairs. Devcon's Un-Reel™ is available at most hardware and home center stores.

You can learn a lot about home security from someone who has a lot of home security.

Take our new home security system. It's run by electronic controls identical to the ones that operate the system in The White House.

But it's also available at a price virtually any family in America can afford. (In fact, it's available at less than one-third the price of many systems now on the market.)

It's a sophisticated, completely modular system that can protect your home when you're there—and even when you're not. It's specifically designed to stop intruders before they enter—and to warn you and your family before a fire reaches dangerous levels. It can even protect a woman alone in her yard at night.

We'll be happy to send a security professional to your home for a free home security inspection. He'll give you all the facts.

This year, more than 2.5 million homes in America will be burglarized. Hundreds of women will be attacked on their own property. And more than 12,000 Americans will die in fires.

It's time you found out more about home security. Because first families aren't the only families that need protection.

We're SURE your family IS as important as His. To find out more about our FREE home inspection plan, and to receive a free gift (because WE CARE about YOUR family) Call Today:

Wise homeowners know...

A good job: roofing contractor's best recommendation

As a homeowner, you're probably well acquainted with the many fix-up and remodeling projects necessary to maintain the appearance and condition of your home. And one of the most important areas to maintain is your roof.

All roofing materials, including asphalt, wood and tile, eventually age from continual exposure to wind, sun and rain. If your shingles are cracking and curling, or if there are noticeable spaces where some have blown away, then it's time for a new roof.

Choosing the right roof

Since there are several varieties of roofing materials on the market, you'll need to determine first the features you are looking for in a new roof. Knowing what kind of roof you're interested in is important because many contractors specialize in the types of roofing materials they install.

You want a roof that is durable and is backed by a manufacturer's warranty. Fire and wind resistance are important qualities in a roof. You should look for a roof with a UL Class A rating, which is the highest rating attainable.

You also want an attractive roof which will harmonize with the rest of your home. In short, you want the best roof your money can buy.

Consider shingle types

When selecting a new roof, you will want to compare different types of roofing shingles. "Choosing the Right Roofing Material," a free booklet from Manville Building Materials Corp., the exclusive agent for Johns-Manville fiberglass shingles, provides comparative information on the fire resistance, cost and longevity of various types of roofing shingles including: untreated wood shakes, tile, asphalt and fiberglass shingles. This booklet will give you the background you need to make an informed decision about which roofing material is best for your home.

Selecting a contractor

Once you have determined which type of roof you want, you are ready to look for a qualified roofing contractor. Select a roofing contractor as carefully as you would any other home improvement contractor. After all, a new roof is a major investment and, for most homeowners, a once in a lifetime purchase.

Start by asking friends and neighbors who have had reliable roofers that they have used. If that fails, turn to your local telephone directory.

CHOOSE THE RIGHT ROOFING MATERIAL for your home and be sure the contract specifies: brand name, time schedule, financial arrangements and warranty. J-M Woodlands fiberglass shingles offer the rustic appearance of wood and a UL Class A fire resistance rating.

Look under "Roofing Contractors" and select several roofers who specialize in the type of roof in which you're interested. You may also be able to obtain recommendations from the local branch of the Roofing Contractors Association.

Once you have compiled a list of roofers, call and ask them to supply you with names and addresses of at least 10 homeowners who have had new roofs installed over the last two years. Since a roofer's best recommendation is his past work, he will gladly furnish you with a list of references.

nish you with a list of references.

Check references

Call a half dozen of the names at random to verify the quality of workmanship, how long it took the roofer to complete the job, and the terms of the warranty.

As a final step, you may want to call the Better Business Bureau and ask for a "reliability report." This will tell you whether or not any complaints have been filed against any of the roofing contractors you are considering.

Compare bids

After checking references, you will want to ask the contractors to submit bids on the work to be done. Be sure that the bids include everything that is involved in the job: types and brands of materials to be used, services the roofer will perform, a time schedule for completion, financial arrangements and warranty. Review and compare the bids carefully before drawing up the contract.

Signing the contract

Now that you have compared the bids you are ready to select a roofer and to discuss the contract with him. The contract should include all the specifications outlined in the bid as well as anything else you and the contractor agree upon. Be sure that the roofing material is specified by brand name.

For example, if you have selected a specific product such as Johns-Manville Woodlands fiberglass shingles in the "Weathered Bark" color, it should be stated in the contract. If the contract is not specific and calls only for a "fiberglass shingle," you may be disappointed in the result.

If flashings and gutters are included in the price, they too should be stated in the contract.

Warranties should be spelled out and application procedures should be specified. Be certain that the contractor's application methods coincide with those of the manufacturer. Most warranties are contingent upon the method of application.

Also, know what kind of warranty you have. How long does it last? What does it cover? If there are any problems after the job is completed, how quickly can you have those problems corrected? Are those corrections included in the contract or will you have to pay for them?

Some contractors charge for material only, some for labor only and some charge for both. Be careful that all aspects of the warranty are spelled out.

Storm doors should be honey not honey.

A combination wood storm door with interchangeable glass and screen panel, points out the National Woodwork Manufacturers Association, can provide added thermal protection as well as enhance the beauty of your home's entryway. Available in a variety of styles, there's a combination door to complement any architecture.

More than half of the 15.7-million increase in U.S. households during the '70s, were non-family households — most containing only one person, reports the U.S. Commerce Department.

The rising incidence of separation and divorce and the growing number of young single men and women leaving home to live independently are cited as the major contributing factors.

The timing is always right ...

Insulation the key to year-round energy savings

In many parts of the country, springtime is the only time of the year when homeowners have a brief respite from the high cost of home energy bills. But, as soon as summer sets in, air conditioning units are switched into high gear and the energy cycle begins anew.

Spring and summer are not usually thought of as times to insulate, but more and more homeowners are realizing that insulation can substantially reduce the amount of energy needed to air condition the home. Insulation installed now can reduce home energy consumption for seasons to come.

Ten steps to save energy

To help you establish your own home energy conservation program, Manville Building Materials Corporation is offering a free, Do-It-Yourself Home Energy Audit. This 12-page, illustrated booklet includes a checklist of the 10 most important steps a homeowner can take to decrease the amount of energy used in the home.

A conventionally built home exchanges its interior air once every hour. This means that heated or air conditioned air inside the house is replaced by fresh air from the outside. In summer, a home can lose as much as a half a ton of cooled air per hour and in winter, about 1,000 pounds of heated air.

Air escapes through cracks around doors and windows, through holes drilled for pipes, ducts, electrical units and telephone wires, and through uninsulated attics, walls and floors. You can minimize this air loss by caulking and weatherstripping around cracks and openings and by making sure your home is properly insulated.

Insulation checklist

Your attic is one of the first places you should check to see if you have enough insulation. If your attic is unfinished and unfloored, but has joists to walk on, you can easily find the R-value of the existing insulation. It will be printed on the top or bottom of the batts.

If your existing attic insulation is loose fill, you will need to measure the depth of the insulation between the framing members. If the insulation is fiberglass, you can use the following guidelines to determine the approximate R-value. Other types of insulation may yield different R-values.

Depth of loose fill Insulation	Minimum R-value
3"	R-7
6"	R-14
9"	R-21

Once you know how much insulation you have, you can determine how much more you need. Just subtract the R-value of the existing insulation from the recommended R-value for your geographical area. Since R-values differ from climate to climate, you will need to consult your local building materials dealer for the recommended R-value in your area.

If your unfinished attic has a floor, use a ruler to poke through the cracks and around the edges to see how much insulation, if any, is there. If there is less than four inches, consider adding more.

Next, check for adequate insulation under floors, in crawl spaces and next to foundation walls. If you live in a climate where heating costs are above average, consider insulating in these areas.

ATTIC INSULATION can substantially reduce the amount of energy needed to air condition and heat the home.

Exterior walls are another important area to insulate. You can determine whether or not they are insulated by removing the cover from a light switch on an outside wall.

Turn off the power first. Shine a flashlight into the space between the switchbox and the wall and see if there is any insulation. If not, you may want to consider putting some in the walls. Your decision will be guided by the size of your energy bills and the amount of space inside the wall for insulation.

This is not a job for the do-it-yourselfer. Manville recommends that you consult a professional insulation contractor who can give you a free cost estimate and help you determine if additional wall insulation can be installed.

Choosing a contractor

Although many parts of the home can be easily insulated by the homeowner, there are some people who prefer to use the services of a qualified insulation contractor.

Select an insulation contractor as carefully as you would any other home improvement contractor. Start by asking friends and neighbors for recommendations. You can also call your utility company or a local office of the National Association of Home Builders.

To help homeowners identify those contractors who are professionally trained and experienced in installing home insulation, Manville has established an "Approved Fiber Glass Insulation Contractor" program. Contractors participating in this program must attend training seminars sponsored by Manville, have a minimum of one year's experience in the contracting business and demonstrate financial stability.

You can find a listing of these contractors in your local telephone directory under "Insulation Materials." Look in this section for the name Manville to find the approved insulation contractors and retailers in your area.

For a free copy of Manville's "Do-It-Yourself Home Energy Audit" (HIG-447), write Manville Service Center, 1601 Twenty-Third Street, Denver, CO 80216.

Worthwhile home improvement...

Install replacement windows to lower fuel use

The very windows that give you a good view of your surroundings may be robbing you of precious heat each winter. If they are warped, loose and drafty, and cannot be sealed effectively, consider installing replacement windows before it gets cold again.

Good, modern ones with a double layer of glass can reduce energy loss through old single-glazed windows by as much as 40 percent and cut maintenance to virtually nothing but periodic washing. Because of the fuel they conserve, they can be one of the most worthwhile home improvements you can make, and can soon pay for themselves.

This is especially so if your home is 25 or more years old, because older windows are not as energy efficient as the new units.

Popular replacements

Aluminum replacement windows, which are the most popular kind, have double glazing and insulated frames which help to keep costly heat from escaping to the outside.

Aesthetically, new aluminum windows are so diverse in style that you can either retain an old colonial look or give your house a facelift with a completely different type of window.

For instance, you can change the style by replacing old up-and-down windows or steel casements with modern aluminum horizontal sliders, picture windows, single-hung units (they have one moving section), or a combination of styles. There are also new aluminum casements which fit snugly. All these windows are lightweight and easy to handle, and the metal won't shrink, swell or rot.

There's variety in color, too. Brown and bronze-framed aluminum windows are almost as popular as white, and other colors can be special ordered. You can even choose one color for the outside of the window and another for the inside. These colors are permanently baked-on at the factory and the frames need no painting.

Whatever style or color you select, it's important that the window be thermalized. This means that the aluminum frame has a built-in insulating barrier between the inside and the outside. The break in the frame keeps the outside cold from being conducted inside the house through the frame.

This "thermal break" and superior weatherstripping are used in all component parts of the window, along with double or triple glazing (two or three sheets of glass separated by dead air spaces). The window comes completely preassembled with aluminum frame, glass, weatherstripping and trim, and can be installed quickly by a qualified technician.

When you're shopping for replacement windows, check their U-values. This is a standard unit of measurement for windows which accurately indicates the ability of its different components to insulate. The lower the U-value, the better it prevents heating or cooling loss.

REPLACE A DRAFTY OLD MULTI-PANE WOOD WINDOW that leaked air with this thermalized aluminum window with six sliding panels which keeps the house more comfortable year round. The low-maintenance aluminum framing has baked-on finishes—bronze on the outside, and white on the inside to blend with the decor.

The best replacement windows bear the AAMA (Architectural Aluminum Manufacturers Association) Certification label. It assures you that the window has passed tough tests approved by the American National Standards Institute.

While you can install aluminum replacement windows during the winter, it's wiser to select them now so that they will be in place before the cold weather comes. If your home is air-conditioned, they will also help to prevent the cooled air from escaping.

If you can't afford new windows for the entire house right now, you can still reduce heating or cooling loss by having them installed initially in the rooms you use most. Then, gradually, you can add replacements to the other rooms.

Remember, too, that an income tax credit of 15 percent up to $300 applies to this type of energy-saving home improvement.

Reformed burglar offers home security suggestions

Prepared with the assistance of a reformed burglar whose 25-year criminal career included breaking into over 4,000 homes, the booklet shows you how to significantly reduce the chance of your being victimized by one of the more than 500,000 suburban property crimes occurring each year.

Here are some of the tips offered:

- Make your home appear to be occupied at all times. If you're away, be sure the grass will be cut or the snow shoveled.

- Leave lights on—preferably controlled by timers automatically turning them on and off.

- Tell trusted neighbors and local police about vacations and other long absences.

Skylights can brighten, dramatize

If the windows in your home don't provide enough daylight, skylights may be the most efficient way to brighten up the rooms and create a feeling of drama and excitement. They not only provide natural daylight from the ceiling area, but visually enlarge small spaces.

Skylights have become increasingly popular just about everywhere in a house—hallways, dens, kitchens, bathrooms and even bedrooms. They are also being installed in additions to older houses where structural problems limit light from windows.

In an imaginative application, skylights installed in an old brownstone create an atrium effect in the foyer and in the duplex living room.

Most in demand are aluminum-framed skylights because even though the material is lightweight, it is strong and rigid and virtually eliminates maintenance.

The most efficient aluminum-framed skylights have double or triple glazing and thermalized frames. This means that the frame has a built-in insulating barrier between the inside and outside surfaces. The break in the frame prevents the cold outside air from being conducted inside the house through the frame.

Most aluminum skylights are factory prefabricated in a wide variety of sizes and shapes, but some are custom-ford from extrusions. Nowadays, flat tops seem to be preferred over domed units because they are unobtrusive and blend more easily into the roof.

These skylights incorporate tempered glass or plastic set into a rigid aluminum frame which has a self-flashing perimeter and permanent weather sealing. Interior frames have either aluminum or wood finishes.

They come in anodized, white, bronze or brown aluminum finishes with clear or tinted panels. The tinted or reflective glass or plastic allows for greater sun control without changing colors inside or outside the room.

In winter, well-insulated skylights reduce some of the need for electric lighting and admit solar heat to keep the room warm. Although most skylights are permanently sealed into the roof, some have vents and screens. These are particularly effective for removing smoke and cooking odors.

TWO SKYLIGHTS SET IN TANDEM brighten and add excitement to this living room. Each skylight contains one-inch thick double pane glass installed in a lightweight but strong and rigid insulated aluminum frame which requires virtually no maintenance. Here, the interior frames are finished with California redwood.

Wherever possible, a skylight should be installed flush with the roof of a building. Where the roof is pitched or there is an attic above the room, a skylight can be tunneled from the ceiling to the roof.

Such "vaulted" skylights were installed in a recent kitchen addition where there was a structural problem.

Because the addition has a pitched roof, the skylights were tunneled and framed out so that the new ceiling would be level with that of the original kitchen. Had the skylights been installed flush with the new roof, there would have been too much of a gap between the original ceiling and the roof. Two aluminum-framed skylights were installed in tandem over the new dining section and another over a newly created pantry in the working part of the kitchen. The pantry skylight cranks open to provide cross ventilation as well as extra light.

In addition to opening up the rooms to the sky and providing plenty of light, the three skylights visually extend the kitchen beyond its new physical dimensions.

Should you opt for one or more skylights, be sure you have the work done by a competent contractor who is experienced in installing them. His expertise as well as the materials he uses will help assure a satisfactory job.

Vinyl siding adds beauty, value

Although there are various siding materials available today, solid vinyl is one of the most popular.

According to the Vinyl Siding Institute, vinyl siding requires minimal maintenance, can be installed over most existing sidewalls, and adds to the value and beauty of any home from Colonial to contemporary.

Cable delivers. Just ask the Rabbit.

In high school, John Baldassini was so quick on the athletic field that he was labeled the Rabbit. That was 42 years ago. Today the Rabbit still gets around. Delivering mail on the same 3½ mile route in North Quincy to over 375 homes. The name has stuck and so has his love of sports.

So it was only natural that when cable came to Quincy that the Rabbit ran to cable. "It brings me all the sports I could possibly want. Twenty-four hours a day. Celtic games and title fights that aren't on regular TV. Games from as far away as Atlanta and as close as Quincy. There are even two channels with nothing but sports.

In fact, I became so involved with the programs that we had cable installed for my wife. Then my son and daughter. Everyone found something that they liked. It seemed a shame not to be able to see them all."

So, the Baldassini's became a three-cable family. The Eyes of Quincy show them their neighborhood, show them the world. Sports, health, music, films, you name it. The Rabbit and his family have it. It's just a hop, skip and a jump away.

Quincy Drops 2 In Extra Innings

Quincy's baseball team, which got off to a good start with two wins in a row, had a frustrating time last week when it lost two extra-inning games.

They were the Presidents' second and third straight extra-inning contests.

Bud Mosher's Quincy club, now 2-2, opened its Suburban League season yesterday (Wednesday) against Brookline and today (Thursday) play at Brockton at 3:30. The Presidents will host Silver Lake in a non-league game Monday at Adams Field at 3:30, will be home to Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday and will face North Quincy next Thursday, both at Adams at 3:30.

Last Friday Quincy dropped an 11-inning 5-4 decision to Silver Lake when Kevin Stevens singled home Brian Shea, who had tripled off reliever Joe Conti to open the 11th.

The day before Quincy appeared well on its way to its third win in a row as it rolled to a 6-0 lead after two innings but Weymouth South came back to tie the score in the seventh on Pete Sheridan's sacrifice fly and send the game into extra innings.

Weymouth won it in the ninth, 8-7, when Billy Jackson singled with two outs and continued to third when the ball was misplayed in the outfield. He scored the winning run on a wild pitch.

John Balzano had two hits to lead the Quincy offense.

Raiderettes To Open Friday

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' softball team finished with a 10-6 record a year ago and Coach Lou Ioannelli hopes to improve on that record with six seniors starting, all of whom saw a good deal of varsity action last season.

The Raiderettes were scheduled to open Monday against Cambridge Rindge and Latin but the game was postponed due to wet grounds. They will be at Newton North Friday, will play at Notre Dame in Hingham Monday, will host Waltham Tuesday at 3:30 at Artery Field and will meet Quincy next Thursday at 3:30 at Faxon Field.

"We have an excellent nucleus and, barring injuries and sickness, should have a good season," said Ioannelli.

Senior Karen Boutlier and junior Lisa Ventola will share the pitching. Boutlier was 4-2 last spring and Ventola had a good season with the junior varsity.

Junior Cheryl Murphy is back as the starting catcher, Suburban League all-star Mary Holleran, a junior, will play first base; juniors Ann Sousa and Sandra Whitehouse and sophomore Sandra Proude all will see action at second, senior Patty McKinnon is back at shortstop and senior Lisa Tenaglia will be the third baseman.

Karen Merrigan, Debbie Kiley and Sue Ayres make up an all-senior outfield and all started last season.

Sheila Graham will see service behind the plate in the outfield.

"Hopefully, with so much experience, we won't make too many defensive mistakes," Ioannelli said. "Offensively we have several good hitters and Holleran and Ayres should hit well."

The junior varsity is coached by Rick Hutchins and the squad includes Kerri Gannon, Michelle Cuervels, Ann Duggan and Valerie Papapetros in the outfield; Laura Miceli, Sandra Proude, Noreen Connolly and Carolyn O'Reilly in the infield; Jean Welby and Stacey Carvarlo pitching and Melissa D'Angelo catching.

Jim Lynch is coaching the North freshman team.

Quincy Girls Open League Season

The Quincy girls' softball team opened its Suburban League season yesterday (Wednesday) against Brookline with a 1-1 non-league record.

The First Ladies, with only two returning starters, host Brockton today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Faxon Field, will play at Waltham Monday and at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday, then will meet North Quincy next Thursday at 3:30 at Faxon.

After pounding out a 19-15 win over Weymouth North, the Quincy girls were walloped by Weymouth South, 10-3, last Friday.

Both Weymouth teams had been Suburban League rivals of Quincy until they moved into the Old Colony League this season.

Weymouth South is 4-0 and was sparked by Kathy Simpson, who hit for the cycle and drove in three runs.

Rain Keeps North Idle

The bad weather threw a monkey wrench into the North Quincy baseball team's plans forcing postponement of the Raiders' last two scheduled games against Canton last week and Cambridge Rindge and Latin Monday.

Charlie Bunker's North team is 1-1 with an 8-0 win over Milton and a 4-0 loss to Abp. Williams.

The Raiders host Newton North Monday, at 3:30 at Adams Field, play at Waltham Tuesday and will meet Quincy next Thursday at 3:30 at Adams.

Harold Tells What It's Like To Run London Marathon

Senator Paul Harold ran the recent London marathon in three hours and 37 minutes, a 31 minute improvement over his first marathon in Boston last year. Here he tells how the London Marathon is a little different.)

By PAUL HAROLD
All marathons, whether in Boston or London are the same distance - 26.2 miles - but that is where the similarity ends.

Boston's marathon is one of the oldest. London's is only three years old yet is already the world's largest with 50,000 runners competing for 18,000 places.

Participants were selected by lottery. The first post marked entries from 90 post offices across Britain were chosen. Many hopefuls lined up 12 hours in advance at the post office for the chance of being in the first 150 from each area.

The result was that more than half the runners were competing in a marathon for the first time, and most of them ran to benefit a local charity, raising more than $7.5 million. (Five million pounds).

The course is from Greenwich to Westminster and while there is no Heartbreak Hill, there is a minor obstacle of about one quarter mile of cobblestones alongside the Tower of London.

In transporting 18,000 runners from London to Greenwich, Charing Cross railroad station took on the look of a mini Dunkirk.

Runners were separated into two groups and transported to two separate starting areas, that merged three miles out.

Greenwich is where measured time begins and also longitude. Thus a unique feature of the race is starting in one hemisphere and crossing into another after a distance of only a few feet.

After leaving Greenwich, the route parallels the Thames River, crosses at Tower Bridge and loops through the Isle of Dogs. The warehouse district is appropriately named, but its bleakness is offset by the warm welcome of resident Cockneys.

"Com 'long mate. Atta way lad. Doing well 'lov," were the words of encouragement along that seven-mile stretch.

The last six miles were a sightseers dream. Red uniformed Beefeaters lined the route by the Tower of London. From there the course went through Trafalgar Square, under the Admiralty Arch (the side gate, since only royalty uses the center one) down Pall Mall to Buckingham Palace and back to the houses of Parliament at Westminster. Runners timed their finish on what is the most elaborate time piece for any marathon - Big Ben.

An estimated one million spectators lined the route, cheering on the runners.

With so many amateur runners, at times the race became carnival-like. I passed two "celebrities". One was a runner dressed like Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher (wig, dress, make-up). The other in a diaper, bib and infant's hat was supposed to be Prince William. The race also included two Supermen, one Batman, an ostrich, a topless woman and a 23 man company of Gurkhas (Nepalese soldiers in the British Army).

Two notes of local interest included passing near Hallow's by the Tower, the church where John Quincy Adams was married, and spectators holding signs - boosting local runners from Braintree, England.

Michael Gratton was the winner with a time of two hours, nine minutes and 43 seconds. Greta Waitz was the first female finisher, tying the women's world record, only to lose it the next day when Joan Benoit set a new world record in Boston.

And speaking of Boston, Michael Casser of New York finished the London marathon and rushed off to catch the Concord to New York to compete in Boston the next day.

and Jimmy McCarthy had assists.

The Squirt B's had a fantastic season, winning the state title and the South Shore Conference crown, winning the Presidential tournament and placing second in the K. of C. Tournament. The team was coached by Sonny Pugliese and assistant Ralph Freeman.

QJC Splits With Blue Hill Tech.

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team broke even in a double-header with Blue Hill Technical last Saturday and took a 3-2 record into Tuesday's Game with Wentworth.

Dave Burke's Jaguars will host Bridgewater State Monday at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field and will be home to Newman Prep next Thursday at 3:30 at O'Rourke.

QJC outslugged Blue Hill, 17-10, in the first game last week. Dave Bregoli started pitching and hurled three strong innings, striking out three and allowing one run.

With a big lead, Burke called upon an unknown pitcher, Joe Smith, who proceeded to throw junk stuff which gave Blue Hill trouble. "With another game to be played, I was forced to try someone to do some mop-up pitching and Joe was the one who came to mind," Burke said. "He did a fine job."

Tom Bowes, playing his first year of organized ball and doing a commendable job at first base, led the attack with four hits. Others contributing to the scoring were Danny Dunn, Rich Venti, Tom Canavan, Russ McIntyre and Dave Desmond with timely hits.

Gary DiNardo, the Jaguars' top pitcher and shortstop, was unable to play and was sorely missed.

The second game was all Blue Hill as Tom Richmond held QJC to three hits.

Dunn, who had pitched a two-hitter against Newman Prep, started pitching for QJC but became ill after an inning and Burke was forced to call upon Smith again. Blue Hill had scored six runs off Dunn on three walks, a wild pitch and a home run and Smith went on to do a fine job.

Brian Tobin and Venti were the only Jaguars to get a hit, Tobin having a double and a single and Venti a single.

Pee Wee B's Take S.S. Conference Crown

The Quincy Pee Wee B hockey team won the South Shore Conference championship by defeating Braintree in a three-game series.

Quincy won the deciding game, 5-1, for the title, as Jon Brosnan had two goals and Brian Mosher, Jim Lamparelli and Bill Dineen one each. Mike Toland had two assists and Paul McGrath, Brian Kelly and Terry Hack one each. Scott Cunningham and Jeff McClory were outstanding in this game as they were throughout the tournament.

Quincy had won the series opener, 5-0, with Dineen and Toland scoring two goals each and Hank Miller one. Mosher had two assists and Bob Kane and Tom Roberts one each.

Braintree came back to win the second game, 5-3. Dineen scoring twice and Toland once for Quincy. Toland, Dineen and McGrath had assists.

Quincy advanced to the finals with wins over

Scituate, 12-3, and Randolph 8-1.

The Quincy team didn't fare as well as hoped for in the regional championships in Buffalo, but the coaches and parents thank the following individuals and organizations for making the trip to Buffalo possible.

A & T Transportation, Water St. Auto, William Harris, North Star Management, All-State Vinal, Bay State Blackboard, Joseph Lamparelli, South Shore Bank, Quincy Police Betterment Association, High Rise President Pub, Beverly Reinhardt, Joan Donovan, MDC Police Retirement Fund, City of Quincy, Jamco Insurance, Somerset Pharmacy, MAFFRA, Cathay Pacific, Morey Pearl's, JAI Construction, PH Mechanical, Joseph Kelly, Paul Harold, Atlantic Fuel, Benjamin's of Boston, Brian Donnelly, Mike Erzuze, Dwyer Oil, Edwin Eilers, Quincy Savings, Mike Morrissey and L. Squirt B's Win Presidential Tourney

The Quincy Squirt B hockey team spent vacation week by adding another trophy to its growing list.

The team won the Quincy Presidential Tournament at the Quincy Youth Arena, defeating arch rival Randolph, 2-0, in the championship game.

With the game only a minute old, Joey Bevilacqua stole the puck in Randolph's end and scored the winning goal in its third shutout in the four tournament games. Goalie Richie Brooks took over, stopping four Randolph breakaways and Billy Lydon added the insurance goal at 7:41 of the final period. Mark Kelleher and Jeremy Burn assisted on this goal. Freddie Regan replaced Brooks in goal midway in the third period. The two goalies allowed just one goal in the tournament.

Quincy advanced to the finals with wins over Scituate, 7-1; Hingham, 8-0; and the Quincy C team, 7-0.

Bevilacqua had five goals in these games, Kelleher four, John Witham, Keilly Morris and David Melly three each. Burn two and Sal Manganaro and Bobby Scott one apiece. Greg Hohmann, Jeff Freeman, John Grennan, Milo Lally

CARL LEONE, Quincy's long-time athletic director, was selected as the Div. I South Athletic Director of the Year by his fellow athletic directors at a recent meeting at Dunfy's in Hyannis. Leone, a former Quincy High all-scholastic, starred in football at Brown University, succeeded Jack Donahue as North Quincy coach and took over as athletic director upon the death of Munroe McLean.

Quincy Tennis Team Defeats Weymouth S.

The Quincy boys' tennis team, led by a new doubles team of Michael Gray and Paul Rooney, defeated Weymouth South, 4-1, for its second straight non-league win last week.

The Presidents opened their Suburban League season yesterday (Wednesday) against Brookline. They are at Brockton today (Thursday), will be home to Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday at the Vo-

Tech courts and will play North Quincy next Thursday at the Wollaston Recreational Facility courts. Both matches are at 3:30.

Quincy won two out of the three singles matches with Steve Durante and Matt Tobin winning and Roy Delapaz losing. Quincy swept the doubles with Gray and Rooney winning as did Peter Cepas and Paul Hutchinson.

Rain Disrupts

Youth Soccer Schedule

Rain raised havoc with the Quincy Youth Soccer League Sunday with only two games being played.

In Division 6, girls under 12, Sew-Fisticated blanked

Aerobic Miles, 6-0, as Karen Miller and Deirdre Murphy scored three goals each. Jessica McKeon and Kathy Musso had assists.

In Div. 7, girls under 16, The Body Smith Shop and Patriots Insurance tied, 1-1. Kathy Foy scored for Smith and Kathy DeFrancis scored for Patriots with Eileen McCluskey assisting.

Kara Crehan Qualifies For NCAA Championships

Kara Crehan of North Quincy, an outstanding high jumper at North Quincy High for three years and now a freshman majoring in physical education at Bridgewater State College, recently qualified for the NCAA championships with a jump of 5-5.

The daughter of Mark and Patricia Crehan has been an outstanding member of the Bridgewater

State track teams despite being limited in practice by foot problems.

"Kara was one of the top high jumpers in the state while at North Quincy," said her high school coach, Lou Tozzi. "During her senior year she was hampered by an injury but it didn't deter her too much and she broke the state Class A indoor record last winter with a jump of 5-6 3/4. She also had a fine outdoor season last spring and did well in the state meet. She is a tremendous competitor and should do very well at Bridgewater."

Because of her foot problem, her coach at Bridgewater, John Lavery, has limited her to a maximum of eight jumps a day, making her NCAA qualification even more outstanding.

"Kara is an outstanding athlete and I think a lot of larger schools shunned her, considering her a risk," said Mike Storey, sports information director at Bridgewater. "She has been doing an outstanding job here."

Lavery, formerly of North Quincy, is a former assistant to Tozzi at North Quincy and a former coach at Quincy High.

Suburban Team Wins 3rd Tourney

In a long and exciting day, The Suburban 17 and under Juniors volleyball team, which includes a large number of Quincy girls, won its third straight tournament at North Quincy High last Sunday.

Eight teams divided into two pools set the stage for the playoffs. Suburban defeated a Bay State squad, 15-13, 15-7; Bentley, 15-12, 15-10, and Southeastern, 15-10, 4-15, 15-13.

Suburban, coached by Quincy High assistant coach Chris Prendiville, was missing two key players in post play, Merle Solomon, who was ill, and Quincy's Ellen Deady, whose flight from Florida did not arrive in time for her to play until the final round.

Due to a cross bracketing of pools, the two Suburban teams met in the semifinals and the 15-and under girls pushed the 17-year and under team to the limit, bowing, 8-15, 15-12, 15-13. Quincy's Marlo LeVangie, Kathy McGregor, Stephanie LeVangie and Terry McLoughlin and Brockton's Karen Mackinaw and Susan Tower were outstanding for Suburban's 15 and under team.

In the first game of the finals Suburban topped Southeastern, 15-10, behind the excellent hitting and serving of Ginny Tom. strong defense by Carolyn Leonard and Christine Gallery of Quincy and steady blocking by Quincy's Deady and Theresa Munroe and the ailing Solomon.

Southeastern gained the momentum in the second game, sweeping by Suburban, 15-4, to send the match into the third and deciding game.

Southeastern stormed to 12-1 and 13-3 leads, but Suburban battled back and, led by Gallery, Solomon, Leonard, Tom, Barbara Fain and Susan Beven, took a 14-13 lead. Southeastern had the serve but Gallery pummeled the ball to the floor, setting Suburban up for match point. Karen Marnell served the ball into play and Leonard, with a smart off-speed play to Southeastern's weak center area, scored the winning point.

Others contributing to the victory were Colleen Dunn, Lisa Cavallucci, Michele Quintalie and Michelle Perry.

Next Sunday at Attleboro Suburban and Southeastern will be rematched, fighting for a trip to the AAU Junior Olympics in Chicago.

Somersault Gym Team Second In National Championships

The Somersault Center boys' gymnastics team made a strong showing in the National Boys' Invitational championships in Allentown, Pa., finishing second with 153.9 points.

The Atlanta Gym Flairs won with 156.4.

The Quincy team took its share of individual honors.

In the 15-18 year old division, Carlton Noble placed fourth in all-around at 51.45. He won the national title on pommel horse at 9.0 and placed sixth in rings and parallel bars.

John Hill was fifth all-around at 51.25, taking second in vaulting at 9.6, fourth on floor exercise at 9.0 and fifth on parallel bars.

Mark Arnold finished sixth all-around, placing fourth on pommel horse at 8.45 and sixth on high bar and still rings.

In the 13-15 division Gerry Haren placed 10th all-around at 46.8, placing second on still rings at 8.6 and fourth on high bar at 8.9.

Robert Weil, Dave Johnson and Steve Wingert all had their first experience at a high calibre meet and did well as Weil scored 38.7, Johnson 37.1 and Wingert 30.0.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous shipyard workers, masons, and pipefitters of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

WEEK OF: APRIL 28

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Focus is on rebuilding relationships that may have been fragile through neglect. Pleasant romantic surprises arrive after the weekend. Recent community work brings prestige.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Important challenge greets you as the month ends. You may have to be bolder in your workplace, more honest in your personal relationships. Weekend includes some glamorous offerings.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Hunches are weak, so question impulses and follow original plans closely. Accent is on creativity through the weekend. Feuding friends or relatives seek your counsel.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Family discussion may grind to a standstill, but colleagues are supportive this week. Younger friends bring out your best qualities. Leo or Aries may step into the romantic scene.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Friday-Sunday accent family gatherings - getting there or back can be part of the fun. You're in the limelight, with opportunities to speak about favorite topics to influential types.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

This week you face important challenges with a professionalism that wins the applause of people in high places. Travel offers some pleasant surprises on the weekend.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Knowledge is the theme of the week - you learn from books as well as from the examples of higherups. Give ample doses of encouragement. Hunches are strengthened after weekend.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Thursday-Friday offer opportunities for joining club or new social circle. Weekend features unexpected chores and/or unexpected guests. Taurus steps into the friendship picture.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Emphasis is on the new, not the familiar. Taking trips to unusual spots and making new friends are highlights. Prepare for transportation/communication tie-up on weekend.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Though it's not your style, be less secretive in your approach to relationships with older relatives. Property negotiations are favorable; travel plans may be subject to revision.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Financial setback may be less unpleasant than it first appears, make no rash movements till you have a clear picture of the situation. New relationship is on a steady course.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

A deceptive sort of week. The impossible becomes child's play while routine jobs assume new complications. Weekend finds you in company of very important personalities.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Conservative in your approach to romance and finance, a trustworthy friend, often obstinate, always compassionate, frequently vague. New influences affect your philosophy during the next six months. Anticipated lifestyle change begins later than expected.

BORN THIS WEEK

April 28th, actress Ann-Margaret; 29th, actress Celeste Holm; 30th, actress Eve Arden; May 1st, actor Glenn Ford; 2nd, singer Engelbert Humperdinck; 3rd, singer Pete Seeger; 4th, actress Audrey Hepburn.

Batts Fires Triple Strike In Little Loop

Dan Batts of the Elks rolled the first triple strike in the 29-year history of the Quincy Bowling Little Loop last week, sparking the team to an 8-0 sweep of the Atty. George Burke Club.

With a week to go the Joseph E. Brett Club has moved to within two points of league-leading James R. McIntyre Club.

McIntyre's 4-4 split with Local 1541 last week was gained by a single pin in the team totals, 1067-1066. Brett blanked Bryan Post VFW, 8-0, to continue a fine comeback and have a shot at the championship.

Last week's other scores:

Wollaston Bowladrome 8, Atlantic Fuel Oil 6; Montclair Men's Club 6, Sen. Paul Harold Club 2; Dick Morrissey Club 6, Quincy Sun 2.

The standings: McIntyre, 120-72 (total pinfall of 25,401); Brett, 118-74 (24,864); Local 1451, 117-75 (25,367); Bowladrome, 109-83 (24,834); Montclair, 108-84 (25,321); Quincy Sun, 101-91 (24,456); Morrissey, 98-94 (24,956); Elks, 83-109 (24,898); Burke, 80-112 (24,210); Atlantic, 78-114 (24,180); Bryan Post, 75-117 (24,459); Harold, 65-127 (24,772).

Batts rolled the weekly high single of 132 and Matt Miceli of the Elks had the high three of 326.

The Elks had the high team single of 400 and the Bowladrome the high team three of 1113.

The weekly 300 Club: Miceli, 326; Jim Saley, 324; Neil Hatfield, 320; Brian Flanagan, 317; Tom Cook, 314; Batts, 307; Bill Denneen, 302.

The Top Ten: Hatfield, 104.9; Flanagan, 99.9; Saley, 99.5; John Broadbent, 98.7; Miceli, 96.6; Rich Brooks, 94.9; Cook, 94.7; Mike Grimaldi, 94.6; John Outerbridge, 94.4; Dave Dionne, 94.2.

let, 42-48; The T-Shirt Factory, 42-48; Matt's Villa, 38-52; Van's Auto Body, 32-58; Quirk Ford, 30-60.

Adams Executive League Champs

Adams Sports won the Executive Hockey League playoffs with a 5-4 win over Beau's Place in the finals Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Paul O'Brien and Bob Simonelli had two goals apiece and Dennis O'Connell one. Bibby Lewis and O'Connell had two assists apiece and O'Brien and Kevin Glynn one each.

A camera valued at $400 was reported stolen Monday from a 1980 Mazda owned by Mrs. Catherine Feldman

For Beau's Steve Dymont, Don Costa, Jack Aldred and Paul Gallivan scored, with two assists for Costa and one each for Charlie Chambers, Ken Gardiner and Bob Carroll.

The tenth annual banquet will be held Friday, May 6, at Valle's in Brainerd. Trophies will be awarded and dancing will be enjoyed to the music of

BABES ON BIKES
Bicycle baby seats are dangerous. The ones on the back make the front of the bike shimmy, and the ones on the front make steering very sluggish. But in spite of the hazards, thousands of young parents are hitting the road on their two-wheelers and are determined to take their youngsters along.

The best way to prevent your baby from getting hurt on your bicycle is to leave him at home. But if you're not satisfied with that solution, here's some info to help make it safer.

If you've never used a bicycle baby carrier before, it's a good idea to make a dry run with a box of books or some other weight lashed into the baby seat. You may be surprised at how your balance is affected. Starting up is harder - be sure to begin in low gear. Fast braking will be a particular problem. Watch out for the pendulum effect. If you stop quickly, the weight of the child can throw the bike over.

Always ride on the right side of the road. An appalling number of parents ride against traffic. It's the most hazardous thing you can do. Never leave your baby on the bike alone. You can't trust the kickstand.

Worcester Educator Top Choice Quincy Junior To Get First Black President

By TOM HENSHAW

Clayton Johnson, vice president of Worcester State College, will be the new president of Quincy Junior College, it was disclosed Tuesday.

"He has been recommended by the screening committee," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who, as chairman of the School Committee, will vote on final approval.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon was expected to submit Johnson's name to the School Committee at its regular meeting yesterday (Wednesday).

"He probably will be approved," said McCauley Tuesday. "The only question is whether the committee wants to do it on the first night or wait a while.

"If not Wednesday then certainly at the next meeting."

Johnson would be the first black to fill such an important position in Quincy's government or school system.

The new president will succeed Dr. Edward Pierce, who served for 10 years before resigning in 1982 to become president of a college in Pennsylvania.

The search for a new president went on for almost a year, finally narrowing down to three, Carl Deyesso, director of academic education in the Quincy schools; Sally Oleon, dean of Hartford Community College; and Johnson.

James A. Sheets, a city councillor and teacher at the junior college, was considered a strong contender for the post until he bowed out of the race in March.

Council Approves Validated Parking

Validated parking has passed its first and most important test in the City Council.

The Council Monday night approved Mayor Francis X. McCauley's plan in concept by a 7-1 vote with only Councillor Stephen J. McGrath in opposition.

The Council authorized McCauley to lease the downtown parking facilities to Kinney Systems of Boston and voted to advertise four other parts of the proposal, a key step toward passage.

Sandy Rounseville, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, pleaded with the Council for "100 per cent support" at a Downtown Committee hearing prior to the meeting.

"We are in tough times," he said. "Ticketing goes on and on and it's hurting business."

"This is the third time we've met on this," said Councillor Theodore DeCristoforo. "If we go any longer we will be dragging our feet and that won't do the downtown any good."

"I'm not in favor of this (it could on Page 5)

Sullivan Sisters 'Doing Fine' After Kidney Transplant

The daughters of School Committeeman John Sullivan are recovering in the New England Medical Center, Boston, from surgery in which one donated a kidney to save the life of her sister.

A well kidney was taken from Patricia Sullivan, 24, and transplanted into Maryrose Mirick, 30, who had been undergoing dialysis treatment for kidney failure for two months.

The surgery was performed April 29.

"They are both fine," Sullivan reported. "Patricia could be home by the end of the week but Maryrose will have to stay in the hospital for another couple of weeks."

PATRICIA SULLIVAN

Patricia Sullivan, a graduate of Eastern Nazarene College, will become the bride of Clay Hallowsay, a senior at ENC on Sept. 9. Hallowsay starred on last winter's ENC basketball team.

MARYROSE MIRICK

Maryrose Mirick, who used to work for the late Dennis Ryan, clerk of the Quincy District Court, is married to Wayne Mirick of Weymouth, attendance officer in the Quincy public schools.

Demonstrations Threatened For S. Quincy T Opening

City Councillor James A. Sheets has promised "actions not normally expected" if the MBTA attempts to open the Quincy Adams MBTA station before the South Quincy community is ready for it.

"We simply can't allow the safety of the children on Columbia, Liberty, Rodman and other streets to be endangered by the failure of the MBTA to keep its word," he said.

"If that means a demonstration by 300 or 400 or 500 people to prevent the opening of the station then so be it."

A spokesman for the MBTA said the station is scheduled to open Saturday, Sept. 10, at which time the ramps from Route 3 are also expected to be ready.

The matter of the station came up out of left field at Monday's City Council meeting when a land damage agreement was presented to pave the way for construction of the Burgin Parkway Extension.

The city is being called on to deed over to the state two parcels of city-owned land for construction purposes. They will be returned to the city after the extension is built.

Planning Director James Lydon said construction on the Burgin Parkway Extension probably will be started this summer and will take two years to complete.

The MBTA station, the Route 3 ramps, the Extension and an Army Corps of Engineers project to divert the Town Brook were supposed to be carried on simultaneously.

The station and the ramps are to be done relatively swiftly while the brook diversion project, including a deep rock tunnel under the city, is not yet off the drawing board.

Sheets expressed concern about priorities displayed by the state and federal governments.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson said he is getting different answers to the same questions from the MBTA and the State DPW and he has asked for a meeting of all concerned to straighten it out.

QEA-School Committee Talks May Resume

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Quincy Education Association and School Committee negotiating teams may meet one more time for contract negotiations before bringing in a fact finder.

QEA president Herman (Hank) Pasquerella said that both sides are discussing with their negotiating teams the possibility of a meeting next week.

"We may give it another go," said Pasquerella, "no promises on either side."

"We're not afraid to sit down, our shoulders can support another disappointment."

"If it's a fruitless meeting, it will be one of a long line."

Contract negotiations are staled over subject to funding language among other points.

Pasquerella said that he has spoken to school committee vice chairman Mary Collins and neither side appears ready to discard the stands they've taken.

If no agreement is reached, a fact finder will be brought in to give a non-binding suggestion to break the impasse, Pasquerella said.

Newly elected teachers' union president Mary Curtin and vice president Harold Crowley have been invited to attend contract negotiations, said negotiations, said Pasquerella whose term ends June 30.

"I don't want them to come in cold," he said.

"I've promised to make every attempt to conclude negotiations. Then, when the new contract comes up, they can start from scratch."

"I'm not sure I can be held to that promise, but I will try."

"Pasquerella, who did not seek reelection said he does not intend to be a lame duck president. "I plan to do things," he said.

The union's annual meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, May 18, at North Quincy High School

Beware Of Free Hearing Test Offers

If someone calls your home offering to come out and give you a free hearing test, verify it first cautions Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey.

Dr. Hussey said that she had received several phone calls from elderly residents who received such offers from callers who said they were from the City of Quincy.

"They are not from the City of Quincy or the Health Department," said Dr. Hussey.

"Residents should be certain to have proper identification before letting anyone in," she said.

Midas To Correct Fumes, Drainage Problems

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Midas Muffler, 100 McGrath Highway, told the License Board Tuesday that it will work to correct problems of fumes and drainage affecting an abutter on Newcomb St.

Mrs. Aninna Carlucci, owner of a two-family house, complained to the board last December and again recently about exhaust fumes from cars at Midas which prevent her from enjoying her yard, and drainage problems from the business.

City Clerk John Gillis reprimanded Midas for its lack of action and also complained about a stack of discarded mufflers which he termed "a disgrace".

Fire Chief Edward Barry called Midas "uncooperative".

Atty. James Antonucci, representing Midas, said that his clients sympathize with Mrs. Carlucci and will work to resolve the problems.

Antonucci also said that he met recently with Building Inspector Allan MacDonald to discuss the problems.

Midas general manager

Sal Falletti said that the mufflers are stacked up because the price of scrap metal is so low that it is difficult to find someone to take it away.

Falletti said he will construct an 8-foot impervious fence to block fumes, build a block enclosure for rubbish, and change the grade and berm of the land to take care of surface water.

"I think it will be a big improvement," said MacDonald.

The complaint was placed on file.

Energy, Weather Programs Ready

Quincy Community Action is accepting applications from low-income, elderly and handicapped families to participate in programs for energy conservation and home weatherization.

Any family that is eligible for current fuel assistance program is eligible for low-cost self-help energy conservation kits and burner tune-ups.

In order to be eligible for the home weatherization program the gross income must fall in the following categories:

For a family of one, $5,850; two $7,775; three $9,700; four $11,625; five $13,550; and six $15,475. For each additional member over six add $1,540.

Small Role For Council In Budget

The City Council's Finance Committee probably won't hold its first meeting on Mayor Francis X. McCauley's $69.7 million budget for fiscal 1984 for another two weeks.

"There's not much for the Council to review in the budget anymore, now that the departments have been cut back so drastically," said Councilor Stephen J. McGrath, the committee chairman.

In fact, the only sections of the budget guaranteed to get close scrutiny from councilors are those which fund raises for the mayor and city councilors and a stipend for the School Committee.

The budget contains salary allocations for the mayor of $32,500 starting July 1 and jumping to $40,000 on Jan. 1. The mayor currently is paid $25,000 a year.

The Council's pay would jump from $3,000 to $6,500 a year effective Jan. 1.

The first three councilors queried, McGrath, Patricia Toland and Leo J. Kelly, said they would like to think it over more before voting for or against the raises, which were rejected last year.

McCauley's budget also contains a $1,500 stipend for each member of the six-member School Committee, who do not get paid now. An act of the State Legislature recently made such payment possible.

"You have the right to strike that money," McCauley told the councilors at the budget presentation Monday night. "I recommend that it be left in."

McCauley passed along to the Council a school budget of $24.7 million, roughly the same as last year. The School Department had sent to him a budget request of $27.7 million.

"My feeling is that I could not put $27.7 million in the budget so I reduced it," said the mayor, adding that the Council "can reduce the bottom line on the schools, too, if it wants to."

McCauley said there will be no layoffs in general government as a result of the budget and that the school budget will require few layoffs, he said, can be handled through attrition.

The budget, with the tax levy down 6 to 7 per cent under Proposition 2½, depends on $3.5 million in promised state aid.

But, McCauley added, the city was not sure of getting that much state aid because, while payments to the city were announced by the state, charges against the city were not disclosed.

The mayor explained that, while the budget for fiscal 1984 was up some $1.5 million over the previous year, the actual net expenditures by the city will be down about $600,000.

This is because $2,153,482 in the 1984 budget will be used as estimated receipts from the hospital, the junior college, CETA and community development, for retirement, insurance, etc.

In fiscal 1983, these figures were netted out, McCauley said.

The biggest hikes in the budget over 1983 were in city retirement funds, $2.5 million; employees insurance payments, $375,000; and the Public Works Department, $254,000.

MOTHER'S DAY PROGRAM was held Sunday by the Quincy Lodge of Elks. Norfolk Rec Facility Reports Record Income

The Norfolk County Recreational Facility in North Quincy has produced a record income of $236,000 for the first 10 months of fiscal 1983, up 38 per cent from the same period in 1982.

"The future of the facility is now assured," said James J. Collins, chairman of the Norfolk County Commissioners.

But the facility, which is the old Wollaston Golf Club, still has to survive a county-wide non-binding referendum on whether or not it should be sold by the county.

Twenty seven of the 28 municipalities in the county have already voted on the question and the referendum stands at 37,865 for selling and 31,028 for retaining it. Quincy votes in November, 1983.

"We expect that the city will overwhelmingly vote no to the sale and retain this much-needed beautiful 92-acre multi-faceted facility now that they are assured of its continuing profitability," said Collins.

John C. Nourse, administrator of the facility, projected the income for fiscal 1983 at $320,000, up 26 per cent over 1982, and this with an operating budget reduced by 16 per cent to $235,000.

"We expect to return approximately $85,000 to Norfolk County coffers as an operating surplus," he said.

"Golfers recognize the high quality and excellent condition of the course and keep coming back. Our memberships are up 30 per cent, golf cart use is up 20 per cent and restaurant income has doubled."

Free Legal Clinic At Quincy Court

A Free Legal Clinic will be held Monday, May 9, at Quincy District Court from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. sponsored by the Norfolk County Bar Association.

A group of attorneys will be available to answer questions in all areas of the law. The clinic is free of charge and is a public service. For further information call 427-6006.

Points To Remember In War On Gyps

Here are some points to keep in mind when you are considering the purchase of a service or goods.

- Don't be lured by "bait" advertising where a fantastic bargain is used to lure you into a store to buy something more expensive.
 - Don't be blinded by "bargains" that are offered at prices too good to be true — they usually are.
 - Don't be rushed into a deal where you are offered a "last chance" to buy. Good deals for the purchaser rarely are made on a "last chance" basis.
 - Don't rely on oral guarantees. Get it in writing.
 - Don't sign a contract without carefully reading and understanding it, especially the fine print.
 - Don't count on verbal agreements. As the man said, they're not worth the paper they're written on.
 - Don't sign anything that has blank spaces to be filled in later.
 - Don't hesitate to get several written estimates for planned household repairs.
 - Don't let appliance leave you for repairs without getting a written estimate.
 - Don't fail to investigate before investing.
- Remember, informed buying is the best protection against being cheated and the best guarantee of satisfaction

'No Primary' Year?

This could be Quincy's second "No Primary Year". The preliminary election has been set for Tuesday, Sept. 13 — just a little more than four months away. But right now it seems like the town's best kept secret. There's little political movement. Little political talk. (Mainly about who's not running for mayor). And, little political interest.

At this writing, there aren't enough candidates for a good poker game, never mind an election.

Unless there is some action pretty soon, this could be the second year without a preliminary election. The only time it has happened before was in 1940 when there weren't enough candidates for mayor, city council and school committee to have one.

That was the year that Thomas Burgin also went unchallenged in the final election — the only mayor in the city's history given that honor.

It takes three candidates to make a mayoral preliminary. Only known candidate so far this year (and even he hasn't made it official) is incumbent Francis McCauley. He might go all the way without a single challenger. It seems unlikely there will be two opponents to force a preliminary runoff.

Seven candidates are needed for the three City Council at-large seats for a preliminary. If there are six or fewer candidates, they are automatically nominated for the final election.

So far the only candidates appear to be incumbents Richard Koch, Jr., Joseph LaRaia and Patricia Toland unless LaRaia steps into the mayoral ring at the 11th hour which now seems quite unlikely.

Seven are also needed for a School Committee preliminary runoff. Due up for re-election this year are Frank Anselmo, Christopher Kennedy and John Sullivan.

Kennedy and Sullivan appear to be sure candidates. Anselmo will probably go again, too, although he'd like to hear from a few people telling him they'd like him to run again.

If Kennedy and Sullivan seek re-election and Anselmo doesn't, five more candidates would be needed for a preliminary election. If Anselmo runs, four others would be required.

As for the ward City Council seats, three candidates are needed in each ward for a preliminary contest.

Right now, the only sure candidates are all incumbents: Leo Kelly (Ward 1), Ted DeCristoforo (Ward 2), John Lydon (Ward 3), James Sheets (Ward 4), Stephen McGrath (Ward 5) and Joanne Condon (Ward 6).

So far the only ward councillor with a potential threat is Condon. School Committee Vice-Chairman Mary Collins is still seriously considering challenging her. But even if she does, one more candidate would be needed for a preliminary contest.

Of course, if there is no preliminary election, it will save the city a few thousand dollars.

But wouldn't Quincy really come out a loser?

The worst thing for a community is for its elective officials to just toss their hats in to be elected.

People are better off when there is competition in business — whether it be a retail store or a newspaper. And, they are better off when there is competition in politics.

It's really a sad state of affairs when any incumbent or candidate gets a free ride to election.

"It's sad to think that there aren't enough interested residents of a community who want to serve that community in an elective office.

Even sadder: politics can't attract them.

FORMER ASST. DPW Commr. Helen Duffy who chose early retirement because of differences with present Commr. Paul Anderson, was honored the other night at a testimonial dinner at the Bryan Post. It had all the tones of a political rally for 1985.

Former Mayor Arthur Tobin, paying tribute to Miss Duffy's long service which goes back to the 1950's when Charles Herbert was commissioner, referred to her not as former assistant commissioner but "as the next public works commissioner."

Miss Duffy is now associated with the CPA firm of Corner, Dandrow & Co.

But Tobin's inference was that in 1985 "her side" will win the Mayor's office and Miss Duffy will be named public works commissioner.

Tax Money Streams In

A steady stream of taxpayers has been visiting City Hall to unburden themselves of tax payments for the second half of fiscal 1983 since tax bills went out April 19.

In the first 10 days, said Treasurer-Collector Franklin Jay, a total of $2,735,000 was collected.

Mayor Francis X.

McCauley said the city expects to collect about $20 million, with most of it coming close to the May 16 deadline when the big taxpayers come forth with their money.

The mayor urged all taxpayers who have not done so to pay up and avoid the possibility of being hit with penalties.

Council Joins Against 2½ Override

The City Council Monday night joined Mayor Francis X. McCauley in turning thumbs down on any possible override of Proposition 2½ in Quincy.

The city, along with 10 other communities, will be given permission by the Legislature to spread required three year cuts in the tax levy over two years.

"We have no plan to support the override, even if the mayor should ask for it," said the resolve introduced by Councilors James A. Sheets and Richard J. Koch Jr.

Mayor McCauley has already said that he has no intention of asking for the override, saying that the city does not need it since the third year cut is only 6 per cent, not 15 per cent.

John Adams Birthday Party Planned In October

Sandy Rounseville, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, says his group is planning a big birthday party for John Adams in October to promote shopping in downtown Quincy.

Rounseville, proprietor of Beacon Fabrics, appeared on the interview show "Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablestv's Channel 3. The birthday celebration, which Rounseville said he is working out with the Quincy Historical Society, the School Department and City Hall, will start Oct. 23 and end Oct. 30, the Adams birthday in 1735.

"We are working to bring in thousands of new people to see some of our history," said Rounseville. "We'd like to get merchants and students in costumes of the day."

"School kids will write essays and do art work with the prizes for the best."

Promotions like that, said Rounseville, will help Quincy to come back as the shopping center of the South Shore.

"A lot of business people have been passive in Quincy for the past 25 years," he said. "We've lost a lot of good business. With improved parking conditions and more promotions we can come back."

Rounseville said "there is no question that validated parking is going to help us 200 per cent. It will make businessmen competitive with malls by being able to advertise free parking."

"Then," he said, "we will have to educate the people and the merchants on how to validate and how to treat people. Education is the biggest thing so that people understand it."

Rounseville said he is disappointed that the South

Shore Chamber of Commerce has not given downtown merchants more cooperation in the fight to secure validated parking.

"They could have come forward and helped us on that," he said. "We're basically small businessmen and we're hurting and I feel as though they could have given us 100 per cent support. I'm disappointed."

Rounseville also made these points about downtown Quincy:

- "The biggest thing is to get an anchor store into the city. A merchant can't pull it all by himself. We're too small. When we lost Sears, we lost at least 500 employees and 2,000 to 3,000 people a day Sears brought in."
- "A lot of merchants don't know if they're going to stay open Sundays during the summer. But the key stores have to stay open. They can't afford to lose customers to the other stores."

- "The annual Christmas parade is good publicity for the city but it doesn't mean much to the merchants in the way of sales."

"We have this tremendous audience of a quarter of a million people and when the parade is over they disappear on us. The whole key as far as merchants are concerned is how to keep all those people in Quincy."

- "We're going to add a lot of new ideas to the Sidewalk Bazaar. Sometimes when you let something run steady, you just forget about it and you think it's going to run itself. It can get boring."

Rounseville was interviewed on the program by Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Herb Fontaine, news director of WJDA; and Ray McEachern, reporter for the Patriot Ledger.

City's Tax Rate Set At $74

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa announced that the tax rate for 1959 will be $74, the highest in the city's history and an increase of $4.20 over the previous year.

Chief factors in the hike were budgetary increases in railroad subsidies $200,531, overlay $145,000, schools $355,000, salary increases $470,000, MDC charges $35,000, county taxes $203,000 and debt charges $146,000.

The City Council appropriated $250,000 from the excess and deficiency fund for the express purpose of holding down the tax rate increase.

PRIVATE RUBBISH COLLECTION

The City Council voted by a narrow margin of 5-4 to authorize Mayor Della Chiesa to have Quincy's rubbish collected by a private company under contract to the city.

Voting against the authorization were Councillors Joseph E. Brett, Charles L. Shea, John J. Quinn and James R. McIntyre. Shea charged that inefficient supervision was responsible for the uneconomical operation of the Sanitation Division.

"Nobody wants a survey of the division because it would show up those in charge for what they are -- inefficient," said Shea.

Voting for the authorization were Councillors Carl W. Anderson, Edna B. Austin, Thomas S. Burgin, William C. Ellis and David S. McIntosh.

McIntosh suggested that the city give priority to the question of an incinerator now that the school building program and the hospital addition were completed.

SEEK BUS STRIKE END

Rep. Charles L. Shea was circulating petitions urging Gov. Foster Furcolo to invoke the Slichter Act forbidding strikes by public utilities workers in an effort to end a work stoppage at the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. that had gone on for 143 days.

Meanwhile, the City Council moved to revoke the Eastern Mass franchise for what Councillor Ellis called "its complete disregard of the public."

Council Approves Parking

(Continued from Page 1) system," said McGrath. "We should be encouraging parking in downtown Quincy and I don't think this does it. It's still easier to park in the plaza and shop."

"I feel that our ultimate goal should be to encourage shoppers. We should be making parking a simple as possible and this does not do it."

McGrath said he thought the 15-minute free parking period is too short and the $25 a month parking fee is unfair to employees of downtown stores and offices.

"I see some potential problems to validating tickets," he said. "If a shopper goes into a number of stores, which one pays the validation? How about shoppers who are just browsing?"

McGrath voted against each section of the proposal as it came up. Council President John J. Lydon Jr. was absent and not voting.

One last minute change in the proposal set meter fees on the streets at 10 cents for 15 minutes and 20 cents for the 30-minute maximum stay.

Another change, suggested by the Traffic Commission, would confine the 1/2 hour parking to the inner downtown area and place a one hour limit on Coddington St., School St., and Hancock St. from City Hall to Dimmock St.

'A Christmas Dream'

Chosen Festival Parade Theme

"A Christmas Dream", submitted by Carol Bray of Quincy, has been selected as the theme for the 1983 edition of the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade Sunday, Nov. 27.

Close to 90 entries were submitted to the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee.

Miss Bray will be guest of honor at the parade and will receive a gift from the festival committee.

George White, committee chairman, noted that the 1982 parade has been acclaimed as the "best ever" was watched on cable TV or viewed in person by an estimated 300,000 people.

As in the past, the committee invites Quincy and South Shore organizations to participate in the parade.

S.S. Coalition To Present 'Music Of Freedom And Peace'

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights will present "Come Sunday: the Music of Freedom and Peace" Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq.

The evening of music will feature vocalist Semenya McCord and her jazz ensemble, including Herb King on drums, Frank Wilkins on piano and Ron MacWhorter on bass.

Special guests will be Stan Strickland on reeds and Sa Davis on percussion.

The concert is a benefit for the coalition's Fair Housing Program which is four years old. Its purpose is to assist in making greater opportunities for housing available to racial minorities in the South Shore.

For tickets or more information, call 472-3396.

Way Up Members Attend Prayer Breakfast

Fourteen teenagers from The Way Up, a specialized youth ministry located in Quincy, attended the South Shore Men's Annual Prayer Breakfast Sunday at Valle's Steakhouse, Braintree.

The boys were accompanied by the director of The Way Up, Rev. Gene Langevin, and several parents.

Tickets for the young people were purchased by the following members of Bethany Congregational Church in Quincy: Ed Bohlken, Earl Cairns, Millard Cunningham, Mary Lou Glaman, Lloyd Herring, Kinya Mikami, Mary Pearson, Eleanor Shattuck, and Jean Smart.

Ticket sales were coordinated by Al Toy, also of Bethany Church.

The Way Up is a program of Christian outreach to young people outside the local churches. It provides teen-aged girls and boys with counseling, advocacy, juvenile court chaplaincy, service referral, recreation, employment, tutoring, home visits, and camping opportunities as well as Christian religious programs and opportunities for service.

The Way Up meets in the building of the First Church of Squantum where its director is also pastor of the church.

It serves young people from throughout the South Shore, especially teens from Quincy, Weymouth, Milton and Braintree.

Young people who live at a distance from the program are given free transportation to and from activities.

Parents interested in having their teenagers involved in the activities of The Way Up should call Rev. Langevin at 328-7675.

Protestant churches from throughout the South Shore support the work through missionary gifts to The Way Up.

Christian Science Church May 9 At Beechwood Center

Christian Scientist Charles-Etienne Houze will give a lecture entitled, "Follow Jesus Christ, Today?" at a public lecture Monday, May 9, at 8 p.m. in the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Houze, of Paris, France, traces the maturing discipleship of the apostle Peter -- from his early "impetuous enthusiasm" to his later preaching and healing works following the resurrection.

Peter's broadening healing abilities, says Mr. Houze, came about as the disciple's "adoration of Jesus' personality" gave way to a glimpse of the eternal Christ.

In his lecture, Houze poses the question: "... today, are Jesus' commands, including the one to heal the sick, obeyed? Doesn't his promise (which could also be considered a command),

CHARLES-ETIENNE
HOUZE

He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also? apply to our period?"

From his own study of the Bible and from his public healing work as a Christian Science practitioner, Houze maintains that, "the Christ, understood, is still demonstrable today in the effective healing of sickness in all its forms as well as of sin."

The lecturer explains and illustrates how he came to this conviction. "The healing Christ is present, accessible, and demonstrable today, as it was in Jesus' day, and always will be," Houze states.

Houze has served his church in numerous capacities. He was elected to The Christian Science Board of Lectureship for the first time in 1979 and has lectured in continental Europe, Great Britain, West and East Africa.

His lecture in Quincy is being sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Quincy, and is open to the public without charge.

Mrs. Barbara Chapin will introduce Houze at the lecture.

'Untiring Love Of God' Squantum Church Theme

"The Untiring Love of God" was the theme of the Communion Service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday.

Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin preached on the subject, "When Love Burns Out."

Earlier in the service, he had spoken to the children about "A Whole Lot of Forgiving."

Seated with the pastor at the Lord's Table were Deacons Gretchen Bumpus, Tom Williamson, Dana Olson, Katherine Hansen and Stuart Scott.

The Chancel Choir, directed by Mary Ruth Scott, sang "Children of the Heavenly Father" as arranged by Edwin Liemon.

Greeters for the morning were Tom and Janet Williamson. Ushers were Don Frazer and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Lorraine Josselyn and Gloria Lester.

The Faith Group of the First Church of Squantum was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. to continue its discussion of new ideas on Christian education.

The only service at the First Church of Squantum on Mother's Day, May 8, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Preceding that service, there will be a special Mother's Day Breakfast at 9:15 a.m. sponsored by the young people of the church.

The menu includes French toast, ham, hash brown potatoes, orange juice, and beverage. Tickets may be reserved by calling the church office at 328-6649.

The sermon on Mother's Day will be entitled, "A Christian Education for Our Kids." Three choirs will participate.

Rummage Sale At Memorial Congregational

Memorial Congregational Church of Atlantic will sponsor its annual Rummage Sale Saturday, May 7, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the church hall, 65 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

The sale will include women's, men's and children's wear, jewelry, kitchenware, household goods, white elephant, records, books, shoes and bags, toys and sporting goods, furniture and hardware.

Articles for the sale may be left at the parish Hall Wednesday, May 4, Thursday, May 5 and Friday, May 6 from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Those unable to bring articles to the church may call the church office mornings to arrange for pick up (328-5240).

There will be a snack bar and a pizza bar for refreshments.

6,000 March In Loyalty Day Parade

Sunny skies and warm temperatures provided the perfect setting Sunday for the 25th Loyalty Parade held by the Bryan VFW Post and the Department of Massachusetts, VFW.

The parade, which started at St. John's Church, and progressed to Veterans Memorial Stadium, featured about 6,000 marchers.

Representative groups from across the state participated.

First place in the marching band competition went to Quincy High School.

Second Lt. Russell L. Borman led the contingent of Army troops from Fort Devens. A 22 year resident of Quincy, he is a graduate of North Quincy High School, Northeastern University and its graduate school.

Thomas M. McDonald of North Quincy, past state commander of the VFW, was state chairman for loyalty day which was authorized by Congress in 1958 as a day to demonstrate loyalty to flag and country.

An open house was held at the Bryan Post after the parade.

Mayor Francis McCauley proclaimed Loyalty Day in Quincy, which also hosted the event 10 years ago.

JOSEPH BURKE leads the color guard of the Bryan VFW Post which held the Loyalty Parade along with the Department of Massachusetts, VFW.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL BAND took first place in the marching band competition in the Loyalty Parade Sunday. Competition was based on sound, formation, precision and timing.

SECOND LT. RUSSELL L. BORMAN led the contingent of Army troops from Fort Devens in the parade.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

This is a true story . . . A bereaved family was asked by friends how they could arrange a living memorial. Their answer - "In memory of mother, visit a shut-in on a regular schedule. Share yourself and your time with someone on whom time hangs heavily."

They did it. Their own lives were enriched when they saw the sunshine their visits brought into the drab existence of those who were unable to go out into the world. Another family varied the suggestion by inviting a lonely, elderly widower in their neighborhood to dinner. He was revived again and again. The children adore him and now call him Grampa.

We relate this story here because we think loneliness can be a dreadful storm in the sea of life. Isn't it nice to see God's hands working with human hands on the helm? . . .

Funeral arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home. Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Planning ahead can offer peace of mind . . .

It is only human to put things off. But proper planning for the event of one's death can spare a family many traumatic decisions and financial burdens. By pre-arranging the desires and wishes of one's funeral, burial and expenses can be specified to eliminate confusion, differences of opinion and difficult decisions on the part of family members. To ease this burden, we are making available to you FREE a booklet with all necessary information and forms to assist and guide you. Why not visit us or write for your FREE Pre-arrangement Booklet.

Booklet covers the following subjects:

- Funeral and Interment Preferences
- Vital Statistics and Data
- Survivors Information, Social Security, Insurance, Bank Accounts, Real Estate, Automobile, Safety Deposit Box, Savings Bonds, Stocks and Bonds, Retirement Accounts and Veterans Benefits.
- Pre-Arrangement Information
- Three duplicate copies of a Funeral and Interment Pre-Arrangement Agreement.

End window pains with easy-care vinyl windows

If you own an older home, it's likely that you spend a lot of time maintaining your windows.

Inside and out, windows require a lot of attention. From time to time, they have to be painted, glazed and cleaned, and then there's the hard labor of hanging the storm windows and taking them down.

Modern technology has developed a cure for the window maintenance blues. They're virtually maintenance-free solid vinyl replacement windows, and they can make your life a whole lot easier.

Never need painting

Solid vinyl replacement windows never have to be painted or touched up, because the color is molded right into the frames. As a result, they won't chip, peel or flake as wood windows will.

If you've ever tried to fix a warped or "sticky" wood window, you know the aggravation it can cause. Well, that's another chore you probably won't have to tackle again.

If you install CertainTeed vinyl replacement windows. To begin with, the vinyl frames won't warp and, to ensure trouble-free operation, the company fits its windows with special balance springs that make them easy to open and close.

Cleaning vinyl windows is also a breeze. Ordinary dirt and most stains will wash off the frames with a mild soap and water solution.

And you don't have to be a contortionist to clean the glass in these windows, either. CertainTeed double hung windows tilt in for easy cleaning, while the sash on the company's gliding style windows can be completely removed when you want to wash the glass.

Once you install CertainTeed solid vinyl replacement windows, you won't have to worry about the tedious chipping and re-glazing that is often required on older wood windows. That's because the company used a long-lasting wraparound glazing that is so flexible it can actually be reused if you ever have to replace a broken pane.

As for your heavy old storm windows, you can sell them at your next yard sale, since these vinyl replacement windows perform like a prime and storm window combination. The double-pane insulated glass and chambered frame are extremely effective at preventing the loss of costly heat or air conditioning from the inside of your home.

dows and how they can cure your window pains, write for the free brochure "A Consumer's Guide to Home Improvements." The address is P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482.

CLEANING WINDOW PANES is a lot easier for homeowners who install solid vinyl replacement windows from CertainTeed Corporation. The double hung style windows shown here tilt in for easy access, something that is especially convenient for second story windows.

Heat-resistant coating: a must for refinishing outdoor grills

STOP RUST AND IMPROVE THE APPEARANCE of your outdoor grill the easy way. The finish on this grill was restored using Rust-Oleum® 7778 Bar-B-Q Black, a heat-resistant finish formulated for use on outdoor charcoal and gas grills. The product is available at most hardware stores and home centers in 1/2-pint cans and 13-oz. spray containers.

After a season of use and outdoor weathering, chances are the finish on your backyard grill has started to chip and turn gray. In order to give it a bright, long-lasting appearance, care must be taken both in paint selection and in preparing the grill for its new finish.

For a finish that lasts

According to researchers at Rust-Oleum Corporation, a leading manufacturer of rust-inhibitive and decorative metal finishes, proper surface preparation and the use of a high-quality, heat-resistant coating are an absolute necessity if you want the refinishing job on your grill to last.

Heat-resistant coatings such as Rust-Oleum® Bar-B-Q Black and Bar-B-Q Copper are formulated with high temperature resins and additional color pigments to withstand the temperature ranges encountered during the operation of outdoor gas and charcoal grills. A standard paint product, on the other hand, will turn gray and begin to chip and peel, usually after the first use.

Helpful hints

In order to properly refinish your grill, here are a few tips:

1. Remove loose deteriorated exterior coatings and rust by sanding, scraping and wire brushing.

2. Remove grease, oil and other contaminants by cleaning with a solvent, oven cleaner or strong detergent solution. After cleaning, flush the grill thoroughly with fresh water and allow to dry.

3. After the grill has dried, apply one or two coats of high quality, heat-resistant coating

(no primer is required).

IS YOUR FAMILY AS IMPORTANT AS HIS?

You can learn a lot about home security from someone who has a lot of home security.

Take our new home security system. It's run by electronic controls identical to the ones that operate the system in The White House.

But it's also available at a price virtually any family in America can afford. (In fact, it's available at less than one-third the price of many systems now on the market.)

It's a sophisticated, completely modular system that can protect your home when you're there—and even when you're not. It's specifically designed to stop intruders before they enter—and to warn you and your family before a fire reaches dangerous levels. It can even protect a woman alone in her yard at night.

We'll be happy to send a security professional to your home for a free home security inspection. He'll give you all the facts.

This year, more than 2.5 million homes in America will be burglarized. Hundreds of women will be attacked on their own property. And more than 12,000 Americans will die in fires.

It's time you found out more about home security. Because first families aren't the only families that need protection.

We're SURE your family is as important as His. To find out more about our FREE home inspection plan, and to receive a free gift (because WE CARE about YOUR family) Call Today:

Energy audits yield returns

Putting out a little cash for a state supervised energy audit, could pay off nicely—as Connecticut homeowners recently discovered.

Energy audits of 36,000 homes conducted by Connect-

Wood mouldings are natural beautifiers

The natural beauty of wood not only adds warmth to a room, but character as well. That goes for beautiful wood furnishings, natural wood paneling and, of course, decorative wood mouldings.

With more than 350 different profiles to choose from, today's wood mouldings offer limitless decorative uses. Install ceiling trim, base and chair rail mouldings to give a room a traditional charm.

Decorate a bare chest of drawers and transform it into a classic piece of furniture. Or use a room divider made of lattice to separate the living room from the dining area.

Wood mouldings are also easy to work with. Available in a variety of stock sizes and styles, even a novice do-it-yourselfer can easily accomplish professional looking results. A basic knowledge of carpentry, tools and a little imagination is all you'll need to add the rich beauty of wood to any room of the house.

Just as the proper finish can add to the beauty of a piece of furniture, the same is true for wood mouldings. A wide selection of moulding finishes are available at local home centers and building supply dealers. Among them are oils, stains, lacquers, varnishes, waxes and oil or water-based paints.

Wood mouldings can be finished to match, contrast or accent furnishings, wall coverings and accessories. If in doubt as to which type of finish to use for your particular project, ask the salesman for help. It's also a good idea to test the finish on a piece of scrap moulding before getting started.

When finishing any woodwork, be sure to avoid dusty work areas. Make sure surfaces are clean and smooth. Fill in cracks and nail holes with wood filler and remove any rough spots with a fine grit sandpaper.

Additional tips are included in "How To Finish Wood Mouldings." To obtain a copy send 40 cents to Wood Moulding and Millwork Producers Association, Dept. HP, P.O. Box 25278, Portland, OR 97225.

Now, solar energy is an affordable alternative

A new low-cost solar heating system has been introduced by Hanson Energy Products headquartered in Newcastle, Maine. Designed as an easy-to-install, modular system, the Hansolar TA-3 can reduce heating costs and add to a home's resale value.

The basic installation kit is one of the least expensive "active" solar energy systems available, with a suggested retail price of $495 before Federal and State tax credits. It includes two modular solar collectors, mounting brackets, illustrated step-by-step installation instructions and a low-wattage air shuttle system. Up to 10 panels can be easily installed in a row.

The product can be installed by the average homeowner using simple tools in less than a day. It operates automatically whenever the sun is shining. Between 80 and 100 cubic feet of heated air per minute is delivered by the basic system, enough to raise the temperature of an average 10x12x8-foot room by 30°F.

"While everyone's fuel savings will be different, the TA-3 can make a significant dent in home heating bills," explains Alan Lishness, director of marketing. "That feature translates into home improvement and increased market value," he adds.

The Hansolar system does not store heat for use during the night or cloudy weather. It is a simple, virtually maintenance-free, energy alternative to oil, gas, wood or electric heat on sunny days. There are no pipes to corrode or break, no flowing water and no moving parts except for the air shuttle.

The TA-3 works quite simply. Sunlight warms an absorber plate in the collectors to a temperature between 80°F and 120°F. Once the absorber plate reaches the 80°F plateau, a thermostat automatically turns on the air shuttle.

Cool air from the house is directed into the collector's lower chamber where it flows in a thin stream along the underside of the absorber plate. The layer of air in direct contact with the plate is then heated and, in turn, warms the rest of the air in the collector's upper chamber. Warm air is then directed back into the house.

When there is no longer enough sunlight to keep the absorber plate at 70°F, the thermostat shuts off the air shuttle and seals the system against leaks.

"The rising cost of fuel makes solar heating a particularly attractive alternative," notes Mr. Lishness. "And, when combined with a home's existing oil or electrical heating system, it can really reduce overall heating bills."

For additional information, contact Hanson Energy Products, Fifth Floor, 1700 Broadway, New York, NY 10019.

Change bathroom decor in a matter of minutes

INSTANT DECORATING — Skirt-It, new from Ex-Cell Home Fashions, transforms an ordinary bathroom sink into a decorative vanity in a matter of minutes, providing an undersink storage area for bathroom supplies, while hiding exposed pipes. Both fashionable and functional, Skirt-It is also surprisingly inexpensive.

Looking for a quick, easy and inexpensive lift for your bathroom? Do you want to expand your bathroom storage space, yet hesitate to invest in a costly vanity cabinet to be installed around your sink, a job which necessitates hiring both a plumber and a carpenter?

Or, are you simply tired of staring at those unsightly pipes exposed beneath your sink, and want to conceal them in a fashion which is both eye-catching and functional?

If you've answered "yes" to any of these questions, the solution to your problem may be Skirt-It, a new product from Ex-Cell Home Fashions, a leader in the shower curtain industry.

In a matter of minutes, Skirt-It, an attractive tailored sink skirt, inexpensively transforms an ordinary bathroom sink into a decorative vanity providing an undersink storage area for bathroom supplies, while hiding exposed plumbing and pipes.

Available in both fabric and vinyl, in a wide array of designer patterns and solid colors (to custom coordinate with many of Ex-Cell's shower curtains and bathroom window curtains), Skirt-It is simplicity itself to install.

A specially formulated adhesive on the back of Skirt-It's permanently stitched top ruffle adheres to the rim of any sink. No need to worry about fit: Skirt-It can be trimmed to accommodate all sink sizes and shapes.

All in all, Skirt-It is, in the words of New York-based Interior Designer, Virginia

Perlo, A.S.I.D., "the prettiest new idea in bathroom decor." An idea, it must be added, whose time has come!

Two pretty nice ways to apply for a mortgage.

Experts answer frequently-asked questions about aluminum siding

For nearly a quarter century, Alcoa Building Products has been manufacturing high quality, low maintenance aluminum siding for America's homes.

So it's not surprising that when homeowners have a question about their aluminum siding they turn to Alcoa for the answers.

Recently, Charles Gindele, a staff engineer and consumer advisor at Alcoa, provided answers to the questions homeowners ask most often about aluminum siding.

There's a fine dust or "chalk" on my siding. What causes this and is it normal?
Oxidation, or "chalking," is a normal process whereby the pigment in siding gradually breaks down and releases microscopic particles. Siding is designed to oxidize very gradually so, if your siding "chalks" too quickly, you may want to check with your contractor.

Oxidation is generally first noticed as a lightening in the color of the house, or when, in brushing against the house, one notices a fine dust on the hands or clothing. There's no way to prevent oxidation—it's a self-cleaning feature of the siding.

Homeowners who have older siding can sometimes wash off the chalk and return the siding to its original color. Anyone just having his house sided should be aware that the color will change slightly over the years as the siding oxidizes.

Is siding a good insulator?

Even an uninsulated siding panel cuts down on air infiltration through cracks, around doorways and windows and in cornerboards. The air space created by applying an uninsulated siding panel over a wall has an "R" value of about .75. (New home insulation standards in the north are R-19 for sidewalls, R-30 for attic ceilings.) While .75 is not that high, it is a contribution toward saving energy.

Insulated siding panels have an "R" value of between 2 and 3. In addition, homeowners can select from a wide variety of sheathing products, which can be applied under siding, or can have stud spaces blown with an insulating material if the siding is going over wood clapboard.

Insulated siding is usually a wise investment as the additional cost may be recovered in reduced energy usage.

If I just moved into an aluminum sided home that needs a panel replaced, how can I tell the brand?

If you don't know the name of the contractor who applied the siding, you may be able to make some observations that will help you determine the brand. For example:

- While most manufacturers make a woodgrain siding, the grains vary from brand to brand and you should be able to tell one from another.

- On a smooth, eight-inch wide siding panel, check the thickness of the butt (bottom) edge; it will vary from 1/2 to 3/4 inch between brands.

- A drip bead that deflects water off the surface is a distinguishing factor. It's generally located on the face of the panel, at the bottom, where it meets the butt edge.

- Weep holes (most siding panels have them on the butt edge) are small openings that allow moisture to escape from behind siding. They vary in size and shape (round, triangular, slotted) from brand to brand. They're also spaced differently—Alcoa, for example, has round weep holes every 18 inches.

- As a last resort, pry loose a small siding section and look at the color of the protective "wash coat" on the back; also look for a small logo on the back or on the top nailing hem.

Can I repaint my aluminum siding?

Yes—you'll be sure to prepare the surface for repainting by cleaning it of dirt and oxidation. Any good exterior paint, preferably latex, will do. There's usually no need for sanding or priming. If changing color, you may need two coats.

Though siding is a low-maintenance product, is there something I should do to maintain it?

It's a good practice to wash down the siding with a detergent solution (1/2 cup detergent to three quarts water) once a year. This reduces the possibility of mildew, enhances the appearance and prevents oxidation from staining any nearby brick. A soft brush or sponge should be used to remove any dirt or mildew present.

Do you have any questions about aluminum siding? Alcoa will do its best to answer them. Write for more information to Alcoa Building Products, Inc., Two Allegheny Center, Pittsburgh, PA 15212 and ask for the free brochure, "How To Get A Good Siding Job."

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

STAIRS TOP TROUBLE SPOT

Where is the most dangerous spot in your home? The stairs! That simple structure is involved in at least 350,000 serious accidents every year. And it's not just the old and feeble who are tumbling, although falls are more likely to be fatal to the elderly. Surprisingly, young adults between the ages of 15 and 24 suffer the most injuries.

Although safety experts can't pin the blame on any single mistake, they have turned up a few basic trouble spots. Here are some hints to help you stay on your feet:

Stairs should be well-lit, with handy switches at top and bottom. Repair broken steps and railings, loose concrete. Replace worn carpets or tread coverings.

Never use steps for storage. Pick up toys and other objects, wipe up spills, remove ice and snow. Don't rush up or down the flight of stairs. It only takes a few seconds to navigate so running or fooling around can wait until you reach the other end. Finally, beware of floppy slippers, platform shoes and extra long dresses.

Practice preventive maintenance to keep home in good condition

High interest rates on new home mortgages coupled with the cost of moving has many homeowners choosing to stay where they are.

To maintain its value, an existing home has to be kept in good repair. Some preventive maintenance, such as twice a year inspections indoors and out, should provide adequate warning so homeowners aren't confronted with spur of the moment decisions on needed repairs.

The roof is a good example. Too many homeowners ignore the roof until it is in such bad shape that it has to be replaced immediately. The roof, like other components of a home, should be examined periodically to determine its condition.

Signs of a roof in need of replacement include curled, cracked and missing shingles. If spotted early, the homeowner can plan roofing just as carefully as any other improvement project. Among the decisions to be made are the material to be used, its design life, color and the cost of re-roofing.

Asphalt shingles can, in many cases, be applied over the old roof, eliminating the cost of a tearoff. Consider investing in three-dimensional asphalt shingles with a design life of up to 25 years or more.

Available in attractive earth-tone colors, these shingles require only minimal maintenance. At the same time, their multi-layered appearance creates rugged, attractive shadow lines.

To estimate the probably annual cost of a new roof, add the cost of labor and materials and divide the result by the years in the design life of the shingle. The longer lasting shingle may cost less in the long run because the cost of materials and labor is amortized over a longer period of time.

More information can be found in "A Homeowner's Guide to Quality Roofing." To obtain a copy, send 50 cents to the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association, Box 3248, Grand Central Station, New York, NY 10163.

SPECIAL VINYL COATING on these Armstrong ceiling tiles makes them resistant to staining from smoke, grease and other common household agents. Light pass with a damp sponge easily removes any dust or dirt. Do-it-yourself tiles can be stapled, cemented or clipped to the old ceiling.

Quincy Wins, 7-6 On Campbell's Grand Slam

Quincy baseball coach Bud Mosher would be happy if his team just once would roll over the opposition and give him a chance to sit back and relax.

Monday the Presidents, thanks to Bob Campbell's grand slam home run, edged Silver Lake, 7-6, marking the sixth successive game that was decided by a run on in extra innings. Quincy, following an 8-3 opening day win, then played four straight extra inning games and the last two games were decided by one run.

The Presidents, with a 4-3 record, played Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday, face North Quincy today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Adams Field, will host Newton North Monday at 3:30 at Adams and will play at Waltham next Wednesday.

Silver Lake, who earlier had edged Quincy, 5-4, in extra innings, jumped off to a 3-0 lead Monday but Quincy tied it up with three in the second. The Lakers went ahead, 5-3, in the top of the third but in the bottom of the fourth Campbell belted a grand slam homer over the left field fence at Adams Field. The Lakers missed by a whisker of tying the game in the seventh, scoring a run and having a run cut down at the plate.

Senior Joe Conti continued his outstanding relief pitching and evened his record at 3-3. In four innings in relief of Andy Eames Conti allowed five singles, struck out four, didn't issue a walk and gave up just one earned run.

Paul Cedrone was three for three, including a triple and scored three runs. Danny Sullivan, who earlier in the year had won an extra inning game with a two-run homer over the right field fence, also was three-for-three and had an RBI. John Balzano had two hits. Campbell was two for three and had his four RBIs. Conti had a single and a walk and had an RBI and Mark Chambers had an RBI with a sacrifice fly and Bob Mudge scored twice.

Last week Quincy battled back from a 5-1 deficit to tie Brockton, thanks to Mudge's base-clearing double, but Brockton scored in the sixth to win, 6-5.

Earlier in the week Balzano belted a two-run homer over the right field fence at Adams to give the Presidents a 10-inning, 5-3 decision over Brookline in the Presidents' fourth straight extra-inning game.

Conti picked up the win with 1 1/2 innings in relief of Mike Notarangelo. Notarangelo allowed five hits and struck out seven in 8 1/2 innings. All of Brookline's runs were unearned.

Conti came on in the ninth with Brookline ahead, 3-2. He threw one pitch to retire the side. In the bottom of the inning Mudge singled, stole second and scored on Conti's base hit just inside third base. Chambers led off the 10th with a walk, setting up Balzano for his big hit, his third of the game.

"These boys seem to relish being the cardiac kids, but I wish they'd win an easy one for a change," said Mosher. "It would be a lot easier on my heart. But they've done a good job of bouncing back."

8-Run Inning Gives QJC Win

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team scored eight runs before the first out was made in the sixth inning, something it had never done in its 15-year history, to defeat Wentworth, 8-3, and improve its record to 5-2.

The Jaguars host Newman Prep today (Thursday) at O'Rourke Field and will meet Bristol at O'Rourke next Tuesday, both at 3:30. The game with Wentworth was a real pitchers' duel for five innings with QJC having just one hit and Wentworth only three.

But in the sixth Gary DiNardo, who pitched another outstanding game, opened with a double. Brian Tobin, Tom Bowes and Bruce Tobin singled, Dave Bregoli and Rich Venti walked, Russ McIntyre, filling in for catcher Tom Canavan, hit a towering double and Steve Inrich, Dan Dunn and DiNardo (for the second time) singled to complete the big inning.

Wentworth came back in its half of the sixth with three runs on two hits and an error.

DiNardo pitched a six-hitter, struck out seven and didn't issue a walk.

"It certainly looked like one run would win the game as both pitchers looked strong," said QJC coach Dave Burk. "But suddenly our bats came alive and that was it."

Morrisette Tryouts

The Morrisette Legion baseball team will hold tryouts Saturday and Sunday at 1 p.m. at O'Rourke Field, Quarry St., West Quincy.

Any Quincy resident who was born on or after August 1, 1964 regardless of the school he attends is eligible to try out.

In the event of rain, tryouts are held every Saturday and Sunday in May at 1 p.m. at O'Rourke.

Zone 6 teams this year consist of Quincy, Weymouth, Hingham, Wollaston, Carter Post of Dorchester and Morrisette.

Zone 6-B consists of Braintree, Milton, Holbrook, Randolph and Canton.

League competition will begin June 8 with each team playing a 20-game schedule.

DAN SHEA, left, who won the Outstanding Player Award and the Father Pollard Award, and Bill O'Brien, right, who received the Good Neighbor Award for his role as a member of the St. Moritz hockey committee, receive their awards from Pat Lovett, the Northeast representative for CCM Sports Equipment at the recent St. Moritz hockey banquet at Valles in Braintree. Raiders Romp Over Newton N., 13-7

After being rained out of two games, the North Quincy baseball team finally got a game and a half in last week.

The Raiders romped over Newton North, 13-7, Friday to make their record 2-1. Earlier in the week they tied Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 4-4, the game being halted by rain after three innings. It will be resumed later.

North played at Waltham Tuesday, meets Quincy today (Thursday) at Adams Field at 3:30, will be at Brookline Monday and will host Brockton next Wednesday at Adams at 3:30.

Charlie Bunker's Raiders scored four runs in each of the first two innings to lead Newton, 8-3, and were never in danger.

Chris Bunker and Jack Bolker had three hits each and drove in nine runs between them. John Kozlowski had two hits and scored twice.

Relief pitcher Steve Hogan allowed six hits and struck out five over 6 2/3 innings to gain the victory.

Six-Hitter Burke Tops Malden

Bob Burke pitched a six-hitter and struck out seven as the Quincy High School baseball team defeated Malden, 5-2, for its first Greater Boston League victory of the season.

Walter O'Meara led the seven-hit Quincy attack with three hits and Don Darracq had two.

The Quincy lineup included: Milner 2b, Diloreto ss, Dalrymple 3b, Darracq rf, McDonald lf, Toland cf, Mattie lb, O'Meara c, Burke p, Beaumont cf, Coletta cf.

CUBIE HIT WINS

Bob Cubie singled with the bases loaded in the 15th inning to drive in the winning run as the Eastern Nazarene College baseball team edged Curry, 3-2, for its third straight win.

Jim Oliphant, the Curry pitcher, set a school record by striking out 25 Nazarene hitters.

The Eastern Nazarene lineup included: Bricker cf, Webb lf, Smith ss, Boden c, Hutchinson lb, Cubie lb, Roberts 3b, M. Mann 2b, Cornell rf, McDonald rf, Jones p.

LaBRECQUE, McCABE STAR

Paul LaBrecque and Jim McCabe had a hand in scoring seven runs as the North Quincy High School baseball team rolled to a 7-0 lead after two innings and went on to a 10-3 victory over Thayer Academy.

The Raider batters got only four hits but walks and Thayer errors gave them the scoring opportunities.

The North Quincy lineup included: Crowther 2b, Denmore lf, Sadlier, ss, McCabe c, LaBrecque lb, Johnson cf, Swirbalus, rf, Cataldo 3b, Ruggiero p.

LOCAL 5 WINS

The Local 5 team from Quincy got only four hits but three of them, a single by Ralph Morrison, a triple by Art Morgan and a double by Frank Barone, came back to back in the eighth inning for a 2-0 win over Milton in a South Shore League game.

TOP AWARD WINNERS

TENNIS TEAM WINS

Al Henderson, Les Wilson and Jim Ohrenberg won the singles matches and Steve Proctor and Paul Hurley captured the only doubles match as the Quincy High School tennis team blanked Whitman, 5-0, in a South Shore league meeting.

North Girls Track Team Has Good Nucleus

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track teams had fantastic success under Coach Lou Tozzi the past few years and, although the Raiderettes lost their opening meet last week under new coach Mark Mulvaney, they have the nucleus to have another good season.

North lost to Newton North, 67-55, as it lost both relays. The Raiderettes met Brockton Tuesday, will beat Brookline Friday and at Waltham next Tuesday.

"Perhaps we took Newton North too lightly," said Mulvaney, a former North athlete himself and an assistant Raider football coach. "But we have a lot of fine veterans and some good looking newcomers and I think we will do all right."

"I think maybe you can blame us coaches and not the girls for the loss to Newton," said Jeff Hennessy who, along with Mike Burke, are assisting Mulvaney as they did Tozzi. "May be we should have done some things differently. But we have a fine group of dedicated girls and I think we will have another good season."

North has a number of excellent veterans who starred for the outstanding winter team. They include such standouts as Lisa Fitzgerald, Linda Kennedy, Mary Gannon, Sheila Barrett, Julie Alibrandi, Janet and Joanne Zdanowski, Mary Ann Kelleher and Georgia Traficante.

The Raiderettes also have 15 fine freshman prospects who, if they continue to improve, will give the squad needed depth.

Fitzgerald and Janet Zdanowski are the best at 100 yards and Fitzgerald, Christine Francis and Kathy Stark top the 220-yards. In the 440 Alibrandi, Gannon and Ieresa Collings lead the way.

Kennedy, Joanne Zdanowski, Cheryl McCarthy and Tricia Leary are the half-milers, Sheila Barrett, Julie Walsh, Meg Leary, and Laura Barrett run the mile and Kelleher, Tracy Corrigan and Sharon Barrett the two-mile.

In the hurdles North has Laurie Magrath, Donna King and Lisa Stryker. Karen Bryan, Ann Marie Hughes and Kristen Dever are the long jumpers and Traficante, Fitzgerald, Collings, Stark and Gannon do the high jumping.

Michelle Palmer, Jean O'Hare, Denise Shields, Michelle Fish and King are the shot putters, Lynda Feeney, Ann Cooney, O'Hare and Shields are the hopes in the discus and Eileen Crehan, Traficante, Janet Zdanowski and Liz Loland are the best in the javelin.

In the loss to Newton the Raiderettes won five events but Newton had the depth.

Kennedy won the half-mile with McCarthy third, Sheila Barrett won the mile with Corrigan second and Meg Leary third, Kelleher won the two-mile with Sharon Barrett third, Crehan won the javelin with Traficante second and Traficante won the high jump.

Fitzgerald was second in the 100 and 220, Gannon second and Collings third in the 440, Magrath third in the hurdles, O'Hare third in the shot put and third in the discus.

The North girls made an excellent showing last Saturday in the Eastern Mass. relays at Andover.

They won the 4x800 relay in 9:43.2, with Kennedy, Corrigan, Kelleher and Sheila Barrett running.

In the distance medley North won with a record time of 12:52 but was disqualified due to a ruling unknown to Mulvaney.

"I am new and I didn't know that a girl couldn't run in two distance races in one meet," Mulvaney said. "As a result, Needham was declared the winner in 13:03.7, also a new record."

Running for the Raiderettes were Fitzgerald in the 440, Kelleher in the 880, Kennedy in the 1/4 mile and Barrett in the mile.

North finished second in javelin with a combined distance of 289-8. Eileen Crehan set a new school record of 127-5, Traficante threw 91-1 and Janet Zdanowski 71-2. The previous North record was 126-11 set last year by Michelle Millane, now a freshman standout at Northeastern University.

Crehan had done 121 feet earlier in the BC Relays.

Tozzi gave up the coaching reins this spring to devote full time to his new duties as coordinator of special education.

QUINCY'S Peggy Burchill had a good season for the Northeastern University women's ice hockey team, which finished with a 17-7 record.

Peggy Burchill Receives Letter At NU

Peggy Burchill of Quincy recently received her third varsity letter as a member of the 1983 women's ice hockey team at Northeastern University.

She was one of the Huskie's mainstays on defense, and on the offense scored a goal and nine assists for 10 points.

The Huskies with a 17-7 record progressed to the semifinals of the EIAIW Championships at the University's Matthews Arena but bowed out to eventual champion Providence College, 4-3, in overtime.

Miss Burchill is a 1979 graduate of Quincy High School, where she earned varsity letters in softball and basketball and played defense on the Club A team in hockey.

A Dean's List student at Northeastern, she is an Industrial Engineering major and will graduate in 1984.

Girls Softball Raiderettes Bow To Notre Dame

The North Quincy girls' softball team suffered its first loss Monday to Notre Dame Academy of Hingham, 8-3, in a non-league game at Hingham and took a 2-1 record into Tuesday's game with Waltham.

Lou Ioanilli's Raiderettes face Quincy today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Faxon Field, will host Brookline Monday at 3:30 at Artery Field and will be at Brockton next Wednesday at 3:30.

Monday North's attack which had been strong in the first two games, was throttled with Lisa Tenaglia and Mary Holleran, with two hits apiece, the only players to hit.

Last Friday North outslugged Newton, 11-9, in extra innings with Tenaglia having four hits, including a homer, and four RBI, and Halloran winning the game with a two-run homer in the eighth inning. Debbie Kiley had two hits. Karen Boutlier pitched all the way for the win.

Earlier the Raiderettes had opened with an easy 9-1 win over Cambridge Rindge-Latin, a Suburban League game as was the Newton game.

Holleran had three hits and the other hits were well split up. Boutlier pitched five innings for the win and Lisa Ventola pitched the final two innings.

Smith Homer Gives Cubs Tie With Dodgers

Jimmy Smith hit a home run in the bottom of the sixth inning to give the Cubs a 9-9 tie with the Dodgers in a Junior Farm I league game halted by darkness.

Brian Kelly for the Cubs and Scott Dunn for the Dodgers were the starting pitchers. The Dodgers scored five runs in the first, then were held off by the relief pitching of Chris Stenmon, Mike Malvesti and Eddie Rizzitano until the top of the sixth when the Dodgers scored four times. Dunn went all the way for the Dodgers.

Kelly had two triples and a double for the Cubs. Smith had two singles in addition to his game-tying homer and a newcomer, Bill Remoivitz, played a perfect game in center field for the Cubs. For the Dodgers Dunn and Brian Campbell led the attack.

The Braves rolled over the Pirates, 14-3, with Peter White the winning pitcher.

While had a home run, double and single, Paul Harrington two hits and Milton Sullian, Keith Douglas and Jeremy Burr one each for the Braves. Bobby Ricciardi played an outstanding game at first base. For the Pirates Billy Lydon had two hits and Jason Radzevich (double), Ben Smith and Mike I Innane one each.

Atherton Hough Wins Girls Middle School Crown

Atherton Hough defeated Montclair, 24-26, to win the first girls' Middle School championship in the all-city basketball tournament sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Dept. This was the first time a Middle School division has been conducted, the change reflecting the new grade policy of the Quincy Public Schools.

Seven players scored in a well-balanced attack for Coach Marjorie Cristiani's Atherton Hough team in the title game. Wendy Sterling led all scorers with 10 points, Sue Blowers and Maureen Lyons had eight each and Karen Craig, Debby Hall, Cheryl McInnis and Beth Rudolph had two points each.

Montclair coach Simmy Koch received fine center play from Melissa Miles, who had nine points. Nancy Leonard had nine points and Stacey Welch eight. Cheryl Brandolina, Kim Bridges, Erin Grogan, Peggy Hein, Lisa Mitton and Lisa Rodriguez all played well.

Atherton Hough advanced to the finals with a 27-9 win over Snug Harbor as seven girls again scored. Hall had six points, Lyons and Joanna Dondora four each and Kim Robertson, Pat Morrell, Blowers and Sterling two apiece.

Kerry Mortimer, Caroline Kennedy, Jill Bonner and Missy Burkhead all played well for Coach Bernie DePietro's Snug Harbor team.

Montclair made the finals by edging Squantum, 27-25. Welch had 10 points, Leonard six and Lee Fitzgerald and Debbie Early two apiece.

For Coach Donna Fennessey's Squantum team Anne McGuiggan scored 14 points and was strong off the boards, and Sara and Elizabeth Harrington, Sheila D'Antona and Jane Wolowitz played well.

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch presented trophies to the Atherton Hough players and certificates of merit to the Montclair players.

Leone 'Doing Well'

Carl Leone, Quincy's long-time director of athletics who recently was selected as Div. I South Athletic Director of the Year by his fellow ADs, is recovering from a mild stroke at Quincy City Hospital and is making good progress.

Leone suffered the stroke after playing nine holes of golf at Wollaston Golf Club in Milton. He was taken to Milton Hospital, then transferred to Quincy City Hospital.

"He's much improved and doing well, but we don't know when he will be released from the hospital," his wife Greta said Sunday. "After playing golf, he was playing cards and I guess he just went blank."

Leone, who had heart trouble about 20 years ago, suffered no paralysis and, according to his doctor, Dr. Eliot Young, his condition is "good" and he isn't expected to be in the hospital much longer.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR GROWING MINIS

North Looks Good In State Relays

The North Quincy boys' track team made a good showing in last weekend's Class B state relays at Andover and the 4x880 relay team won for the second time in a big meet.

The team of junior Jeff Stryker (2:02), sophomore Scott Coyne (2:07), junior Tom Kearney (2:08) and junior Jim Kennedy (2:01) ran head to head with Norwood until Kennedy's strong anchor leg was too much for Norwood all-scholastic John Goode.

Earlier, in the Boston

College Relays, the same quartet had won with Stryker turning in the best leg, an excellent 1:58.4.

In the state relays the long jump team of Kearney, Stryker and Garth Petracca placed fourth with Kearney having the best jump, a fine 19-5½, his best this season.

It was a long day for Stryker and Kearney, who came back with Coyne and Kennedy to place fifth in the mile relay with their best time of the year, 3:35.6.

Also competing were the sprint medley relay team of sophomores Joe Bangs and Colin Powers, junior Kevin Kelly and Petracca; the 4x220 team of Kelly, Petracca, Powers and senior Dave Ceurvels, and another 4x880 team of freshmen Harry Morash and Heath Petracca sophomore Tom Wildes and junior Steve Golden.

The Raiders, coached by former North Quincy and Cornell star Bart Petracca, faced Brockton yesterday (Wednesday) and will meet Brookline Friday at 3:15 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy Girls Off To Good Tennis Season

The Quincy girls' tennis team, coached by Shirley Laing, is off to a good start and took a 3-1 record into Tuesday's meet with Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

The First Ladies play North Quincy today at 3:30 at the Vo-Tech courts and will play at Newton North Monday.

Monday Quincy blanked Waltham, 5-0, losing only one set all afternoon.

Denise DePietro, Jacqueline Coleman and Jennifer Delapaz swept the singles in straight sets.

In doubles Mary Marchese and Maureen Seamans had to go three sets, while Joanne Doherty and Kathy Egan won in straight sets.

Last week Quincy blanked Brockton, 5-0, with Coleman, Delapaz and ninth grader Beth Doherty sweeping the singles and Marchese and Seamans, Joanna Doherty and Egan winning the doubles.

Earlier Quincy was blanked by Brookline, 5-0, and defeated Weymouth South, 4-1, in a non-league match.

Somersault Gym Teams Win USGF Championship

The Somersault Center boys gymnastics teams of North Quincy recently won the state USGF championships in Class II (13-15 years) and Class I (16-18) in Waltham. The individual gymnasts all qualified for the regional championships in June.

The Class II team was led by Jerry Haran, who played second in all-around with an impressive 105.1 score. Roberto Weil had his best meet of the year as he scored 92.8 for fourth place, Dave Johnson scored 90.3 for seventh place and Steve Wingert made a big climb to 80.8 in all-around.

The Class I team was outstanding as Carlton Noble won the all-around with 105.0. He had his best optional routine output ever at 53.3. Mark Arnold placed second at 104.9 and John Hill finished the sweep in third place with 101.8.

All the boys in Class I or II who scored 90 points or better have a good chance of moving on to the national championships this summer in Eugene, Ore.

St. John's Intermediate Champs Awarded Jackets

Championship jackets were awarded the members of the undefeated St. John's Intermediate girls' basketball team at a recent banquet in the church hall.

The girls breezed through the Quincy division of the YMCA South Shore Church League and then defeated Emmanuel, Fort Point and Sacred Heart in playoffs with the Braintree division.

Coached by the father-daughter combination of Jim and Kathy Duggan, the team included Marilyn Burke, Tina Calabro, Andrea Contrino, Ginny Duggan, Terry Duggan, Kim Litterio, Laura Salibe, Siobhan Sheils, Linda Walsh and Alyse Zaechco.

Six of the players have met defeat only once while winning four championships in three different age brackets over the last four years.

One veteran coach at the final game this year called it the best girls' team he had ever seen at that age bracket.

Applications Ready For Senior Olympics

Applications are being accepted from Quincy residents 50 and over who plan to participate in the Senior Olympic Games scheduled for the weekend of June 10-12 at Faxon Field and Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Information and application forms are available at many locations throughout the city or may be obtained by calling 471-5712 or 773-1380, extension 479.

There is a $3 registration fee for each person who enters prior to the deadline of Wednesday, June 1. Late registration fee is $4 and every competitor will receive an Olympic T-shirt.

Olympic style medals will be awarded to first, second and third place finishers in each event with separate awards for men and women.

In some events, competitors will be grouped in ages 50-59, 60-67, 68-75 and over 75.

DELPHI HEALTH MANAGEMENT Institute of North Quincy, in cooperation with American Cablesystems, developed 22 shows which focus on the impact of chronic illness on family members of the disabled person. Pictured above during a celebration for those who participated in the show are Steve Marx, director of public access for Quincy Cablesystems; Dr. Ronald G. Hersch, of the Delphi Center, who hosted and produced the series; Gwen Linton of Arlington; Robert Carey; Ann Pawlik; Nancy Fidler; Thomas Pawlik.

'Families' TV Series Deals With Chronic Illness Impact

The television series "Families", developed for American Cablesystems by the Delphi Health Management Institute, has had a positive response by the initial viewing audience in Quincy.

The series, consisting of 30-minute segments, educates the viewer on the impact of chronic illness on family members of the disabled person.

Each show provides a description of the illness or disability followed by a discussion with three people who have an immediate relative with the illness.

Relatives describe their family member with the illness and discuss the unique problems each illness presents and how different families have adapted. Family adjustment is the focus of the shows, but details of the illnesses are mentioned.

Shows completed deal with alcoholism, Alzheimers Syndrome, asthma, blindness, cerebral palsy.

communication disorders, cystic fibrosis, deafness, epilepsy, mental retardation, Parkinsons Disease, schizophrenia, spina bifida, stroke and traumatic injury.

The staff of the "Families" series will be filming more shows concerning the impact of disabilities, life crises and difficult life situations.

Shows were hosted and produced by Dr. Ronald G. Hersch and directed by Martha O'Bryan. The sound was done by Jack Walsh and lighting by Tom Pawlik. Camera work was by Nancy Fidler and Ann Pawlik. Technical assistance was provided by Erin O'Bryan, Kate Walsh and Marguerite Nardozi. Ailene Robinson, talent scout and coordinator for the project, was responsible also for the research, and floor direction and liaison with support groups.

WEEK OF: MAY 5

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Surprise news gets week off to an unpredictable start. Don't reveal confidences to someone you barely know; your perception is not as sharp as you think. Romance improves.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Unhappy acquaintances try their hardest to bring you down to their level; best to mingle with cheerful types. Boredom at work turns to excitement and you're in the heart of the activity.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Social gathering can bring you in touch with a useful business contact. A more liberated approach proves helpful at work. Old debts should be collected promptly.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Accent is on verbal communication. Cancer and Virgo figure in week's enjoyment. Good time to launch financial projects, conclude creative tasks. Weekend is a lucky period.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Weekend includes some coincidences, and long-awaited career announcement comes by Wednesday. You find yourself involved in the domestic disputes of others; remain detached.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Accent creativity in all realms of life, especially in your work environment. Trouble brewing among friends should not affect you if you're careful. Intimate parties favored on weekend.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Craft projects and hobbies involving collections are favored. Painfully critical friend may need a candid statement from you. Prudence is accentuated in new financial ventures.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Loved one is uncommonly empathetic and understands your motives and dreams. Behind-the-scenes maneuvers will positively affect your lifestyle. Dramatic events scattered through the week.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Explain any difficult situations before you're hopelessly entangled. Rewards for hard work are yours at last. Do your best to relieve a relative's stress.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Relatives play increasingly time-consuming role; ensure that you have time for yourself. Unexpected correspondence arrives after the weekend. Loved one is in a mood for fun.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Minor financial setbacks are somewhat offset by gains in prestige and reputation. In relationships, it's tempting to oversimplify what's taking place. Digging deep is the key.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Be wary of opportunists, and avoid any sort of reckless activity. New friendships are enhanced now, but old alliances cannot be ignored. Travel plans are solidified.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Sentimental, practical, shy about promoting your best talents, and very sensitive. Mental stimulation and academic expansion are heightened over the next twelve months. Financial bonuses are concentrated late in the summer. Money matters require great care.

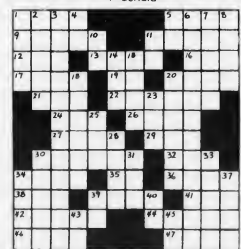

BORN THIS WEEK

May 5th, singer Tammy Wynette; 6th, producer Ross Hunter; 7th, actress Anne Baxter; 8th, actress Melissa Gilbert; 9th, actor Albert Finney; 10th, actor Fred Astaire; 11th, dancer Martha Graham.

The final standings: McIntyre, 124-76 (total pinfall of 26,468); Brett, 122-78 (25,917); Local 1451, 119-81 (26,449); Bowladrome, 115-85 (25,973); Montclair, 112-88 (26,376); Morrissey, 104-96 (25,989); Quincy Sun, 103-97 (25,551); Elks, 89-111 (26,004); Burke, 84-116 (25,337); Atlantic, 80-120 (25,203); Bryan Post, 79-121 (25,467); Harold, 69-131 (25,798).

Dan Batts of Elks rolled the weekly high single of 141 and the high three of 317.

The Burke Club had the high team single of 425 and the Bowladrome had the high three of 1139.

The final 300 Club: Batts, 317; Neil Hatfield, 305; Bill Denneen, 304; Rich Brooks, 304; John Waterman, 302; Sean Gately, 301; Frank Doherty, 300; Tom Cook, 300; Jim Saley, 300.

Hatfield was the top bowler, finishing with a 104.8 average, followed by Brian Flanagan, 99.9; Saley, 99.5; John Broadbent, 96.4; Matt Miceli, 96.3; Brooks, 95.2; Batts, 95.1; Cook, 94.9; Mike Grimaldi, 94.5; John Outerbridge, 94.4.

The Little Loop entries for the MBA state championship tournament at Norwood Sunday, May 15, will report at the Wollaston Bowladrome this Saturday at 10 a.m.

The 29th annual awards dinner will be held Wednesday night, May 25, at 6:30, at the Montclair Men's Club. Tony Collins of the New England Patriots will be the speaker. Fathers ticket reservations will be accepted Saturday from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Bowladrome.

May 12 Deadline For LaBrecque Essay Contest

Thursday, May 12, is the deadline for submitting entries in the Richard T. LaBrecque Historical Essay Contest sponsored by the Education Committee of the Quincy Historical Society.

Theme is "Daily Life in Quincy, 1941-1945, An Oral History."

Awards of two, $100 savings bonds will be given May 26 at a meeting of the Quincy Historical Society. Papers, a minimum of six typewritten pages, double spaced, should be submitted to the Quincy Historical Society, Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center.

Students must interview three people, a worker, homemaker student or child who lived in Quincy between 1941-1945.

Entries will be judged by content and grammatical style. Students may want to use a tape recorder in their interviews.

The contest is open to all high school students living in Quincy.

For more information, contact Education Committee, Doris A. Lunn, chairman, Quincy Historical Society, tel. 773-1144.

License Granted For Sidewalk Bazaar

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association was granted permission by the License Board Tuesday to conduct its annual Sidewalk Bazaar July 14, 15 and 16.

Executive director Kenneth Fallon was instructed to forward to the board a list of merchants and others who will participate in the event.

Fallon told the board he has received verbal permission to hold the annual Miss Quincy Bay Pagant at Quincy Center Plaza rather than at the intersection of Hancock and Coddington Sts.

'Quincy Looking Great' Cleanup Underway

Plans for "Quincy Looking Great," the city's cleanup and beautification campaign, got underway this week with Mayor Francis X. McCauley proclaiming May the "Quincy Looking Great Month."

"This is Quincy's own do-it-yourself project for spring," said Patricia Toland, chairman of the City Council's Beautification Committee and coordinator of the event.

"Schools and businesses have been contacted to participate and we want as many volunteers as possible."

Residents are being urged to clean up their own property and make sure their trash is properly secured from dogs and wind. Businessmen are asked to do the same.

"If everyone tends to their own property first by picking up around the house and keeping lids on trash barrels there will be an immediate improvement in the appearance of the neighborhood," said Toland.

A city-wide cleanup will take place on Saturday, May 21.

It is suggested that residents call the Department of Public Works at 773-1380 if they have any large or unusual piece of trash that they want to get rid of the day before their regular pickup.

"We are trying to encourage every business and every citizen to get involved in cleaning up his or her own neighborhood," said Clara Yeomans, former executive secretary of the Conservation Commission.

"Making Quincy a more beautiful city should be done on a block by block basis."

Those who wish to volunteer for the cleanup should call Mrs. Yeomans at 773-5306.

The Clean City Committee, of which Mrs. Yeomans is a member, will meet Tuesday, May 10, at 7:30 p.m. on the second floor conference room at City Hall to make final plans.

The cleanup campaign will be followed by a beautification effort on the part of the city's garden clubs and individuals.

"The cleanup campaign is just the beginning of a long range plan to make our city look its best by educating the public to the goals of proper trash disposal and beautification through plantings," said Mrs. Toland.

Quincy Point Death Accident

Police are treating as accidental the death last week of Orlando Martell, 32, of 81 Pond St., Quincy Point, who died a few hours after he was found unconscious in the street in front of his home.

At first, police called it an apparent homicide.

Martell, who worked for the Post Office in Roxbury, was taken to City Hospital, when transferred to Carney Hospital, Boston, where he died April 28.

New Friel Therapists Are Cat's Meow

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Two new co-therapists at the Friel Nursing Home in Wollaston are drawing raves from residents and staff.

And the two, who also live at the home, would probably prefer a pat on the head to a pay check at the end of the work week.

Robert and Loriaren't part of a new breed of professionals.

They're part of a different species — feline — and they're adding a lot to the lives of Friel residents according to the activity director.

The cats are just beautiful," says Mrs. Valerie Gorrill, activity director at the home for the past two years.

"They've given a great deal of happiness.

"I hope other nursing homes will participate."

The 10-month-old, tri-color female cats, residents of the home since the end of March, are part of a Pet Facilitated Therapy and Companionship Project.

Initiated in 1976, the project is conducted by the Junior League of Boston, the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and Angell Memorial Animal Hospital.

"The basis for the Pet Facilitated Therapy Project is the natural rapport established between humans and animals independent of other therapists, family and friends," stated project chairman Sherry Mattison.

"Pet Therapy means exactly what it says: the pet is the therapist. Through the animal's unconditional love and unqualified approval, the pet naturally and spontaneously elicits from the residents their trust, love and practical care."

"The cats get a great deal of attention," says Mrs. Gorrill, "they are lively and active and they amuse the patients."

"Stroking the cats is very therapeutic as well" adds Mrs. Gorrill, "it's very relaxing."

The cats fit into the home's routine just about from the start.

"There are always one or two who just don't like cats," says Mrs. Gorrill, "but the majority have enjoyed them from the beginning."

Luckily, there have been no problems with allergies to the cats.

In addition to providing companionship, the cats are a source of conversation among patients.

"It gives them something to talk about," explained Mrs. Gorrill.

They also give some patients a reason to get up and out of their rooms.

Alice Powers, an arthritic patient, used to leave her room very seldom, explained Mrs. Gorrill. Since taking the cats "under her wing" she's out of her room more and more each day.

"Having them here has done a tremendous amount of good," said Mrs. Gorrill.

"So many people have to leave their pets when they come into a place like this."

"They add so much to their lives. It really makes it even more like home."

Ed. note: The Pet Facilitated Therapy Companionship Project has placed over 30 cats and dogs in long-term care facilities in the Boston area. For more information on the program, call Sherry Mattison, at 326-0950.

McCauley: 'Distressing News' Burgin Parkway Runs Into Money Roadblock

By TOM HENSHAW

The MDC informed a surprised Mayor Francis X. McCauley Tuesday that it does not have the money to meet its role in the complicated construction schedule leading to the building of the long-awaited Burgin Parkway Extension.

McCauley called it "distressing news."

Planning Director James Lydon said it was anticipated that bids for construction of the Extension from Rte. 3 to Granite St. would go out sometime this spring with a start of construction expected late in the summer.

Now, he said, even if the MDC finds the money quickly, bids cannot go out before the fall.

Francis McCarron, the MDC's director of parks, dropped the bombshell at a meeting in the State House Tuesday morning with city officials and representatives of other agencies involved in the South Quincy projects.

The MDC's part in the project is a drain that would channel Town Brook under the Burgin Parkway Extension to connect with a deep rock tunnel under Quincy Center. The tunnel is the responsibility of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Back in 1978, the MDC was given $5 million in state funds for construction of the drains but McCarron told the Tuesday meeting that between $1.4 and $1.5 million in added funds will be needed for the project.

McCauley said it was not clear whether the MDC had spent that much of the original $5 million on other projects or if the cost had been increased by inflation.

The mayor said the only way that the money can be raised is by way of a state capital outlay budget and, he added, "there hasn't been a capital outlay budget approved by the legislature in several years."

Sen. Paul D. Harold, at whose instigation the Tuesday meeting was held, said he plans to take the problem to the office of Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who, by chance, happened to be governor in 1978 when the original $5 million was granted.

It is important that the drainage project be completed before the Extension is built since, in order to do so afterward, the Extension would have to be torn up.

Also tied in with the drain and the Extension is the South Quincy sewer project, including the Fort Square pumping station, that is necessary to open up the area once again to development, which is currently banned.

McCauley said there is a possibility that the sewer project can be carried out independently.

"Everybody was shocked that the MDC did not have the money," said Lydon. "That was the one problem that we did not anticipate. We thought we had gotten over the last hurdle with the approval of the environmental aspects."

The city received word only Monday from the State

Added Patrols To Aid QSD Traffic, Says Geary

MDC Commissioner William Geary of Wollaston says he is hopeful that the 60 officers scheduled to be added to MDC patrols this summer will make a noticeable difference in enforcement of speed limits on Quincy/Shore Drive.

Geary met recently with city officials and members of the legislative delegation and residents of the Wollaston Beach area at the Beechwood Knoll Community Life Center.

Geary said he expected that the TOPS squad will be fully utilized this summer and stepped up patrols should be able to curb the public drinking on the beach.

Team policing, which will include the use of motorcycle patrols and, on a limited basis, horse patrols, will supplement the patrol cars this summer, he said.

The Commissioner promised Rep. Thomas F. Brownell that there would be a comprehensive clean-up of the beach, including rock and glass removal and adequate sand sifting.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey suggested that special consideration be given to the overhead street lighting by defining the high risk areas with brighter lights and changing the timing on traffic lights.

Also present at the meeting were Sen. Paul D. Harold and City Councilors Joanne Condon, Stephen McGrath and Patricia Toland.

Nomination Papers Available May 23

Candidates for city office in the fall elections will be able to pick up nomination papers at City Hall starting Monday, May 23. Election Clerk Thomas Burke said

They will be available until 5 p.m. Friday, July 29, and papers with the required number of signatures must be filed by 5 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 2.

If there are more than two candidates for each available office, there will be a preliminary election Tuesday, Sept. 13, with the general election scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 8.

2 Shepherd Puppies Stolen

Two 7-week-old shepherd puppies, valued at $400, were reported stolen Sunday morning from the home of Harold W. Chubbuck of 95 Chubbuck St., Quincy Point.

Chubbuck told police he was in his backyard putting up a fence when he heard a dog barking. He ran out in front of the house just in time to see two youths running off with the puppies. They got into a white Mercury Cougar, he said, and fled. He described them as white, about 5-foot-10, in their early 20s. One was wearing a blue striped shirt with tan slacks.

Dr. McKeogh Appeals Ouster As Commissioner

Dr. Robert McKeogh has appealed the dismissal of his suit seeking reinstatement as Public Health Commissioner.

The suit was dismissed by Norfolk Superior Court Judge George W. Cashman before it went to trial so, should Dr. McKeogh win the appeal, the case would be sent back to superior court for trial.

Dr. McKeogh was ousted as commissioner by Mayor Francis X. McCauley on grounds that he failed to devote his entire time to his department duties.

Safe Stolen

A safe containing an undetermined amount of money was torn from its concrete moorings at the Mug and Muffin on Beale

St., Wollaston, Sunday night by thieves who apparently remained in the restaurant after closing time.

He was also accused of practicing medicine during working hours and failing to meet the statutory requirements for the commissioner's job when he was appointed.

Kelly Urges Speedy Public Landing Opinion

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has asked the Public Works Department for immediate action in repairing the public landing float in Houghs Neck for recreation, "hopefully by the long Memorial Day weekend." "This is the only public boating dock in the city and many will be able to take advantage of this facility as soon as it is ready," said Kelly in a letter to Commissioner Paul N. Anderson.

'Work To Rule' Ended By QEA

The Quincy Education Association has abandoned its "work to rule" strategy that was aimed at moving stalemate contract negotiations with the School Committee off center.

"I'm disappointed," said Herman (Hank) Pasquarella, president of the QEA. "I thought that would have been the weapon to use against the School Committee. But I don't believe the committee was affected."

Starting the first week in February, teachers at selected schools had refused to do any extra curricular work that was not spelled out in the contract.

"I may have miscalculated," said Pasquarella. "I thought parents would have more influence with the School Committee. I guess they don't."

Pasquarella said the "work to rule" order was to be lifted yesterday (Wednesday) at 11 p.m. and all teachers would resume their extra curricular tasks tomorrow morning.

"I think work to rule served its purpose," he said. "It called attention to the fact that teachers had been negotiating unsuccessfully."

"There's no sense letting it go on any longer. It came in with a show. It's going out with a whimper."

Police To Honor 6 At Retirement

Six retiring Quincy police officers will be honored at the third annual retirement dinner-dance Thursday, May 19, at the Bryan VFW Post hall.

Social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30 p.m. and dancing until 12:30 a.m.

Those to be honored with their service time are: Lt.

Corady Colmini, 33 years; Sgt. Robert Quintiliani, 21 years; Officers James Buchanan, 17 years; Lawrence Curtin, 22 years; Louis McDonald, 12 years; and Edward Weddleton, 11 years.

Tickets at $15 each may be obtained by calling Nancy at the chief's office, 479-1212, extension 323.

Board Suspends Reggie's License For 30 Days

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board voted unanimously Tuesday to suspend for 30 days the liquor license of Reggie's Inc., 7-9 Copeland St., West Quincy, after an incident which allegedly involved a gun shot.

The suspension is for May 17 to June 15. It can be appealed within five days to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission.

The tense, hour and a half hearing included use of the Fifth Amendment and sworn testimony by Reggie's employees and a police officer.

The officer, Det. Richard Bergeron, said that owner Paul Reggiannini proposed that he "give me a small time drug dealer in lieu of giving up his license for the premises."

The hearing had been continued since April 26 when Quincy Police Lt. David Rowell, chief of detectives, described the Feb. 18 incident to the board from a police report.

Rowell said police called to the scene that night found napkins with apparent blood stains in the bar, an alleged bullet hole in a pool table and a fragment from a .38 caliber-type fire arm.

According to Det. Robert Miller, bartender Frank

Morris said he was downstairs getting beer when the alleged incident took place. Morris said he heard a sound he thought was a cue stick breaking.

When Morris went back upstairs, he was told by patrons that shots had been fired and he closed the bar, Miller said.

Last week's hearing was continued to allow testimony by Cheryl Egan of West Quincy and Police Officer William Lanergan.

This week, Police Chief Francis Finn began to question Miss Egan, a minor, about the incident, but she pleaded the Fifth Amendment on the grounds that she might incriminate herself. She was dismissed from the hearing.

Lanergan, a police officer in West Quincy, told the board that on Feb. 18 he stopped a vehicle in the vicinity of Reggie's which had as passengers three females and a male, who was bleeding heavily from a head wound.

The man said he had been in a fight inside Reggie's and had been hit by an unknown object, according to Lanergan.

The man was given first aid and allowed to proceed to the hospital for treatment, Lanergan said. The origin of the head wound was not disclosed.

Lanergan also said that there was a delay in police being admitted to Reggie's, and that the alleged bullet hole was in a video machine, not a pool table.

After obtaining a search warrant, Lanergan said he returned to Reggie's and found a spent shell from a cartridge.

Fred Taylor of Braintree, a pizza cook at Reggie's, said that he didn't see any guns or hear any gun shots the night of the incident.

Taylor said there was a delay in letting police into the bar because the employees didn't at first realize who it was.

The video machine with the alleged bullet hole was used as a work bench, added Taylor, and had "all kinds of nicks."

Morris, a Quincy resident who has worked at Reggie's for one and half years, also denied seeing anyone with a rifle, shotgun or handgun.

There was blood on the floor of the bar from a fight between a brother and sister earlier in the evening, Morris said.

Paul Reggiannini, Reggie's owner for six and a half years, said that he was summoned to the bar

Bus Catches Fire On Expressway

A bus heading south on the Southeast Expressway in West Quincy Saturday morning caught fire when the brakes locked but there were no reported injuries.

Fire Lt. Joseph Graham said the unidentified driver of the Alliance Drum and Bugle Co. bus was warned by a passing motorist that the back of the bus was on fire.

The bus was able to make it to a breakdown area past East Milton Sq. Two pieces of fire apparatus responded.

State police directed traffic and there was no major tie-up, Graham said. The bus carried no passengers and there was no estimate of damage.

Man's Humanity To Man

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The querulous among us, myself included, who delight in wailing and complaining that the world is going to hell in a handcart can now take heart with restored faith in "man's humanity to man" — and woman, I hasten to add.

Particularly those prophets of doom and gloom in our twilight and sunset years who moan and groan that folks don't show the same neighborly feeling of care and concern for others that was prevalent in the "golden olden days" of our youth.

For yet another recent example of selfless concern for the health and well-being of one's fellow man, and woman — the ongoing Health Fairs all over the community — has caused me to reassess my chronic carping about how much more considerate and compassionate folks were in the long ago when we were growing up in historic Quincy. For those same virtues exist today, if only we seek them out.

My changing attitude that everyone isn't imbued with a "what's-in-it-for-me" complex and won't help others except on a quid-pro-quo basis was buttressed by recent visits to Quincy City Hall and South Shore Plaza to avail myself of the generous services offered for a medical checkup.

Imagine, for a moment, the inestimable amount of good — healthwise — that derives from such a comprehensive health assessment usually costing in the neighborhood of $150. A neighborhood that all too many can ill afford because of tightened purse strings. Except for a minimal charge for a blood chemistry test that screened for 10 different diseases, the medical checkup offered was free.

Blessed are they who volunteered their time and efforts in the interests of better health for the legion of folks who participated in this increasingly-popular service the physicians, hospitals, dentists, optometrists, podiatrists and chiropractors offer. But, lest we forget, glowing kudos are merited by kindly volunteers everywhere — in all walks of life — who pause in the mad rush to eternity to lend a helping hand to those in need. Particularly they who spread a ray of sunshine in the lives of the infirm and the lonely. May their tribe increase! For, in the wise words of Adam Smith: To feel much for others, and little for ourselves; to restrain our selfish, and exercise our benevolent affections, constitutes the perfection of human nature.

Ergo: a grateful salute to all volunteers and their labor of love!

Some Tips On Safes

Are you thinking about purchasing a safe to protect your valuables from burglars?

Here are some tips about safes for home or office: Unless you're thinking about the safe as a protection from fire as well as burglars, a "chest type" safe is the best.

If the safe is a movable type, be sure to remove the wheels and anchor it to the floor.

Do not leave a written copy of the combination on the premises.

When an employee resigns or is discharged, change the combination of the safe.

Spin the dial at least four times when you are locking the safe.

Make bank deposits as frequently as possible and try not to rely on a safe for the overnight protection of valuables.

'Bones' Is Missing

"The Case of the Missing Skeleton" has Quincy Junior College baffled.

And, a little embarrassed.

The other day, a volunteer camera crew from Quincy Cablestems was taping a nursing class at Quincy Voc-Tech as part of a documentary on the role of Quincy Junior College.

The students were in their places, the bright lights were on, and the cameras ready to roll.

A locker in which the laboratory skeleton is kept was wheeled into place as part of the segment. Just before the cameras started to move in, the locker was opened. It was empty. No skeleton.

The skeleton had been used the past two years to acquaint nursing students with the structure of the human frame — the hip bone is connected to the thigh bone, the thigh bone is connected to . . . and so on.

What happened to the skeleton?

Maybe, someone suggested, it suddenly got tired of all the probing with a lecturer's pointer.

Or, perhaps, just became dejected by being called "Bones". No respect.

The last time "Bones" had put in a classroom appearance was last January.

Either the skeleton is in some closet (no pun intended) or somebody swiped it.

The skeleton cost the school about $650 two years ago. A replacement today would go for at least $1,000. Inflation. Even the price of bones have gone up!

KELLY

Kelly was insisting that the Nut Island Treatment plant and Moon Island were polluting Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

He had hardly gotten the words out of his mouth when the station put a news bulletin on: Deer Island equipment had broken down and was releasing raw sewage to Moon Island.

"That was Friday," said Kelly later. "By Sunday millions of gallons of sewage had gone into the bay."

SPEAKING OF KELLY, he will launch his reelection bid at a reception June 20 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the

CAMPFIRE PRECAUTIONS

You've heard it from Smokey the Bear, but some things can't be said too often. Know how to build a campfire properly before you attempt to do so. Preferably, select as your fire site a sand or gravel area if stone grills are not available at your camping ground.

If you must build your campfire on the ground, do so in the center of a ten-foot circle that has been meticulously cleared of leaves, needles, grass, and twigs; if possible, mark the boundaries of the circle with closely placed stones.

Never, ever leave a fire unattended, even for a few seconds. Before you depart from your campsite, be certain the fire is out — completely out.

Avoid a less frequent but nonetheless real hazard if you're doing charcoal cookery in a hibachi or portable grill: never take hot charcoal briquets into a closed car, camper, or station wagon in which you are sleeping, in order to provide warmth through a chilly night. A dangerous — and lethal — accumulation of carbon monoxide can result, and deaths have occurred in this manner.

REV. BEDROS BAHARIAN, long-time Quincy Planning Board chairman and $1 a year city development coordinator, who recently stepped into retirement, will be honored at a testimonial dinner May 24.

The event will be held at the National Fire Protection Association Building, Batterymarch Park, Quincy with a social hour at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

An appropriate site. He and former Mayor Arthur Tobin played key roles in the NFPA making Quincy its new headquarters.

Planning Director James Lydon is committee chairman for the tribute.

PAUL FELDMAN, who started his newspaper career with The Quincy Sun in 1973, will be joining the staff of the Los Angeles Times in May. Paul, the son of Marion Feldman and the late Jay Feldman of Jason's, is a good newspaper man: writing ability, the know-how to sniff out a news story, and plenty of enthusiasm. Those ingredients were noticeable in his first days at The Sun. He went on from here to the Lawrence Eagle Tribune, the Wisconsin State Journal in Madison, Wis. and the Bergen Record in Bergen County, N.J. Best of luck, Paul.

CHARLES SHEA's name was being mentioned some weeks back as a possible mayoral challenger to Mayor McCauley.

Shea, of course, has served Quincy in a number of posts — elected and appointed. He was a city councillor and state representative, city auditor and purchasing agent. (He also ran for mayor against Amelio Della Chiesa back in 1963.) He's happy now in private business. And his wife, Cecilia, is even happier.

She doesn't want him back in politics and definitely not as a mayoral contender.

She puts it this way with a smile and a little meaning:

"If the hat goes in the ring, the ring (wedding) goes in the hat."

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions win T-shirts. The next two win bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to win in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the chairman of the City Council's Finance Committee?
2. The youngest member of the Quincy City Council is: Richard J. Koch Jr.? Stephen J. McGrath? Patricia Toland?
3. What well-known Quincy business establishment is located at 526 Washington St.?
4. True or false: Quincy is farther west than Havana, Cuba.
5. Weedon Place is located in what section of the city?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Frank Terranova is the new chairman of the Quincy Housing Authority.
2. The current strength of the Quincy Fire Department is 238 men.
3. The Alpine Restaurant is located at 33 Independence Ave.
4. False. WJDA went on the air comparatively recently in 1977.
5. Oregon Terrace is located in the Houghs Neck section of the city.

Dukakis Plans Commission To Oversee Boston Harbor Pollution Problems

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis says he hopes to bring the communities in Metropolitan Boston together into a commission "that looks at Boston Harbor in an overall sense," including pollution problems.

One of the first problems such a commission would work on is the discharge of raw sewage into the harbor, he told interviewers on the program "Newsmakers" on Quincy Cablesystem's Channel 3.

"It's not just Quincy we have to be concerned about," said the governor, noting that the city has filed a court suit against the MDC seeking injunctive relief from pollution of Quincy Bay.

"While we have to assume for legal purposes the posture of a defendant," he said, "I would hope this is going to be a much more positive process."

"The new commissioner (William Geary of Quincy) is probably spending 50 or 60 percent of his time on the sewage problem."

"I can fully understand Quincy's impatience and I'm not going to plead for time. We have a responsibility to move fast."

Dukakis said he hopes that Quincy and the South

Shore are not faced with another summer of closed beaches due to overflow of sewage from the Nut Island and Moon Island plants.

"We just moved into the situation," he said, "and it's really kind of a shambles."

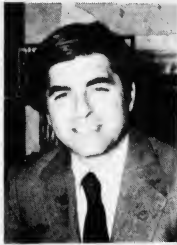

"Both the commissioner and I feel very strongly about those beaches and the notion that this state is discharging raw sewage into the harbor making it impossible for people to use their own beaches is absolutely intolerable."

In response to complaints about the maintenance of the MBTA stations in Quincy, he said that the T will soon have a department of landscaping to maintain the station and the grounds around them.

"Nothing arouses my ire more than to see important public facilities that ought to be immaculate going to wrack and ruin because nobody is maintaining them," he said.

"We talk about building tourism in this state and I can't think of anything that destroys it more than public facilities that are poorly maintained. There's no excuse for this kind of thing."

"The Southeast Expressway is a mess. It's been that way for years. I want visitors to this state to go down that Expressway and be impressed with what we're doing. Now you see nothing but litter."

The governor made these comments on other matters:

• His bill to postpone some of the Proposition 2½ budget cuts in the third year in 11 communities "doesn't gut or scuttle Prop. 2½; it really strengthens and preserves it."

"There are communities like Quincy which have really taken the brunt of 2½ because they tend to be relatively poor in terms of property tax base. This was just a modest suggestion for easing the pain."

Glasses Sought During Project Vision Month

May is Project Vision month sponsored by the Quincy Lions Club and Dependable Cleaners.

Aim of the project is to collect used glasses which can be recycled to people who could not otherwise obtain glasses.

The Quincy Lions Club, with the assistance of Dependable Cleaners, will send the used glasses to New Eyes for the Needy. The 50-year-old volunteer organization tests and analyzes glasses and sends them to medical missions all over the world to be matched with people who can use them.

They collect over a million pairs of glasses each year.

In the United States, New Eyes for the Needy applies funds raised by the sale of precious metals reclaimed from old glasses and jewelry to assist in the purchase of new glasses.

Donald Fawcett Sr., president of Dependable Cleaners, said "Eyes can't see with glasses in a drawer. We hope everyone will share their vision this spring by bringing their used glasses to any of our nine locations."

"This is an opportunity for us to assist the Quincy Lions Club and other Lions clubs on the South Shore with their work in preventing blindness.

Dependable Cleaners is located at 27 Adams St., Quincy Center; 581 Adams St., Quincy near Lakin Square; 624 Hancock St., Wollaston; 320 Quincy Ave., South Quincy near Faxon Commons; 298 Main St., Hingham; 551 Adams St., East Milton Square; 66 So. Main St., Cohasset; 121 Newbury St., Boston and 242 Washington St., Weymouth.

Glasses should be dropped off by May 31 if possible.

'Global Bargaining' U.N. Topic

Prof. John S. Gibson of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy will speak on "Global Bargaining and Co-Development" tonight

(Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the First Parish Church under the sponsorship of the United Nations Council of the South Shore.

Granite Trust Offers To Buy Bethany Church

Theophilus King, president of the Granite Trust Co., offered to pay Bethany Congregational Church $275,000 — $170,000 in cash — for the church property at the corner of Hancock and Chestnut Sts. as the site of a new bank building.

Under the agreement, the bank would purchase the old Bixby estate at the corner of Coddington and Spear Sts. on which to build the new church and loan the church $60,000 without interest to start construction of the building.

For the past year, a committee made up of the Rev. Eric I. Lindh, the pastor, Charles H. Hardwick, Richard Bishop, Ernest L. Collins, Fred H. Nickerson and Joseph W. Thomas had been negotiating the deal with the bank.

ZONING REJECTED

Quincy voters rejected a zoning ordinance by a vote of 6,368 to 4,924 in a special election referendum sought by the Quincy Real Estate Exchange, which opposed the law. The zoning ordinance had been passed by the City Council.

President W.W. Willson said the Exchange was willing to cooperate with any official movement by the city government to formulate a zoning ordinance that "will be compatible with the best interests of Quincy and devoid of confiscatory features."

PINE ISLAND BRIDGE

Mayor Perley E. Barbour approved Park Commissioner William T. Spargo's proposal to build a footbridge from the Merrymount Park mainland to Pine Island in Black's Creek so that the city-owned land can be developed for picnics, outings and other

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Have you ever noticed how some people seldom, if ever, make premature decisions? How they do make decisions that can not be made effective? How, if pressured for a decision, they often say No because they know No can later be changed more easily to Yes; less easy to change from Yes to No? How when they make a bad decision, they blame themselves, not others?

Lincoln illustrated a good formula for making good decisions. When he was severely criticized he said, "I do the best I know how; the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said about me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

On that formula there is seldom any need to hesitate, hem or haw. Base firm decisions on Christian standards; use your best judgment, skills and abilities given you by God - and do the best you can. Men who make good decisions know how true this is . . .

Baby Girl Dedicated At Squantum Church On Mother's Day

The Mother's Day Service at the First Church of Squantum was highlighted Sunday by the dedication of a baby girl, Julia Claire Randall, and the consecration of her parents, Alexander and Virginia Randall.

Julia's dress was 125 years old and had been worn by her great grandfather at his dedication.

The baby's grandparents, Louis and Mary Cox of Virginia, and Douglas and Louise Randall of Squantum also participated in the ceremony which was conducted by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin.

Assisting the pastor were Deacons Katharine Hansen, Leon MacIntyre and Stewart Scott.

The Junior Choir, under the direction of Mary Ruth Scott, sang "Consider the Lilies" by Natalie Sleeth, accompanied on the violin by James Sumner.

The pastor also presented a number of mothers in the congregation with flowers in keeping with the theme of the day: Katie Crossman and Helen Sorensen, most senior mothers; Evelyn Ahearn, mother of the most children; Viola Willner, grandmother of the most children; Minnie Kramer from Batavia, Ohio, and Lucille Swain from Somers, Connecticut, mothers who had to travel the farthest to attend the service; and finally, Joan Hansen and Katharine Hansen, newest to mothering.

The last two women were joined by David Williams to lead the congregation in a special Mother's Day prayer.

After the flowers had been given out, Dr. Langevin spoke to the children about "Being Patient With Your Mother."

He also drew attention to the Japanese cherry tree between the church and the parsonage which is now completely pink in full bloom. Since the tree blooms each year only on Mother's Day, Dr. Langevin said that the blossoms were "the bouquet sent to use this morning by God."

The prelude to the service, Jules Massenet's "The Days Are All Sunshine", was played by Dan Walters on the bassoon and Mary Ruth Scott on the organ.

Later in the service, these two musicians were joined by violinist James Sumner to play "The Lord is My Shepherd" based on the traditional tune "Crimond." Three choirs participated in the processional and the worship. The Chancel Choir sang Henry Purcell's "O Sing Unto the Lord" as the offertory anthem.

Hymns sung during the service included "For the Beauty of the Earth," "Now Thank We All Our God", "Lord, Speak to Me That I May Speak", and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The sermon for the morning was entitled, "An Christian Education for Our Kids." The text was: "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." (Proverbs 22:6)

Greeters for the service were Doris Basteley and her daughters and their families, including Greg and Joan Galvin with their children Laurie, Kerry, Kim and Jaime and George and Linda Gale and their children Tracey and Greg.

Don Frazer and Tore Wallin served as ushers. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Pat Sorensen and Barbara Walter.

There will be two services Sunday, May 15: a guitar service at 8:30 a.m. at which the sermon will be "Getting Yourself Going" and a traditional service at 10:30 a.m., with a sermon "How Are You Growing Spiritually?"

After the second service, there will be a meeting of the whole church to hear a report from Calvin Bumpus, chairman of the Board of Trustees, concerning the need for repairing the roof on the church building.

Board Suspends Reggie's License

the night of the incident after a call from a patron. Reggiannini also said that he wasn't sure if the hole in the video machine was new or not.

Bergeron told the board that at a later meeting, he mentioned to Reggiannini the name of the individual suspected of allegedly firing the gun.

Reggiannini didn't deny the name, Bergeron said, and said he couldn't testify against the individual.

Bergeron said Reggiannini described the suspect as a "real bad guy" with suspected connections to organized crime.

"You got information from Reggiannini in spite of the fact that he wasn't there (during the incident)?" Finn asked.

"Yes," replied Bergeron.

Atty. Irving Sheff, representing Reggie's, commended Morris for closing the bar after the alleged incident and asked why police have not questioned patrons of the bar that night.

Sheff also said if any incident occurred it was by people in the bar.

"You can't attribute it to negligence," Sheff said, "or that the bartender or owner did anything wrong."

Sheff pointed out there have been no previous complaints against the bar.

Rowell said a delay in someone notifying the police about the incident impeded the investigation and allowed the suspect to escape.

Rowell, who said the police are continuing an investigation, recommended the bar's license be suspended.

"It comes down to supporting the Police Department or an establishment," said City Clerk John Gillis, "the Police Department has always done a fairly good job."

Finn recommended the 30-day suspension citing some "very damaging testimony" particularly by Bergeron, who Finn said has an "impeccable reputation."

"It was a shoddy, shoddy experience that night," said Finn, "some people could have been killed."

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald seconded the motion.

Gillis later said the suspension was one of the most severe in recent years.

Succeeds Fitzgerald Maver New Football Coach At Quincy

By TOM SULLIVAN
Bill Maver has achieved one of his goals in life. He is the new head football coach at his alma mater, Quincy High.

If he can achieve his other major goal, to return to the school system, he will be a completely happy man.

"I am very happy," he said when told he was appointed by the school committee over four other finalists, including the Presidents' two other assistants, Peter Cella and John Sullivan. "But I want to get back into the school system. I want to be a teacher as well as a coach."

Maver, who is in the same position as his rival North Quincy coach, Ken McPhee, lost his job as a physical education teacher due to Prop. 2½ and is currently employed as a store manager. McPhee also lost his teaching job and has been working on the outside since being named the Raiders' head coach last fall.

The other finalists for the Quincy job were Jack Raymer, a Quincy graduate and now a North Quincy assistant, and Bob Chute, an assistant at Brintree High. Maver was appointed by a 5-2 vote of the school committee.

Maver succeeds Tom Fitzgerald, who resigned following last season after 30 years as a high school coach, including the last five as Quincy's top man.

"I think the kids will like Bill and work hard for him," Fitzrie said. "They respect him. He's young, conscientious and he really loves the game. I think any one of my assistants would have been a good choice, as Peter (Cella) and Sully (John Sullivan) are the same types as Bill."

BILL MAVER

Maver was a two-way end at Quincy and captained Hank Conroy's 1970 team which was undefeated. He graduated in 1971 and was a standout football player at the University of Connecticut. After graduating from there in 1976, he returned to Quincy as Conroy's defensive coordinator. He has been a Quincy assistant for seven years under Conroy and Fitzgerald.

"Football is my number one commitment," said the 30-year-old Maver, who resides in Weymouth. "Not being in the school system, I may have to get a lot of help from people."

"I am certified to teach science and it may be easier to get back in that field. Physical Ed jobs you can forget right now."

"I really don't expect to get back next fall, because the administration is just trying to prevent any more layoffs. But I hope in another year I'll be back."

Maver wants to keep Quincy competitive in the strong Suburban League, in which Quincy and North Quincy are among the smallest schools.

"It is awfully hard to compete with such schools as Brockton (6000 students), Waltham and other much larger schools," he said. "But we have been competitive in the past and I want to keep it that way. I hope to convince students and parents alike that Quincy offers a quality education as well as strong athletic programs. I hope to keep good scholar-athletes here instead of going to other schools. We lose an awful lot of good students and athletes to parochial and private schools."

Maver plans to work closely with Quincy's youth football league.

"My philosophy is to make things as simple as possible for us, yet make them look hard for our opponents," he said. "I've always felt that one of my strong points was my relationships to the kids. I think I can talk to them as well as being someone they can talk to."

"I want that to continue now that I'm head coach. You have to have discipline and I've always had that. When I say something I like to follow through with it."

"I know things are going to be a lot different as head coach than it was as an assistant but I worked with two outstanding coaches and I feel I can follow in their tradition."

Maver isn't sure about his assistant coaches. "I think Sully will be back, but I don't know what Peter's plans are," he said. "I hope we can find some capable assistants in the school system."

Sun Sports North Bombs Brookline, 13-9

North Quincy's baseball team, which has been involved in some high scoring games and has a 4-2 record, will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 7:30 p.m., under the lights at Adams Field. At 6 p.m. the teams will finish a game suspended earlier by rain with the score tied, 4-4.

Charlie Bunker's Raiders will play at Waltham Monday at 3:30 p.m. in a makeup of a rained-out game and will play at Newton North next Thursday at 3:30.

Monday North raced out to a 9-2 lead and defeated Brookline, 13-9.

Chris Bunker, batting over .600, went three for four and had two RBI, Jack Bolster, also hitting over .600, had a triple and two RBI and John Kozlowski had two hits and had an RBI.

Jim Kelly was the starting pitcher, Bolster relieved in the fifth and Steve Hogan came on in the seventh.

"I don't know what the story is, but everytime we get a big lead, the pitchers seem to ease up a bit," said Bunker.

In its previous game North's pitchers made it easy for Quincy as they issued 12 bases on balls to the Presidents an 11-3 victory.

Six walks in the first two innings hurt the Raiders' cause as Quincy went out to a 7-0 lead.

North out-hit Quincy, 8 to 7, but the walks were fatal. Bolster lined a two-out solo homer over the 395-foot mark and had another hit. Bolster started on the mound, was replaced by Kelly, who in turn gave way to Bunker.

Earlier the Raiders had rolled over Canton, 14-7, with Mike Gill driving in four runs and Bunker, Dwayne Wilcoxon, Bolster and Bob O'Brien having three hits each. Bolster had a home run and pitched three innings of one-run ball in relief of Kelly. Bunker had three RBI.

Quincy Bows To Newton N., 5-1

Quincy's baseball team continues to have an up-and-down season and took a 5-5 record into the game with Waltham yesterday (Wednesday).

Bud Mosher's Presidents will play at Brookline Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. and will host Brockton next Thursday at 3:30 at Adams Field.

Monday the Presidents lost to Newton North, 5-1, as they were held to five hits and a single run in the second inning.

Newton North had only six hits off Mike Notarangelo, who hurt his cause with six walks, and Andy Eames. The Newton pitcher gave up only one walk.

Notarangelo, Bob

Campbell, Joe Conti, Danny Sullivan and Willie Cullen had Quincy's hits.

Last week Quincy took advantage of the wildness of North Quincy's pitchers to top the Raiders, 11-5.

The Presidents had only seven hits to North's eight, but took full advantage of 12 bases on balls by three North Quincy pitchers.

Quincy rolled to a 7-0 lead after two innings as North's pitchers gave up six walks. Paul Cedrone came up with RBI singles in the second six innings and sophomore Conti drove in two runs with a single in the second.

Bob Mudge, dropped from fifth to eighth in the order, had a double and single and Campbell hit the ball hard his last two times at bat.

Senior Joe "Chief" Conti pitched well, striking out four and walking two as he relied on a variety of off-speed pitches to make his record 4-3.

Earlier everything went wrong for the Presidents as they fell to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 14-1.

• Triple A

Mets, White Sox, Dodgers, Braves Win

The Mets outlasted the Pirates, 15-13, last Saturday in the Triple A League with Brian Tobin the winning pitcher.

Martin Feeney in relief struck out four of the last five batters to gain the save.

For the Mets Ralph Richardson had three hits. Tobin had a triple and single and Feeney two hits. For the Pirates Sean Berg had three hits, Eric Sherman a double and single, Steven McInnis a double and single and Ernie Deane a double.

The White Sox edged the Indians, 8-7, with Angelo Kyranis the winning pitcher. Stephen Nabstedt had two doubles and a single to spark the White Sox.

The Dodgers topped the Pirates, 10-8, with Scott MacDougall the winning pitcher. Mike Doherty had a triple and single and John Clarke a double and single for the Dodgers and Shawn Murphy had two hits for the Pirates.

The White Sox walloped the Tigers, 13-7, with winning pitcher Shawn Munroe having 13 strikeouts. Chris Standing had a homer and single for the White Sox and was outstanding on defense. Steve Kohler had a double. Dan Flaherty had two hits for the Tigers.

The Braves edged the Dodgers, 7-6, with Jason Doyle the winning pitcher. Jeff Powers had a triple and double and two RBI and Joe Hannon had a double to drive in the winning run in the sixth inning. The Braves pulled off three double plays.

The managers and coaches for the teams: American Division: Indians, Manager Steve Wiltshire; Tigers, manager Judi Swanson and coach Sal Salvatore; White Sox, manager Sonny Pughlese and coach Jim Nabstedt; Yankees, manager Jim Tempesta. National Division: Braves, manager Irish Collins; Dodgers, manager George French and coach Mike Cullen; Mets, manager Paul Adams; Pirates, manager Wayne Elmore and coach Dee Hennessey.

• Junior Farm

Dodgers Explode, 22-8 Mets, Cubs In Wins

Exploding for 10 runs in each of the first two innings, the Dodgers bombed the Braves, 22-8, in the Junior Farm League.

The Dodgers had a 22-0 lead before the Braves scored three runs in the fifth and five in the sixth.

Derek Happs pitched 5½ innings for the Dodgers and Mark Walsh finished up. Ed Costello and Ed

Murray hit home runs in the big first inning. Dan Duncan, Brian Campbell, Brendan Tolan, Tina Donovan and Mark McGillicuddy all played well for the winners.

For the Braves Peter Sullivan, Peter Walsh, Keith Douglas and Mike McGougall played well.

The Mets edged the Braves, 8-7, rallying in the bottom of the sixth for the win. Shane Abboud sparked the winning rally. For the Braves Bob Ricciardi and Peter White went three for three, Matt Sullivan had two hits and two RBI and Jason Sullivan had two hits.

The Cubs, scoring six runs in the first, nine in the third and 14 in the fourth, bombarded the Mets, 29-8, with Chris Stenmon the winning pitcher. Amy Baker worked in relief.

Edward Rizzitano hit a grand slam homer and Dan Flaherty had two doubles. Michael Correnti made an outstanding double play for the Cubs. For the Mets Mike Chicciano hit a homer. Mike Abboud and Bill Keddy each had two doubles and Bill Donovan, Bill Reardon and Steven Loud had singles.

• St. John's

Social Club Wins Pair

The Social Club (Cardinals) edged Van Oriola Plumbing (Giants), 9-8, in St. John's Little League with David Gardiner the winning pitcher.

Sheldon Smith hit a grand slam homer in a six-run second inning and George Moran hit a two-run double in a three-run fourth, which proved the difference.

The Social Club also topped Brodeur Construction (Red Sox), 4-2, with Donny Gardiner the winning pitcher.

Gardiner went all the way and struck out 16. Monty Baker had a key single in the third inning.

Cablesystems Defeats President, Bows To Sweeney

Quincy Cablesystems (Padres) scored twice in the first inning and made the runs stand up in a 2-0 win over President Pharmacy (Indians) in St. John's Farm League.

Ed Cunio led the attack with a triple and single. His single in the first was followed by Matt Flynn's triple and Chris Cunio's single to account for the runs. Anthony Sacchetti and Chris DiGiacomo had the only hits for the losers.

In the previous game Cablesystems was edged by Sweeney Funeral Service (Tigers), 1-0, on John Tower's home run in the top of the fifth inning.

Jayson Simon, Bob Duncle and Tom Duncanson had the other hits for the winners. Good defensive work by Flynn and Derek Traninski kept the Padres in the game.

Fore River Downs Colored Giants 4-1 Before 1,500

A walk to Chapman, a triple by Bennett and a single by Richerelli produced the winning runs in the fourth inning as the Fore River baseball team opened the season with a 4-1 victory over the Philadelphia Colored Giants before 1,500 at Fore River Field.

The Fore River hitters, who collected nine safeties, drove Giant starter Zeke Gradup to the showers in the sixth inning, bringing on the famed Will Jackson in relief for the final two frames. His catcher was the equally well-known Burlin White.

The Fore River lineup included: Richerelli ss, Markham lf, Corella 2b, Janvrin 1b, Connolly rf, Chapman c, Lonergan 3b, Bennett cf, Hall p.

MILTON OVERWHELMED

Nate Nichols stroked a double and two singles and Red Hayes blasted a mighty home run into Hancock St. to lead the Quincy High School baseball team to a 12-2 rout of Milton at Merrymount Park.

The Quincy lineup included: Fitzgerald ss, Grogan, 2b, Nichols 3b, Hebert 1b, Philbrick c, Dennison cf, Bennett lf, Hayes rf, Smith p, Collagan p, McLeod p, Connors ss, Chase 3b, Collagan c.

PANTHERS WIN TITLE

Bones Greenhalgh, their big scorer, failed to register a single point but his Quincy Panthers teammates more than made up for the deficiency in beating the Charlestown Shamrocks, 32-9, to capture the Junior Division crown in the Boston Boys Club basketball tourney.

The Panthers lineup included: Greenhalgh, Langdon, Pierce, forwards; MacDonald, center; Curtis, Giles, Cedarstrom, backs.

MOSLEY WINNER

Harry Mosley pitched the South Quincy AC into first place in the South Quincy Baseball League with a two-hit 5-0 shutout of the Columbia AC on the Ward 3 Playground.

The South Quincy lineup included: Sadlier ss, E. Spargo 2b, A. Lastra 3b, Mosley p, Granai 1b, R. Spargo cf, Mattson rf, Ward c, Masson lf.

CANTABS BEATEN

Ralph Wayne won the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Capt. Russell Chapman captured the half mile, Rod Schultz took the mile and Gilbert (Crum) Crofts jumped the highest at five feet, three inches, as the Quincy High School track team whipped Cambridge Latin, 44-26.

QJC Edges New Prep, 7-6

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team broke even last week, edging New Prep, 7-6, but losing to Bridgewater State, 9-2.

Coach Dave Burke, hard put to find healthy players, started Joe Smith on the mound against New Prep and pitched a good four innings, despite giving up four runs. Gary DiNardo, ace of the staff, pitched three innings of relief to get the save.

The Jaguars scored a run in the first on a Steve Inrich single, a stolen base and DiNardo's RBI single. In the fourth Brian Tobin singled, brother Bruce singled and Russ McIntyre hit a towering triple. Tom Canavan and DiNardo drove in two more runs in the fifth and the winning run scored in the sixth on DiNardo's third hit and Brian Tobin's long triple.

Speed was a contributing factor as Inrich stole three bases, Canavan two and Bruce Tobin one. Two double plays helped QJC's cause.

A spectacular relay killed New Prep's threat to tie the game in the last inning when the runner was thrown out at the plate. The play went from McIntyre in deep left to Bruce Tobin to Dave Bregoli, who rifled a throw to the plate for the big out.

"It certainly was an exciting game and that last play was something to see," said Burke. "The play had to be executed perfectly and it was."

QJC had no chance against Bridgewater despite two hits by DiNardo and one each by Rich Venti, Bruce Tobin and Tom Bowes.

• HN Men's Softball

QYC, Package Chennette Win

The Houghs Neck Men's Sunday Softball League got under way last week with three games at Great Hill School.

Mrs. Clemie Brill, whose son was a player in the league and was killed in an accident, threw out the first ball.

Quincy Yacht Club defeated Louis' Cafe with Bob Brill the winning pitcher. Brian Gibbons had a homer and a single, Fran Donovan had four hits and played sparkling defense and Paul Peraklis, Tom Hawes and Kevin Davis all contributed to the win. For Louis' Kev and Ron Donovan and Joe Chase each had two hits.

Houghs Neck Package edged Manet Shell, 5-4, on John Duff's home run in the bottom of the seventh.

John Picarski pitched well in defeat for Manet.

Chennette Plumbing rolled over Finlay's Variety, 10-3, scoring two runs in each of the first, third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings. Bob Blowers was the winning pitcher and also had a triple and two singles. Bill McKeon went three for three and Pat Irwin and Rick Lebel had homers. Rich Chennette played a strong game at shortstop. For Finlay's Mike McNally had two hits and played well in center field.

Next Sunday Manet Shell will play Quincy Yacht Club at 9 a.m., followed by Louis' vs. Chennette and Finlay's vs. Houghs Neck Package.

Raiderettes Romp, 16-4

The North Quincy girls' softball team rolled over Brookline, 16-4, to improve its record to 4-2.

The Raiderettes played at Brockton yesterday (Wednesday), will be at Cambridge Friday and Monday will host Notre Dame of Hingham at 3:30 at Artery Field.

Lisa Ventola pitched the first five innings against Brookline and Karen Boutillier pitched the last two. Each gave up two unearned runs. Debbie Kiley had three hits and Mary Holleran, Ventola and Patty McKinnon had two each.

Last week the North girls edged Quincy, 8-7, in nine innings, scoring the winning run in the second extra inning when Holleran doubled and scored on a throwing error.

Holleran had four hits including a home run and Sue Ayles had two hits, drove in two runs and scored two.

Earlier North had bowed to Waltham, 4-0, when Ventola, making her first varsity start, gave up three runs in the first inning, then pitched five perfect innings before Waltham scored its final run in the seventh.

North had only two hits, a double by Ayles and a single by Cheryl Murphy.

• Junior League

McDonald's Hurls No-Hitter For Burgin

Burgin Platner, the 1982 city champion, opened its Quincy Junior Baseball League season with a 13-4 win over Foley's as Robbie McDonald pitched a no-hitter and struck out 14. Mark Kelleher had a triple and single, McDonald a triple and double, Chris Boudreau a double and two singles, and John Quilan, Ken Piccini, Tim Evans and Steve Neters a single each. Burgin also romped over Kiwanis, 9-0, with McDonald this time pitching a three-hitter and striking out 15. McDonald had a double and two singles, Evans a homer and single, Steve Romano a double and Boudreau a single. For Kiwanis Chris Noble had two singles and Bill Hutchings one.

CCC Alumni To Hold Meeting

The Quincy chapter of the Civilian Conservation Corps Alumni will hold its first monthly meeting Wednesday, May 18, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fennel St. All those who served in the CCC during the 1930s are welcome to attend and rekindle old memories. Meetings will be held on the third Wednesday of each month.

For more information, call 471-5664.

Quincy Girls Over North In Tennis

The Quincy girls' tennis team lost two of its last three matches but took the first step toward the city championship with a 3-2 win over North Quincy.

The First Ladies carried a 4-3 record into the match with Waltham Wednesday.

The Quincy girls will host Brookline Tuesday at 3:30 and next Thursday will be at Brockton at 3:30.

In the win over North Quincy Kathy Egan and Joanne Doherty won their second doubles match over Mary Johnstone and Carol Thomas, 6-2, 6-1, to clinch the victory.

North had won the first doubles with Michele White and Nancy Perduzzi defeating Maureen Seamans and Mary Marchese, 6-2, 1-6, 7-5.

In singles Quincy's Jacqueline Coleman defeated Andrea McNiece, 6-2, 6-4, and Jennifer DelaPaz defeated Sheila Egan, 6-3, 6-1, while North's Linda Rickson topped Denise DePietro, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

Monday the Quincy girls were blanked by Newton North's state champions, 5-0.

Earlier the First Ladies were edged by Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 3-2, losing two three-set heartbreakers.

DePietro was Quincy's only singles winner as Coleman and DelaPaz dropped three-set matches. In doubles Doherty and Egan won their doubles match but Marchese and Seamans lost.

The North girls defeated Waltham, 4-1, with Rickson and Egan winning their singles matches and McNiece losing. In doubles White and Perduzzi, Johnstone and Thomas won.

Petracca Flyers Speaker

Bart Petracca, former North Quincy and Cornell running star, now coach of the North boys' track team and manager of Running Sports in Weymouth, will be the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Quincy Flyers Running Club May 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Petracca, the state mile champion with a time of 4:07, will share with the group his expertise in such areas as running-nutrition, training tips and stretching. A pair of running shoes will be the prize in a drawing.

North Edges Quincy, 8-7

After losing two of its first three games, the Quincy girls softball team won two in a row before losing a tough 8-7 extra-inning decision to North Quincy last week to make its record 3-3.

Barbara Webster's First Ladies played Waltham yesterday (Wednesday), will host Brookline Tuesday at 3:30 at Faxon Field and will be at Brockton next Thursday at 3:30.

The loss to North Quincy was a heartbreaker as the winning run scored in the ninth on a Quincy throwing error after North's Mary Holleran had doubled to lead off the second extra inning.

Sue Dacey and Andrea Griffin sparked the Quincy offense with three hits each.

In its previous game the Quincy girls rolled over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 11-4, as Kathy Thornton went all the way and pitched a two-hitter.

Chris Cuccinata had three hits and five RBI and Mary Ellen Thomas had two hits and an RBI.

Earlier Quincy blanked Waltham, 4-0, as Thornton pitched four-hit ball and received outstanding support in the field. Susan Morrison and Thomas each had an RBI and the First Ladies added two runs on wild pitches.

Quincy's junior varsity is again being coached by Hank Conroy, who has a spirited team made up entirely of underclassmen.

Coalition Proposed To Fight MDC

Cities and towns served by the MDC sewer lines have been urged to form a coalition to force the state agency to improve its disposal facilities and stop polluting Boston Harbor.

"We have been fragmented for too long at all levels," Atty. William Golden told a meeting of representatives of MDC communities at City Hall.

Golden, a former city solicitor, was the attorney who filed suit against the MDC for the city of Quincy to force that agency to stop polluting the bay.

John J. Carroll, general manager of the town of Norwood, one of those who urged the meeting, agreed with Golden.

"We realize that there is inaction by the state on this massive problem," he said. "But when there is constant pressure on a bureaucrat, he responds."

"One way to apply pressure is litigation, as Quincy has done. Another way is to form a coalition of the towns involved and hold monthly meetings with the MDC."

"I hope today at the very least we can form such a coalition."

"We have got to direct our efforts in a unified manner against the common enemy, the MDC," said Paul Anderson, public works commissioner of Quincy.

MDC Commissioner William Geary, who lives in Quincy, appeared briefly at the meeting and suggested that the group reach a consensus on solutions to the problem.

The group listened politely and Golden appeared to sum up the reaction when he said: "He wants to add another study to the 100 that have already been done. We need action."

6 City Employees Win Service Awards

An awards ceremony will be held Tuesday, May 17, at 10 a.m. in City Hall honoring six city employees who have been selected the first recipients as part of an employee recognition program.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he instituted the program to recognize "loyal and dedicated municipal employees whose performance is outstanding and consistently exceeds what the job description requires."

The six recipients are: Theresa Gacicia, 45 Water St., secretary to the License Board in the City Clerk's office. She has worked for the city for 10 years, and is noted for her long hours, often arriving at City Hall before 7 a.m. She frequently comes in on weekends and seldom takes her accrued vacation. Miss Gacicia is active in church affairs.

George Page, 13 Grant Place, a foreman in the Park Department, has worked for the city for 18 years, rising from the labor force. Often recognized for his tireless efforts in maintaining recreational and athletic facilities for the thousands of public and private activities each year. Page is married and has a nineteen year old daughter. He is an avid fan of school boy and professional sports.

Mary C. Papile, 4 Harkins St., assistant city treasurer, has been employed for 20 years, after being hired as a temporary replacement, and remaining to raise through the ranks. A worker from the old school who is noted for getting the tough jobs done right, she is the oldest of 16 children in one of Quincy's largest families. She is single and bowls in a weekly bowling league year round.

Robert Pearson, 32 Braintree Ave., has been employed by the Public Works Department for 11 years in Highway, and currently in the Water, Drain, and Sewer Division as a working foreman. Pearson has been recognized for his willingness to share his knowledge and assist the general public as well as his suggestions which have provided ways to improve municipal services. Pearson is married and has a son, Robert. He was a corporal in the U.S. Army attached to the 101 Airborne.

Marilouise Steen, 41 Deldorf St., executive secretary to the Retirement Board, has been employed for 15 years, previously serving as Assistant Auditor. She is single and, a member of the Board of Directors of DOVE, and active in other charitable organizations. She has been a long time Boston Celtics season ticket holder who seldom misses a game.

Winthrop Wade, 166 Albatross Rd., is director of environmental services in the Health Department and has been employed for 10 years. Wade has been taking a leadership position in compiling data in making the public aware of the potential for improving the quality of the recreational waters of our harbor. Wade is married and has three children, Sherry, Jennifer, and Christina. He enjoys outdoor activities and carpentry and has been awarded the U.S. Medal for Civilian Service in Viet Nam.

Sun Ch. 8 Blackout During Power Shutdown

The Quincy Sun's Ch. 8 on Quincy Cablesystems was out of action for most of the weekend because of a power shutdown.

Mass Electric shut off the power in a Quincy Sq. area Sunday at around 5:15 a.m. to install a new transformer. The power remained off approximately 24 hours before the job was completed Monday morning.

The shutdown affected the Quincy Savings-Quincy Sun building, the Adams Building, City Hall, the Burgin Platter building, Viner stock brokerage building and the High Rise Restaurant building.

A new transformer was installed to carry a heavier load of power needed for air conditioning units in the renovated Adams Building this summer.

Ch. 8 went off the cable Saturday night when temporary lines hooked up in anticipation of the shutdown failed to function properly.

Viewers who may have tried to reach The Sun office by telephone Sunday could not because telephones were unable to ring or light during the shutdown.

Ch. 8 resumed broadcasting at 7 a.m. Monday.

Pops Concert Season Finale For Quincy Symphony

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will present its annual Pops Concert tonight (Thursday) and tomorrow (Friday) at 8 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Road, Quincy.

For information on tickets, which must be reserved before the performance, call 479-2408.

Theme of this year's concert is "The Gay Nineties." Music will include Alexander Glazunov's "Concerto in F flat for Alto Saxophone and String Orchestra."

Solist for the concerto will be J. Michael Leonard of Whitman, a junior saxophonist at the New England Conservatory of Music. He is a student of Kenneth Radnofsky of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and an instructor at the Plymouth County Conservatory of Music.

With this, the final concert of the 1982-1983 season, the symphony closes its year under the baton of Paul J. D'Angelo, guest conductor this past season.

D'Angelo, a graduate of New England Conservatory, is a Quincy native who now resides in Plymouth and teaches in Norwell.

Red Cross Plans Evening At Boston Pops

The Red Cross will sponsor an evening at the Boston Pops Monday, May 23 at 7:30 p.m. at Symphony Hall, Boston.

All American Red Cross Chapters within the Mass Bay Area participate in the annual event. Locally, the South Shore Chapter will coordinate the fundraising effort. Tickets will be sold at the following prices: corporate tables at $300 per table or $60 per seat; sponsor tables at $150 per table or $30 per seat; and balcony seats at $16 each.

Proceeds from the event will help people in the South Shore area, including victims of fire, servicemen who need to return home due to a family illness, and those who receive water safety and CPR instruction.

Anyone wishing to purchase tickets may do so by calling the South Shore Chapter office at 471-5440.

The South Shore Chapter serves the following areas: Quincy, Braintree, Hingham, Hull, Holbrook, Milton, Randolph and Weymouth.

Tickets Available For Quincy Choral Society Concert

"Music for a Sunday Afternoon" is the theme of the Quincy Choral Society's last concert of the 1982-1983 season Sunday, May 22, at East Congregational Church, 610 Adams St., East Milton at 3:30 p.m.

Ralph H. Farris of Dover, guest conductor, will again direct the 100 voice chorus.

In March, the chorus sang Brahms' "A German Requiem" to a large audience at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy.

The concert will include "Frostiana" by Randall Thompson, medleys from "Oklahoma," "The Sound of Music" by Rodgers and Hammerstein as well as selections from "West Side Story" by Leonard Bernstein.

Tickets may be reserved by calling 328-5970 or 328-3712.

Inmates Art Show At Jail

Sheriff Clifford Marshall announces the Norfolk County House of Correction and Jail will sponsor its Third Annual Sidewalk Art Show Sunday, May 15.

The show is scheduled from 12 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the front yard of the jail located, 47 Village Ave., Dedham.

Marshall said the show will include original art works by the students involved in the Vocational Art Program at the jail.

He said that the show is made possible by the efforts of the vocational art instructor, Carol Babayan, who coordinated the program. Paintings and craft works will be available at reasonable prices. Proceeds will benefit inmates who have submitted paintings for the display.

The public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

RICK COBBAN

Former Clown In 'Be A Clown'

Rick Cobban, a former clown with Barnum and Bailey's Circus, will appear in the musical "Be A Clown" presented by the Beechwood Players Community Theater Sunday, May 15, at 2 p.m. in the Wollaston Theater.

Tickets are available at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenn St., Wollaston, or at the door.

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annsell

WEEK OF: MAY 12

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Recent disappointment in friendship turns to success; good financial news arrives when you least expect it. Extra hours at work are offset by unexpected assistance at home.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Domestic tensions ease, and you enjoy a week of relative tranquility. Heated debate indicated on the weekend. Don't take romantic misunderstandings too lightly now.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Domestic tensions ease, and you enjoy a week of relative tranquility. Heated debate indicated on the weekend. Don't take romantic misunderstandings too lightly now.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
A combination of supportive coworkers and critical superiors makes life a little unsettling. Finances improve, but watch out for a self-indulgent streak that's manifest in extravagance.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Stay far removed from neighborhood and community picketing. Festivities lead to future celebrations. Money questions are being answered after a nerve-racking delay.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
You can't afford to stay uninformed now; read papers from cover to cover, get to the bottom of mysterious events. Loved one is operating on fast speed, leaving you equally exhausted.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Natural charm gleams; put charisma to work wherever you are this week. Intellectual interests peak and provide you with topics to share with superiors and new admirers.

LIBRA - August 23-September 22
Luck is on your side where professional concerns are involved, but cash outlays may be higher than anticipated. Taurus people of the opposite sex enter the friendship arena.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
A transition week that finds you between jobs, between friendships, between locations. Don't hesitate to approach people in high places. Accounting work should be checked twice.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
A favorable week for making difficult decisions and announcements. Weekend puts you in the limelight; a job well done wins you the affection of colleagues and close friends.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Tension in home environment eases, but you may have to make major concession. Be cautious when friend asks for investment advice, what works for you may not work for him or her.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Rewards this week are of the intangible variety, related to prestige rather than money. Shift to greater independence is happening, but don't expect too much too soon.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Often hard-headed, but always your heart is big enough for the world. Whether or not that's your profession, you're a natural social worker. Major academic decision may require action by late summer. Financial obstacle is removed by end of '83.

BORN THIS WEEK
May 12th, singer Charles Hampshire; 13th, singer Stevie Wonder; 14th, singer Patrice Munsel; 15th, singer Trini Lopez; 16th, pianist Liberace; 17th, actress Maureen O'Sullivan; 18th, singer Perry Como.

Worcester Educator New QJC President

By JOHN NOONAN
Quincy Junior College has a new president, and as predicted by The Quincy Sun, he is Clayton Johnson, vice-president of Worcester State College.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creodon recommended the appointment of Dr. Johnson for approval by the School Committee at its regular meeting. He is the college's third, and first black president.

Creodon said Johnson was one of 210 applicants from throughout the country who applied for the position vacated by Edward Pierce who resigned.

A special interviewing committee screened the list of candidates and selected three finalists for Dr. Creodon to consider for final recommendation to the school board. The finalists were Dr. Johnson, Carl Deyeso, director of academic education in Quincy public schools, and Sally Oteon, dean of Hartford Community College.

In presenting the name of Johnson for approval, Creodon said he made the recommendation wholeheartedly.

Nicholas Verenis moved the recommendation be accepted. Mary Collins, vice-chairman, seconded the motion.

Then followed a lengthy discussion brought about by points raised by Frank Anselmo and John Sullivan. Anselmo questioned the number of positions held by Johnson, seven over a period of 13 years. Anselmo also wanted to know whether Johnson would reside in Quincy should he be given the position.

Sullivan maintained that he always supported promotion from within the ranks of the school system. He also argued that it is not necessary to go outside the city to enlist qualified persons to head up top jobs.

and cited Dr. Creodon as an example.

During the discussion, Anselmo asked if Johnson would be available to appear before the committee. A recess was declared and shortly afterward Dr. Johnson appeared in person to answer some of the questions raised.

Johnson said he had turned down an offer of a community college presidency in California to accept the possibility of being named president of Quincy Junior College. He said he would be receiving less money as QJC president than he is currently receiving as vice-president at Worcester State College. He said he planned to move to the Quincy area within a year or so and that he would complete the terms of his three-year appointment.

The question of race was not specifically raised during the discussion but reference was made to the initial screening of Johnson whose application was set aside while the screening of other applicants continued. Creodon replied that quite a procedure was quite common and that Johnson's name was then reconsidered as the process continued.

Sullivan asked whether or not reconsideration took place several months ago when the issue of Quincy being a racist city had been raised.

Creodon responded that the reconsideration had nothing to do with the charge that Quincy was a racist city.

It appeared that Johnson had answered all questions put to him satisfactorily.

The roll call on Creodon's recommendation was called for. Mayor Francis

Norfolk Division
Docket No. 82F 827-E1
Notice of Fiduciary's Account
To all persons interested in the estate of KATRI ELLEN LAINE late of Quincy, in said County, deceased.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the first and final account of KARL S. HOURULA as Executor of the will of said deceased has been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the twenty-fifth day of May, 1983, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account. If you desire to object to any item of said account, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Justice of said Court, this second day of May, 1983.
